

EYEWITNESS TRAVEL

COSTA RICA

RAINFOREST • FIESTAS

WILDLIFE • CRAFTS

EXOTIC FLORA • BIRDS

BEACHES • NATIONAL PARKS

SPORTS • VOLCANOES • MAPS

THE GUIDES THAT SHOW YOU WHAT OTHERS ONLY TELL YOU

EYEWITNESS TRAVEL

COSTA RICA

EYEWITNESS TRAVEL

COSTA RICA

MAIN CONTRIBUTOR: CHRISTOPHER P. BAKER

LONDON, NEW YORK,
MELBOURNE, MUNICH AND DELHI
www.dk.com

MANAGING EDITOR Aruna Ghose
ART EDITOR Benu Joshi
SENIOR EDITOR Rimli Borooah
SENIOR DESIGNER Priyanka Thakur
EDITOR Ankita Awasthi
DESIGNER Shruti Singhi
SENIOR CARTOGRAPHER Uma Bhattacharya
CARTOGRAPHER Kunal Kumar Singh
PICTURE RESEARCHER Taiyaba Khatoon
DTP COORDINATOR Shailesh Sharma
DTP DESIGNER Vinod Harish

MAIN CONTRIBUTOR
Christopher P. Baker

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Jon Spaul, Linda Whitwam

ILLUSTRATORS

P. Arun, Ashok Sukumaran, T. Gautam Trivedi, Mark Warner

Reproduced by Colourscan (Singapore)
Printed and bound in China by L. Rex Printing Co. Ltd

First American Edition 2005
10 11 12 13 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Published in the United States by DK Publishing, 375 Hudson Street,
New York, New York 10014

Reprinted with revisions 2008, 2010

Copyright © 2005, 2010 Dorling Kindersley Limited, London
A Penguin Company

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. WITHOUT LIMITING THE RIGHTS UNDER COPYRIGHT
RESERVED ABOVE, NO PART OF THIS PUBLICATION MAY BE REPRODUCED, STORED IN OR INTRODUCED INTO A RETRIEVAL SYSTEM, OR TRANSMITTED, IN ANY FORM, OR BY ANY MEANS (ELECTRONIC, MECHANICAL, PHOTOCOPYING, RECORDING, OR OTHERWISE) WITHOUT THE PRIOR WRITTEN PERMISSION OF BOTH THE COPYRIGHT
OWNER AND THE ABOVE PUBLISHER OF THIS BOOK

PUBLISHED IN GREAT BRITAIN BY DORLING KINDERSLEY LIMITED.

A CATALOG RECORD FOR THIS BOOK IS AVAILABLE FROM THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

ISSN 1542 1554
ISBN 978-0-75666-201-1

Front cover main image: Nicoya Peninsula, Tortuga Island, Costa Rica

The information in this DK Eyewitness Travel Guide is checked regularly.

Every effort has been made to ensure that this book is as up-to-date as possible at the time of going to press. Some details, however, such as telephone numbers, opening hours, prices, gallery hanging arrangements and travel information are liable to change. The publishers cannot accept responsibility for any consequences arising from the use of this book, nor for any material on third party websites, and cannot guarantee that any website address in this book will be a suitable source of travel information. We value the views and suggestions of our readers very highly. Please write to:
Publisher, DK Eyewitness Travel Guides,
Dorling Kindersley, 80 Strand, London WC2R 0RL, Great Britain.

Playa Chiquita, the Caribbean

CONTENTS

INTRODUCING
COSTA RICA

DISCOVERING COSTA
RICA 8

PUTTING COSTA RICA
ON THE MAP 12

A PORTRAIT OF
COSTA RICA 14

COSTA RICA THROUGH
THE YEAR 34

THE HISTORY OF
COSTA RICA 40

A performance of traditional dance near Cartago

COSTA RICA AREA BY AREA

COSTA RICA AT A GLANCE 50

SAN JOSÉ 52

THE CENTRAL
HIGHLANDS 80

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN NICOYA 106

GUANACASTE AND NORTHERN NICOYA 120

Exquisite orchid

THE NORTHERN ZONE
144

THE CARIBBEAN 160

THE SOUTHERN ZONE
174

TRAVELERS' NEEDS

WHERE TO STAY 196

WHERE TO EAT 220

SHOPPING IN COSTA
RICA 238

Traditional carved and painted Bribri gourd

ENTERTAINMENT IN
COSTA RICA 244

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES
AND SPECIALTY
VACATIONS 248

SURVIVAL GUIDE

PRACTICAL
INFORMATION 256

TRAVEL INFORMATION
264

GENERAL INDEX
272

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS
284

PHRASE BOOK 286

Fresh produce at the Santa Cruz market, Guanacaste

Teatro Nacional
(see pp60-61)

INTRODUCING COSTA RICA

- DISCOVERING COSTA RICA 8-11
- PUTTING COSTA RICA ON THE MAP 12-13
- A PORTRAIT OF COSTA RICA 14-33
- COSTA RICA THROUGH THE YEAR 34-39
- THE HISTORY OF COSTA RICA 40-47

DISCOVERING COSTA RICA

Costa Rica can be divided into seven regions, corresponding to well-defined geographic criteria. The capital, San José, occupies a broad valley enfolded by the mountains of the Central Highlands. The Central Pacific and Southern Nicoya region is a transition zone between a dry ecosystem and a humid one. To the northwest, the dry plains of Guanacaste and Northern

Macaw made of wood

Nicoya are framed by volcanoes and, to the west, by gorgeous beaches. Northward, the land slopes down to the sprawling lowlands of the Northern Zone. The Caribbean's coastal plains are unique for their African culture and endless beaches, while the rugged Southern Zone is covered in dense rainforest. Below is an overview of the distinctive highlights of each region.

Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura, San José

SAN JOSÉ

- Fascinating museums
- Teatro Nacional
- Top-notch dining
- Splendid shopping

A large, bustling conurbation with few historical buildings, San José does not have many sights of interests: two days are sufficient for exploring the city. Most attractions are concentrated downtown within walking distance of one another in the compact city core. With fine hotels for every budget, the city center is easily accessed on foot, while the taxi system proves efficient. Some localities can be dangerous (see p270), but police patrol the tourist areas.

One day should be spent concentrating on San José's Museo del Oro Precolombino (see pp62-3) and Museo de Jade (see p67), as well as the Teatro Nacional (see pp60-61), Costa Rica's Neoclassical architectural gem. The Mercado Central and Edificio de Correos (see pp58-9) are close at hand. The small squares that anchor the city core can also be taken in.

Day two should be given to the Museo Nacional and Parque Nacional (see p70), and to exploring Barrio Amón (see p67) and the Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura (see pp72-3). If time remains, check out the artwork at the Museo de Arte Costarricense (see p74) and shop for quality arts and crafts – the Centro Comercial El Pueblo (see p241) is recommended.

San José has many gourmet dining options. Take your pick from fine restaurants that span the globe. La Cocina de Leña (see p224) offers great traditional Costa Rican cuisine, with an ambience to match.

THE CENTRAL HIGHLANDS

- Scenic journeys
- Drive-up volcanoes
- Exhilarating whitewater rafting
- Charming country inns

With its fabulous scenery, charming towns, and colonial churches, the Central Highlands region is tailor-made for scenic drives. It offers delightful touring through coffee fincas (farms) and lush valleys, culminating atop towering volcanoes. Two active volcanoes are accessed by paved roads that lead through lush cloud forest to the crater rims. Encompassed within Poás and Irazú National Parks (see p90 and p103), these volcanoes offer superb opportunities for hiking and birding, as do relatively hard-to-access Turrialba National Park (see p103) and the rugged trails of Braulio Carrillo and Tapantí-Macizo National Parks (see p91 and p101).

Rafting down one of the rivers in the Central Highlands

Wildlife is also displayed at several sights near Alajuela (see p84). Particularly recommended are the Butterfly Farm, Zoo Ave (see p84), INBioparque (see p92) and the World of Snakes (see p86).

Heredia (see p92) makes a good base for exploring the coffee country, including a visit to the Doka Estate and Café Britt (see p90 and p92) to see how Costa Rica's splendid coffees are produced. Sarchi (see p86) – a must-visit center of crafts – lies along an exquisite drive taking in Grecia (see p86) and Zarcero (see p87), known for their metal church and topiary respectively. Some of the best scenery lies along the Route of the Saints (see p97), while east from San José, a separate drive leads through the Orosi Valley (see p98), revealing some fine colonial churches. Nearby, Turrialba (see p101) is a gateway to Monumento Nacional Guayabo (see pp104–105), the nation's foremost pre-Columbian site, and also a base for exciting rafting on the Reventazón and Pacuare Rivers (see p102).

Picturesque terraced farmland in the Central Highlands

The blue expanse of the Gulf of Nicoya

Four days should prove sufficient, although a week would be required to explore in-depth. Convoluted roads and lack of road signs can make for frustrating touring. However, a large choice of appealing boutique hotels, some set amid coffee estates, makes up for this.

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN NICOYA

- Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio
- Incredible surfing
- Relaxing Isla Tortuga
- Thrilling crocodile safaris

With two of the nation's most popular and easily accessed national parks, and a fistful of other coastal wildlife reserves, this region appeals most strongly to wildlife lovers. Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Curú (see p110) and Reserva Natural Absoluta Cabo Blanco (see p112), both compact reserves along the shores of Southern Nicoya, offer diverse habitats and a plethora of wildlife. Isla Tortuga (see pp110–11), offshore from Curú, is an idyllic escape that plays host to boat excursions departing the port town Puntarenas. Youthful travelers are drawn to the tiny community of Montezuma and the surfers' haven of Malpaís (see p112), which enjoy spectacular settings along rugged shorelines.

Popular with surfers, the beach resort town of Jacó (see p114) boasts casinos, nightclubs, and a range of hotels. Immediately north, Parque Nacional Carara (see p114) extends inland from the coastal highway. Excursions, including crocodile safaris on Río Tárcoles (see p115), are offered from Jacó. Explore the forests of the rugged coastal mountains at the Rainmaker Conservation Project (see p115).

Most travelers in this region head for the Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio (see pp118–19), accessed via the sportfishing town of Quepos (see p116). This lovely park combines superb beaches with a coral reef, fabulous wildlife viewing along easily accessed trails, and some of the finest hotels in the country.

Tropical dry forest in Guanacaste's Parque Nacional Palo Verde, which boasts diverse habitats

GUANACASTE AND NORTHERN NICOYA

- Scintillating beaches
- Exciting horseback rides
- Mysterious cloud forests
- Rare dry forest reserves

The most diverse of Costa Rica's regions combines montane cloud forests and lowland dry forests – both full of wildlife – with lovely beaches. At least one week is needed to explore this region, with two weeks required for a full tour.

The key destinations are connected by regional air services. Exploring is easy overland, with main sights accessed by spur roads that branch off the Pan-American Highway. However, a 4WD is recommended, not least to reach Monteverde (see pp124–8), acclaimed for its cloud forest reserves. Farther north, Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja (see p132) offers spectacular hiking, as well as horseback riding and mountain biking at ranches that double as rustic hotels.

Situated on the slopes of Volcán Orosi, Parque Nacional Santa Rosa (see pp134–5) is a dry forest reserve where wildlife is easily seen. Although not as accessible as some other parks, Santa Rosa is well worth the effort. In contrast, Parque Nacional Palo Verde (see p130) has wetlands unrivaled for birding. Chorotega Indian traditions live on in the potters' hamlet of Guaitil (see p143). The Nicoya Peninsula is known for its profusion of beaches. Playas del Coco and Flamingo (see p136) have great scuba diving and sportfishing. Tamarindo (see p136) is the most developed resort, while nesting marine turtles can be spotted at Playa Grande (see p136) and Ostional (see p140).

THE NORTHERN ZONE

- Volcán Arenal
- Active adventures
- Fabulous bird-watching
- Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí

With Costa Rica's most active volcano, an A–Z of active adventures, and a choice of nature lodges and rewarding birding, the Northern Zone is a booming latecomer to the tourist scene. The attractions are concentrated in two distinct regions centered on the towns of La Fortuna and Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí.

