VANCOUVER & VICTORIA'S TOP 10

TOP 10 Vancouver & Victoria Highlights

Fringed by the Pacific Ocean's sandy beaches, with a backdrop of the Coast Mountain range, Vancouver is among the most beautifully located metropolises on earth. Also feted as the world's most livable city, this West Coast gem has a lively cultural scene and superb restaurants and hotels. On Vancouver Island, a short ferry ride away, Victoria offers visitors a pleasantly peaceful sojourn. The city is an excellent starting-off point from which to explore the many natural wonders of the island.

1 Stanley Park
Created in 1886, Stanley Park is North America's third-largest urban park. It juts into Burrard Inlet, offering an enticing combination of forest, ocean, and beaches, and an encircling seawall pedestrian loop (see pp8–11).

2 Canada Place

Built for Expo '86, Canada Place is now an outstanding convention and hotel complex overlooking Vancouver Harbour. Cruise ships dock alongside an inviting promenade (see pp12–13).

3 Capilano Suspension Bridge

Teetering over a wooden bridge high above the Capilano River is perhaps the most thrilling experience at this sight; walking along a boardwalk up into the treetops a close second. Learn about local history, forest ecology, and First Nations culture as you enjoy the beautiful surroundings (see pp14–15).

4 Storyum

In an underground bunker beneath Victorian-era Gastown, multi-media exhibits take visitors on a fascinating tour of BC history. Live actors perform their historic roles with gusto (see pp16–17).

5 Vancouver Art Gallery

From the swirling raincoast forests of famed BC artist Emily Carr to radical conceptual installations, the gallery features the best of West Coast and international art (see pp18–19).

6 Granville Island
The popular island on False Creek is a bustling mix of shops, galleries, restaurants, and theaters – fun both to visit and explore (see pp20–21).

8 Royal British Columbia Museum
A wonderful museum, confidently portraying BC's history and natural assets in creative galleries (see pp24–5).

7 Science World
Science comes alive inside the dome-shaped Science World. Hands-on exhibits capture the imaginations of all ages, with fresh approaches to science in all its dimensions (see pp22–3).

9 Long Beach Area
Spectacular scenery dominates the Long Beach area on Vancouver Island's West Coast. Wild Pacific shores and rare old-growth forests make the region the perfect destination to experience the essence of rugged BC (see pp26–7).

10 Whistler
Ideal for a day-trip or a longer visit, Whistler is an upscale resort a scenic three-hour drive north from Vancouver. Two mountains tower over alpine-style resort villages. Skiers around here but countless other year-round activities ensure Whistler has something for everyone (see pp28–31).

TOP 10 Stanley Park

A local favorite since the Victorian era, spectacular Stanley Park is a mere 10-minute bus ride from downtown. Forest walks, beachside strolls, and a vibrant rose garden are among its natural attractions. Amusing activities include a popular children's waterpark and petting zoo, tennis courts, and a pitch-and-putt course. Located in the park, the Vancouver Aquarium Marine Science Centre (see pp10–11) is world-renowned for its realistic walk-through exhibits based on scientific research projects.

Inukshuk, English Bay

Four fine-dining restaurants and many refreshment kiosks offer plenty of food options. The Teahouse at Ferguson Point serves afternoon tea. UpStream Café in the aquarium has coffees and sandwiches.

Traffic in the park is one way, counterclockwise. Pay parking is strictly enforced.

1 English Bay

The sandy beaches draw crowds to enjoy strolls and the view. The heated saltwater pool at Second Beach offers a warmer alternative to a swim in the bay. Kids delight in the play area nearby. Sunbathers relax at Third Beach against driftwood logs.

2 Siwash Rock

According to Squamish legend, this ancient lava rock deposit (above) jutting up from the water was once an Indian warrior, turned to stone.

3 Beaver Lake

Hiking trails to Beaver Lake through a raincoast forest follow old logging roads. Frogs, raccoons, rabbits, and even coyote may be spotted at the natural-state lake fringed by cattails and water lilies.

4 Seawall

Pedestrians, cyclists, and in-line skaters happily share the 6-mi (10-km) paved path ringing the park (center), with its unimpeded views of English Bay and Burrard Inlet. Look for unusual features, such as the sculpture Girl in a Wetsuit on an offshore rock.

5 Lost Lagoon

This willow-fringed lagoon is an inner city wildlife sanctuary, protecting a bevy of wood ducks, blue herons, and white swans. At night, the central fountain is colorfully lit up.

6 Brockton Point

The point offers a terrific view of Burrard Inlet. In 1915, a lighthouse (above) was built to guide vessels into the harbor. Sailors set their chronometers by the Nine-O'Clock Gun at nearby Hallelujah Point. Its boom has been heard nightly since 1894.

7 Totem Park

Eight carved West Coast poles tell their own stories. Images by First Nations artists denote various family crests and creatures. Haida artist Bill Reid carved the replica of a pre-1878 Skedans mortuary pole with a rectangular frontal board (above).

8 Vancouver Aquarium

Marine displays capture the drama of the West Coast. Six Beluga whales share the space with 60,000 other inhabitants (see pp10-11).

9 Prospect Point

The view from here, the park's highest point, across the dark blue water of Burrard Inlet to the Coast Mountains is one of the best in the city.

10 Rose Garden

A formal rose garden (below) blossoms year-round. From April to September, a variety of perennial plantings ensure vibrant color.

Chief Joe Capilano

Few knew Stanley Park like Squamish chief Joe Capilano. Born in 1840, Capilano often visited the park, home to some members of his nation. In 1906, he traveled to England to present a petition on Indian rights to King Edward VII. He shared local stories with Mohawk writer Pauline Johnson, who published them in Legends of Vancouver in 1911, a year after Capilano died.

1 Wild Coast

Walkways lead past marine creatures from the wild BC West Coast. The animals include frolicking sea otters – one of them rescued from the Exxon Valdez Alaska oil spill in 1989 – playful dolphins, harbor seals, and the Steller sea lions that are members of a shrinking worldwide population. There are live touch-pools and demonstrations by naturalists, shows featuring divers swimming with the animals, and training sessions with dolphins and sea lions.

2 Arctic Canada Habitat

Beluga whales are the main draw here. Visitors admire them from both inside and outside locations. Indoors, on the lower level, two wide floor-to-ceiling windows allow underwater viewing. Interactive exhibits provide information about the beluga's native arctic environment.

3 Pacific Canada Exhibit

This two-story gallery highlights marine life from the Strait of Georgia and brings visitors face to face with an underwater habitat filled with a vast web of plant and animal life. Divers mingle with thousands of schooling herring, salmon, crabs, kelp, sea stars, and other Pacific marine life. Sturgeon, wolf-eels, and anemones also inhabit this exciting exhibit.

Sea lion, Wild Coast exhibit

4 Amazon Rainforest

Two caimans, members of the crocodilian group, co-exist in a hot, humid jungle setting with a pair of sloths and Scarlet ibises. Experience a tropical rainstorm every hour in this exotic space.

5 Clownfish Cove

This interactive play zone, designed to appeal to children eight years of age and younger, features animals such as sea-horses, horseshoe crabs, toads, and, of course, clownfish. A make-believe marine mammal rescue hospital allows kids to nurse a toy sick or injured seal pup. Puzzles, puppets, dress-up costumes, and crafts are on hand to amuse the little ones.

6 Tropic Zone Gallery

A realistic imitation of a tropical reef in the Indo Pacific highlights this region's rainbow-hued fish, such as blue-green chromis, orange shoulder tang, the redtooth triggerfish, and black-tipped reef sharks.

7 Treasures of the British Columbia Coast

Local waters are the focus of this interesting exhibit. Wolf eels and giant Pacific octopus can be spied lurking in the depths. Stare with fascination as the moon jellyfish dance beneath reflective lights.

Top 10 Historical Highlights

History of Stanley Park

Coal Harbour peninsula was inhabited for thousands of years by Musqueam, Tsleil-Waututh, and Squamish Coast Salish nations in a village known as Khwaykhway (pronounced Whoi-who). In 1862, the peninsula became a military reserve to protect the harbor from American invasion, but the village and its dwellers were left undisturbed. Stanley Park was established on the former military reserve after the Great Fire of June 13, 1886, destroyed the entire city. The park opened in 1888, and was dedicated by Lord Stanley the following year. By 1892, there was no sign of life left in Khwaykhway – most of the Natives had died in a smallpox epidemic between 1888 and 1892.

Entering Stanley Park

Stanley Park's original entrance was through an arch and over a bridge spanning Coal Harbour.

8 Beluga Encounters

Join a trainer behind the scenes in the Arctic Canada habitat to learn how these giant mammals communicate and to help the trainers feed them fish. Or book a sleepover with belugas.

9 BC Hydro Salmon Stream

This demonstration stream teaches the public about the importance of conserving salmon habitats. Juvenile Coho salmon, Chum, and pink salmon populate this ideal salmon stream, which meanders over gravel beds in back eddies, shaded by overhanging banks, trees, and log debris.

10 Shark Penthouse

Thrashing black-tipped reef sharks are fed twice weekly in front of visitors in the Shark Penthouse in the Tropic Zone Gallery. A naturalist dives with the sharks daily.

For more information about the aquarium's sleepover programs, call 604 659 3504 or visit www.vanaqua.org/home

TOP 10 Canada Place

Built for Expo '86 as the flagship Canada Pavilion, Canada Place is a Vancouver landmark. The roof's sail-like lines echo Canada's nautical roots. The "prow" extends well into the harbor. Following the highly successful world exhibition, which attracted more than 22 million visitors, Canada Place was transformed into a complex containing a cruise ship terminal, convention center, exhibition areas, and a first-class hotel. The promenade offers a terrific view of the city's harbor.

Patio, Café Pacifica

☛ For casual dining, try the Café Pacifica in the Pan Pacific Hotel. Or, for a fine-dining experience, try the hotel's Five Sails dinner-only restaurant. A food court across Canada Place Way is open until 9pm.

☛ Underground pay parking is available at Canada Place. Less expensive parking can be found in the lot at the north foot of Burrard Street.

2 Architecture

Built for Expo '86 on a former cargo dock, Canada Place's award-winning design is notable for the five Teflon-coated fiberglass sails, resembling a sailing ship in full rigging, suspended over the convention center.

3 Cruise Ship Terminal

The cruise ship terminal at Canada Place welcomes hundreds of thousands of visitors a year. The three-berth terminal is adjacent to the promenade, providing visitors with a close-up view. From the terminal, it's a short walk to the sights and shops of Gastown (see pp60-5).

1 Vancouver Touristinfo Centre

Operated by Tourism Vancouver, this useful bureau located across Canada Place Way at 200 Burrard Street, on the plaza level, offers free brochures and city maps. The knowledgeable, multilingual volunteer staff will help you plan your stay in Vancouver.

4 Floatplanes

Pontooned planes arriving from Victoria land at Coal Harbour, to the west of Canada Place. Helicopters from Victoria descend on the east side of the complex.

5 Promenade

A lovely promenade takes you along the west and east sides of Canada Place, and around the point, providing a first-rate view of visiting cruise ships, the harbor, and the SeaBus ferry. On a hot day, cooling breezes make the 6,675-ft (2,000-m) walkway a refreshing place to enjoy the scenery.

6 Promenade into History

Gain a wider knowledge of Vancouver history with a free, self-guided tour along the promenade. Intriguing stories are told through archival photographs. Information and details are presented through 44 sculptures, plaques, and historical points of interest.

7 CN IMAX Theatre

Since Expo '86, the CN IMAX Theatre has entertained visitors with exciting giant-screen IMAX movies. The 440-seat theater brings family-oriented films to gigantic life on a five-story screen. IMAX 3D movies, a world first, debuted here.

8 Plaza

Located near the tip of the point, the plaza (above), offers a cooling fountain, benches, and shady trees. It's a serene spot to sit and watch the comings and goings of the harbor's busy traffic.

9 Vancouver Convention and Exhibition Centre

Conventions and exhibitions are housed in grand halls accessed by an indoor promenade that echoes the exterior walkway. Both conventions and consumer tradeshows are held here, including the huge Vancouver Snow Show in October.

Expo '86

On May 2, 1986, Prince Charles and Princess Diana opened Expo '86, a hugely successful world's fair that hosted 50 per cent more people than expected. Unfortunately, it closed with a $311-million deficit. However, enduring legacies such as Canada Place (the former Canada Pavilion) Science World, the SkyTrain, and the urban renewal of the once-derelict area around False Creek, show that Expo '86 ultimately gave back to Vancouver much more than it had cost.

10 Heritage Horns

Every day, at noon, the sound of ten cast-aluminum air horns blasts across Vancouver and beyond from the top of Canada Place. Designed and built by Robert Swanson in 1967 as a project to celebrate Canada's 100th birthday, the first four notes of the noon hour blast are from the country's national anthem, O Canada.

Every July 1, Canada Day fireworks awe spectators with technically brilliant displays over the harbor at Canada Place

TOP 10 Capilano Suspension Bridge

For thrill appeal, few sites rival Capilano Suspension Bridge. At the height that eagles fly, the bridge is a swaying span across the tumbling Capilano River far below. The world's longest and highest suspension footbridge, it crosses into the hushed recesses of a West Coast rainforest. This century-old attraction now includes a walk high above the forest floor, from treetop to treetop, built using new technology. Scotsman George Grant MacKay, who bought the property in 1888, would be amazed. Today's modern bridge is the fourth on the site.

Costumed guides

1 Tasty salmon, beef, and chicken burgers are served at the Loggers' Grill. For specialty coffees, pastries, and homemade pizzas, try the Canyon Café. For full-service, enjoy gourmet dining at the Bridge House Restaurant across Capilano Road.

2 If heights are a concern when crossing the bridge, focus on the back of the person in front of you. It's well worth making the trip across.

1 Suspension Bridge

This awe-inspiring bridge is built of sturdy steel cables spanning 450 ft (137 m) and strong enough to support two full Boeing 747s. Those crossing the bridge today cling tightly to the handrails as they experience the same thrills as visitors did in 1889 (center).

2 Locals from the Past

Friendly costumed guides in period attire welcome visitors to the park. Taking on the roles of local historical characters, the guides narrate the sometimes hair-raising stories of the North Shore's early days when timber was king.

3 The Big House

Skilled carvers, bead-ers, and weavers work in the open-fronted Little Big House, sharing their skills and cultural knowledge with appreciative onlookers. At the center of the cedar-planked Big House is the Next Generation story pole, honoring First Nations artists. From spring to fall, dancers, drummers, and singers perform legends in the plaza area (above).

4 Capilano River and Gorge

As you cross the bridge, look down into the Capilano River gorge 230 ft (70 m) below. After reaching the other side, enjoy the views along the edge of the gorge or from the cantilevered deck that serves as a lookout high over the river.

5 Treetops Adventure

This exhilarating exhibit is located in the West Coast rainforest across the suspension bridge. A boardwalk leads you gently upwards over seven suspension bridges attached to eight old-growth Douglas fir trees (above). At the end of your journey, you are 100 ft (30 m) high in the mysterious zone of mid-story treetops.