Tabacón Hot Springs Resort and Spa, Northern Zone

Bustling La Fortuna (see p148) is the gateway to Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal (see p149), and offers several dozen lodges, most with vistas of the soaring volcano that erupts almost daily. Activities such as spelunking in the Cavernas de Venado and superb birding at Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro (see p154) lie close at hand. Soaking in the thermal waters at Tabacón (see p148) is a great experience, as is a ride on the Arenal Aerial Tram (see p149), which combines excitement with grand views of both the volcano and of Lake Arenal (see pp150–52), popular with windsurfers and anglers.

Farther east, Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí (see p156) is a departure point for nature excursions on the Sarapiquí and San Juan Rivers. A short distance away are eminent rainforest reserves such as Selva Verde (see p156), Rara Avis (see p159), and Tirimbina (see p155). Adjoining Tirimbina is an excellent educational facility, Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí (see p155), which is dedicated to a celebration of pre-Columbian and contemporary indigenous cultures.

Heavy rainfall is possible at any time of year. A 4WD is essential for successful touring. Local airlines fly to La Fortuna.

THE CARIBBEAN

- Wildlife-rich Parque Nacional Tortuguero
- Afro-Caribbean culture
- Close-up turtle-viewing
- World-class sportfishing

The Caribbean offers three of Costa Rica's premier rainforest reserves, plus splendid sportfishing and a uniquely laid-back ambience deriving from its Afro-Caribbean culture. The heritage is most colorfully alive in the village of Cahuita (see p170), where spicy Caribbean dishes are served at rough-hewn restaurants that reverberate to the sounds of Bob Marley. Steps away is Parque Nacional Cahuita (see p170), with trails that include a snorkeling trail. Farther south, Puerto Viejo (see p172) appeals to lovers of surf and an offbeat lifestyle. Its beaches unfurl southward, culminating in Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gandoca-Manzanillo (see p172), good for hikes, turtle-watching, and trips in search of dolphins and manatees. Excursions inland provide an opportunity to learn about the lifestyles of indigenous communities (see p173).

The highlight of any Caribbean itinerary is a visit to Parque Nacional Tortuguero (see p167), where exploring by boat unveils a rainforest menagerie unsurpassed in the nation. A minimum three-day stay is suggested – longer if you wish to combine Tortuguero with Cahuita and Puerto Viejo. Drawbacks to the area include the heavy year-round rainfall. Be aware that drugs are a problem in coastal communities, and you may find that locals exhibit, at times, a surliness not found elsewhere in Costa Rica.

Mangrove swamp at Puerto Jiménez, southern Costa Rica

THE SOUTHERN ZONE

- Parque Nacional Corcovado
- Intriguing indigenous reserves
- Challenging hiking
- Unsurpassed scuba diving

Encompassing Costa Rica's premier rainforests and most rugged mountains, this region, with its exceedingly diverse terrain, requires a 4WD for travelers exploring on their own. Come prepared for high humidity and heavy rain. Inland, the Talamancas offer a challenge to hikers. While well-developed trails lead to the summit of Cerro Chirripó (see p181) from San Gerardo de Rivas (see p178), access into the more remote portions of the mountains to the south is along seldom-trodden trails within Parque Internacional La Amistad (see p179).

Farther south is Las Cruces Biological Station (see p179), a superb destination for birders and individuals with a botanical interest. Nearby, a number of indigenous reserves are opening up to the tourist trade (see p184).

The rugged coast is known for high surf and some splendid diving. Dominical and Zancudo (see p182 and p192) are popular surfing beaches, while Parque Nacional Marino Ballena (see p182) has fine whale-watching possibilities. Whale- and dolphin-viewing boat excursions are popular from Bahía Drake (see p190), where many lodges specialize in scuba diving.

The big draw is Parque Nacional Corcovado (see p191), which offers hiking and superb wildlife-viewing. Linked by water-taxi to the sportfishing town of Golfito (see p192), Puerto Jiménez (see p190) is the gateway to Corcovado. To the southwest is the hard-to-reach UNESCO World Heritage Site Isla del Coco (see p193).

Beachgoers at Parque Nacional Cahuita in the Caribbean

Putting Costa Rica on the Map

Washed by the waters of the Caribbean Sea and Pacific Ocean, the republic of Costa Rica lies wholly within the tropics, between 8 and 11 degrees north of the Equator. Bordered by Nicaragua to the north and tapering gradually southward to Panama, it covers 19,650 sq miles (50,900 sq km). Much of this extremely mountainous country is uninhabited and overlaid with several types of tropical forest; almost one-third of the land area is protected within reserves. Administratively, the country is divided into seven provinces and 81 cantones (counties). It has a population of 3.9 million, heavily concentrated in the Central Highlands, with some 350,000 people living in the capital, San José.

Aerial view of the capital city, San José

PACIFIC OCEAN

Isla del Coco
(310 miles)

- KEY
-  International airport
 -  Domestic airport
 -  Ferry
 -  Pan-American Highway
 -  Major road
 -  International border
 -  Provincial border
 -  Ferry route

A PORTRAIT OF COSTA RICA

Dominated by mountain ranges and verdant forests, gouged by fertile valleys, and flanked by lovely beaches and the ocean, Costa Rica is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful places on earth. Vivid colors of nature, a virtually unmatched range of outdoor activities, friendly, hospitable people, and the subtle charm of an essentially rustic lifestyle – all combine to make the country one of the world's favorite tropical holiday destinations.

Straddling the Meso-American isthmus at the juncture of North and South America, this diminutive nation is barely 300 miles (480 km) north to south and 175 miles (280 km) at its widest point, near the Nicaraguan border.

Costa Rica's official emblem

Occupying one of the world's most geologically unstable areas, the country is subjected to powerful tectonic forces that trigger earthquakes and punctuate the landscape with smoldering volcanoes. With scores of micro-climates, the emerald landscape is a quiltwork of 12 different life zones, from coastal wetlands to subalpine grassland.

Costa Rica is characterized by a homogeneity of culture unique among Central American nations, with the Spanish influence being all-encompassing and indigenous culture having little impact. However, non-Spanish cultures exist in a few pockets, such as the Jamaican ethos of the Caribbean coast.

Another distinctive feature is the nation's conservation ethic, as evidenced by its nationwide network of wildlife parks and refuges, which embraces about 30 percent of its area, more than any other nation on earth.

CONSERVING NATURE'S WONDERS

The greatest appeal of Costa Rica is its astonishing wealth of flora and fauna, protected within more than 190 biological reserves, national parks,

A farmhouse on the flanks of Volcán Arenal, in the Northern Zone

The guanacaste tree, Costa Rica's national tree

wildlife refuges, and similar entities. The Reserva Natural Absoluta Cabo Blanco was created as the first protected reserve in the country in 1963. Since then, more parks and reserves have been set up every year.

However, destruction of the natural habitat continues, even in some protected regions. The park service is understaffed and lacks the funds to compensate owners for expropriated land. Thus, the wetlands of Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro are imperiled by landowners reclaiming precious marshlands for farming. Animal populations are declining in Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio due to loss of habitat. Illegal hunting menaces the populations of jaguars, tapirs, and wild pigs in Parque Nacional Corcovado. Logging, however, has been tamed and forests, which diminished by two-thirds since Columbus stepped ashore in 1491, are increasing in area once again.

Fortunately, there are several conservation organizations that are unstinting in their efforts to save flora and fauna. Also, the government's focus on integrating protected regions by grouping them into 11 distinct regional units within a Sistema Nacional de Areas de Conservación (National System of Regional Conservation Areas) is a giant step in the right direction.

THE GOVERNMENT

A democratic republic, Costa Rica has a government headed by an elected president, who is assisted by two vice presidents and a cabinet of 17 members. The Asamblea Legislativa (Legislative Assembly) is a single chamber of 57 popularly elected diputados (deputies), limited to two terms. The president appoints regional governors, who preside over the seven provinces of San José, Alajuela, Cartago, Guanacaste, Heredia, Limón, and Puntarenas.

Two parties dominate the political scene and have traditionally alternated in power with each election. The social-democratic Partido de Liberación Nacional (National Liberation Party) champions welfare programs, while the conservative Partido de Unidad Social Cristiana (Social Christian Unity Party) is pro-business. All citizens between 18 and 70 years of age are mandated to vote. A Special Electoral Tribunal appointed by the Supreme Court oversees the integrity of elections.

The famed Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde (Monteverde Cloud Forest Biological Reserve)

Costa Rica declared neutrality in 1949 and has no official army, navy, or air force, although branches of the police force have a military capability. Citizens proudly proclaim that since the late 19th century, only two brief periods of violence have marred the nation's democratic development, and the country has avoided the bloodshed that has afflicted neighboring countries. However, it has not been aloof from Latin American issues: in 1987, President Oscar Arias won the Nobel Peace Prize for brokering peace on the isthmus.

THE ECONOMY

Costa Rica's thriving economy is today powered mainly by tourism. With its stupendous landscape of mountains, beaches, and forests full of exotic flora and fauna, the country offers opportunities for outdoor life and active adventures. The focus is on ecotourism, promoted by the Instituto Costarricense de Turismo (Costa Rica Tourism Institute) under the advertising slogan of "Costa Rica – No Artificial Ingredients." Another factor aiding tourism is the country's reputation for stability in an area rent by political upheavals. Well-planned specialized lodges, large hotels, and beach resorts serve the spectrum from budget to deluxe markets.

San José is one of Central America's major financial centers with a burgeoning high-technology industrial sector. Beyond the capital, the country is still largely agricultural. Land ownership is widespread, except in Guanacaste, where large-scale cattle fincas (farms) prevail. Coffee and bananas are Costa Rica's two most important crops.

Papayas being sorted for sale in a town market

THE PEOPLE

Costa Ricans are known as Ticos because of their habitual use of this term as a diminutive – for instance, "momentico" for "just a moment," instead of the usual "momentito." The majority are descendants of early Spanish settlers. Indigenous peoples account for a fraction of the population, and live tucked away in remote reserves. Concentrated on the Caribbean coast, Afro-Caribbeans are mainly descended from Jamaicans who came as contract labor in the 19th century, and form a large community. A sizeable

Resident in Costa Rican colors

The bustling capital city, San José

Traditional oxcart used for farming in the Costa Rican countryside

Chinese population also exists, mainly in the Caribbean province of Limón. In recent years, tens of thousands of North Americans and people of other nationalities have settled in Costa Rica, drawn partly by its fabulous climate.

About eight out of ten Costa Ricans are nominally Catholic, and a significant portion of the population are regular practitioners of the faith. The most venerated figure is La Negrita, the country's patron saint, who is believed to grant miracles. Although proselytizing is illegal, the influence of evangelical Christians has grown in recent years,

Effigies carried along a street as part of Good Friday celebrations especially in poorer areas and among the indigenous communities.

The country has the highest rate of literacy and life expectancy in Latin America. Internet access is relatively widespread, and mobile telephone use is the highest in Central America. Roads and electricity extend into even the most remote backwaters, and today few communities are entirely isolated from the modern world. In fact, Josefinos (residents of San José) lead a typically modern urban lifestyle, and the capital has a well-developed and entrepreneurial middle-class. However, old traditions survive in the countryside, where a peasant lifestyle still prevails, the horse is the main form of transport, and oxen are used as day-to-day beasts of burden.

Life revolves around the family – usually headed by a matriarch – and an immediate circle of compadres (friends and fellow workers). Individuals tend to guard their personal lives closely and are more inclined to invite acquaintances to dine at restaurants than to welcome them into their homes. However, Ticos are a warm-hearted people and always treat strangers with great civility.

Costa Ricans are proud of their country's neutrality and stable democracy. Although a recent influx of immigrants with "Indian" features from neighboring countries has caused much resentment, Ticos are generally a liberal, tolerant people with a concern for societal harmony and welfare.

THE ARTS AND SPORTS

Crafts dominate the artistic scene, mainly because of the tremendous creativity displayed by artisans. Woodcarvers such as Barry Biesanz produce hardwood bowls of immense delicacy. The indigenous influence lives on in the creation of gold jewelry, which adopts the pre-Columbian motif of animist figurines. Other native crafts include the pottery created by the community of Guaitil in the style of their Chorotega ancestors.

The arts scene was, until recent years, dominated by the nation's campesino (peasant) heritage, which found its most influential expression with the Group of New Sensibility in the 1920s. Headed by Teodorico Quirós Alvarado (1897–1977), the movement evolved a stylized art form depicting idyllic rural landscapes, with cobbled streets, adobe dwellings, and peasants with oxcarts against volcanic backgrounds. Their influence remains to this day, notably in miniature paintings that are a staple in many homes and souvenir stores.

An exception to the insipid art of the mid-20th century were the powerful depictions of peasant life by the internationally renowned sculptor Francisco Zúñiga (1912–98). Contemporary artists such as Rodolfo Stanley and Jiménez Deredia have invigorated the scene with compelling avant-garde works.

Carlos Luis Fallas's novel Mamita Yunai (1941), about the plight of banana workers, is the sole literary work of international note. Costa Ricans are great theatergoers, however, and theater venues are scattered all over San José and some other cities. Josefinos dress up to hear the National Symphony Orchestra perform in the Teatro Nacional and at the less formal annual International Festival of Music, while the young dress down to dance to fast-paced Latin merengue in clubs and bars. Virtually every town has a bandstand where people enjoy folk music featuring the marimba, a form of xylophone. The guitar is the main accompaniment to the punto guanacasteco, the national folk dance performed by men and women in traditional costume.

A traditional dance performance near Cartago

Played on weekends by local teams throughout the country, soccer is the national obsession for men. Rodeos and topes (horse parades) are a focus of general festivities, while corridos de toros (non-fatal bull-running) are popular with men eager to prove their machismo. Most Costa Ricans are passionate about activities performed in the open air such as running and cycling, which is only to be expected in this land of nature and the outdoors.

Corridos de toros

A local soccer match in progress in Heredia

Landscape and Wildlife

One of Costa Rica's butterflies

Few countries on earth can rival Costa Rica for diversity of flora and fauna. Despite its tiny size, the nation is home to almost 5 percent of the world's identified living species, including more types of butterflies than the whole of Africa. This astonishing wealth of wildlife is due to the country's great variety in relief and climate, from lowland wetlands to cloud-draped mountaintops. As a result, Costa Rica boasts 12 distinct "life zones," each with a unique combination of climate, terrain, flora, and fauna.

Perfectly conical Arenal, Costa Rica's most active volcano

LOWLAND RAINFOREST

Rainforests (see pp22-3) cloak many of the plains and lower mountain slopes of the Caribbean lowlands and Pacific southwest. These complex ecosystems harbor a large proportion of the country's wildlife. Tapirs and jaguars inhabit the understory, while birds and monkeys cavort in the treetops.

Sloths hang from branches and live upside-down their entire lives. Both the two-toed and three-toed species eat only leaves. These slow-moving creatures have an extremely slow metabolic rate.

Red-eyed tree frogs are difficult to spot, as they usually cling to the underside of leaves.

Leafcutter ants cut and chew leaves into mulch that is used to fertilize fungi, whose spores the ants then eat.

MONTANE CLOUD FOREST

More than half of Costa Rica is over 3,300 ft (1,000 m) above sea level. Much of the higher elevation terrain is swathed in cloud forest (see p129), where mists sift through the treetops and branches are festooned with bromeliads and dripping mosses. Bird and animal life is profuse.

Three-wattled bellbirds are rarely seen but often heard: their distinct call sounds like metal being struck. The male grous three worm-like wattles.

Kinkajous, tree-dwelling relatives of the raccoon, have prehensile tails, and are nocturnal.

Spider monkeys have long, spindly limbs and prehensile tails – ideal for life in the upper stories of the forests.

COASTS

The total length of Costa Rica's coastline is over 800 miles (1,290 km). On the Pacific, promontories and scalloped bays are common, while the Caribbean coast is almost ruler-straight. Small patches of coral reef fringe the coast off the Central Pacific and southern Caribbean shores. Many beaches provide nesting grounds for various species of marine turtles (see p171).

Beaches in Costa Rica come in every color, from white and gold to chocolate and black. Most are backed by forest.

Marine turtles each lay about 100 eggs in nests above the high-tide mark.

Hammerhead sharks swim in large congregations off Isla del Coco (see p193).

DRY FOREST

Once covering most of Guanacaste and Nicoya, dry forests (see p133) today cover only about 200 sq miles (520 sq km) of Costa Rica. The mostly deciduous flora sheds its leaves during the seasonal drought, making wildlife easier to spot. Conservationists are trying to revive dry forest ecosystems.

Bats comprise more than half of all mammal species in Costa Rica. The tropical dry forests have over 70 species of bats.

Anteaters rip open termite nests and antbills with their scythe-like claws. Tamanduas are a type of tree-dwelling anteater.

Iguanas are camouflaged green for an arboreal life. Males turn orange during the mating season.

WETLAND

Wetlands range from coastal mangroves (see p185) such as the Terraba-Sierpe delta in the Pacific southwest, to inland lagoons such as Caño Negro in the north. Many habitats are seasonal, flooding in the wet season from May to November; wildlife gathers by waterholes in the December–April dry season.

Mangroves, which thrive in alluvial silts deposited by rivers, form a vital nursery for marine creatures and avian fauna, such as the frigate bird.

Roseate spoonbills, herons, egrets, and many other wading birds and waterfowl inhabit bodies of fresh water.

Crocodiles and small caimans live in Costa Rica's freshwater lagoons and lowland rivers. The American crocodile can grow to 16 ft (5 m).

The Rainforest Ecosystem

The lowlands of Costa Rica are enveloped in tropical rainforest, its canopies forming an uninterrupted sea of greenery. Hardwood trees, such as mahogany and kapok, may tower 200 ft (61 m) or more, and rely on wide-spreading roots to support their weight. The forests comprise distinct layers, from ground to treetop canopy. Each layer has its own distinct microclimate as well as flora and fauna, with the vast majority of species concentrated at higher levels. Animals such as kinkajous, sloths, and arboreal snakes are adapted for life in the branches, which are weighed down by vines, epiphytes, and other vascular plants.

MAJOR RAINFOREST RESERVES

- PN Carara see p114
- PN Corcovado see p191
- PN Tapantí-Macizo la Muerte see p101
- PN Tortuguero see p167
- RNVS Gandoca-Manzanillo see p172

Bromeliads adorn the branches.

These epiphytes ("air plants") have nested leaves that meet at the base to form cisterns. Leaf litter falling into these tanks provides nourishment for the plants.

Creeping vines of many varieties grow on the tree trunks, and use grappling hooks and other devices to reach sunlight.

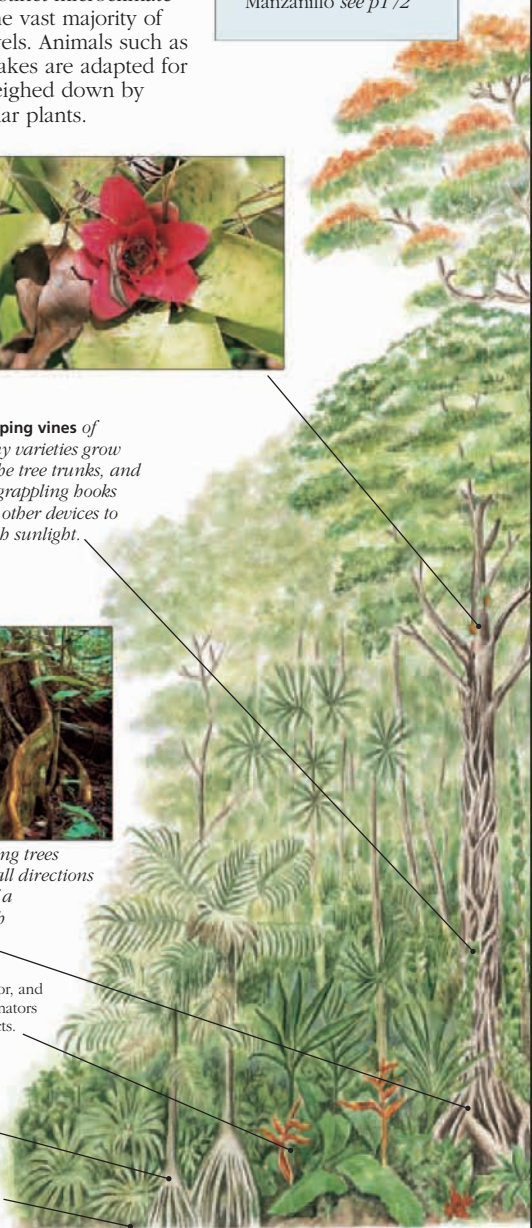

Buttress roots have evolved to hold towering trees steady. These thin flanges radiate out in all directions from the base of the trunk, like the fins of a rocket. The largest can be 10 ft (3 m) high and extend 16 ft (5 m) from the base.

Heliconias grow abundantly on the forest floor, and draw hummingbirds, insects, and other pollinators to their flaming red, orange, and yellow bracts.

Walking palms literally migrate across the forest floor atop stilt roots only loosely attached to the ground.

The soil of rainforests is thin since leaf litter decomposes rapidly and nutrients are swiftly recycled. Heavy rainfall further leaches the soil.

Emergent trees

rise above the forest canopy where their crowns are often buffeted by high winds. Many species bloom flamboyantly in season.

The upper canopy forms an unbroken stretch of foliage. About 80 percent of rainforest vegetation is concentrated here, as is most wildlife.

Orchids

Understory species, adapted for varying amounts of sunlight, may grow to 80 ft (24 m) tall. Many are genetically coded to grow rapidly whenever a large tree falls, which opens a space for new growth.

The forest floor is sparsely vegetated. Rain on the canopy can take up to an hour to reach the ground.

FAUNA

Rainforests shelter many of the largest and most endangered mammal species, such as tapirs, peccaries, and jaguars. Most animal and bird species are well camouflaged and difficult to spot in the shadows of the dark, dappled forest.

Squirrel monkeys, or titis, are the smallest as well as most endangered of Costa Rica's monkeys, and are found only in Pacific southwest rainforests. They live in large bands and are omnivorous.

The jaguar, known locally as tigre, requires a large territory for hunting. It is endangered, mainly because of illicit hunting and loss of rainforest habitat (see p113).

Pit vipers are well camouflaged and perfectly adapted for stealthy hunting in the understory, where they feed on small birds and rodents.

Toucans are easily recognized by their distinctive calls and colorful beaks. These predominantly fruit-eating birds are found in all of Costa Rica's rainforests.

The harpy eagle, the largest member of the eagle family, clings to existence in the rainforests of Corcovado and Gandoca-Manzanillo.

Canopy Tours

Costa Rica is the world leader in “canopy tours,” which allow active travelers to explore the forest canopy more than 100 ft (30 m) above the jungle floor. Facilities such as suspended walkways and rappels by horizontal zipline cable, which usually link a series of treetop platforms, offer a monkey’s-eye view. “Aerial trams” (modified ski lifts) are a more sedentary option. Such experiences can be a fascinating way to learn about treetop ecology and compare various forest environments, from rainforest to montane cloud forest. Zipline tours are more for the thrill – it is unlikely that wildlife will be spotted while whizzing between trees at high speed. The one drawback of canopy tours is that they often disturb the local ecology, scaring away many creatures.

Treetop platforms are usually built around the trunks below the treetop canopy, and are supported by branches. Some tours offer the option of overnighting on the platform.

Aerial trams operate like ski lifts, using similar technology. Naturalist guides accompany visitors on the Rainforest Aerial Trams (near Jacó and Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo) and Arenal Rainforest Tram to educate visitors about forest ecology.