6 Treetops Technology

To protect the delicate environment, Treetops Adventure uses an innovative compression system to secure observation platforms to the trees. Instead of nails or screws, friction collars are used. Held on by compression, they exert a gentle pressure equivalent to pressing a thumb firmly on a tabletop.

7 Totem Park

At the park's entrance, a gathering of totem poles carved by local Coast Salish First Nations people makes a colorful display (below). Introduced in the 1930s, the beautifully carved poles now number more than 30.

8 Living Forest

In the Living Forest ecology area, clever interactive displays educate about native plants and trees, such as Douglas firs. Panels feature the animals and bugs living in a West Coast rainforest. Naturalists offer guided tours year round on its peaceful forest trails.

9 Story Centre

From miners to loggers to dancehall girls, the center tells the history of the park and of North Vancouver in a walk-through exhibit. Hundreds of photographs bring history to life, while captions put the people and places into perspective. Voices from the Past, an audio component, fills in any blanks.

10 English Country Garden

The picturesque perennial garden harks back to the homeland of many of Vancouver's early settlers. Planted in 1910, the azaleas and rhododendrons dazzle with massive colorful blooms. The century-old shrubs are at their best in May.

A Lasting Legacy

Scotsman George Grant MacKay loved the outdoors. As Vancouver's first park commissioner, he voted in favor of Stanley Park in 1886. Two years later, he bought 6,000 acres (2,428 ha) of old-growth forest along the Capilano River and built a cabin on the edge of the canyon wall. Then, with the help of local Coast Salish, he built a small hemp rope and cedar suspension bridge in 1889. This was the very first bridge.

TOP 10 Storyeum

Storyeum's theatrical experience takes place beneath the historic streets of Gastown. In a fast-moving 65-minutes, multi-media effects combine with costumed actors to create a multi-sensory panorama of BC history. The engrossing tales are based on real characters from travelers' diaries, Aboriginal oral history, and documents of pioneers. Starting with pre-European contact before the 1700s, the shows introduce the province's people and places in lively scenarios combining drama, humor, and action.

Storyeum entrance

Cafés and restaurants serving everything from deli sandwiches to ethnic specialties abound on Water St.

The lift departs for the show area on the hour and half hour. Reservations are recommended.

After you return to the surface, there is a short outdoor walk back into the main lobby on Water St.

2 Going Underground

Enter a rusted-out "water tank," one of the world's largest lifts, to begin your journey. As you descend beneath the streets of historic Gastown, a narrator relates the concept behind Storyeum using an aboriginal story about trees.

1 Story Gallery

Displayed on the walls of the main Water Street lobby are hundreds of photographs portraying the people of BC from the early days to the present. Sourced and selected from archives located all over the province, this is one of the largest public collections of archival photographs in the province.

3 Ancient Trails

Visitors enter a spectacularly re-created rainforest where a Tsleil-Waututh legend comes to life. Man is created from wolf and woman from sediment at the bottom of the sea. Culture and tradition spring from the first couple.

4 The Big House

A reproduction of a Coast Salish Big House creates the feel of these buildings. First Nations actors (left) portray the descendants of the first couple. A traditional feast honors their union.

5 The National Dream

The completion of the coast-to-coast railway signals Canada's coming-of-age (above). Integral to the history of the railway are the fates of the Chinese workers who toiled on its construction. As the story unfolds, industries boom in BC, and BC women obtain the right to vote.

6 Barkerville Gold Seekers

Lively acting conveys the excitement of the Cariboo Gold Rush of 1862 (below). Among the true-to-life cast of characters is "the hanging judge" Matthew Begbie and Miss Florence Wilson, just off a bride ship, who attempts to civilize the predominantly male town residents.

7 New Arrivals

The arrival of Europeans brings dramatic change to the West Coast as depicted on the decks of a re-created trading ship (center). The all-powerful Hudson's Bay Company's chief factor James Douglas arrives on Vancouver Island. The first fort is built in 1843 and the trading vessel Endurance arrives.

8 Last Stop... Vancouver!

In this final show with live actors, one of the first trains arrives in Gastown in 1887. Men and women return from World War II, reuniting British Columbians. Together, all look ahead to a prosperous future.

9 BC Spirit

During the return to street level in a second, 46-ft- (14 m-) high lift, a 360-degree multi-media presentation dances above the heads of passengers. Stunning images of BC's present-day society and its gorgeous landscapes are featured.

10 Gastown Merchants

Back above ground, you re-enter the Water Street lobby where the Gastown Merchants gift shop (left), selling good quality history-themed items, is located.

The Gold Rush

On April 25, 1858, several hundred men landed in Victoria on a steamer. The tumultuous Cariboo Gold Rush had begun. Soon, 20,000 other gold-seekers, including many Chinese, followed, en route to the mainland and the town of Barkerville, to stake the banks and tributaries of the Fraser River. By 1860, the gold was panned out and the miners, now mainly Chinese, moved further north along the river. By 1865, the rush was over.

TOP 10 Vancouver Art Gallery

The Vancouver Art Gallery is the largest art gallery in Western Canada. Its only permanent exhibit, a homage to the life and works of Emily Carr, BC's pre-eminent artist and writer, is well worth the entry fee. The gallery specializes in impressive national and international exhibitions, with innovative approaches to old masters as well as contemporary visionaries. Founded in 1931, the art gallery includes more than 8,000 works in its collection, including several pieces by renowned local painter Jack Shadbolt. Housed in a NeoClassical heritage building redesigned by acclaimed Vancouver architect Arthur Erickson, the gallery opened in 1983 as an elegant addition to downtown.

Rotunda

The Gallery Café patio is a gem on sunny summer days. You do not need to purchase admission to the gallery to eat at the café.

The Gallery Store sells contemporary art books, posters, paper goods, jewelry, and giftware, including a wide selection of Emily Carr merchandise.

1 Court House Building

Built in 1912 as the Provincial Court House, the building reflects the imposing style of the era's leading Canadian architect, Francis Rattenbury.

3 Art on the Rooftop

Vancouver artist Ken Lum's innovative Four Boats Stranded: Red and Yellow, Black and White stands out on the gallery's roof (above). The installations include a scaled-down version of a First Nations longboat.

2 Emily Carr Permanent Exhibit

The Gallery holds over 200 works by Emily Carr. This renowned West Coast artist studied local Native cultures, capturing their way of life in her paintings. Haida artifacts such as totem poles were a common subject. Stormy West Coast colors as seen, for example, in Logger's Culls (center), dominate her work. Items such as her tiny sketch book are also on display.

4 Photoconceptual Collection

The gallery is known for its permanent collection of contemporary photo-based art that spans two decades and includes works by the Vancouver School of artists, such as Jeff Wall, Stan Douglas, Ian Wallace, and Ken Lum, as well as international artists Nancy Spero and Cindy Sherman, among others.

5 Southern Façade

Overlooking Robson Street, the original steps into the court house are now a popular meeting spot for locals. On the portico (above) is a cryptic message carved in yellow cedar letters by conceptual artist Lawrence Weiner.

6 Exhibitions Program

Foremost artists, ranging from historic masters to leading-edge contemporary artists, are regularly presented in major thematic exhibitions, solo shows, and intimate, focused showcases.

7 Beck/Gruft Collection

This major collection of historical photographs includes significant images by acclaimed photographers such as Andre Kertesz, Maxime Du Camp, and Walker Evans.

8 Architecture

Architectural icon Arthur Erickson added 41,400 sq ft (3,715 sq m) of exhibit space to the old court house when transforming it into the gallery's permanent home. Erickson retained many of the original features, including the courtroom, with its carved judge's bench.

9 First Nations Art

Paintings, carvings, and sculpture by Pacific Northwest Native artists are part of the gallery's rotating permanent collection, which includes sculptures by late Haida master carver Bill Reid (see p36). Reflecting the modernist style of many Native artists, Eagles (below), by Haida artist Robert Davidson, combines principles of abstraction with traditional iconography.

10 Super Sundays

On the third Sunday of each month, families with school-aged children come to learn about art together. Draw, paint, create art projects, and watch or engage in dance performances.

Emily Carr

Emily Carr was born into a wealthy Victoria family in 1871. The eccentric artist, however, chose a bohemian lifestyle, and her powerful artworks were painted on a pauper's budget, often in the old-growth forests of Haida Gwaii (Queen Charlotte Islands). It wasn't until 1937, when Carr was 65 years old, that the Vancouver Art Gallery bought one of her works. Largely overlooked during her lifetime, Carr's works now command some of the highest prices in Canada.

Exhibitions are enhanced with lectures by gallery curators, artists, and art historians; call 604 662 4717 for details

TOP 10 Granville Island

Bustling Granville Island attracts millions of visitors every year, and rightly so. Where heavy industries once belched noxious fumes, street entertainers now amuse passersby with music, comedy, and magic. The Granville Island Public Market offers an enchanting mix of edibles and collectibles. More than 200 shops scattered throughout the Island sell everything from custom-made jewelry to yachts.

Aquabus

1 La Baguette et l'Echalote, adjacent to the market, at 1680 Johnston St, is one of the best French patisseries in town.

2 Locals know that the doors, and most businesses, inside the public market building are unofficially open by 8am. Arrive early if you want a sneak peek before the market gets busy.

The summer-only WaterPark is free. Find it just off Cartwright Street, behind the Information Centre.

2 Marina and Maritime Market

Shops and services at the market include a kayak center (above), seafood merchants, tours, boat rentals, and marine souvenir shops. At the marina, yachts and sailboats are moored beside rustic fishing boats.

3 Kids Market

Clowns and magicians guarantee fun in a fantasyland for children. More than 20 shops sell everything from games and toys to pint-sized clothing.

1 Granville Island Public Market

The centerpiece of the island's shopping experience, the public market is an irresistible emporium of green grocers, butchers, bakers, fishmongers, importers, ethnic foodsellers, craft vendors, sweet stands, florists, and casual eateries (center). It also has a wine shop and a micro-roaster of organic coffee (see p80).

4 New-Small and Sterling Studio Glass

Watch David New-Small and apprentices as they blow molten glass into beautiful vases, ornaments, jewelry and dishes using traditional techniques. One of four furnaces keeps 150 lbs (70 kg) of glass molten at 2,000°F (1,100°C) around the clock. Visit the adjoining gallery to admire or buy handmade glass jewelry, ornaments, bowls, vases, and plates.

5 Railspur Alley

The cozy artisan studio-shops (above) in this small laneway are operated by painters, potters, and craftspeople specializing in wood, fabric, leather, glass, and industrial cast-offs.

10 Granville Island Museums

See three museums in one. The Model Trains Museum has the largest collection of model and toy trains on exhibit. The Model Ships Museum features large-scale models of warships, sailing vessels, and coastal workboats (right). A superb exhibit of fishing history and equipment is at the Sport Fishing Museum (see p77).

6 Granville Island Brewing Company

This microbrewery – Canada's first – opened in 1984. Sample the delicious beers made using only natural ingredients at many Vancouver pubs or in the brewery's Taproom after a behind-the-scenes tour, offered daily at noon, 2pm, and 4pm.

7 Emily Carr Institute of Art and Design

Named after famed West Coast artist Emily Carr (see p19), this premier art school is a busy hub for Canada's up-and-coming artists. Step inside to visit the Charles H. Scott Gallery (right), in one of the Island's original industrial buildings, to see work by contemporary artists. Students of the Institute present their works in the Concourse and Media Galleries.

8 Net Loft

An intimate collection of boutiques sells unusual souvenirs, such as handmade paper, hats, off-beat postcards, beads of all kinds, and local and First Nations crafts.

9 Arts Club Theatre and Lounge

The Arts Club Theatre Company produces contemporary comedies and new works to classics at the Granville Island Stage. The casual Backstage Lounge showcases local bands (see p43 and p82).

Granville Island Ferries

The small vessels of the Aquabus and False Creek Ferries fleets provide year-round service around False Creek, with frequent sailings to and from downtown. They are a fun way to travel to Granville Island. Other routes include stops at Science World, Yaletown, and Vanier Park. Mini sunset cruises are also available.

The False Creek Ferries (604 684 7781) and Aquabus (604 689 5858) vessels depart from the west side of the public market

TOP 10 Science World

Fascinating insights into all aspects of the universe are featured at the award-winning Science World. Explorations begin with the smallest insect and progress to the farthest corners of the galaxy. A legacy of Expo '86, the building opened as a science center in 1989 after passionate community efforts. Five galleries feature hundreds of delightfully interactive, hands-on displays and exhibits, while intriguing traveling exhibits show regularly. In 2005, the telecommunications giant TELUS donated $9 million to develop exhibits and programs to ensure that Science World is always fresh and up-to-date.

1 Geodesic Dome

Science World's 155-ft- (47-m-) tall geodesic dome (center) is affectionately dubbed "the golf ball" by locals. The design is based on the prototype structure made famous by US inventor and architect R. Buckminster Fuller. Mirrorlike exterior panels, 766 in all, reflect the sunlight, while 391 exterior lights sparkle at night.

2 Alcan OMNIMAX Theatre

The five-story screen – the largest in the world – envelops viewers with thrilling films such as Academy Award-nominated The Living Sea. The 400-seat theater, located in the geodesic dome, projects images nine times larger than a conventional movie house onto a screen 88 ft (27 m) in diameter. Sound pours out of 28 digital speakers.

3 Illusions Gallery

Everything is not the way it seems in this wonderful world of optical illusions. Straight lines appear to bend, still images begin to move. Puzzle tables pit wits against mind-twisters for all ages.

4 Kidspace Gallery

Kids ages two to six get to burn off excess energy climbing, sliding, running, and jumping on the exhibits (below). Water play, with boats supplied, is a favorite.

5 Centre Stage

Scientific principles and phenomena are explored in five daily shows. Presenters mix balloons and electricity, bubbles and fire to dazzle and captivate as well as teach. Volunteer kids are invited on stage.

9 Science Theatre

Everything from cartoons for toddlers to films about how IMAX movies are made will entrance you in this first-come, first-seated theater. High-definition films reveal the smallest details in feature films and selected shorts. Some live presentations.

10 BodyWorks Gallery

BodyWorks encourages a positive curiosity about the human body. Questions about how human beings hear and smell are answered in this fun-filled interactive space. Strength and dexterity are tested by activities such as bike pedaling and simulated skiing.

Museum Guide

Science World's first floor is home to Puzzles, Illusions, and Centre Stage. On the second floor are the Eureka!, Kidspace, Our World, Feature, and Search galleries, and Contraption Corner. Alcan OMNI-MAX Theatre, on the third floor, is accessible with a Science World ticket or independently by way of a new entrance to the building.

6 Our World Gallery

As you check out what has been left in the garbage dump or walk into a giant cheese burger, Our World reveals how the choices we make about waste disposal, food production, and transportation affect our home communities.