All forest types in Costa Rica, from dry forest to montane cloud forest, host canopy tours. By going on several tours, visitors can experience diverse habitats.

Trails with interpretive signs, found at most canopy tour sites, provide insights into life at ground level. Combined with the tours, they provide a broad understanding of the interrelationships between ecology at different levels. Most trails are slippery – sturdy footwear with good grip is recommended.

Zipline tours follow “trails,” comprising a series of steel cables that run between trees or span canyons, and can exceed 1 mile (2 km). Sped by gravity, the visitor “flies” between the spans, securely attached in a harness.

Towers and cables made of reinforced concrete and steel are built to the highest standards according to government regulations.

LOCATIONS OF THE BEST CANOPY TOURS

- Bahía Culebra see p136
- Bahía Drake see p190
- Jacó see p114
- Laguna de Arenal see p149
- Monteverde see pp124–8
- Montezuma see p112
- PN Rincón de la Vieja see p132
- Rainforest Aerial Tram see p159
- Rainmaker Conservation Project see p115
- Tabacón see p148
- Terales del Bosque see pp154–5
- Veragua Rainforest Research and Adventure Park see p170

Suspended walkways held aloft by steel cables permit the best wildlife viewing. Visitors can follow their own pace and stop at will to watch a creature. Many sites have “trails” formed from a series of walkways.

Visitors’ centers are located at some sites, and often feature restaurants, exhibits, and gift stores.

Bridges, built for utilitarian purposes before the canopy tour concept took hold, have been incorporated into some tours. Some of the more ramsbackle ones can be slightly unnerving.

THE BEGINNINGS

The American scientist Dr. Donald Perry pioneered the concept of the “canopy biologist” in the 1970s, when he developed a system of ropes, pulleys, and a radio-controlled cage to move through the treetops at his research site near Rara Avis. Perry’s successful “automated web” led him to eventually build an aerial tram that would permit the public the same privileged access for educational purposes.

Dr. Donald Perry exploring the forest canopy at Rara Avis

Birds of Costa Rica

Mealy parrot

Nirvana for birders, Costa Rica has more than 850 bird species – about 10 percent of the world's known total, and twice as many as the USA and Canada combined. Although the national bird is the clay-brown yiquirro (robin), many others are more exotically plumed. Tanager, manakins, and trogons, inhabit the thick forests, where they are hard to spot despite their bright plumage. Waders such as egrets, ibis, and spoonbills are easily seen amid the wetlands, while vultures and raptors are commonly sighted soaring overhead or squatting atop poles.

Bird-watching with experienced naturalist guides is richly rewarding. Carry binoculars and a tripod.

The green macaw or Buffon's macaw (lapa verde) is an endangered species restricted to the northern lowlands.

Trogons are pigeon-sized forest birds identified by their black and white striped tails. Most come in two-color combinations, such as blue and yellow, or green and red. The most beautiful member of the trogon family is the resplendent quetzal (see p179), an iridescent emerald-green bird, which was considered sacred in Mayan culture.

Toucans, easily recognized by their oversized bills, are found from elevations of 2,000 ft (610 m) to sea level. The keel-billed toucan has a banana-yellow chest, a black body, and a startling rainbow-striped beak (left). The smaller aracarís and toucanets are more varied in color.

PARROTS AND MACAWS

Garrulous creatures of the forest, the parrot family ranges from small, swift, short-tailed parakeets to the giants of the parrot kingdom, the long-tailed macaws (above). Most parrots are green with varying patches of red, white, and/or yellow. They have hooked bills and powerful claws for grasping fruits and nuts. Costa Rica is home to 16 species of parrots and two species of macaws.

SEABIRDS

Costa Rica's shores are crowded with seabirds. Oystercatchers, spotted sandpipers, and whimbrels scurry around at the water's edge. Coastal mangroves are home to blue heron, ibis, and neotropic cormorants, while several offshore islands are important nesting sites for boobies, laughing gulls, and storm petrels.

Brown pelicans are present year-round on the Pacific coast and can be spotted easily as they dive for fish.

Frigate birds nest in colonies on top of coastal shrubs. During the mating season, males inflate bright red chest pouches to woo the females that fly overhead.

Migratory birds flock to Costa Rica's wetlands, especially toward the end of the December–April dry season. Blue-winged teal, Muscovy ducks, black-bellied whistling ducks, and other winter migrants arrive in their tens of thousands.

Hummingbirds, named for the bee-like “hum” of their wings beating at a blurry 100 times per second, are able to hover as they sip nectar from flowers through hollow, needle-like beaks. They are very territorial despite their tiny size: males can often be seen in spectacular aerial battles.

Macaws are usually found in pairs. These colorful birds are an extraordinary sight as they fly overhead, screeching loudly.

The scarlet macaw (lapa roja) is blood red, with wings of yellow and blue. It is commonly seen in Santa Rosa, Carara, Manuel Antonio, and Corcovado National Parks.

Tanagers are small, vibrant birds that live in the forests. The summer tanager (left) is a flame-red bird. The blue-gray tanager is variegated in peacock blues. Short wings permit fast flight through the forest. About 50 species of tanagers live in Costa Rica.

Vultures are found across Costa Rica; the country has four species of this scavenger, and about 50 types of raptors, including owls, the osprey, the laughing falcon, and the endangered harpy eagle, the world's largest eagle.

WETLAND BIRDS

Costa Rica is on the migratory path of numerous waterfowl, such as black-bellied whistling ducks, which stop seasonally at Palo Verde (see p130) and similar flooded regions. Jabiru, roseate spoonbills, and cormorants are among the permanent wetland species.

Northern jacana have elongated toes for walking across floating lily pads. Male jacana rear the young.

Bare-throated tiger-herons are graceful waterbirds.

Costa Rica boasts about 20 species of herons.

Sunbitterns spread their wings to reveal distinctive patterns that are designed for defense.

Beaches of Costa Rica

Most of Costa Rica's shoreline, which extends for 800 miles (1,290 km), is lined with beaches in a range of colors, from sugar white to varying shades of gray and brown. On the straight Caribbean coast, beaches stretch for miles, while the ones on the serrated Pacific coast are separated by rocky headlands. In most places, thick forest edges right up to the shore, lending a dramatic beauty to even the dullest brown sands. The coastal waters are relatively murky due to silt washed down by numerous rivers and there are few coral reefs. Beaches run the gamut from developed areas, with resorts and various amenities, to isolated, virtually undiscovered stretches of sand. Dozens of beaches offer great swimming and surfing (see p137).

Playa Naranjo, hemmed by tropical dry forest, is difficult to access, but offers tremendous wildlife viewing, including sightings of leatherback turtles. Mangroves nearby harbor caimans and crocodiles (see p137).

Playa Conchal, or "Shell Beach," is acclaimed for its snow-white beach, comprised of billions of minute seashells. The turquoise waters are unusually clear (see p136).

Playa Flamingo
(see p136)

Los Chiles

THE NORTHERN ZONE

Liberia

GUANACASTE AND NORTHERN NICOYA

La Fortuna

Ciudad Quesada
(San Carlos)

Playa Grande is Costa Rica's most important nesting site for leatherback turtles. This long, scalloped beach of coral-gray sands is also a famed surfing destination, attracting hundreds of surfers every year (see p136).

Playas del Coco
(see p136)

Nicoya

Playa Ostional is one of about 12 beaches worldwide where endangered Pacific ridley turtles crawl ashore en masse to nest (see p140).

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN NICOYA

Puntarenas

Playa Jacó, popular with surfers and lined with hotels, is a lively beach resort (see p114).

Playa Montezuma is a beautiful, coconut-fringed, cream-colored beach. Its rough waters are unsafe for swimming (see p112).

Playa Guiones is several miles long and extremely deep at low tide (see p140). It has tidepools, and in recent years it has been the site of arribadas (see p141) of Pacific ridley turtles.

Playa Carrillo is virtually undeveloped, despite the hotels dotting the nearby hills. Fishing boats gather in a cove at the southern end of this palm-shaded beach, which is backed by an airstrip.

Tortuguero's beach is an unbroken, 23-mile (37-km) long stretch of gray sand backed by forest. It is a prime nesting site for green turtles, who emerge glistening from the surf to lay eggs in the sand (see p167).

Cahuita's beaches – Playa Negra with its black sands and the golden Playa Blanca – are edged by rainforest. The forest and the coral reef bordering Playa Blanca are protected within Parque Nacional Cahuita (see p170).

Playa Cocles is a popular surfing center. Splendidly scenic, it is perfect for sunbathing, although swimmers should beware the riptides.

Gandoca-Manzanillo, a remote reserve with gray-black beaches, also contains swamps and mangroves inhabited by crocodiles, manatees, and varieties of birds. Four species of marine turtles nest in the beach sands (see p172).

Bahía Ballena is an unspoiled bay fringed with a mile (1.6-km) long gray sand beach. Dolphins and whales congregate offshore, where a coral reef offers fine snorkeling.

The Story of Costa Rican Coffee

A cup of Costa Rican coffee

Costa Rica is famed for its flavorful coffee. Coffea arabica – a bush native to Ethiopia – was introduced to the country in 1779. For more than a century, beginning in the 1830s, the grano de oro (golden grain) was Costa Rica's foremost export, funding the construction of fine buildings. The nation's mountains provide ideal conditions for the coffee plant, which prefers consistently warm temperatures, distinct wet and dry seasons, and fertile, well-drained slopes. More than 425 sq miles (1,100 sq km), concentrated in the Central Highlands, are dedicated to coffee production.

Guided tours of plantations and beneficios (processing factories) give visitors a chance to see beans being processed, as well as offering demonstrations of "cupping" (tasting).

COFFEE PLANTATIONS

After being raised in nurseries, 8 to 12 month-old coffee seedlings are planted beneath shade trees in long rows perpendicular to the slope to help avoid soil erosion. They require precise amounts of sunlight, water, and fertilizer.

Coffee seedlings ready to be planted

Worker weeding in a coffee plantation

Shade trees allow the proper amount of sunlight to filter through.

Elevations between 2,650 and 4,900 ft (800–1,500 m) are ideal for coffee estates.

The volcanic soil contains the nutrients that coffee bushes require.

THE EARLY DAYS

Before the construction of the railroads in the late 19th century, coffee beans were packed in gunny sacks and transported to the port of Puntarenas in carretas (oxcarts). Trains of oxcarts loaded with coffee traveled down the mountains of Costa Rica in convoys. From Puntarenas, the beans were shipped to Europe, a journey that took three months.

Carreta (oxcart) transporting sacks of coffee

BERRIES TO BEANS

Typically it takes four years for the shiny-leaved coffee bush to mature and fruit. With the arrival of the rains in early May, small white blossoms appear, giving off a jasmine-like scent. The fleshy green berries containing the beans gradually turn red as they ripen. Each berry contains two hemispherical seeds, or beans. Well-tended bushes produce cerrezas (cherries) for about 40 years.

White coffee blossoms

Green and red berries

The harvest normally begins in November. Traditionally, entire families would head into the fields to help with harvesting. Although children can still be seen picking coffee, today Nicaraguans and indigenous peoples form the majority of the labor pool.

The red berries are hand-picked by workers.

Handwoven wicker baskets are usually used to hold the berries.

Coffee workers wait in line to measure baskets of freshly harvested coffee. The berries are shipped to a beneficio for processing.

At the beneficio, the berries are cleaned. The fleshy outer pulp is then stripped off and returned to the slopes as fertilizer.

The moist beans are dried, either in the traditional manner by being laid out in the sun, or in hot-air ovens.

The dried beans have their leathery skins removed before being roasted.

PACKAGING

The roasted beans are sorted by quality, size, and shape. Export-quality beans are vacuum-sealed in foil bags and typically come in light roast, dark roast, espresso, decaffeinated, and organic varieties. Lower grade beans for the domestic market are sold loose at local markets as café puro (unadulterated) or café tradicional (containing 10 percent sugar).

Coffee packed for export

Roasted coffee beans

Different varieties of coffee

Ground coffee

Coffee bags

Coffee liqueur

The Indigenous Groups

Sparsely inhabited at the time of Columbus's arrival, the country today has 40,000 indigenous inhabitants, who account for less than 1 percent of the total population. They belong to seven main tribes – Chorotega, Boruca, Bribri, Cabécar, Guaymí, Guatuso/Maleku, and Huetar. Living relatively marginalized from mainstream society in 22 remote reserves, the tribes sustain themselves by hunting and farming; and some continue to create traditional handicrafts. The aboriginal way of life is under constant threat by missionary activity and by the government's habitual espousal of logging and mining interests over those of indigenous peoples. Few tribes speak their native language, and even fewer have been able to keep their religious traditions free from outside influences.

The Guatuso/Maleku retain their language and customs. They are known for bark cloth (mastate) painted with the fingertips.

The Bribri today comprise 10,000 individuals, who cling to their collective faith in Sibú, the creator of the universe. They welcome visits to the Reserva Indígena KeköLdi (see p173), where some Bribri continue to live in traditional huts.

Huts are thatched to the ground.

A traditional Bribri hut – a windowless, conical structure

Carved and painted gourds, called jicara by the Bribri, are used as vessels and objects of decoration by most indigenous groups. Pictured here is a Bribri jicara.

Motifs depict natural elements. To preserve tribal identity, names of the elements are carved in traditional languages as well as in Spanish.

INDIGENOUS ARTIFACTS

Many of the traditional crafts of Costa Rica's indigenous peoples emphasize their relationship with the rainforest. Age-old techniques continue to be used in contemporary works. Crafts, clothing, and musical instruments of several tribes, as well as shamanic totems, are displayed in the Museo de Cultura Indígena (see p155).

WHERE INDIGENOUS PEOPLES LIVE

With the exception of the Chorotega, who have intermixed with other peoples in northwest Costa Rica, the indigenous population is relegated to remote regions in the Talamanca Mountains and the Pacific southwest. The tribes live in reserves administered by the National Commission for Indigenous Affairs (CONAD), which works to promote education, health services, and community development. However, it is underfunded, and has met only modest success in protecting the indigenous cultures from exploitation by commercial interests, which continue to encroach on tribal land.

The Chorotega of Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya were the largest tribe in the pre-Columbian era. Today, about 1,000 true-blood Chorotegas live in matriarchal families, and take pride in their distinctive pottery.

The Boruca cling precariously to ancestral lands in the hills west of the Terraba valley. They are famed for their balsa-wood masks (mascaras) of animals representing supernatural beings, used in the Fiesta de los Diablos (see p184).

Chorotega pottery, with its characteristic earth-tones, continues to be produced in Guaitil (see p143).

Designs are created by pecking tender green gourds with a needle. The residual skin surrounding the design is then scraped away. As the gourd dries, the skin turns dark brown.

The Huetar of the Puriscal region still practice the ancient Festival of the Corn but in many other aspects have been integrated into mainstream society.

Ulú (healing cane) used by shamans

The Cabécar live in the Talamanca-Cabécar Reserve (see p173) and today consist of about 5,000 individuals. Shamanic rituals remain an integral part of Cabécar culture.

The Guaymí retain a strong cultural identity, including the Guaymí language. Uniquely, women still wear the traditional garment with decorative triangular patterns, as well as collares (necklaces) of colorful beads.

Guaymí painters experiment freely with scenes of daily life, images of natural forms, and spiritual symbols.

Traditional Guaymí dress

COSTA RICA THROUGH THE YEAR

A major factor in planning a visit to Costa Rica is the weather. The dry season (December–April) offers the best climate and draws the most visitors. Christmas and New Year, as well as Easter, when Costa Rica celebrates its most colorful festivals, are the peak periods: schools and offices close, and the nation goes on holiday. Late April and May are relatively less crowded. Promoted by the tourism department as the “green” season, the wet months (May–November) see fewer visitors

Ticos in traditional dress and lower prices: for those willing to brave the rains, this is a good time to visit. Religious ceremonies and folk festivities are held year-round, though the celebrations usually lack the color and vitality of Mexico and Guatemala. Topes (horse shows) and rodeos are the staples of provincial events. Note that while many rodeos include bull-baiting, visitors can choose not to view the events. The Caribbean moves to its own beat, and a strong Afro-Caribbean heritage influences its festivities.

Floats depicting Costa Rican fauna, Fiesta de la Luz, San José

DRY SEASON

The cooler, drier months are ideal for beach holidays, especially in Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya, where it hardly rains. Town squares are ablaze with jacaranda and flame-of-the-forest. With coastal waters in the south at their clearest, scuba diving is excellent. Wildlife viewing is also at its best, with deciduous trees dropping their leaves. Dirt roads with river fordings are more easily passed, although off-road driving can kick up billowing clouds of dust. However, this is peak season throughout the nation, with high prices and fully booked hotels and car rentals.

DECEMBER

Fiesta de los Negritos (Dec 8), Boruca. The indigenous Boruca peoples celebrate their traditions with costumed dancing and drum and flute music.

Fiesta de la Yegüita (Dec 12), Nicoya. The Festival of the Little Mare recalls a Chorotega legend and blends Indian and Catholic rituals. Villagers carry an image of La Virgen de Guadalupe in procession, and there are corridos de toros (bull runs), as well as fireworks and concerts (see p142).

Los Posadas (Dec 15). Before Christmas, carolers go house to house by night and are rewarded with food and refreshments.

Topo Nacional de Caballos

(Dec 26), San José. During the nation's most famous topo, the country's finest horsemen show off their skills in a parade of more than 3,000 horses along Paseo Colón.

Fiesta de la Luz (Dec 26), San José. The nocturnal Festival of Light features floats decorated with colorful Christmas lights. The “Parade of Lights” passes from Parque Sabana to downtown via Paseo Colón. Fireworks light up the night sky.

Carnaval Nacional

(Dec 27), San José. Locals don costumes and dance in the streets to live music. A competition of brightly decorated floats is the highlight of the procession.

People dressed as devils at the Fiesta de los Diablicos

Carretas (oxcarts) gather for the Día del Boyero celebrations, Escazú

Fiesta de Zapote (late Dec), Zapote. Citizens flock to this suburb of San José for the fairground, fireworks, topes and rodeos.

Fiesta de los Diablitos (Dec 31–Jan 2), Buenos Aires and Boruca. Men dressed as devils rush through the two villages in the Boruca Indian community's reenactment of battles between their forebears and the Spanish (see p184).

JANUARY

Fiesta de Palmares (first two weeks of Jan), Palmares (near Alajuela). Concerts, rodeos, fireworks, and music highlight this festival, which also features fairgrounds and sporting events.

Fiesta Patronal de Santo Cristo (mid-Jan), Santa Cruz. Rodeos, folk dancing, street festivities, and a parade of carretas (oxcarts) mark this two-day celebration honoring Santo Cristo de Esquipulas.

Festival de las Mulas (late Jan), Playas Esterillos (near Jacó). Popular festival with mule races on the beach, as well as a crafts fair, corridos de toros, and music and dance.

FEBRUARY

Expo Perez Zeledón (early Feb), San Isidro de El General. Cattle fair and orchid show, also featuring topes, rodeo, beauty contests, carousels, and displays of agricultural machinery.

Good Neighbors Jazz Festival (mid-Feb), Manuel Antonio. Jazz ensembles perform at hotels and other venues through the area.

Carnaval de Puntarenas (last week of Feb). Parade floats, street fairs, music, and dancing enliven this coastal city for a week.

MARCH

Día del Boyero (2nd Sun), San Antonio de Escazú. A parade of colorfully decorated traditional ox carts honors the boyero (oxcart driver). The streets come alive with music and dance.

International Festival of the Arts (2nd week), San José. Theaters and other venues bustle with live theater, dance performances, music concerts, visual art exhibits, and conferences.

Semana Santa (Mar or Apr). Easter Week is the most important holiday celebration of the year, with processions nationwide, notably in Cartago and San Joaquín de Flores near Heredia. Costumed citizens reenact Christ's crucifixion in passion plays.

APRIL

Día de Juan Santamaría (Apr 11), Alajuela. Marching bands, a beauty pageant, and topes are part of the celebrations honoring the young national hero who was killed fighting against William Walker in the War of 1856 (see p45).

Feria del Ganado (mid-Apr), Ciudad Quesada. The nation's largest cattle fair also features a horse parade and corridos de toros.

Feria de Orquideas (late Apr), San José. Hosted in the Museo Nacional, this orchid festival exhibits prize specimens, including some for sale.

Romería Virgen de la Candelaria (3rd Sun), Ujarrás. A pilgrimage from Paraiso to Ujarrás terminates with games and celebrations to honor the supposed miracle attributed to the Holy Virgin that saved the town of Ujarrás from pirate invasion in 1666 (see p100).

Semana Universidad (last week), San José. The campus of the University of Costa Rica is the setting for week-long free activities, including open-air art shows, concerts, and the crowning of the university queen.

The San José Symphony performing at a music festival

WET SEASON

The onset of the rains marks the beginning of the off-season. Mountainous parts are prone to landslides, and many roads are washed out. Nonetheless, mornings are typically sunny, while afternoon rains help cool off sometimes stifling days. This is the best time for surfing in the Pacific, and olive ridley turtles begin their arribadas (see p141). Sportfishing is also at a premium, especially in northern Pacific waters. Toward the end of the wet season, Costa Rica is at its lushest, and swollen rivers provide plenty of white-water thrills. The Pacific southwest is subject to severe thunderstorms in October and November.

MAY

Día de los Trabajadores (May 1). Trade unions organize marches in major cities to honor workers on Labor Day.

Fiesta Cívica (early May). Cañas. Cowboy traditions are displayed at corridos de toros and topes. Street fairs feature folkloric music, dance, and traditional food.

Día de San Isidro Labrador (May 15), San Isidro de El General. A celebration of

Pilgrims at Cartago's Basilica de Nuestra Señora de los Ángeles

the patron saint of farmers, with an oxcart parade and an agricultural fair.

Corpus Christi (May 29), Pacayas and Cartago. The two towns hold religious parades and church services.

JUNE

Día de San Pedro y San Pablo (Jun 29), San José. St. Peter and St. Paul are honored in religious celebrations around the city.

Compañía de Lirica Nacional (mid-Jun–mid-Aug), San José. The National Lyric Opera Company presents a two-month long opera festival in San José's sumptuously decorated Teatro Mélico Salazar (see p58).

JULY

Festival de la Virgen del Mar (mid-Jul), Puntarenas. The "Sea Festival" honors Carmen, Virgin of the Sea, with religious processions, a carnival, fireworks, and a boating regatta.

Día de la Anexión de Guanacaste (Jul 25). The annexation of Guanacaste by Costa Rica in 1824 is celebrated nationwide with music and folkloric dancing. Rodeos and bullfights are held at Liberia and Santa Cruz.

Choroteqa Tourist Fair (late Jul), Nicoya. This celebration of traditional Choroteqa culture features artisan displays, indigenous foods, and several educational activities.

International Festival of Music (Jul–Aug). International musicians perform predominantly classical music at venues around the nation.

AUGUST

Día de Nuestra Señora de la Virgen de los Ángeles (Aug 2), Cartago. Costa Rica's most important religious procession to honor its patron saint, La Negrita, draws the faithful from around the nation. The devout carry crosses or crawl on their knees to Cartago's famous basilica (see p94).

Recorrido de toros (bullfight) at a fiesta in Parque Nacional Santa Rosa

A San José parade celebrating Día de la Independencia

Liberia Blanca Culture

Week (early Aug). Liberia. Cowboys come to town, and citizens don traditional attire to honor local traditions with music, dancing, and food.

Día de las Madres

(Aug 15). On Mother's Day, everyone honors their mother, who is usually taken out to lunch or dinner and serenaded by hired mariachis.

National Adventure

Tourism Festival (late Aug), Turrialba. Mountain biking, whitewater rafting, and kayaking are among the activities highlighted.