7 Feature Gallery

The best in traveling exhibits are showcased in the Feature Gallery. A large plasma TV is a focal point in this gallery, showing breaking news in the world of science almost as it happens. The changing exhibits are certain to be exciting and interactive experiences for all ages.

8 Eureka! Gallery

Eureka! Gallery (above) explores universal themes such as water, air, motion, and invention. Children and adults alike are invited to make their own discoveries in a lifelike science laboratory environment. Use the infrared camera to discover the hot spots on your body.

TOP 10 Royal British Columbia Museum

Founded in Victoria in 1886, this impressive museum focuses on BC's cultures, history, geography, flora, and fauna. The museum is regarded as one of the best in Canada for the striking way it presents its exhibits. Some 26,000 sq ft (2,415 sq m) of exhibition space houses more than seven million items. Dramatic walk-through scenarios bring history to life in four galleries, each featuring original and often rarely seen artifacts. An extensive collection of First Nations art and traditional objects, one of the largest and most impressive in the world, has been amassed.

1 Carving Studio

Serene Thunderbird Park, on the museum grounds, is home to a beautiful longhouse and a carving studio (center). Many foremost First Nations carvers have worked here, including Chief Mungo Martin, Doug Cranmer, and Bill Reid.

2 Living Land, Living Sea

Climate change is the focus here, with one-of-a-kind artifacts and specimens, and a re-created prehistoric woolly mammoth (left). Ancient is an understatement for the 85.5-million-year-old Cycad fossil. The dramatic 3D map of BC is the first to be generated solely from satellite images.

3 Natural History Gallery

Realistic dioramas explore a range of environments, from ocean to boreal forest, including the giant old-growth forest that once covered coastal BC. One of the best of a range of animals depicted in re-created habitats is a grizzly bear, BC's largest land predator.

4 First Peoples Gallery

Historic photos, video, audio, and Native artifacts are combined for a spellbinding experience (above). Superb ceremonial masks and an unforgettable cedar Big House.

Key to Plan

5 Modern History Gallery

In the atmospheric 20th-Century Hall, it's easy to step back into the Victoria of the 1900s (right). Re-created buildings include the Grand Hotel, with its authentic wooden sidewalk, a salmon cannery, a dressmaker's studio, and a Chinese herbalist's shop, all displaying authentic period objects. Soft lighting sets the mood.

8 Mungo Martin House

Also called Wawadit'la, this replica of a 19th-century longhouse was entrusted to the museum in 1952 by the family of Kwakwaka'wakw Chief Mungo Martin. A dynamic green sea monster in the form of a spiny sculpin (small fish) is painted on the façade. The longhouse is closed to the public as it is reserved for traditional First Nations ceremonies.

10 Thunderbird Park

Over a dozen poles preside over this park. The carved mythical figures tell stories of traditional Coast Salish cultures. Included are Gitksan memorial poles, Nuxalk grave figures, Haida mortuary poles, a Cumshewa pole, and Kwakwaka'wakw heraldic poles.

Museum Guide

The main exhibits are located on the second and third floors of the museum. Natural History Gallery and Living Land, Living Sea are on the second floor, the First Peoples and Modern History galleries on the third. More exhibits are located outside.

6 Helmcken House

The oldest house in BC still on its original site was built by Dr. John Sebastian Helmcken in 1852. The three-room log structure is made of Douglas fir trees. Period furnishings are a reminder of the Victorian era.

7 Carillon Tower

The Netherlands Carillon Tower was gifted to the museum in 1967 from BC residents of Dutch descent. It has a total of 62 bells. Free recitals are held at 3pm on Sundays.

9 National Geographic IMAX Theatre

Subjects as diverse as whales and outer space are explored in the rotating series of documentary films on the theater's six-story screen.

Near the carillon tower, the entrance to the museum-operated BC Archives has been beautified with plants native to the province

TOP 10 Around Long Beach

The wild west coast of Vancouver Island's Long Beach area offers pristine wilderness, old-growth rainforest, endless beaches, and mystical vistas. Bald eagles appear in large numbers in Clayoquot Sound, a UNESCO Biosphere reserve, while the Pacific Ocean teems with Dall's porpoises, sea lions, and seals. Surfing, fishing, kayaking, and storm watching are superb.

Boogie boarders, Long Beach

Try local oysters, Dungeness crab, halibut, and wild salmon when in the Long Beach area. Cozy Schooner Restaurant in Tofino (331 Campbell St, 250 725 4644) is decorated with photos of schooners in their glory. In Ucluelet, the Boat Basin Restaurant (1971 Harbour Dr, 250 726 4644), overlooks a scenic marina.

Book early for the weeklong Pacific Rim Whale Festival (250 726 7798) in late March.

2 Tofino

Tofino was named by Spanish explorer Juan Francisco de la Bodega y Quadra after one of his teachers, a hydrographer. Located at the entrance to Clayoquot Sound, this pretty coastal town, with 1,600 residents, provides easy access to white-sand beaches and is a magnet for outdoor adventurers and winter storm watchers. At the government docks (center), seafood is sold right off the boats.

1 Wickaninnish Interpretive Centre

The cedar-built center makes a great first stop for Long Beach visitors. Indoor displays introduce natural history as well as historic cultural objects of the local Nuu-Chah-Nulth people. Step out on the viewing platform to spot whales passing along the coast. Not to be missed are the center's beach tours.

3 Long Beach

Rolling waves wash the white sand shores of this seemingly endless wind-swept beach, 15.5 mi (25 km) in length (below). The crashing Pacific Ocean rollers offer unbeatable year-round surfing. Giant Sitka spruce and cedars growing in moss-draped temperate rainforests border the beach.

4 Clayoquot Sound

Pronounced "clack-wot," Clayoquot boasts trees 295 ft (90 m) tall and 1,700 years old. They share the territory with black bears, elk (above), wolves, and an elusive endangered bird, the marbled murrelet. The coastline mingles bays, beaches, channels, intertidal lagoons, and mudflats.

7 Pacific Rim National Park Reserve of Canada

A world-famous area for whale-watching, the 80-mi- (130-km-) long park is made up of three distinct areas: Long Beach, the West Coast Trail, and the Broken Group Islands (see p101).

9 Wild Pacific Trail

This breathtaking 10-mi (16-km) trail runs alongside the Pacific Ocean through coastal rainforest, from the tip of the Ucluelet peninsula to the Pacific Rim National Park. Hikers are surrounded by lush stands of conifers in the largest lowland temperate rainforest on earth.

8 Ucluelet

This small town is the gateway to multiple outdoor activities on both land and water. Avid fishers flock here for steelhead, sturgeon, halibut, and Pacific and freshwater salmon. The climate is temperate, with 328 frost-free days a year.

10 West Coast Trail

The West Coast Trail is a challenging 46-mi (75-km) hike along a historic trail built to aid the rescue of shipwrecked mariners. The trail hugs the shoreline where approximately 65 ships met their demise. Rocky headlands along the trail are dotted with caves, arches, and waterfalls.

5 Vargas Island

Vargas Island has rugged uplands, sandy beaches, and abundant marine life. Access is by boat, kayak, or floatplane. Ahus Bay, the largest beach, is home to a subspecies of gray wolf.

6 Eagle Aerie Gallery

The tranquil cedar-planked Eagle Aerie Gallery in Tofino is a hand-hewn longhouse with a carved and painted housefront traditional to the local First Nations people. Internationally acclaimed Tsimshian printmaker Roy Henry Vickers is the galleryist, and his artwork is also on sale here (below).

Gray Whales

Each year, an estimated 22,000 gray whales migrate past the Vancouver Island coast around Long Beach. They're on an 11,000-mi (17,700-km) round trip, migrating south from the Arctic to their breeding grounds off southern California and Mexico from December to early February, and returning north from March through May.

Reservations and permits are required for the West Coast Trail, which can be hiked in part or full (seven days); call 250 387 1642

TOP 10 Whistler

The 75-mi (120-km) drive to Whistler from Vancouver reveals stunning scenery, a combination of Howe Sound's sparkling blue waters and the majestic snow-covered Coast Mountain range. Welcoming more than two million visitors each year, the side-by-side peaks of Whistler and Blackcomb mountains are magnificent. A year-round resort, Whistler continues to grow as the 2010 Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games approach. The resort is known for its exemplary accommodations and over 90 restaurants and 200 shops. Yet it still preserves natural enclaves of forests and five lakes.

Chalet, Upper Village

1 Horstman Hut is the uppermost eatery in the area, sitting at 7,494 ft (2,284 m) on Blackcomb Mountain.

2 Canada's resort tax can take a bite out of your wallet. You may be eligible for a rebate (see p 112).

1 Whistler Mountain

Skiers and snowboarders enjoy 3,557 acres (1,440 ha) of impressive terrain with over 100 marked trails (center). Whistler Village Gondola offers superb views of Whistler Valley during the 20-minute ride to the top. Mountain biking and alpine hiking are exceptional summer activities. Mountain-top restaurants offer everything from snacks to fine dining.

2 Blackcomb Mountain

Blackcomb, nicknamed the "Mile High Mountain," towers over Whistler resort at an elevation of 7,494 ft (2,284 m). Skiers and snowboarders ride to more than 100 marked runs from three bases. In summer, a sightseeing trip to Horstman Glacier is not to be missed. Or take advantage of the glacier's superb summer skiing and snowboarding.

3 Whistler Village

This pedestrian-only Alpine-style enclave ringed by shops, hotels, and restaurants (below) provides ski-in, ski-out access to Whistler Mountain. It's busy round the clock with skiers and boarders heading to the mountain, diners on patios, and late-night clubgoers.

4 Alta Lake
Alta Lake was once home to Rainbow Lodge, Whistler's first resort. Traces of the lodge remain at Rainbow Park (above), a delightful picnic spot. Explore the lake's perimeter along the paved Valley Trail, or swim, wind surf, or canoe.

8 Green Lake
A glacial gem with crystal clear water courtesy of mountain melt, Green Lake is truly green. It is a firm favorite of canoeists, with views taking in some of the area's highest peaks, including massive Mount Currie.

9 Creekside
A recent multi-million dollar investment has transformed this activity center, providing glamorous hotels and a mini-mall. Skiers can access Whistler Mountain from this historic base at the Creekside Gondola.

5 Upper Village
Nestled at the base of Blackcomb Mountain, the Upper Village offers easy access to the slopes. The ski-in, ski-out luxury hotels, award-winning restaurants, and quality shops here are unsurpassed. The huge Day Lot adjacent to the Village offers free parking.

10 Village North
Construction of Village North followed that of Upper Village, with the added attractions of vehicle access, a shopping mall complete with The Marketplace – one of the resort's best grocery stores – cafés, restaurants, and intriguing shops.

6 Valley Trail
This 12-mi (20-km) Valley Trail attracts walkers, cyclists, and in-line skaters. It leads past Lost Lake, Rainbow Park, and Alta, Nita, and Alpha lakes, through stands of trees fringing residential areas. In winter, the Lost Lake loop is dedicated to cross-country skiing.

7 Fairmont Chateau Whistler
Whistler's grand dame (above) reigns over the valley from the Upper Village. The antique furnishings, gold-leaf ceiling painting, and Canadian art in the lobby of this chateau-style hotel make it well worth a visit. The opulent Mallard Bar has a popular heated patio.

Whistler Transit
A free shuttle service runs every 20 to 30 minutes between village hotels and condos to the ski slopes. WAVE, the municipal bus service, transports visitors to and from the villages and around the town. For a taxi, call 604 932 3333.

TOP 10 Fun Things to Do in Whistler

1 Skiing
Whistler and Blackcomb cater to all ages and levels of skiers. With over 30 ft (10 m) of snow fall yearly, boosted by snowmaking, the winter season provides over 200 runs. Summer skiing on Blackcomb's glacier.

2 Golf
Known as the "Big Four," Whistler's four golf courses take advantage of their mountain settings, with lakes, creeks, rolling greens, and mountain views. Golfers are pampered with deluxe facilities and fine dining. ☎ Whistler Central Reservations: 1 800 944 7853

3 Dog Sledding
The distinctly northern activity of dog sledding, with energetic huskies eager to pull their sleds through the backcountry, is suitable for both adults and kids who enjoy mushing seven-dog teams. An easy, off-road adventure. ☎ Cougar Mountain: 1 888 297 2222

4 Snowmobiling and Snowcat Tours
Speedy snowmobiles are an exhilarating way to see Blackcomb Mountain, or try the more sedate, heated Snowcat. A pleasant dinner at the alpine Crystal Hut can be added. ☎ Canadian Snowmobile Adventures: 604 938 1616

5 Snowboarding
Annual upgrades at the thrilling terrain parks ensure bigger and better rails and pipes for the advanced. Well-designed novice areas also.

6 Bear Watching
An intimate, respectful view of Whistler's black bears is offered on tours led by local bear researcher Michael Allen. Fifty or so bears live in the area's old-growth forests, feeding on the grassy mountain slopes and foraging for berries. Allen's tours provide an up-close look at bear habits and habitats suitable for all ages.

7 Mountain Biking
Free-flowing runs as well as technically demanding trails, groomed to perfection. Practice comes easy at the Mountain Bike Park, with its three Skills Centres, and jumps and learning tools for all levels.

Whistler's Pioneers

Before Whistler Valley became a ski destination, the area was a magnet for explorers, miners, loggers, and pioneer entrepreneurs such as Alex and Myrtle Philip. The young American couple arrived in 1912, and two years later opened a fishing lodge on Alta Lake. Rainbow Lodge was soon BC's premiere resort destination, with visitors arriving on the now defunct Pacific Great Eastern Railway. The lodge burned down in 1977, but one of Rainbow Park's original guest log cabins and a replica of Alex's romantic Bridge of Sighs mark where it once stood.

Rainbow Lodge

The resort's main lodge was built from handcut and peeled logs. By its peak, 45 buildings had been constructed. Only four original cabins remain.

8 Alpine Sightseeing

Snowy peaks, glaciers, and glimpses of Whistler's namesake, the hoary marmot, or "whistler," make summer hikes memorable. Whistler's 30 mi (48 km) of marked trails are easy to follow. Refresh at the Roundhouse Lodge. The open-chair ascent to Horstman Glacier (see p28) is thrilling.

9 Adventure Zone

Parents and children play together in the exciting Blackcomb Base Adventure Zone in the Upper Village. Not to be missed is the child-sized Westcoaster Luge track snaking down the mountain. Other activities include the climbing center, bungee ride, and Spin Cycle, an astronaut-inspired ride.

10 Canoeing and Whitewater Rafting

Resort pioneer Alex Philip began the canoeing craze on picturesque Alta Lake. It's still a low-key way to spend a hot summer day. Canoe rentals and guided tours available. For a faster pace, whitewater raft the Green, Birkenhead, and Elaho rivers. ☎ Canoeing: Whistler Outdoor Experience: 604 932 3389 • Whistler River Adventures: 604 932 3532

The Vancouver Art Gallery's growing collection is rich in historic and contemporary works by BC and international artists, including the world's largest grouping of Emily Carr pieces. The splendid fin-de-siècle exhibition hall hosts traveling exhibits (see pp18–19).