Día de San Ramón

(Aug 31), San Ramón (near Alajuela). The local patron saint is carried in procession. Tico culture is celebrated with marimba music, topes, processions, and regional dishes.

Semana Afro-Costarricense (Aug or Sep), Puerto Limón and San José. This week-long festival celebrates Afro-Costa Rican culture. Activities range from art shows and lectures to musical performances and beauty pageants.

SEPTEMBER

Correo de la Candela de Independencia

(Sep 14). Runners carrying a Freedom Torch from Guatemala travel from town to town, arriving in Cartago at 6pm, when the entire nation sings the national anthem. At night, children carry home-made lanterns in procession throughout the country.

Día de la Independencia

(Sep 15). Costa Rica's independence from Spain in 1821 is celebrated nationwide with street festivities, topes, and school marching bands.

Orosi Colonial Tourist Fair

(mid-Sep). Cultural events and exhibits celebrate the region's colonial heritage.

OCTOBER

Carnaval (2nd week) Puerto Limón. Ticos flock to the coast for a vibrant, no-holds-barred, Caribbean-style Mardi Gras with parade floats, street fairs, live reggae and calypso music, and beauty pageants (see p165).

Día de las Culturas

(Oct 12). Columbus's discovery of America is celebrated with cultural events throughout the nation, notably in Puerto Limón; the city's Carnaval culminates on this day.

A band at Puerto Limón's famous Caribbean-style Carnaval

PUBLIC HOLIDAYS

Año Nuevo (New Year's Day; Jan 1)

Jueves Santo (Easter Thursday)

Viernes Santo (Good Friday)

Día de Juan

Santamaría (Apr 11)

Día de los Trabajadores (Labor Day; May 1)

Día de la Anexión de Guanacaste (Jul 25)

Día de Nuestra Señora de la Virgen de los Ángeles (Aug 2)

Día de las Madres

(Mother's Day; Aug 15)

Día de la

Independencia (Sep 15)

Día de las Culturas

(Columbus Day; Oct 12)

Navidad (Christmas Day)

Fiesta del Maíz

(mid-Oct), Upala (near Caño Negro). Locals craft clothes out of corn husks and make corn-based foods in a traditional celebration of maíz (corn).

Día del Sabanero

(Oct 18). Topes and celebrations mark Cowboy's Day. Liberia and Parque Nacional Santa Rosa have the most lively festivities.

NOVEMBER

Días de Todos Santos

(Nov 2). All Souls' Day is celebrated nationwide with church processions. Families visit cemeteries to remember loved ones and lay marigolds and other flowers on graves.

La Ruta de los

Conquistadores

(mid-Nov). This week-long, coast-to-coast mountain bike championship, which aims to retrace the route of the Spanish conquerors across Costa Rica, is considered one of the world's most challenging.

Feria Agroecoturística

(mid-Nov), Atenas (near Alajuela). Log-felling contests, tractor tours, horseback rides, and an orchid show at the Escuela de Ganadería reserve.

Fiesta de las Carretas

(late Nov), San José. Oxcarts are paraded from Parque Sabana and along Paseo Colón.

The Climate of Costa Rica

Most of Costa Rica experiences distinct dry (December–April) and wet (May–November) seasons, which Ticos call verano (summer) and invierno (winter). There are dozens of regional microclimates: San José and the meseta central (central plateau) are delightfully warm year-round; the eastern lowlands are swept by rain-laden Caribbean breezes; the southern Pacific coast has high precipitation; and in the dry season temperatures regularly rise above 35° C (94° F) in the parched northwest. Temperatures are affected by the varying altitudes, and can drop to below 0° C (32° F) on mountain summits. However, the sun is strong at all times of the year across Costa Rica, with sunrise at about 6am and sunset at 6pm.

High winds strike Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya in the wet season.

Average daily maximum temperature
 Average daily minimum temperature
 Average daily hours of sunshine
 Average monthly rainfall

CLIMATE ZONES

- Warm dry: Rainfall in summer. Drought in places.
- Warm humid: Year-round rainfall, often torrential.
- Mild: High-elevation terrain. Springlike conditions year-round.
- Cool humid: East-facing mountain slopes with heavy rain.
- Cool dry: West-facing mountain slopes in rain shadow.
- Hot humid: Extreme rainfall. Frequent thunderstorms.

The Rio Tempisque basin is the driest part of Costa Rica, with an average of only 18 inches (45 cm) of rain annually.

The western cordilleras bask in year-round sunshine.

PACIFIC OCEAN

ISLA DEL COCO

The Caribbean coast receives rainfall almost throughout the year.

The eastern cordilleras are frequently enveloped in clouds.

The lowest temperatures in Costa Rica are atop Cerro Chiripó.

The Peninsula de Osa is deluged by an annual average of almost 24 ft (8 m) of rainfall.

THE HISTORY OF COSTA RICA

Contemporary Costa Rica has been shaped by a relatively benign history devoid of the great clash between pre-Columbian and Spanish cultures that characterized the formative period of neighboring nations. Following the colonial era, Costa Rica evolved stable democratic institutions that permitted sustained economic development. The nation's declaration of neutrality in 1948 continues to help forge its identity today.

When Christopher Columbus landed off the coast of Central America in 1502, the region had a history that went back 10 millennia. The indigenous peoples who inhabited the thickly forested and rugged terrain were relatively isolated from the more advanced and densely populated imperial cultures of Meso-America to the north and the Andes to the south. They were divided into several distinct ethnic groups and further subdivided into competing tribes ruled by caciques (chiefs). These peoples left no written record.

The semi-nomadic Chibchas and Diquis, who occupied the southern Pacific shores, were hunters and fishermen. They were expert goldsmiths as well, and also produced granite spheres of varying sizes for ceremonial purposes. The highland valleys were the domain of the Coribicí, subsistence agriculturalists skilled at using the "lost wax" technique to create gold ornaments. These groups had affinities with the Andean cultures, with whom they traded. The Votos of the northern lowlands were matriarchal and, like most other groups, used shamans to assist in the fertility rites that dominated religious belief. The agriculturalist Chorotega of the north-west lowlands were the most advanced. They traded with Meso-America, were famed for their elaborate jade ornamentation, and created a written language and calendar of Mayan origin. Most tribal names were ascribed by the Spanish and often indicated individual caciques.

Pre-Columbian hunter

Inter-clan warfare was common. Slaves from neighboring tribes were captured for labor and ceremonial sacrifice, while women were taken as concubines. Gold ornamentation indicated status. High-ranking individuals were interred with their wealth; their slaves were often killed and buried alongside to serve them in the afterlife. Each tribe lived communally in large thatched huts, and although modest urban settlements have been discovered, principally at Guayabo on the southern slopes of Volcán Turrialba, nowhere did elaborate temple structures result.

TIMELINE

10,000–8000 BC

The first known inhabitants settle the region

800 BC Guayabo established on the slopes of Volcán Turrialba

Granite spheres

AD 400 – 1000 Diquis culture produces granite spheres for ceremonial purposes

AD 1400 Guayabo mysteriously abandoned

15,000 BC

1000 BC Olmec influence extends southward from Mexico

Jade pendant

500 BC

500 BC–AD 800 Jade is crafted into pendants and figurines using the cord-saw technique

AD 1

AD 500 Gold begins to replace jade

AD 500

AD 1000

AD 800 The Chorotegas arrive in Nicoya

THE SPANISH CONQUEST

Columbus arrived in Bahía de Cariari, on the Caribbean coast, while on his fourth voyage to the New World. He spent 17 days in the land he called veragua (mildew), and his descriptions of the gold worn by the chiefs spelled doom for the indigenous population. Spanish conquistadors soon followed in his wake, driven by the quest for silver and gold. However, they failed to find any local source of the precious metals.

Colonization was initiated in 1506 when Ferdinand of Spain dispatched Diego de Nicuesa to settle and govern the region. Nicuesa's expedition north from Panama proved a disaster, as his troops were decimated by tropical diseases and guerrilla attacks. In 1522, a second expedition led by Gil González Davila explored the Pacific coast, converting the natives and seizing vast quantities of gold. Davila named the region la costa rica (rich coast). Many natives were enslaved under the encomienda system that granted Spaniards rights to native labor. Villa Bruselas, inland from today's Puntarenas, was Spain's first permanent settlement in Costa Rica, founded by Francisco Fernández de Córdoba in 1524. Davila's group and Córdoba's township, however, succumbed to tropical hardships and violent resistance by the natives. Despite this, by 1543, when the region was incorporated into the Captaincy-General of Guatemala, which extended from Yucatán to Panama, most lowland areas had been charted and Spain's conquest was assured. Many natives were shipped to work the gold and silver mines of Peru and Mexico, while thousands died of smallpox, measles, influenza, and other European diseases that culminated in a 17th-century pandemic.

Bust of Columbus and his son, Puerto Limón

In 1559, Juan de Cavallón founded the settlement of Castillo de Garcimuñoz, with Spaniards, black slaves, and Indians brought from Guatemala and Nicaragua. Appointed governor in 1562, Juan Vásquez de Coronado penetrated the fertile Central Highlands and established El Guarco (today's Cartago) as capital of the region. For the next 250 years Costa Rica was a neglected colony of Spain, virtually forgotten by the governors of New Spain, based in Mexico.

THE SUBSISTENCE ERA

By the 17th century, the relatively small supply of gold had been shipped to Spain, and the country had nothing to trade. Settlement was

Theodor de Bry's (1528–98) copperplate print depicting gold being seized by Spanish conquistadors

TIMELINE

1502
Columbus lands on September 18

1522 Davila successfully explores the Pacific coast

1559 Philip II issues royal edict ordering the conversion of the native population

1611–60 A great pandemic kills thousands

1655 Spain closes port of Puerto Limón following pirate raids

1500

1525

1550

1575

1600

1625

1650

1506 Diego de Nicuesa named governor. Attempts colonization

1542 Encomienda law repealed to little effect; indigenous peoples remain in servitude

1563 Governor Coronado founds Cartago and explores much of Costa Rica

Juan Vásquez de Coronado

1641 Survivors of a slave-ship establish a free community of Miskitos concentrated in the central valley of the interior highlands, where the absence of a large indigenous population and near total neglect by colonial authorities forced the Spanish settlers to work their own land. As a result, most of the land remained sparsely developed and agriculture existed at barely more than subsistence level. Moreover, the mestizo population (of mixed Spanish and Indian parentage) was small and the majority of inhabitants were predominantly Spanish. Thus, unlike the rigid feudal societies of its neighbors, Costa Rica evolved a fairly egalitarian social structure dominated by the independent farmer of meager means.

The northwestern regions of Nicoya and Guanacaste on the Pacific coast were exceptions. Spanish landowners established large cattle estates here, and exacted harsh tribute and labor from Indians and mestizos through the encomienda and repartimiento systems. The densely forested Caribbean coast, meanwhile, was part of the “Spanish Main,” the domain of pirates and smugglers, who traded precious hardwoods, such as cocoa and mahogany, through the small port of Puerto Limón (it was closed by the Spanish in 1665 to combat smuggling). All through the 17th century, English buccaneers such as Henry Morgan and autonomous bands of Miskitos (a community of mixed-blood Indian and African slaves) regularly marauded inland settlements.

A 19th-century etching of Hacienda Santa Rosa, Guanacaste

By the 18th century, exports of tobacco and hides to Europe began to boost national fortunes. Simple townships of adobe structures developed: Heredia (1706); San José (1737); and Alajuela (1782). Immigration from Europe gathered pace, and in the 1740s the increased demand for labor led to the forced resettlement of natives who had fled enslavement in the initial years of colonization and established communities in the Talamanca Mountains. On the whole, far-flung Costa Rica’s parochial citizenry was spared the harsh taste of monopolistic, bureaucratic colonial rule; lacked an elite social class; and remained divorced from the bitter fight for independence from Spain that engulfed Central America at the end of the 18th century.