3 Vancouver Police Centennial Museum

An intriguing glimpse into the dark world of crime and punishment in Vancouver's past. The 10,000 artifacts housed in the old Coroner's Court include confiscated weapons, counterfeit bills, and displays depicting scientific evidence. You may find yourself amid a gaggle of wide-eyed children, as school tours play an important part of programming. • 240 E Cordova St • Map M4 • 604 665 3346 • Open 9am–5pm Mon–Sat • Adm

4 Chinese Cultural Centre Museum and Archives

Part of the Chinese Cultural Centre, the museum and archives share traditional Chinese architecture. The collection tells of the Chinese community from the Cariboo Gold Rush of the 1860s to the settlement of Chinatown. The annex exhibits classical and contemporary Chinese art. • 555 Columbia St • Map M4 • 604 658 8880 • Open Tue–Sun 11am–5pm • Adm

5 Vancouver Museum

Permanent and short-term exhibits offer intimate looks at Vancouver's heritage. Hands-on exhibits, such as the 1950s soda shop, and a visit to the hippie era in Vancouver – complete with macramé clothes to try on – make recent history a delight (see p79).

7 BC Sports Hall of Fame and Museum

BC's sports achievements, including those of local heroes Terry Fox and his Marathon of Hope, and Rick Hansen's and his Man in Motion World Tour, are celebrated in 20,000 sq ft (1858 sq m) of gallery space. The Participation Gallery entices visitors to try pitching, sprinting, and rock climbing. 📍 777 Pacific Blvd • Map L4–L5 • 604 687 5520 • Open 10am–5pm daily • Adm

8 Vancouver Maritime Museum

Exhibits of artifacts, models, vessels, and photos pay tribute to Canada's marine heritage. At the heart of the collection is the restored 104-ft (32-m) ketch St. Roch, the second ship to navigate the North West Passage, but the first to travel it from west to east (see p77).

Granville Island Museums

9 Granville Island Museums

These three museums are housed in one building. Anglers will revel in the Sport Fishing Museum's extensive display of reels, creels, and tied flies. The Model Train Museum has a large collection of tiny trains, displayed in dioramas of forests and canyons. The Model Ship Museum offers models of innumerable vessels, from barges and battleships to subs and sail boats (see p77).

4 Carved Doors
The entrance to UBC's Museum of Anthropology (see p34) is itself a work of art. Made of red cedar by four Gitksan master carvers, the double doors convey a narrative from the Skeena River region. When closed, the images form the shape of a Northwest Coast bent box used for storage as well as burials.

5 Kwakwaka'wakw Totem Pole
Completed in 1999, this pole at Victoria's Royal British Columbia Museum (see pp24–5) provides a chance to see a powerful modern interpretation of traditional carving by two young Kwakwaka'wakw artists, Jonathan Henderson and Sean Wonnock.

The pole features a mythical thunderbird on top of the tail of an orca.

6 Hetux
International travelers alighting at the Vancouver airport are greeted by Hetux, a huge birch-and-aluminum image suspended from the ceiling. Connie Watts combines animal forms as diverse as the mythical thunderbird with the hummingbird, wolf, and salmon to reflect the untamed spirit of her grandmother. 📍 Vancouver International Airport • Map A2

7 Thunderbird House Post
Tony Hunt's majestic thunderbird stands above a grizzly bear, which in turn holds a human being. The house post is a replica of one of a pair carved in the early 1900s by influential artist Charlie James. After 40 years in Stanley Park, the poles deteriorated, were restored, and moved indoors. Carver Tony Hunt re-created the colorful cedar pole now standing in the park's Totem Park (see p9).

8 Chief of the Undersea World

Orcas were still kept at the Vancouver Aquarium when Haida artist Bill Reid's sculpture was installed outside it, in 1984. Those orcas are since gone, but this 16-ft- (5-m-) tall bronze killer whale leaping into the air remains as a tribute to this West Coast creature. 📍 Stanley Park • Map G1

9 World's Tallest Freestanding Totem Pole

Raised in Beacon Hill Park (see p96) in 1956, the pole, by Kwakwaka'wakw chief Mungo Martin with David Martin and Henry Hunt, took six months to carve from a cedar nearly 128 ft (39 m) high. 📍 Map Q6

10 Coast Salish Welcome Figures

Left Sunken Garden, Butchart Gardens Right Macaw parrots, Bloedel Floral Conservatory*TOP 10 Parks & Gardens*1 Pacific Spirit Regional Park

This huge, diverse, park is located on a peninsula on Vancouver's west side. It supports pine forests as well as birch, alder, and cottonwood trees. Extensive trails lead across the peninsula from Point Grey to the Fraser River. The park's terrain includes beaches, bluffs overlooking the expansive Spanish Banks, and the ancient Camosun Bog (see p88).

2 David Lam Park

With a large expanse of open green space, the slightly rolling Yaletown park has private corners for sitting and relaxing, and a lovely decorative pool. The park's Asian influence is expressed in its floral plantings. Children's play area. ☎ Map J5

3 Queen Elizabeth Park

This lovely park in central Vancouver was once a stone quarry. The Quarry Garden is now its centerpiece. A small rose garden is planted with hardy varieties that blossom year-round. Rolling treed slopes are perfect for summer picnics (see p88).

4 Stanley Park

Cedar, hemlock, and fir are rainforest favorites in the park. Old-fashioned roses and lush hybrid rhododendrons share the park with cherry, magnolia, and dogwood trees, and a multitude of others. Park staff plant 350,000 annual flowers for year-round beauty (see pp8-11).

5 Bloedel Floral Conservatory

8 Butchart Gardens
Starting in 1904, Mrs. Jenny Butchart created five spectacular gardens to beautify her husband's excavated limestone quarry on the outskirts of Victoria. Her first creation was the Japanese Garden. Next came the lush Sunken Garden. Some one million bedding plants blossom yearly, showcasing 700 plant varieties (see p101).

9 VanDusen Botanical Garden
The array of flowers, shrubs, and trees are unrivaled in Vancouver. Over 7,500 varieties of plants from six continents take advantage of the city's four distinct seasons. Rolling lawns, peaceful lakes, artistic rockwork, and forested pockets (see p88).

10 Vanier Park
English Bay is the backdrop for this expansive park near Granville Island. Largely treeless, the 37-acre (15-ha) area was named after Georges P. Vanier, governor general of Canada from 1959 to 1967. Kite-flyers delight in the open vista, their colorful kites dancing in the wind (see p78).

Top 10 BC Trees

- 1 Douglas Fir
The province's economy was built on the lumber from this imposing tree that grows as tall as 300 ft (90 m).
- 2 Yellow Cedar
Growing in colder elevations, its soft wood is the ideal choice for First Nations carvings.
- 3 Western Red Cedar
Dark, scale-like needles mark the down swept branches of this sometimes huge tree.
- 4 Hemlock
The most common tree on the West Coast, the hemlock is easily recognizable by its droopy top.
- 5 Sitka Spruce
The Carmanah Giant, a Sitka spruce found on Vancouver Island is, at 312 ft (95 m), the tallest recorded tree in Canada.
- 6 Arbutus
Peeling red-brown bark marks the arbutus, also known as the madrona, the only broad-leaved evergreen tree native to Canada.
- 7 Pine
Straight lodgepole and Ponderosa pines grow at higher elevations.
- 8 Dogwood
The white or pink flowers of the province's floral emblem bloom in spring.
- 9 Japanese Flowering Cherry
More than 19,000 of these exquisite blossoming trees line Vancouver city streets.
- 10 Maple
Canada's national tree grows in bigleaf, Douglas, and vine varieties. Bigleaf wood is used for First Nations canoe paddles.

Dining at the wood tables amid the bright Mediterranean color scheme is a casual delight, with the food itself living up to fine dining. Fresh local seafood is featured, with a raw oyster bar and antipasti showcase. A sommelier helps out with the impressive wine list. Weekend brunches (see p83).

2 CinCin Ristorante & Bar

The Mediterranean-inspired menu of this inviting space includes wood-fired pizzas and alder wood-grilled meat and fish. If you're not in a rush, order the melt-in-your-mouth free range chicken cooked under a brick in the wood-fired oven for 25 minutes. On the terrace, trees mute the hustle of the street below. Choose from 925 wines (see p73).

3 Blue Water Café and Raw Bar

Exquisite wild seafood is served in a 100-year-old brick-and-beam warehouse. The decor is contemporary, the atmosphere friendly, and the kitchen serves mouth-watering delicacies such as Quadra Island honey mussel soup and seafood towers of fresh shellfish, sushi, and Dungeness crab. The Raw Bar is the domain of a master sushi chef. Superb champagne list (see p83).

7 Imperial Chinese Seafood Restaurant

This jewel of a restaurant offers Cantonese delicacies such as shark's fin soup, Peking duck, and sautéed lobster and crab. Lunch and dinner are served, but enticing dim sum appear only at lunch. Repeatedly named a Distinguished Restaurant of North America, the Imperial is buoyed by a bevy of Hong Kong-trained chefs (see p65).

8 Raincity Grill
White tablecloths, leather banquettes, and wood floors make for casual, upscale dining. The menu is seasonal: game in winter gives way to fish choices in summer. West Coast wines from California to BC are featured (see p73).

9 Cioppino's Mediterranean Grill
Inventive cucina-style dishes are made with fresh vegetables, olive oil, and low-fat cream sauces for a pleasing meal that is easy on the waistline. Or choose the juicy Black Angus beef with calamari, lobster, and escargot. A patio and excellent wine list round out the experience (see p83).

10 C Restaurant
The best of contemporary regional fish dishes are featured at this sleek waterfront restaurant. Try incomparable Kagan Bay scallops or Nordic spirit sablefish to get into the BC spirit. Chef Robert Clark has been voted one of the best in Canada (see p83).

1 English Bay This beautiful bay is a popular West End attraction. On New Year's Day it hosts the polar bear swim, when thousands of swimmers brave the cold waters. More popular is walking the seawall that runs beside the bay into Stanley Park, fueled with caffeine or ice cream from nearby Davie and Denman street cafés (see p8).

2 Lighthouse Park Park in the convenient lot or hop off the bus and enjoy a fairly easy walk through West Vancouver's 500-year-old forest to the boulder-lined shore, and the 1912 Point Atkinson Lighthouse. The old-growth forest was slated to be felled to provide fuel for the lighthouse and its steam fog alarm. Luckily, it was never logged. Six miles (9.5 km) of trails provide day hikes through this entirely natural park, with its native trees and plants (see p88).

3 Jericho Beach This family-friendly park has an outdoor shower and changing rooms for freshening up after a day splashing in the water. Picnics on the beach are a favorite pastime. To take advantage of Pacific breezes, rent a windsurfer. Lessons are available for beginners to advanced. ☎ Map A1 • Windsure Windsurfing: 604 224 0615

4 Cypress Provincial Park Cypress Mountain, one of the park's several peaks, is the biggest alpine ski and snowboarding area on the North Shore. In summer, activities include mountain biking, hiking, and wilderness camping in the park's rugged backcountry areas.

☎ Map A1 • 604 926 5612

5 Grouse Mountain The gondola ride to the summit provides thrilling views of the city and beyond. Skiing and snowboarding are guaranteed in winter, courtesy of snowmakers. Sightseeing and lots of activities in the summer (see p86).

6 Kitsilano Beach and Park "Kits" Park is connected by a tree-lined walk to the beach, favored by swimsuit-clad volleyball players and sunbathers. Busy Olympic-size Kitsilano Pool overlooks the beach. ☎ Map B2 • Kitsilano Pool: 604 731 0011

7 Wreck Beach

Getting down to Wreck Beach is easy, via a steep trail leading from SW Marine Drive on the UBC campus (see p85). The hard part is the climb back up from this clothing-optional beach. Beware: ogglers on the beach are conspicuous. There are spectacular views across the Strait of Georgia toward Vancouver Island (see p53).

8 Mount Seymour Provincial Park

Drive to the top of Mount Seymour for glimpses of deer and bears, and for views of Deep Cove and Indian Arm. The park, on the eastern end of the Coast Mountain range, is popular in winter, with gentle slopes for beginners as well as challenges for more advanced skiers and snowboarders. Hiking is a summer activity. The park encompasses Mount Seymour, Mount Elsay, and Mount Bishop. Map C1 • 604 986 2261

9 Beacon Hill Park

Since 1858, Beacon Hill Park has been the queen of Victoria's open-air spaces. Wooden bridges over the stream, petting zoo, and English-style rose garden add charm to the peaceful setting. Views of the Strait of Juan de Fuca from some points in the 62-acre (25-ha) park. Visitors can walk, bird-watch, ride horses, and picnic on the beach (see p96).

10 Cathedral Grove

The grove, located in MacMillan Provincial Park on Vancouver Island, provides an awe-inspiring look at a virgin coastal forest. Giant, ancient Douglas-fir trees share the forest with stands of hemlock and Western red cedar. Loop trails are located on either side of Hwy 4. Scenic Cameron Lake is nearby. Map C4

TOP 10 Bars & Clubs

1 AuBAR Nightclub
An upscale feel is created by the polished decor, complete with candles dotting the tables of the intimate seating areas. Lofty 22-ft (7-m) ceilings give an open feel to the dance floor. Friday night features top DJs spinning hip-hop and R&B, while Saturday nights percolate with Top 40s music. Plush seating in the lounge is also inviting. High-rollers drink Courvoisier and Hennessy. Fruity martinis such as Carmel Apple, Passion, and Starburst are favorites. This is definitely a see-and-be-seen type of place. You might even spot a Hollywood celebrity or two in the crowd.

Dress code enforced.
(see p74).

2 ginger 62
Action in this self-styled "cocktail den and kitchen" starts at 8pm every night of the week. The atmosphere of the bar, with its dance floor, lounge, and more intimate Red Room, is a mix of 1960s and Asian inspirations. Reservations are a must for a seat at the cool white-and-red banquets. Live music and hot DJs – spinning hip-hop, R&B, club tracks, house, and more – are boosted by yummy Asian-influenced tapas. The hip crowd also loves its martinis and cocktails, with names like Frank & Dean and Ginger Not Marianne (see p74).

3 Sonar
This sexy and casual Gastown club accommodates crowds of 500 and more. Red brick arches lead from the front lounge into a variety of areas, including a stand-up bar and black leather banquets. Hip-hop, Top 40, and funk are at home here, with Sonic Saturdays guided by DJs, and alternative and electronic music on Sunday night (see p64).

4 AFTERglow Lounge
An intimate, 50-seat area adjacent to glowbal grill & satay bar (see p83), this lounge is dark, smooth, and mellow. The crowd looks good, the energy is positive, and there's a tasting-style satay menu. More than 20 wines are offered by the glass, plus yummy martinis (see p82).

5 Commodore Ballroom
Opened in 1926, this club has weathered many musical eras. Catch one of the many great acts or, on Tuesday nights, test out the room's bouncy sprung floor as you dance to disco music or party at one of the ample tables along the sides. Updated, and always on the cutting edge of music, the Commodore lives on as the city's great-grandfather of clubs (see p74).

6 Richard's on Richards
 The granddaddy of local clubs is still going strong. Always in tune with the times, the club presents ticketed live shows by top rock and pop musicians from 7pm to 10pm. Then it swings open its doors for a free-for-all, as the DJ spins Top 40 hits for those grooving on the spacious dance floor. Theme nights, too (see p82).

7 Caprice Nightclub & Lounge
 Clean, lean, and modern, this cavernous nightclub has a dance floor for 400. The music is eclectic, with dee-jayed retro classics and R&B. All-request Top 40 is featured on alternating nights. The lounge, with a separate entrance, is a more intimate space, with its warming fireplace (see p74).

8 SkyBar
 A three-level complex with a Miami feel, where the well-heeled downtown crowd lets loose after a hard-working week. On the first floor is a martini bar, on the second, a large dance floor, and on the rooftop, a restaurant (see p74).

9 The Irish Heather
 This gastro-pub serves up good food in a casual and friendly pub setting. Shebeen, a whiskey house with a fantastic selection of single malts, bourbon, rye, scotch, and whiskey, is located in a renovated 19th-century coach house across the private courtyard (see p64).

10 Crush Champagne Lounge
 A fashionable lounge with a small dance floor. Eclectic entertainment adds to the energy of this casual, upbeat spot. Known for its wine list, Crush also offers all the usual refreshments, including champagne cocktails using fresh fruit purée. Jazz and classic lounge selections, R&B and soul (see p74).

TOP 10 Gay & Lesbian Hangouts

1 The Davie Village
Davie Village, with its fuchsia bus shelters and trash bins, is Vancouver's gay 'hood. Located in the West End between Burrard and Jervis streets, it's a 24-hour strip with cafés, myriad shops, including sex shops, clubs, restaurants for all budgets, and bars. The Centre, at 1170 Bute Street, provides health and social services to the community.

📍 Map H4

2 Fountainhead Pub
With its excellent selection of lagers on tap and appetizing menu, the Fountainhead Pub is a good first stop when hitting Davie Village. As a neighborhood sports bar, it's a great place to watch sports play-offs on TV. The patio is a prime spot for people-watching in the thick of the Village. 📍 1025 Davie St • Map J4 • 604 687 2222

3 Little Sister's Book & Art Emporium
If there is an anchor to Vancouver's gay community, Little Sister's is it. More than a bookstore, it's a long-standing institution that has taken Canada Customs to the Supreme Court of Canada in its fight for freedom from censorship. Good selection of literature, event tickets, gift items, clothing, DVDs, and play things. 📍 1238 Davie St • Map H3 • 604 669 1753

4 Lick
Lick describes itself as Vancouver's only "all-girl-operated underground queer night club." Welcoming everyone, the club has a great sound system, with a harder core tech night on Thursdays. In a complex with three other bars, all gay-friendly. 📍 455 Abbott St • Map L4 • 604 685 7777

5 English Bay
Adorned with Pride flags in the summer, English Bay is the destination for those with coffees-to-go from nearby cafés. Grab a park bench or a spot on the sandy beach and watch the world go by. Or enjoy the vista from one of the bars and restaurants along the waterfront. In the heat of summer, English Bay sizzles with skin and buff bods. It's also a great place to swim and suntan (see p48).

TOP 10 Shopping Destinations

1 Robson Street Fashionable Robson Street's shopping epicenter is the corner of Burrard and Robson where Virgin Megastore and Roots Canada (see p72) make their homes. Browse internationally known clothing, shoe, accessory, and home furnishing stores, or shop for clothing at Canadian-owned Aritzia. Try Lush for bath and body products. Take a breather at any of the many restaurants en route (see p69).

2 Granville Island There's more to shopping on the Island than just fresh foods at the Public Market: look for silver jewelry and hats among the stalls (see p80). The Net Loft – once used for fishing net repairs – sells neat things, such as handmade paper and hand-dyed clothing. The bountiful Kids Market offers lots of mini-shops and activities for the wee ones (see pp20–21).

Pousse café glassware, Granville Island

3 Gastown Gastown's century-old buildings have morphed into one-of-a-kind boutiques, First Nations art galleries, and specialty shops selling everything from buttons to cowboy boots to urban designer clothing. Gastown has long been known for souvenirs, and many retailers selling both classic and kitsch Canadiana line Water Street and the smaller streets leading out from it (see p61).

4 South Granville South Granville shopping extends along Granville Street from 2nd to 16th avenues. At least a dozen art galleries are found here. The casually elegant strip is home to brand-name and high-end European clothing purveyors such as Bacci, Boboli (see p81), and MaxMara. Fabulous yet affordable footwear awaits at Bionic Footwear and Freedman Shoes. Several lingerie shops, too. ☉ Map H6

5 Sinclair Centre Four heritage buildings are grouped to create an elegant, upscale shopping mall. The three levels of retail indulgence include two floors of exclusive shops offering luxury accessories and clothing from the likes of Versace, Armani, Prada, and DKNY. The lower level has a food fair. ☉ 757 W Hastings • Map L3

6 Chinatown Vancouver's oldest and largest ethnic shopping area has struggled at times to survive with competition from Richmond's Asian super-malls. Yet Chinatown hangs on, its crowded streets filled with bargain-hunters. Shops selling herbs and potions, exotic delicacies, fresh seafood and vegetables, leather goods, and Asian souvenirs appear elbow to elbow (see p62).

7 Metrotown

Metropolis at Metrotown is BC's largest mall. The atmosphere is charged with the energy of thousands of daily shoppers. Department stores The Bay and Sears (see p112) anchor the mall, with chains and independents well represented by 470 stores. The 17 movie theaters and three games centers ensure that there's entertainment for all, even if shopping's not their thing. 📍 4720 Kingsway, Burnaby • Map C2 • 604 438 4700

8 Pacific Centre

More than 150 stores and services stretch beneath Granville Street in the heart of downtown Vancouver. After checking out The Bay and Sears (see p112), two major department stores among the many street-level shops, descend to the boutiques and specialty stores below, selling clothing, jewelry, sportswear, gadgets, and more. High-end retailers include Holt Renfrew (see p70).

9 Broadway Avenue

Originally designed to be the city's major thoroughfare, Broadway Avenue's shopping hotspots are located between Main and Alma streets. Mountain Equipment Co-op, at the eastern end, requires a small membership fee, but the sportswear is superb. Going west, the street is dotted with clothing stores, bookshops, and health food stores, particularly at Granville, Arbutus, and Macdonald streets, the latter home to the city's Greektown. 📍 Map A1-B1

Waterfront, Gastown & Chinatown

THE WATERFRONT IS VANCOUVER'S HEART. After New York, the city is North America's second largest port in both size and tonnage. With the opening of the cruise ship terminal at Canada Place in the mid-1980s, it also became one of the world's major cruise ship ports. A block away, Gastown's origin as a tough mill town is masked by gracefully restored heritage buildings constructed during the boom years of the early 1900s. The Landing, next to Waterfront Station, was one of the first to be renovated. Farther along West Cordova Street begins Chinatown, the largest in North America after San Francisco's. The area that was once a marsh is now home to over 35,000 people of Chinese descent, though its growth and prosperity did not come easily – it was seen as a threat by seasonal workers, and a closed-door immigration policy was imposed in 1885. Today, Chinatown attracts throngs of shoppers looking for authentic Chinese food and souvenirs.

1 Waterfront Station

The station has been a transportation hub since 1887, when the original timber structure welcomed the first cross-Canada passenger train. The present building was built in 1914. With Vancouver Harbour as backdrop, the station's white-columned façade is impressive in a showy way. Inside, murals on the upper walls depict Canadian landscapes.

📍 601 W Cordova St • Map L3

2 The Lookout!

The showstopper of the Harbour Centre complex is its 581-ft (177-m) tower, home to The Lookout! observation deck. The ride up in the glass-fronted elevator takes a thrilling 50 seconds. From the enclosed viewing deck, the 360-degree view is splendid. On a clear day, you can see Vancouver Island to the west and Washington State's Mount Baker to the south. In the evening, many return to admire the intense sunsets over the water. 📍 555 W Hastings St • Map L3 • 604 689 0421 • Open May–Oct: 8:30am–10:30pm; Nov–Apr: 9am–9pm • Adm

Five sails, Canada Place

3 Canada Place

When Canada Place opened in 1986, it was greeted with controversy. Critics commented that its five "sails" were a poor imitation of Australia's Sydney Opera House. The complex is now a key player on the waterfront, which has grown up around it (see pp12–13).

4 Gastown

The cobblestone streets of Gastown have been through many reincarnations. The current one is perhaps the most satisfying. Since the 1970s, the area has worked hard to better itself. The plethora of tawdry souvenir shops have largely been replaced with boutiques selling the work of local designers, a concentration of excellent First Nations and Inuit art galleries, restaurants, and clubs. 📍 Map L3–M3

5 Storyeum

Visitors are treated to a fascinating, fast-paced journey through BC's history – from Native legends to fur trader Hudson's Bay Company's westward drive, to the building of the transnational railway. Actors and technology interact, and audience participation is welcomed as the "citizens" of a Gold Rush town bring history alive through dance and song (see pp16–17).

6 Chinatown

Stretching from Gore Avenue west to Carrall Street between Pender and Keefer streets, Chinatown dates back to the 1880s and the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, when as many as 20,000 Chinese came to Canada. Today it is North America's second-largest Chinatown. Shops with their vegetable stalls spill onto the sidewalks. The Millennium Gate straddles Pender near Taylor Street and is the best place to start a walking tour of this lively area.  Map L4–M4

An Iron Road, Coast to Coast

The grand saga of Canadian railways is a tale of power and pain. In 1886, Prime Minister John A. Macdonald fulfilled his promise to build a cross-Canada railway to unite the new Dominion of Canada. The first transcontinental passenger train arrived in Vancouver on May 23, 1887, where Waterfront Station now stands. The whole city came out to celebrate. Even the ships in the harbor were decked out in flags. The "Iron Road" was completed at last. Sadly, progress came at the loss of many lives, including more than 600 Chinese laborers.

Triangular Building, at Maple Tree Square

7 Maple Tree Square

The city of Vancouver has its roots in this small square. Standing atop his barrel of beer, the statue of John "Gassy Jack" Deighton commemorates Gastown's founder. The talkative publican built the city's first saloon with the help of thirsty sawmill workers. A maple tree here was once a popular meeting place until it was destroyed in the Great Fire of 1886. Gaoler's Mews was the site of the city's first prison, as well as the home of the city's first policeman, Constable Jonathan Miller.

 Water St at Carrall St • Map M3

8 Vancouver Police Centennial Museum

Enter the old city morgue, now the police museum's forensic laboratory, and it's not difficult to imagine the coroner leaning over the slab, about to start an examination. Housed in the former Coroner Court, built in 1932, the museum has fine exhibits of counterfeit money, antique firearms, and street weaponry. Always popular is the knife room. Unsolved murders are depicted in displays complete with dummies and period costumes.

9 Dr. Sun Yat-Sen Classical Chinese Garden

This Ming Dynasty-style garden, the first built outside China, opened in 1986. It re-creates the private areas typically found in a Ming scholar's home. With its meandering paths, corridors and courtyards, and asymmetrically placed rocks, the garden invites contemplation on the beauty and rhythm of nature. Plants include local and traditional Chinese varieties, such as flowering ginkgo trees and twisted pines. 📍 578 Carrall St • Map M4 • 604 662 3207 • Adm

10 Steam Clock

Said to be the world's first steam-operated clock, this landmark is one of the most photographed in the city. But it's not an antique. Local horologist Raymond Saunders based the 16-ft- (5-m-) tall clock, at the corner of Water and Cambie streets, on an 1875 model. Be patient, and wait for the explosion of steam every 15 minutes. Erected in 1977, the bronze and gold clock strikes Westminster chimes every hour on the hour. 📍 Water St at Cambie St • Map L3

A Day in Waterfront, Gastown & Chinatown

Morning

Begin at Canada Place (see pp12–13) for a view of the harbor. After strolling the promenade for 20 minutes, walk east to Waterfront Station, 601 W Cordova St, peeking at the scenic murals inside. At the junction of Cordova and Water streets, continue two blocks along Water to Cambie St to admire Gastown's steam clock.

A block further is Storyeum (see pp16–17). Enjoy the 72-minute historical pageant before walking the block back to Water Street Café (see p65) for lunch.

Afternoon

Walk east 10 minutes to Maple Tree Square, at Water and Carrall sts, to see the statue of "Gassy Jack" Deighton, proprietor of the city's first saloon.

Walk four blocks south on Cambie St to W Pender and the Dr. Sun Yat-Sen Classical Chinese Garden. Explore the peaceful spot for 30 minutes, then spend another half hour at the adjoining Chinese Cultural Centre Museum and Archives, viewing exhibits on history, arts, and culture.

Head east on Pender St, admiring Millennium Gate as you walk through it into Chinatown. Spend the afternoon exploring the multitude of shops, keeping an eye on the wooden heritage buildings you pass.

End the day feasting on Cantonese dishes at Floata Seafood (see p65). If the Chinatown Night Market is on (6:30pm–11pm Fri–Sun), add on a market stroll.

Downtown

VANCOUVER'S DOWNTOWN CORE is a blend of old and new, all nicely contained in a walkable package that extends from BC Place Stadium to the West End. The city's first church sits at the corner of Georgia and Burrard streets, hemmed in by glass-walled office towers. The landmark Fairmont Hotel Vancouver graces the opposite corner, a glorious reminder of yesteryear. Alive with activity, downtown hums all day and much of the night. The core includes high-density residential areas, street and mall shopping, theaters, music venues, restaurants, and nightclubs, all adding up to a pleasant, invigorating energy.

West End residents, the city's urban chic, international celebrities, and tourists alike flock to Robson Street to join the bustle of shoppers. Part of the fun is people watching over a specialty coffee, then browsing the brand name and independent Canadian and international shops. Slip down a side street to get a taste of the historic West End, Canada's most densely populated area. 📍 Map H2-K4

2 Christ Church Cathedral

A gem in the heart of the city and once a beacon for mariners entering Vancouver's harbor, Christ Church Cathedral, consecrated in 1895, was designed in the Gothic Revival style. The interior has impressive old-growth Douglas fir ceiling beams. Three of the 32 stained-glass windows are by the British artist William Morris; look for them in the office vestibule. In 2004, as part of a major renovation, a brand new Kenneth Jones organ was installed. 📍 690 Burrard St • Map K3 • 604 682 3848

4 Library Square

The new Vancouver Central Library, designed in part by renowned architect Moshe Safdie, opened in 1995. At first critized by some for its resemblance to a Roman coliseum, it soon became universally popular. Library Square takes up a whole city block, and includes the library; a seven-story, glass-roofed promenade; the Federal Tower, housing government offices; souvenir shops, a coffee bar, and take-out restaurants. The promenade is an ideal place to relax and people watch. 📍 Corner of Robson & Homer sts • Map K4

5 Vancouver Art Gallery

When the Court House was erected in 1912, designed by Francis Rattenbury, one of BC's flashiest architects, its solid form symbolized the British Empire at its peak. Another controversial architect, Arthur Erickson, supervised the redesign of the building when it became the Vancouver Art Gallery in the mid-1980s. Inside, the Emily Carr collection is Canada's largest. Contemporary photoconceptual work also has a prominent place (see pp18–19).

Born in Winnipeg in 1958, Terry Fox grew up in a Vancouver suburb. When just 18 years old, he was diagnosed with bone cancer and had his leg amputated. Three years later, in 1980, Terry dipped his artificial leg into the Atlantic Ocean, beginning his Marathon of Hope across Canada to raise money for cancer research. After 143 days and 3,339 mi (5,373 km), Terry stopped his run. Cancer had spread to his lungs. He died in 1981, shortly after realizing his dream of raising $1 for every Canadian – over $24 million. Annual Terry Fox runs worldwide continue Terry's mission.

A Downtown Walk

Morning

Start at BC Place Stadium (see p42), exploring the BC Sports Hall of Fame and Museum for about an hour. Exiting the museum, head west toward Robson St, passing by the Terry Fox Memorial, a tribute to the local hero who raised millions of dollars for cancer research.

Continue west three blocks along Robson St to Homer St, and Library Square (see p69). Drop in to have a look at the building's airy promenade before walking west on Robson St to Pacific Centre. Peruse the shops for about an hour, then exit the mall and cross Howe St to the Vancouver Art Gallery. Enjoy a salad and sandwich in its casually elegant Gallery Café, snagging a patio table if weather permits.

Afternoon

After lunch, head to the fourth floor of the Vancouver Art Gallery (see pp18–19) and the wonderful Emily Carr Collection. Begin by watching the 15-minute video about this remarkable painter of forests and totem poles.

Exiting the gallery, cross Robson St and stroll through lovely Robson Square. Then it's on to shopping along Robson Street (see p69). Satisfy a sweet tooth at one of the several chocolate shops. Loop back to Burrard St.

End the day with a treat at Kamei Royale Japanese Restaurant (see p73), at 1030 W Georgia St. The excellent sushi chefs welcome you enthusiastically.

South Granville & Yaletown

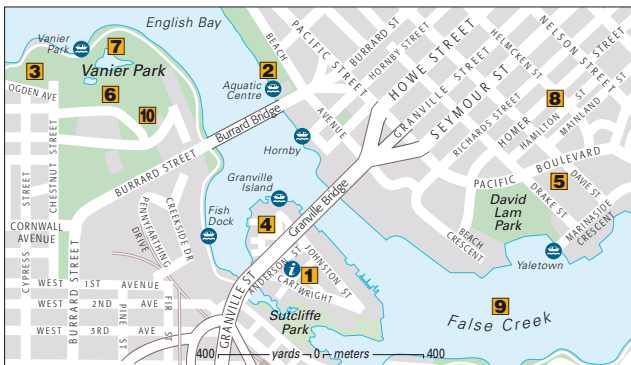

THE NEIGHBORHOODS OF SOUTH GRANVILLE AND YALETOWN are separated by a drive across Granville Bridge or a ferry ride across False Creek. On the south shore, South Granville offers a pleasant mix of upscale shops and restaurants. Granville Island is a bustling labyrinth of converted warehouses overlooking False Creek. The centerpiece is the large public market. Yaletown, on the north shore of the creek, began life as a railway works yard. Since the early 1990s, Yaletown has undergone a furiously fast transformation. The once-decrepit area now booms with offices, condos, boutiques, nightclubs, brew pubs, and restaurants.

1 Granville Island

The original mud flats of False Creek were a fishing ground for the Squamish people. Industry moved in, polluting much of the turn-of-the-19th-century city. In the 1970s, all that changed with the redevelopment of Granville Island. Under the aegis of the federal government, heavy industry moved out and Granville Island quickly became a colorful, bustling community. Free street parking is available with a three-hour limit, or choose paid parking in covered lots (see pp20–21).

2 Sunset Beach

The white sands of Sunset Beach, which marks the end of the English Bay seawall and the start of False Creek, provide an ideal setting for relaxing, tanning, or swimming. Summertime water temperatures rise to 65°F (18°C), and lifeguards are on duty from mid-May to Labour Day. The western end of Sunset Beach provides a good view of the gray granite Inukshuk (see p36). The Vancouver Aquatic Centre, at the east end of the beach, has an Olympic-size swimming and diving pools, a sauna, a whirlpool, and a steam room. False Creek Ferries (see p21) dock behind the center. ☉ Map G3–H4

7 Vanier Park

Vanier Park is a calming oasis in the midst of the city. Boats sail by on English Bay, kites fly overhead, and pedestrians and cyclists pass through on their way to Kitsilano Beach or Granville Island. Coast Salish people once inhabited the park area. It is now home to the H.R. MacMillan Space Centre, Vancouver Museum, and

8 Yaletown Warehouse District

Warehouses have been transformed into lofts and stores, café terraces have sprung up on old loading docks, and high-rises have filled Yaletown's skyline. Along with the new residents has come a facelift. Homer, Hamilton, and Mainland streets have been spruced up, making the most of heritage architectural features, including red brick and arched doorways. Numerous brew pubs and nightclubs keep the area hopping at night. 📍 Map J4-K5

Yaletown's Railway History

Yaletown was first settled by Canadian Pacific Railway (CPR) train crews and laborers who arrived after the CPR closed its construction camp in Yale, BC, on completion of the transcontinental railway to Vancouver in 1887. In the early 1990s, Yaletown was still the decaying heart of the city's remaining industrial activity, when a development plan jump-started its transformation into a lively urban area. In just over a decade, Yaletown has become Vancouver's hottest community.

Renovated warehouses, Yaletown

Boats moored on False Creek, south side

9 False Creek

As its name implies, False Creek is not a creek at all but a saltwater inlet. In the heart of the city, it extends east from Burrard Bridge to Science World (see pp22–3). In the 1850s, Captain G.H. Richards sailed up this body of water, which then covered what is now Chinatown, eastward to Clark Drive, hoping to find the Fraser River. Disappointed, he named it False Creek. The mud flats Richards saw served as fishing grounds for the Squamish people. Sawmills later set up on the south shore, railyards on the north. Today, paved paths flank both sides (see p71), and boats and small ferries (see p21) ply the waters. Map J6–L5

Canada's largest civic museum boasts re-creations of Vancouver's history, including an immigrant ship and a fur-trading post. Artifacts from a huge collection, much of which was donated by locals, make up natural history, archaeology, Asian arts, and ethnology exhibits. The Egyptian boy mummy is one of the museum's biggest attractions. 1100 Chestnut St • Map G5 • 604 736 4431 • Open 10am–5pm Tue–Sun, Thu to 9pm • Adm

A Day in Yaletown & at Granville Island

Morning

Start in Yaletown at the corner of Drake and Hamilton streets for a 15-minute stroll north on Hamilton, noting its historic buildings. At Helmcken St, turn right, then right again at Mainland St. Spend half an hour in the shops, ending at Obsessions (see p81).

Cross Pacific Blvd to admire the Roundhouse's Steam Train 374. Take 15 minutes exploring the complex, then hop on the Aquabus (see p21) from the dock behind the center for the short trip to Granville Island (see pp20–21). For a fun hour, wander the public market, buying food for a casual lunch on a waterside bench, or at a table inside.

Afternoon

Exit the market's east side. Continue on Johnston St past Ocean Cement, the island's last industry. Turn right on Old Bridge St to watch the glass blower at New-Small and Sterling Glass Studio (see p20). Walk to Railspur Alley, on your left. Browse the shops for 20 minutes, then cross adjacent Railspur Park to Cartwright St. Turn left and walk to the end, to The Mound. The view is worth the 20-minute climb.

Back on Johnston St, head west to peek at the modern art in the Charles H. Scott Gallery (see p35). Take Anderson St to Duranleau, and the Granville Island Museums (see p35), allowing yourself an hour there.

End the day at Bridges (1696 Duranleau St), choosing between its fine dining room and casual bistro.

TOP 10 Granville Island Public Market

1 Public Market Building

At Granville Island's west end is the large public market, housed in part in a wood-frame, corrugated tin-clad warehouse. Built in the early 1920s by the Island's first tenant, BC Equipment, this structure set the architectural style of the Island. The timbered beams and massive pulleys and hooks once pulled rope coils from one area to the other. See pp20–21.

2 Food Courts

Two food courts offer sit-down and takeaway food, including Greek, Mexican, Thai, Chinese, and Canadian. Patience and strategy may be required to land one of the limited indoor tables.

3 Local Produce and Seafood

Artful displays tempt with fruits and vegetables – much of it organic – fresh from the orchards and farms of BC. Okanagan cherries, apples, and peaches are a summer delight. BC wild salmon is another market specialty – both fresh and smoked in gift boxes.

4 Olde World Fudge

Irresistible Belgian chocolate treats are concocted on-site in a copper vat. Assorted gift boxes include fudge, toffee, brittles, and caramel apples. Samples available!

5 Stuart's Bakery

Mouth-watering pies, chocolate confections, and pastries fill one counter; multigrain, cheese, and other loaves crowd the other.

6 Eating Outdoors

Enjoy your takeaway food or just relax at the rustic seating areas overlooking False Creek. Exit the west side of the market for views of the marina. On the east side, enjoy free entertainment in the Market Courtyard. The courtyard's worn floor planks from its days as an industrial dock add to the charm.

7 Craft and Specialty Stalls

Day vendors sell an assortment of locally made wares, including seasonal and specialty items. Bowls made of BC wood, Thai curry sauces, herb seedlings, homemade pies, and jewelry are just the start. Vendors may not be located in the same place from day to day.

8 Buskers

Licensed musicians, magicians, clowns, jugglers, and other talented folk entertain free of charge, though a donation is always appreciated.

9 Flower Shops

Abundance and quality are the themes at the market's flower shops. It is worth a stop just to admire the gorgeous blooms and take in the heady scents.

10 Marina

At the marina on the market's west side you'll find fancy yachts, simple sail boats, and the occasional fishing boat. Tall ships dock here during festivals.

Greater Vancouver & Beyond

ONE OF THE REASONS Vancouver is so often listed among the top ten cities of the world in which to live is the wide range of things to do, and the breathtakingly lovely scenery in which to do them, just a short drive away from the downtown core. Sandy beaches, rugged coastlines, and popular ski hills are minutes away. The ski slopes and golf courses of Whistler are reached after a scenic three-hour drive, ideal for an overnight excursion. Splendid rainforests can be enjoyed in the University of British Columbia's Pacific Spirit Regional Park and in North Vancouver's Capilano Suspension Bridge and Park. Towns such as Squamish or Brackendale provide unforgettable nature walks, hikes and climbs, affording glimpses of the region's flora and fauna. Some small waterfront towns such as Steveston, a former fishing village, have proudly preserved their local history.

1 University of British Columbia

A mix of historic and modern architecture, the buildings of BC's oldest university are complemented by diverse gardens. The campus offers fantastic views across the Strait of Georgia. At the renowned Museum of Anthropology (see p34), visit the First Nations Longhouse, constructed in traditional Coast Salish style in 1993, to admire its four carved houseposts and two carved roof beam ends. The huge Pacific Spirit Regional Park (see p88) draws many visitors. 📍 Map A2 • 604 822 2211 • www.ubc.ca • First Nations Longhouse: 1985 West Mall

2 Capilano Suspension Bridge and Park

This North Vancouver park has been around since 1888. Its suspension bridge sways 230 ft (70 m) above the Capilano River (see pp14–15).

3 Whistler

Two mountains, Whistler and Blackcomb, rise side by side at the resort town of Whistler. Enjoy views of the four villages and surrounding mountains and valleys year round, fog and snow allowing, by way of gondolas and lift chairs (see pp28–31).

Modern fountain, Lonsdale Quay

4 North Vancouver

North Vancouver is a busy North Shore city of more than 126,000 residents. Take the scenic SeaBus ride across Burrard Inlet. Disembark at Lonsdale Quay, a public market selling fresh produce, meats, and baked goods, as well as handmade jewelry and crafts. Grab a takeaway from the food court and head for the outdoor seating area. Lynn Canyon Park boasts its own suspension bridge, spanning the dramatic canyon, 165 ft (50 m) above Lynn Creek, as well as 40 types of moss and 100-year-old Douglas firs. Stop in at the Ecology Centre to view the displays and films, and get details on park tours and trails. 📍 Map B1 • Lynn Canyon Park: at the end of Peters Rd, Lynn Valley • Lynn Canyon Ecology Centre: 604 981 3103

A Convocation of Eagles

Almost half the world's bald eagle population lives in BC. Thousands make their annual winter home in Brackendale. The first eagle count took place along the Squamish River in 1985, when six people counted 500 eagles. Some 2,000 eagles are now counted annually, feasting on spawning chum salmon and sitting in the cottonwood trees, with the best viewing in December and January. Brackendale Winter Eagle Festival takes place every January.

5 West Vancouver

This upscale North Shore community is home to over 42,000 people. Lighthouse Park (see p48), Cypress Provincial Park (see p48), and Horseshoe Bay are among the outdoor attractions here. Horseshoe Bay was once a popular summer spot for Vancouverites, who arrived by train or steamer, and it remains a pleasant day-trip destination. Its small bayside park features two totem poles and a pier. BC Ferries (see p106) depart here for Nanaimo, Bowen Island, and the Sunshine Coast. The pedestrian Centennial Seawall runs between Ambleside Park and charming Dundarave village. For a glimpse into the area's history, visit the West Vancouver Museum & Archives. ☎ Map B1

9 Brackendale

Brackendale is best known for the bald eagles that winter in the nearby 1,900-acre (770-ha) Brackendale Eagles Provincial Park, but its ocean and river location also make this small town a great place for rafting and canoeing. After enjoying a day on the water in summer, or watching the eagles feast on salmon in winter, refuel in Brackendale Art Gallery's cozy teahouse.

The Stawamus Chief, Squamish

10 Squamish

"Squamish," a Coast Salish word meaning "mother of the wind," is an apt name for this windy town that has become a major center for outdoor activities. Rock climbers relish the challenge of the Stawamus Chief, an imposing granite monolith. Others windsurf on the Squamish River or camp in nearby parks, including renowned Garibaldi Provincial Park. Visit the West Coast Heritage Railway Park to see the famed black-and-gold Royal Hudson Steam Train or take a mini-train ride. 📍 Map E3 • West Coast Heritage Railway Park: 39645 Government Rd • 604 898 9336 • Adm

A Drive Along the North Shore

Morning

🕒 Begin at the Stanley Park end of Lions Gate Bridge, where two stone lions will welcome you. Cross the bridge and take the North Vancouver exit onto Marine Drive, making the first left-hand turn onto Capilano Rd. Continue for 10 minutes to Grouse Mountain. Parking the car, hop on the Skyride for the 1-mile (1.5-km) ride to the top. Spend 90 minutes visiting the grizzlies at the Refuge for Endangered Wildlife, and watching the lumberjack show and Theatre in the Sky's dramatic video on beautiful BC.

🍴 Lunch at Altitudes Bistro, enjoying marvelous views.

Afternoon

After lunch return to the car and drive down Capilano Rd, about 5 minutes, to Capilano Suspension Bridge (see pp14–15). Cross the heart-stopping bridge to Treetops Adventure for an eagle's-eye view of the rainforest.

Return to Marine Dr via Capilano Rd, driving west about 15 minutes to 25th St in West Vancouver, then turn left toward Dundarave Park. The scenic pier and park at the water's edge marks one end of the Centennial Seawalk.

🛍️ After a breath of fresh sea air, walk up to Marine Drive and boutique shopping in Dundarave village.

🍽️ End the day at one of The Beach House's patio tables (see p90), watching the sun set over Dundarave Beach as you dine.

Victoria

PICTURESQUE, PEACEFUL VICTORIA is the perfect getaway from bustling Vancouver. Known as the City of Flowers, it boasts more than 3,000 hanging baskets along its pretty streets. Established as a fort in 1843 by the Hudson's Bay trading company, Victoria soon became a city of prestige and influence. It grew up around Beacon Hill Park, created in 1858 by Governor James Douglas. When Victoria became BC's capital in 1868, the growing city attracted excellent architects such as Francis Mawson Rattenbury. Today the city buzzes around the Inner Harbour. Nearby is the oldest Chinatown in Western Canada, the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, and the home of Victoria's most famous artist, Emily Carr.

1 British Columbia Parliament Buildings

Impressive, gray granite buildings house the provincial legislature. Overlooking the Inner Harbour, they were completed in 1898 by a newcomer, 25-year-old Francis Mawson Rattenbury from Leeds, England. At night, the Neo-Classical structure is a wonderful sight, lit by 3,300 sparkling light bulbs.

2 Fairmont Empress Hotel

The luxury château-style landmark hotel (see p116) overlooking the Inner Harbour was designed by Rattenbury and built by the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1908. It is done up in grand style, with towering brick walls partially covered in ivy. The Crystal Ballroom shows off 18 crystal chandeliers and a mirrored ceiling. 📍 721 Government St • Map P4 • 250 384 8111

3 Emily Carr House

Built in 1864, the Carr family home typifies the sensibilities of the Victorian era. The architecture has been described as both English Gingerbread and San Francisco Victorian, inspiring the restoration of many of the area's old houses. Emily Carr, one of Canada's best-known artists and writers (see p19), was born here in 1871. Step into the formal dining room to see the Carrs' public face, then visit the crowded upstairs bedrooms, reflecting everyday life. 📍 207 Government St • Map P6 • 250 383 5843 • Open May & Sep: 11am-4pm Tue-Sat; Jun-Aug: 11am-4pm daily • Adm • www.emilycarr.com

Emily Carr House

4 Inner Harbour

The Inner Harbour is the historic center of Victoria. A mix of yachts, fishing boats, ferries, and float planes dock here, while pedestrians happily stroll along a wide, curved walkway. The harbor provides excellent views of the historic parliament buildings and the imposing Fairmont Empress Hotel. 📍 Map N3

Governor James Douglas

James Douglas, known as the father of British Columbia, was born in Demerara, British Guiana (now Guyana), in 1803. His father was a Scottish merchant, his mother a free mulatto. Douglas married Amelia Connolly, the half-Native daughter of a fur trader. Working for the Hudson's Bay Company, Douglas established Fort Victoria in 1843. Over the next 20 years, Governor Douglas transformed Victoria into a center of political power, but he is best remembered as having established Beacon Hill Park, in 1858. Douglas retired in 1863. A knighthood followed. Sir James Douglas died in Victoria in 1877, at the age of 74.

5 Chinatown

Victoria's Chinatown once rivaled San Francisco's for size. Today it's an eclectic two-block area, signaled by the ornate Gate of Harmonious Interest. Chinatown was known as the Forbidden City by the European populace of the day. Once notorious Fan Tan Alley, said to be the narrowest street in Canada, hid gambling dens and a thriving opium industry. Today, restaurants, groceries, artists' studios, and souvenir shops fill the bustling streets of this designated heritage area. ☎ Fisgard & Herald sts at Government St • Map P1

Known for its Native artifacts and art, and displays highlighting BC's history and natural wonders, the museum has excellent exhibits ranging from prehistory to the First Peoples Gallery. A National Geographic IMAX theater, Thunderbird Park, and Helmcken House are on the site (see pp24-5).

7 Art Gallery of Greater Victoria

Housed in an 1889 mansion, this gallery is known for its Asian collection, including a Shinto shrine in the Asian garden. Paintings and literary work by local artist Emily Carr (see p19) are another highlight. ☎ 1040 Moss St • 250 384 4101 • Open 10am-5pm daily (to 9pm Thu) • Adm

8 Beacon Hill Park

Noted for its gnarled Garry oak trees and 350-year-old Chinese bell, the park, dating from the mid-1800s, is a lovely place to stroll and picnic. Over 2,000 varieties of plants and trees, a rose garden, wooden bridges, and stream. ☎ Map Q6 • 250 361 0600

French Gothic tower, Craigdarroch Castle

9 Craigdarroch Castle
This four-story stone mansion was built in the late 1880s for coal baron Robert Dunsmuir, who died soon after it was completed, leaving wife Joan and 11 children to squabble over the estate. Its 39 rooms each exude turn-of-the-19th-century elegance. Highlights include period furnishings, stained glass windows, a sandstone fireplace, and a grand white oak staircase. The views of the ocean and mountains from the tower are magnificent.

Walking tour of Victoria

Morning

📍 Starting at the corner of Wharf and Government, stroll 10 minutes north on Government Street. Shops along the way include some suitably British purveyors.

At Fisgard St, the colorful Gate of Harmonious Interest welcomes you to Chinatown. Explore the area for an hour, dipping into tiny Fan Tan Alley, off Fisgard St. Continue west to Wharf St, then on to Bastion Square, the heart of Old Town, where fur traders boozed and brawled in the days of Fort Victoria.

The Maritime Museum of British Columbia is in a dignified former courthouse on the square. Devote an hour to its displays before heading to Irish Times Pub, 1200 Government St, for tasty fish and chips.

Afternoon

Admire the marine traffic from the Inner Harbour promenade. At the far end of the harbor, cross Belleville Street to the statue of a youthful Queen Victoria on the grounds of the BC Parliament Buildings. The fascinating Royal British Columbia Museum next door will take at least two hours to peruse.

Exit the museum on the east side to admire the totems in Thunderbird Park before checking out nearby historic Helmcken House. Cross Belleville St to the Fairmont Empress Hotel for a glimpse of the grandiose lobby.

📍 Replenish with dinner or a drink on the deck of Milestone's, 812 Wharf St.

Left Winter skiing, Whistler Mountain Right Blooms of spring, Queen Elizabeth Park

TOP 10 Planning Your Trip

1 When to Go

Vancouver and Victoria's temperate coastal climate is best from April to November. Rain falls intermittently from November to March. In the city and along the coast, winter temperatures rarely drop below freezing. Temperatures are lower in the mountains and, to the delight of skiers at resorts such as Whistler, there is snow. Summer can be hot but the nights are cooler.

2 What to Pack

Pack a warm sweater and a light jacket in late spring and early fall. In late fall and early spring, pack a heavier jacket or coat, and two warm sweaters. In winter, pack a hat, scarf, gloves, warm coat, and waterproof boots. A light sweater or blazer, cotton or linen dresses, slacks, shorts and T-shirts are ideal for summer; sunglasses, sunscreen, and an umbrella are a must.

3 Health Insurance

Unless your health insurance covers medical costs while traveling, buying comprehensive health and dental insurance is strongly recommended: Canada does not provide free medical services to visitors. Many credit card companies provide some degree of insurance; it is worthwhile to check this out before your trip.

4 Passports & Visas

A valid travel document, usually a passport, combined with a visa when needed, must be presented by visitors upon entry to Canada. Residents of many countries, such as the US, Australia, Ireland, New Zealand, and the majority of European countries, including Britain, do not need a visa. Visitors may remain in Canada for up to six months.

5 Customs

Canada's rules governing what can be brought into the country are complex. In general, do not bring live animals, fresh fruit, vegetables, meat, dairy products, plants, or firearms into Canada without first obtaining authorization. Limited amounts of alcohol and tobacco may be imported duty-free by visitors who are of age (19 and 18 years old, respectively). Upon entry into Canada, you must declare any cash amount equal to or more than Can$10,000.

6 Driver's License

Driver's licenses from the US and from other countries are valid in BC for up to six months. If you plan on staying longer, an International Driving Permit (obtained in your home country), combined with your license, will allow you to drive in the province for up to a year.

7 Car Insurance

Insurance coverage for drivers is mandatory in BC. If you are renting a car, check your policy before leaving home to see if it covers a rental car. Most rental agencies offer damage and liability insurance; it is a good idea to have both. Some credit cards include car insurance coverage.

8 Electricity

Canada uses a 110-volt, 60-cycle electrical system. Electrical sockets accept two- or three-pronged plugs. Bring a plug adapter and a voltage transformer to run appliances and cell-phone chargers that are not manufactured in North America or that don't have an optional voltage switch.

9 Time Zone

Vancouver is in the Pacific Time zone (eight hours behind Greenwich Mean Time). Daylight Savings Time begins the first Sunday in April when clocks are turned forward one hour, and ends in late October when clocks are turned back one hour.

10 Discounts

Most movie theaters, major attractions, and public transit systems offer reduced rates for people over age 65. Students are eligible for many discounts with ID. Hotels also often offer discounts, but only if you ask for them.

Left Downtown crowds Right Pre-paid parking area

TOP 10 Things to Avoid

1 Leaving Valuables in Cars

Vancouver is notorious for thefts from cars. Leave nothing visible in your vehicle and take all valuables with you, including documents. If you shop, don't assume putting purchases in your car's trunk will keep them safe: thieves may spot you storing bags in the trunk and steal them when you continue shopping.

2 Hotel Telephone Calls

Avoid making long-distance calls from your hotel room that are charged directly to hotel bills – they are at least three times more expensive than using a phone card. You can buy a pre-paid phone card at convenience stores and newsstands. Local calls may be free from your room, or there may be a charge. Ask before you call out as this can add up.

3 Rush Hour

The best way to deal with rush hour traffic in Vancouver is to avoid it entirely. From 3:30pm to 6:00pm traffic slows or even comes to a complete halt. In the morning, wait until 9:30am before driving. Don't underestimate your driving time. Rush hour in Victoria is lighter.

4 Driving in Cities

Since many attractions in Vancouver and Victoria are within walking distance, or are an easy bus ride away, it makes sense to leave your car at the hotel. If you are thinking of renting a vehicle to travel further afield, check the alternatives first, such as public transit, which even offers shuttle buses to Whistler in ski season (see p107).

5 Tickets

Obey the speed limits posted on city streets. Speeding tickets are costly in BC. In pre-paid parking areas, make sure to buy ample time. Parking tickets come swiftly and are an unwelcome drain on your budget.

6 Pickpockets

A pickpocket looks just like any other person, so be watchful of people bumping into you – it could be a thief at work. A favorite trick of pickpockets is to work the crowds during the area's many festivals so be particularly careful at these events. Bus stops are notorious. Keep your valuables close to your body under your outer garments (see p111).

7 Dangerous Areas

Vancouver is generally a safe city but as with any big city, caution is advised. The Theatre District downtown can be the scene of rowdy behavior. The downtown eastside around Hastings and Main streets, and west on Hastings from Main to Cambie, is known for drug dealers. Take a bus or taxi to and from Chinatown along Pender Street to avoid this section. Finally, avoid all parks after dark. Crime rates in Victoria are low, though panhandlers may prove a nuisance.

8 Airport Con Artists

Disoriented travelers are easy targets for con artists and thieves. Never travel with large amounts of money or precious jewelry. Avoid taxi drivers who walk up to you offering a ride; take a licensed cab at the taxi stand or a limousine with set rates.

9 Panhandlers

Panhandlers face legal restrictions in BC, but many still appear in various locales. At stoplights, some offer to wash windshields for money. The cities of Vancouver and Victoria discourage giving money to panhandlers.

10 Prostitutes

Prostitutes of both sexes ply their trade in Vancouver, especially in the downtown eastside. Often they are working to support a drug habit and are at a higher risk of being infected with HIV/AIDS than is the general population. The city is trying to improve the lives of prostitutes, and to better control prostitution, but their number remains high.

TOP 10 Getting Around Vancouver & Victoria

1 Buses & SeaBus

Public transit (Translink) bus routes extend across Greater Vancouver. Ask the driver for a transfer so you can switch to the SkyTrain or SeaBus – catamarans that cross the harbor in a short 12 minutes. The Victoria Regional Transit System operates a large network of buses across Victoria. ☎ Vancouver route info: 604 953 3333

2 SkyTrain

Vancouver's SkyTrain is an above-ground light rapid transit system. Tickets are also transfers. They are good for 90 minutes, and valid for round trips and connections to buses and the SeaBus.

3 Transit Fares

Vancouver's TransLink system has three fare zones, but on weekdays after 6:30pm and weekends, the system reverts to one zone. Victoria's transit system has two fare zones. In both cities, bus drivers do not sell tickets or provide change. If you don't have a ticket, pay the exact cash fare when boarding. Sheets or books of 10 tickets and day passes are money-savers. These are sold at SkyTrain stations (Vancouver) and at many convenience stores and supermarkets. People with disabilities, children

5 to 13 years, seniors and students with proper ID are eligible for concession fares. Children under 4 years ride free in Vancouver, under 6 in Victoria, where family savings are also available using daypasses.

4 Taxis

Flagging a taxi on Vancouver city streets is easy – cabs are plentiful. In Victoria, fewer taxis cruise the streets, so it is best to order a cab by phone.

5 Ferries

Ferries to Victoria and the Gulf Islands depart from Tsawwassen; those to Nanaimo, the Sunshine Coast, and Bowen Island leave from Horseshoe Bay. All ferries carry bicycles for a fee. Car reservations, also for a fee, are advised for peak periods. ☎ Ferry info: 1 888 223 3779 in BC; 250 386 3431 outside BC

6 Walking

Walking is the best way to explore downtown Vancouver and Victoria. Streets are fairly safe (see p105). The south arm of the False Creek seawalk (see p71) leads from Vanier Park (see p78) past several beaches to Spanish Banks, UBC (see p85), and beyond. In Victoria, a walk on the promenade along the Inner Harbour offers excellent views of historic buildings and the harbor (see p95).

7 HandyDART

Both Victoria and Vancouver operate a shared-ride service for people unable to use public transit. Pre-register at least 10 days ahead of your trip. ☎ HandyDART: Vancouver, 604 430 2692, Victoria: 250 727 9607

8 Cycling

Cyclists must follow the same rules of the road as drivers. Bikes may not be ridden on sidewalks, and wearing a helmet is mandatory. Bikes are allowed on Vancouver's SkyTrain and SeaBus in non-peak hours. Buses in both cities offer bike racks on many routes.

9 Driving

A good map is essential, especially in Vancouver. Hwys 1 and 99 can be very busy during rush hour (see p105). There are no freeways by-passing the city core. Speed limits are posted. Right-hand turns on red lights are legal throughout BC unless otherwise posted.

10 Boat Tours

TOP 10 Budget Tips

1 Attractions Discounts

Save up to 40 percent on tickets to popular Vancouver attractions by buying tickets in advance from the Vancouver Touristinfo Centre. In Victoria, discount coupon books are available at Tourism Victoria. ☎ Vancouver: 200 Burrard St, 604 683 2000 • Victoria: 31 Bastion Sq, 250 414 6999

2 Budget Shopping

Look for inexpensive, unusual souvenirs in Chinatown and in the shops along Commercial Drive (see p55), brimming with ethnic goods. Visit Main Street for second-hand bargains and one-of-a-kind designer wear on a budget. In Victoria, you can spend hours browsing through the collectibles at the Capital Iron (1900 Store St), then stop next door at Value Village (1810 Store St) for rock-bottom prices on used clothing and housewares.

3 Savings on the Go

Save on public transit costs in Vancouver and Victoria by buying all-zone day passes, or books of ten tickets for the price of eight (see p107).

4 Outdoor Activities

Vancouver and Victoria's year-round mild weather makes outdoor activities especially appealing. From a stroll along Stanley Park's paths (see pp8-9) to the tough

Grouse Grind climb (see p88), Vancouver has hiking trails for all fitness levels. Or rent a bike, buy a kite, or grab your binoculars and birder's guide and head to the beach. In Victoria, the Inner Harbour walkway (see p95) provides free entertainment and exercise.

5 Low-Cost Literary

There are plenty of affordable literary events in Vancouver and Victoria. Check the listings in the Vancouver Sun's Queue section, the free Georgia Straight weekly, and the free Monday Magazine in Victoria. Libraries, bookshops, and cafés often host readings and poetry slams. For book bargains, visit Book Warehouse in Vancouver and Munro's in Victoria (see p112).

6 Free or Reduced Admission Days

Admission to the Vancouver Art Gallery (see pp18-19) is by donation on Thursdays, from 5 to 9pm. UBC Museum of Anthropology (see p34) is free Tuesdays after 5pm. The BC Parliament Buildings in Victoria (see p95) offer free guided tours from late May to September.

7 Show Discounts

Tickets Tonight sells half-price tickets at the Touristinfo Centre for Vancouver shows the day of the performance. Some theaters offer two-for-one tickets to matinees and previews; be sure to ask. Vancouver Playhouse (see p42) sells discount tickets one hour before show time. The Victoria Symphony offers ticket discounts with a receipt from certain restaurants. ☎ Vancouver Touristinfo Centre: 200 Burrard St, 604 683 2000 • Victoria Symphony, 250 385 6515

8 Cut-Rate Cruises

Rides on BC Ferries are inexpensive mini-cruises. Particularly lovely is the route to the southern Gulf Islands. In Vancouver, if you have only an hour to spare, hop on the SeaBus or any False Creek ferry (see p107). ☎ BC Ferries: 1 888 223 3779 • www.bcferries.bc.ca

9 Cheap Eats

It's easy to find good-quality but bargain Asian food in Vancouver. In Victoria, head to Chinatown for deals. Or buy a hot dog and pretzel from a street-vendor. You can also save by opting for a picnic lunch in a park.

10 Campus Deals

Both Simon Fraser University and the University of British Columbia (see p85) put on free or inexpensive concerts, lectures, and other events. Admission is cheap to Cinecenta's second-run movies, at the University of Victoria. Visit the websites for listings. ☎ www.sfu.ca • www.ubc.ca • www.cinecenta.com

TOP 10 Useful Information

1 Media

The two largest newspapers in BC are produced in Vancouver, the Vancouver Sun and the Vancouver Province. The two national newspapers, the Globe and Mail and the National Post, are also available. Popular radio stations include CBC Radio Two (FM 105.7) for classical music, NEWS 1130 (AM 1130) for news, The FOX (FM 99.3) for rock music, and QMFM (FM103.5) for easy-listening music. The most popular Canadian TV stations are CBC, CTV, Global, Bravo, CityTV, and, in BC, the Knowledge Network.

2 Entertainment Listings

Georgia Straight, a weekly Vancouver tabloid, is available free at cafés, bars, bookshops, libraries, and street boxes. It is the best source to check the local music and art scene. For same-day savings on tickets to many events and performances, try Tickets Tonight at the Burrard St Tourist Infocentre (see p108). www.straight.com

3 Currency

The Canadian unit of currency is the dollar, which is divided into 100 cents. Coins come in denominations of 1, 5, 10, and 25 cents, and 1 and 2 dollars. Bank notes (bills) come in denominations of $5, $10, $20, $50, $100, and $500. Plan to arrive with at least $100 in local currency and get change on arrival for tipping and transit.

4 Taxes

In Canada, taxes are not included in the listed price unless specified, so when making a purchase add a further 7 percent for PST (provincial sales tax) and 7 percent for GST (goods and services tax), except on alcohol, spirits and wines, which are taxed at 10 percent GST. An additional hotel room tax of between 8 and 10 percent is charged in BC. Some taxes are refundable when you leave Canada (see p112).

5 Websites

Helpful information for planning your trip to Vancouver, Victoria, and Whistler is available online. www.city.vancouver.bc.ca • www.tourismvancouver.bc.com • www.tourismvictoria.com • www.tourismwhistler.com

6 Telephones

Public telephones are often both coin- and card-operated. Local calls cost $0.25; directory assistance (411) is free. Most convenience stores sell phone cards. Within Greater Vancouver, you must prefix the local telephone number with area code 604. Long-distance calls in BC require either a 604 or 250 prefix. For a long-distance number in North America, dial the prefix 1 and then the area code. To dial abroad, dial 011 + country code + city code (dropping the first 0).

7 Public Holidays

New Year's Day (Jan 1), Good Friday and Easter Monday (Mar or Apr), Victoria Day (usually 3rd Mon in May), Canada Day (Jul 1), BC Day (1st Mon in Aug), Labour Day (1st Mon in Sep), Thanksgiving (2nd Mon in Oct), Christmas Day (Dec 25), Boxing Day (Dec 26). Remembrance Day (Nov 11) is a holiday for banks and government offices.

8 Accessibility

Vancouver and Victoria work hard to make their attractions and services accessible but it is best to check ahead. In Vancouver, SeaBus and SkyTrain are accessible, and all SkyTrain stations have elevators. Lift and "kneeling" public transit buses for people with mobility aids operate on many routes in both cities (see p107).

9 Consulates

In emergencies, your consulate may be of assistance. UK: 800-1111 Melville St, 604 683 4421 • USA: 1095 W Pender St, 604 685 4311

TOP 10 Security & Health

1 Hotel Room Safety

When you've checked into your room, look on the back of the entrance door for a map showing the escape route to take in case of fire. Always leave the security latch in place when in your room and don't admit strangers. Some hotels have floors just for women – ask when booking, if you are a woman traveling alone.

2 Food Safety

City health officials inspect most Vancouver and Victoria food establishments, including pubs and delicatessens, regularly. Reports may be viewed online. ☎ www.foodinspectionweb.vcha.ca

3 Emergency Help

Various emergency and helplines are available to call in a crisis. ☎ Emergency and ambulance: 911 • Vancouver Police Department: 604 717 3321 • Victoria Police Department: 250 995 7654 • BC Nurseline: 604 215 4700 • VictimLINK: 1 800 563 0808

4 Public Transit

Skytrain platforms provide designated waiting areas in Vancouver; these are recommended at night. Available on most Victoria and Vancouver buses and some regional buses in BC, Request Stop allows a woman to get off a bus at locations between regular stops. Tell the driver at least one stop ahead of where you want to get off, and leave the bus by the front doors. The rear doors will remain closed so that no one can follow you off.

5 Know Your Surroundings

Carry a good map with you and check out the route to and from your destination before starting out. If you plan on returning late, make sure you have enough change and cash to call for and pay for a taxi. Avoid dark places such as parks and alleyways at night, especially if you are on your own, and avoid known danger spots (see p105).

6 Hospital Emergency Rooms

Emergency treatment is available 24 hours a day. ☎ Vancouver: Children's Hospital, 4500 Oak St, 604 875 2000; Lion's Gate Hospital, 231 E 15th St, 604 988 3131; St Paul's Hospital, 1081 Burrard St, 604 682 2344; Vancouver General, 899 West 12th Ave, 604 875 4111 • Victoria: Royal Jubilee Hospital, 1900 Fort St, 250 370 8000; Victoria General Hospital, 1 Hospital Way, 250 727 4212

7 Dental Emergencies

The BC Dental Association can link you with a nearby dentist during regular office hours.

After office hours, go to a hospital emergency room. ☎ British Columbia Dental Association • 604 736 7202

8 Smoking

Vancouver is a smoke-free city and smoking is not allowed in public spaces or workplaces. However, smoking is allowed on outdoor restaurant and bar patios.

9 Pharmacies

The majority of pharmacies in Vancouver and Victoria are open from 9am to 9 or 10pm. Some are open later. There are three 24-hour Shoppers Drug Mart pharmacies in Vancouver. The most central is on Davie Street. ☎ Vancouver: Shoppers Drug Mart, 1125 Davie St, 604 669 2424 • Victoria: London Drugs, 911 Yates St, 250 360 0880

10 Theft Prevention

To help prevent theft don't flash cash around. Your wallet or valuables should be stored close to your body, not in your backpack, back pocket, or belt-pack, where they can be easily pilfered. If you carry a purse, ensure it closes tightly. When leaving your hotel room – even just for a short time – first lock up valuables and important documents in your room's safe, if it has one. If it doesn't, have them put in the hotel's safe.

TOP 10 Shopping Tips

1 Store Hours

Most shops are open 10am to 6pm, Monday to Saturday (often later on Thursday). Department stores and shops in malls and retail districts may stay open to 9pm, Monday to Saturday, and open Sunday from 11am or noon to 5pm. Many shops close January 1, July 1, Labour Day, Thanksgiving and December 25.

2 Payment

MasterCard, American Express, and Visa credit cards are widely accepted, Diner's Club and Discover less so. Debit cards compatible with Plus, Interac, or Cirrus systems are also widely accepted. You will need your PIN.

3 Sales & Returns

Excellent savings are to be had on Boxing Day (December 26). Sale items and sometimes those at full price may not be refundable, or exchangeable only. Be sure to ask about the return policy.

4 Department Stores

Vancouver's two department store chains, Sears and The Bay, carry practically everything. Holt Renfrew sells high-end clothing and accessories. The Bay also anchors Victoria's Bay Centre. ☎ Holt Renfrew: Pacific Centre, 633 Granville St • Map K3

9 Convenience Stores

Small shops selling cigarettes, toiletries, cold drinks, snacks, and lottery tickets are ubiquitous in Vancouver and Victoria. Some also sell public transit tickets.

10 Tax Refunds

Books and groceries are exempt from the 7 percent provincial sales tax; most other items are subject to up to 14 percent sales tax (see p110). International visitors who spent over $200 may be entitled to a refund of the 7 percent GST (goods and services tax), excluding GST on restaurant meals, drinks, tobacco, and transport. Save the receipts. ☎ Visitor Rebate Program: 1 800 668 4748

TOP 10 Accommodation & Dining Tips

1 Hotel Taxes

In BC, accommodation is taxed with an 8 percent accommodation tax and a 7 percent GST (goods and services tax). An additional 2 percent tourism tax is levied on hotel rooms in Vancouver, Victoria, and Whistler. You may be entitled to a GST refund for short hotel stays.

2 Rooms

Most hotel rooms are well furnished and of a good size. Most have two double beds or one queen- or king-sized bed; twin-bedded rooms may also be available. If you are sensitive to noise, ask for a room away from the elevator and the ice and dispensing machines. About 85 percent of rooms in Vancouver, Victoria, and Whistler are smoke-free.

3 Rack Rates

Hotel rates vary according to the hotel category, the day of week, and season. Peak rates are weekdays and from April to December. Rack rates, the basic room rates, are the ones used in this book to provide a guide price. It is usually possible to get a better deal, especially if booking online. Discounts are often available to seniors, members of clubs such as auto associations, or the Elderhostel. When booking, ask what special rates apply and bring proof of membership with you.

4 Concierges

Mid- and large-size hotels have concierges on staff whose job it is to cater to the needs and whims of the guests. They will procure tickets to shows and sports games, make restaurant reservations, arrange transportation, and offer helpful tips.

5 Extra Costs

Parking at downtown hotels can be costly, so inquire about rates (taxes also apply). Some hotels do offer free parking. Telephone calls made from your room phone can be pricey, as are drinks and snacks consumed from the room's minibar. These costs can add up quickly, and will appear on your final room bill.

6 Restaurant Reservations

Most restaurants take reservations. It's a good idea to book a table at a popular dining spot on arriving or even in advance of your trip. Mention if you have special needs or dietary requirements. It is considered good form to cancel your reservation if your plans change.

7 Tipping

Tips and service charges are not usually added to dining bills, though they may be if your party consists of six people or more. For service at restaurants, cafés, and clubs, plan on tipping about 15 percent of the pre-tax amount. An easy way of estimating the tip is to add up the taxes on the bill. At bars, leave a dollar or two for the bartender. Tip porters and bellhops at least $1 per bag or suitcase; cloakroom attendants $1 per garment and chambermaids, a minimum of $1 to $2 per day. A hotel doorman will also appreciate a dollar or two for his services.

8 Dress Codes

Jacket and tie are almost never required in restaurants, though many diners opt to wear them on a special evening out, especially to an upscale place. Some clubs, however, may not allow you in if you are wearing sneakers or jeans.

9 Cell Phones

At most restaurants, it is considered discourteous to leave your cell phone turned on or to carry on cell phone conversations.

10 Meal Times

Breakfast is usually served in diners and coffee shops from about 6am to 10am. Lunch is available from about 11:30am to 2pm, dinner from about 5pm to 10pm. Many pubs and restaurants offer a late-night menu. Brunches are often served on weekends only – and at some spots, on Sundays only – usually from 11am to 2pm or later.

Accommodation rates are often lower in winter months, except for the weeks around Christmas and New Year's