Buccaneer, 17th century

1723 Volcán Irazú erupts, destroying Cartago		1747 Talamanca Indians are forcibly resettled in the highlands		1808 Coffee introduced from Jamaica
1675	1700	1725	1750	1775	1800
1706 Heredia founded		1737 Villanueva de la Boca del Monte founded. Later renamed San José		1782 Alajuela founded
					 Coffee beans

THE FORMATIVE YEARS OF THE REPUBLIC

The news that Spain had granted independence to the Central American nations on September 15, 1821, reached Costa Rica a month later. The country was torn between the four leading townships: the progressive citizens of San José and Alajuela favored total independence, while the conservative leaders of Cartago and Heredia preferred to join the newly formed Mexican empire. Although the four city councils met and drafted a constitution, the Pacto de Concordia, the discord erupted into a brief civil war in which the progressives triumphed. Costa Rica became a sovereign state of the short-lived Federation of Central America, formed by Guatemalan General Francisco Morazán. Under a law called the Ley de Ambulancia, the capital was to rotate between the four cities every four years.

Costa Rica's independence from Spain coincided with a boom in coffee production and the evolution of a monied middle-class dedicated to public education and a liberal democracy unique on the isthmus. Juan Mora Fernández was elected the first head of state in 1824. In 1835, Braulio Carrillo came to power. A liberal autocrat, he set up legal codes, as well as promoting a centralized administration in San José and large-scale coffee production. San José's growing prominence under Carrillo led to great resentment, which culminated in the War of Leagues (La Guerra de la Liga) in September 1837, when the other three townships attacked San José but were defeated. In 1838, Carrillo declared Costa Rica's independence from the Federation, but was ousted by Morazán, on behalf of the emergent coffee oligarchy. Morazán was briefly named head of state in 1842, before being executed for attempting to conscript Costa Ricans to revive the Federation.

General Francisco Morazán

THE COFFEE ERA

Costa Rica's smallholding farmers benefitted immensely from Europe's taste for coffee. Thousands of acres were planted, while income from the exports of grano de oro (golden grain) funded the construction of fine edifices in San José. This economic prosperity went hand in hand with a rare period of aggression, starting in 1856 when William Walker, a Tennessean adventurer, invaded Guanacaste. President Juan Rafael

Costa Rican workers picking ripe coffee berries, woodcut, 1880

TIMELINE

1821 The Central American nations gain independence

1830s Coffee boom

1835–7 Ley de Ambulancia establishes rotating capitals

1837 San José becomes permanent capital

1856 William Walker invades Costa Rica

President Juan Rafael Mora (1814–60)

1820

1830

1840

1850

1860

1870

1824 Guanacaste secedes from Nicaragua to join Costa Rica

1823 Federation of Central America proclaimed. Civil war

1838 Costa Rica withdraws from the Federation, declares independence

1849 Cafetaleros elevate Juan Rafael Mora to power, initiating political dominance of coffee barons

1869 General Tomás Guardia establishes compulsory, free education for all

Mora raised a makeshift army that repulsed Walker but also created a group of ambitious, self-styled generals who from then on meddled in politics at the behest of their cafetalero (coffee baron) patrons. The most significant was General Tomás Guardia, who seized power in 1870. Guardia proved a progressive reformer,

Bas-relief in San José's Museo de Arte Costarricense who promoted the construction of the Atlantic Railroad, which linked the highlands with Puerto Limón. The prodigious feat of hewing a railroad through the forested, rain-sodden, mountainous terrain was achieved by New York-born entrepreneur Minor Cooper Keith (1848–1929). Part of his terms for the project was a 3,100-sq-mile (8,050-sq-km) land lease in the Caribbean lowlands, on which he set up a banana plantation, and eventually established the influential United Fruit Company.

By the end of the 19th century, Costa Rica had evolved into a modern nation-state in which its citizens were active participants. When Bernardo Soto lost the presidential election in 1889 and refused to step down, street demonstrations forced his resignation. Similarly, students and women toppled war minister Federico Tinoco Granados, who staged a coup in 1917. However, the inter-war years were beset with labor unrest and social problems, which were exacerbated by a widening rift between the wealthy elite and impoverished underclass. Although the 1940–44 administration of President Rafael Angel Calderón established several bold social reforms, including a social security system, tensions rose as the country became increasingly polarized. The Calderón administration formed an anti-Nazi alliance with the Catholic Church and the Communist Party. This pitted itself against an equally unlikely anti-Calderonista alliance of intellectuals, labor activists, and the rural elite.

WILLIAM WALKER

In 1860, when he was executed, Walker was only 36. He was born in Nashville, and graduated as a doctor before starting to pursue a dream of extending slavery all over the Americas. In 1855, he rallied mercenaries and, with the blessing of President James Buchanan, invaded Nicaragua to establish a pro-US government. He went further, though, and proclaimed himself president. A year later he unsuccessfully attacked Costa Rica. Walker fled to New York, but returned to Central America in 1857, still filled with ambition. After a brief time in jail, he met his fate in front of a Honduran firing squad.

William Walker (1824–60)

Atlantic Railroad

1890 Atlantic Railroad completed

1917 Federico Tinoco Granados seizes power

1925 Sigatoka disease devastates banana fields

1940–44 Calderón sponsors social reforms and founds the University of Costa Rica

1880	1890	1900	1910	1920	1930	1940
	1889 Liberal constitution drafted	1897 A coffee tax finances construction of the Teatro Nacional in San José	1930s United Fruit Company expands its political and economic influence	1934 Workers win the right to unionize		1942 A German U-boat sinks a Costa Rican cargo vessel on July 2, leading to anti-German riots

THE 1948 CIVIL WAR

In 1944, Teodoro Picado succeeded fellow party member Calderón after a violent and fraudulent election. Calderón ran for office four years later, but was defeated by a journalist, Otilio Ulate Blanco. Calderón objected, and the building housing the ballots was set ablaze by unknown arsonists. The Calderonista-dominated Congress annulled the election, and Ulate was arrested. This explosive situation paved the way for José “Don Pepe” Figueres, a radical utopian socialist. On March 11, 1948, Figueres declared the War of National Liberation to purify national politics. The badly trained and poorly equipped government forces were no match for Figueres’ highly motivated guerrillas and, after 44 days of fierce fighting that claimed about 2,000 lives, the government was toppled.

Figueres entered San José in triumph on March 29, and established the “Second Republic.” He nationalized the banking system and enacted enlightened social reforms. In 1949, Figueres forced congressional passage of a new constitution that disbanded the army, declared Costa Rica neutral, and extended universal suffrage to the Afro-Caribbean population. Still, key opponents and communists were executed in a bid to further consolidate his power. After 18 months as provisional president, Figueres handed the reins of government to Ulate.

YEARS OF PROSPERITY AND TERROR

The 1950s, 60s, and 70s witnessed accelerating prosperity along with the rapid expansion of the welfare state. Costa Rica’s stability was severely threatened, however, by developments in Nicaragua, where on July 19, 1979, the Somoza regime was toppled by left-wing Sandinistas. Somoza’s right-wing supporters, the Contras, set up clandestine bases in Costa Rica and were supported by the CIA in their attempts to overthrow the Sandinistas. These activities turned the northern border into a war zone. Meanwhile, Costa Rica’s banana and coffee crops failed, while a transfer of capital out of the country led to an economic freefall. The Reagan administration pressured President Luis Alberto Monge to show support for the Nicaraguan right-wing paramilitary operations on Costa Rican soil in exchange for economic aid. Costa Rica’s neutrality was dangerously compromised.

President José Figueres leading the parade of victorious civilian troops, San José, 1949

In 1986, Figueres’ protégé Oscar Arias Sánchez became Revolutionary soldier

TIMELINE

1948 The “Second Republic” established

1949 New constitution adopted; Figueres later hands power to the winner of the 1948 election

1963 Volcán Irazú erupts during President John F. Kennedy’s visit

1945

1950

1955

1960

1965

1970

1975

1948 Figueres launches War of National Liberation

1950s Pan-American Highway (Carretera Interamericana) connects Nicaragua and Panama

1955 Nicaragua invades Costa Rica but is repulsed at Santa Rosa

Social security symbol

1970s Expansion of social security system president of Costa Rica. The youthful leader protested against the activities of the US-backed Contras, and negotiated a peaceful resolution of regional conflicts. As a result, in August 1987, leaders of five Central American nations signed a treaty committing to free elections and a cessation of violence. Arias was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his role as mediator. He was succeeded in 1990 by Rafael Angel Calderón, son of the great reformer. The conservative Calderón administration introduced reforms to alleviate the country's international debt. Austerity measures helped, to some extent, to regenerate the economy. In a curious twist of fate, Calderón was replaced in 1994 by José María Figueres, son of Don Pepe, the elder Calderón's political nemesis.

Pedestrians crossing Avenida 2, San José

THE ENVIRONMENTAL ERA

The 1980s had seen the beginning of a huge tourism boom, which was fueled by Costa Rica's stewardship of its natural resources. The government committed itself to environmental protection, but economic scandals, anti-government demonstrations, and a series of natural disasters bedeviled the administrations of Figueres (1994–8), Miguel Angel Rodríguez (1998–2002), and Abel Pacheco de la Espriella (2002–6). In 2004, Rafael Angel Calderón and Miguel Angel Rodríguez were arrested on charges of corruption. (In October 2009 Calderón was sentenced to five years in prison.) Meanwhile, in 2004, José María Figueres was forced to resign as chairman of the World Economic Forum for receiving kickbacks, but he refuses to return to Costa Rica from his home in Switzerland to face charges of corruption. However, none of this has slowed the development of Costa Rica's ecotourism, and the country has become a popular destination for outdoor travelers. Oscar Arias Sánchez successfully lobbied for a reversal of a law preventing former presidents from running for office again, and in 2006 he became the first ex-president to be elected to a second term.

JOSE "DON PEPE" FIGUERES

"Don Pepe" (1906–90)

Figueres, born on September 25, 1906, to Catalan immigrant parents, was largely self-educated. He studied in the USA in the 1920s, and returned to Costa Rica inspired by utopian ideals. After the 1942 anti-German riots, Don Pepe denounced the Calderón government in a radio address, during which he was arrested and subsequently exiled to Mexico. On his return in 1944, he set up a guerrilla training camp at La Lucha Sin Fin (The Endless Struggle), a farm high in the mountains south of San José, before launching the War of National Liberation. He founded the Partido de Liberación Nacional and was elected to two terms as president (1953–7 and 1970–74). He died on June 8, 1990.

1980s Costa Rica-based Contras destabilize the country

Oscar Arias

1991 Earthquake causes damage on April 22

1994 Banco Anglo Costarricense declares bankruptcy

2003 Supreme Court rules that former presidents may be re-elected

2009 Large earthquake devastates Poás region

1980	1985	1990	1995	2000	2005	2010
1987 Arias wins Nobel Peace Prize 1981 Costa Rica defaults on international loans		1990s Large-scale immigration strains the social system. Drug trafficking accelerates. Costa Rica established as a world-leader in ecotourism		2000 Attempts to privatize electricity and telecommunications generate civil unrest	2007 Costa Rica joins the Central America Free Trade Area (CAFTA)

COSTA RICA AREA BY AREA

COSTA RICA AT A GLANCE 50-51

SAN JOSÉ 52-79

THE CENTRAL HIGHLANDS 80-105

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN NICOYA 106-119

GUANACASTE AND NORTHERN NICOYA
120-143

THE NORTHERN ZONE 144-159

THE CARIBBEAN 160-173

THE SOUTHERN ZONE 174-193

Costa Rica at a Glance

Brimming with natural wonders, Costa Rica's incredibly diverse terrain offers lush rain- and cloud forests that host an array of colorful fauna, craggy mountains, smoke-spewing volcanoes, and stunning beaches in every shade from gold to taupe to black. Wildlife and adventure activities abound, ranging from canopy tours and turtle-watching to scuba diving and whitewater rafting. It is best to concentrate on the national parks and other natural attractions; very few towns are of interest. This guide divides the country into seven regions; each area is color-coded as shown here.

Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal (see p149) features Costa Rica's most active volcano. It forms a dramatic backdrop for biking, canopy tours, horseback riding, and soaks in thermal hot springs.

Parque Nacional Santa Rosa (see pp134-5)

THE NORTHERN ZONE
(see pp144-59)

GUANACASTE AND NORTHERN NICOYA
(see pp120-43)

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN NICOYA
(see pp106-19)

Monteverde (see pp124-8) is famous for its cloud forest reserves, which draw birders eager for a sighting of resplendent quetzals.

0 km 50
0 miles 50

ISLA DEL COCO

0 km 2
0 miles 2

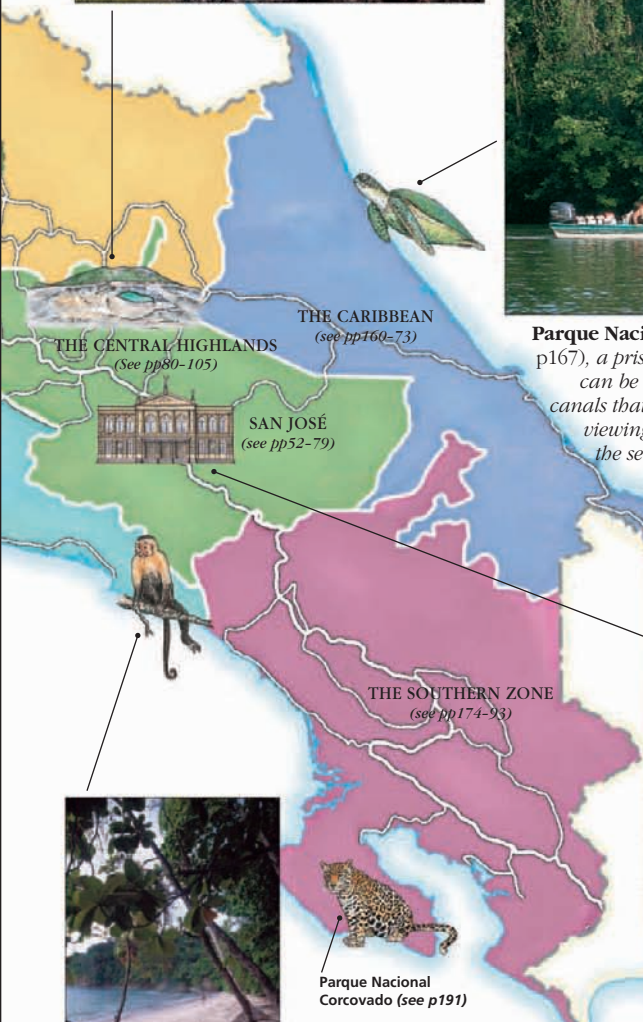

Isla del Coco (see p193), off the southwest coast, is remote and rugged. Hammerhead and whale sharks draw scuba divers.

Parque Nacional Volcán Poás
 (see p90) is popular with Costa Ricans, who drive to the rim to peer into the crater of this smoldering volcano. On clear days the views are magnificent.

Parque Nacional Tortuguero (see p167), a pristine rainforest habitat, can be explored by boat along canals that offer excellent wildlife viewing. Green turtles nest on the seemingly endless beach.

THE CENTRAL HIGHLANDS
 (see pp80-105)

THE CARIBBEAN
 (see pp160-73)

SAN JOSÉ
 (see pp52-79)

THE SOUTHERN ZONE
 (see pp174-93)

Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio
 (see pp118-19) combines coral reefs, white-sand beaches, and lush forests full of wildlife that is easily spotted while biking well-maintained trails.

Parque Nacional Corcovado (see p191)

Teatro Nacional (see pp60-61) is San José's major architectural draw. This bustling and amorphous city's attractions also include museums honoring pre-Columbian culture.

SAN JOSÉ

Nestled amid craggy peaks, the capital city enjoys a splendid setting and idyllic weather. Its magnificent Teatro Nacional and outstanding museums add to San José's attractions. The city's strongest draw, however, is its location in the heart of Costa Rica, which is ideal for hub-and-spoke touring. For many visitors, San José is their first experience of the country, providing an intriguing introduction to the pleasures that await farther afield.

Affectionately called chepe (the local nickname for anyone named José) by its inhabitants, San José is perched at an elevation of 3,800 ft (1,150 m), with the Poás, Barva, and Irazú Volcanoes rising gracefully over the city to the north, and the rugged Talamanca Mountains to the south. Temperatures are a springlike 25°C (76°F) year-round, and the air is crisp and clear thanks to near-constant breezes.

Founded in 1737, San José grew very slowly through its first 100 years. Its creation on the eve of the coffee boom in the heart of coffee country, however, was advantageous. By 1823, the town had grown to challenge Cartago – the then capital – for supremacy. Following a brief civil war, San José was named capital and quickly eclipsed other cities as prominent cafetaleros (coffee barons) imported skilled European artisans to beautify the city with fine structures.

Since the 1960s, high-rise buildings and sprawling slum barrios (neighborhoods) have changed the profile of this city of one-third of a million people. Still, San José has its own charm. The main tourist sights, including the Teatro Nacional (National Theater), the gold and jade museums, and numerous plazas, are centered around the city core, within walking distance of one another. Everywhere, traffic squeezes tight at rush hour, when Costa Rican civility gives way to dog-eat-dog driving.

Varieties of fruit arranged temptingly in stalls at the Mercado Central

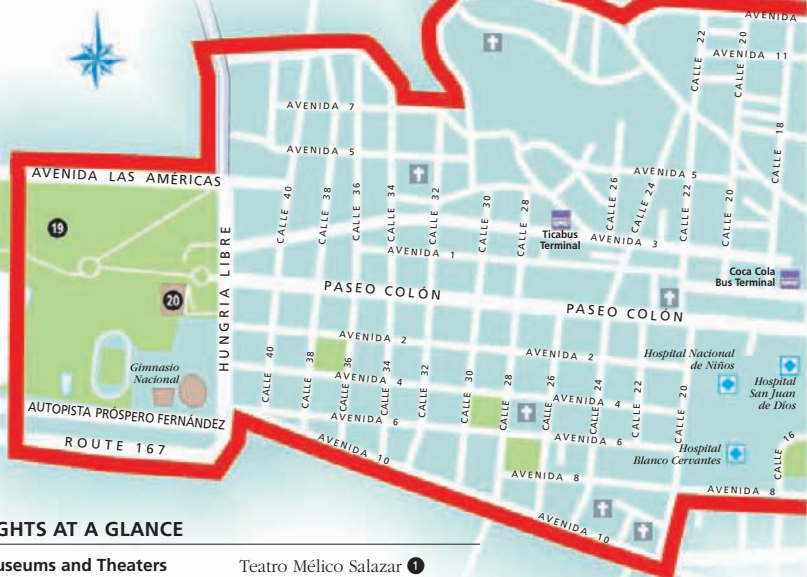

Exploring San José

Downtown San José features the city's top places of interest. The dazzling Teatro Nacional on Avenida 2, graced by Baroque and Neoclassical architecture, is San José's most remarkable building. The nearby Museo del Oro Precolombino, as well as the Museo de Jade Fidel Tristán Castro and the Museo Nacional in the east – all of which display pre-Columbian artifacts – are also major attractions. Another must-see is the Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura, to the northwest, with its superb rotating art exhibitions. Busts of prominent historical figures dot Parque España and Parque Nacional. The main historic quarter, Barrio Amón, boasts fine colonial structures along Avenida 9, while the suburb of Escazú offers excellent dining and a lively nightlife.

A quiet, tree-lined street in a residential locality of San José

0 meters 500
0 yards 500

SIGHTS AT A GLANCE

Museums and Theaters

Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura pp72-3 16
Centro Nacional de la Cultura 12
Museo de Arte Costarricense 20
Museo de Ciencias Naturales "La Salle" 21
Museo de Jade Fidel Tristán Castro 10
Museo del Oro Precolombino pp62-3 4
Museo Nacional 14

Teatro Mélico Salazar 1
Teatro Nacional pp60-61 3

Historic Buildings

Antigua Estación Ferrocarril al Atlántico 16
Asamblea Legislativa 13
Catedral Metropolitana 2
Edificio Correos 6
Edificio Metálico 8

Parks and Theme Parks

Parque Diversiones (Pueblo Antiguo) 22

Parque España 9
Parque Morazán 7
Parque Nacional 15
Parque Sabana 19

Public Buildings

Universidad de Costa Rica 17

Markets and Neighborhoods

Barrio Amón 11
Escazú 23
Mercado Central 5

Getting ready for some angling at the man-made lake in Parque Sabana

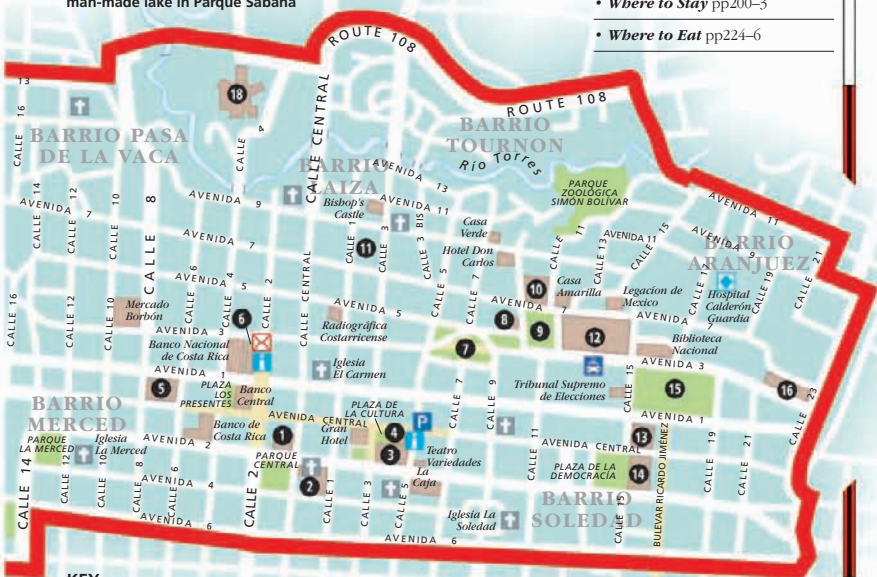

KEY

■ Area of the main map

SEE ALSO

- Where to Stay pp200–3
- Where to Eat pp224–6

KEY

- Sight/place of interest
- ✈ International airport
- ✈ Domestic airport
- 🚏 Bus station
- ℹ Tourist information
- P Parking
- ✉ Post office
- H Hospital
- ✝ Church
- ⚡ Expressway
- 🚶 Pedestrian street

GETTING AROUND

The main sights, concentrated in downtown San José, are best explored on foot. To explore farther afield, take a taxi – this is a good way of getting around the warren of narrow, congested, one-way streets. Alternatively, you can rent a car, but do be prepared for the aggressive driving style of Costa Ricans (see p271). Jose Santamaría International Airport and Tobias Bolaños domestic airport are located 10 miles (17 km) northwest and 4 miles (6 km) west of downtown respectively. The international airport is well-connected by airport taxis and buses to the city center; the domestic airport is served by taxis. For more details, see pages 264–5 and 270–71.

Street-by-Street: San José Center

Laid out in a grid of narrow, heavily trafficked one-way streets, San José's tightly condensed core contains the city's most significant sights. The main artery is the broad Avenida 2, which is thronged with honking taxis and buses threading past tree-shaded Parque Central. Running parallel to it and to the north is the Avenida Central, a pedestrian precinct lined with department stores, specialist shops, and places to eat. At the heart of this stroll-and-shop area lies the small concrete Plaza de la Cultura, which hums with activity all day – it is a popular meeting place for young people and is packed with hawkers as well as musicians and other entertainers.

Teatro Mélico Salazar

Dating from the 1920s, this theater has a Neoclassical façade and a simple interior ①

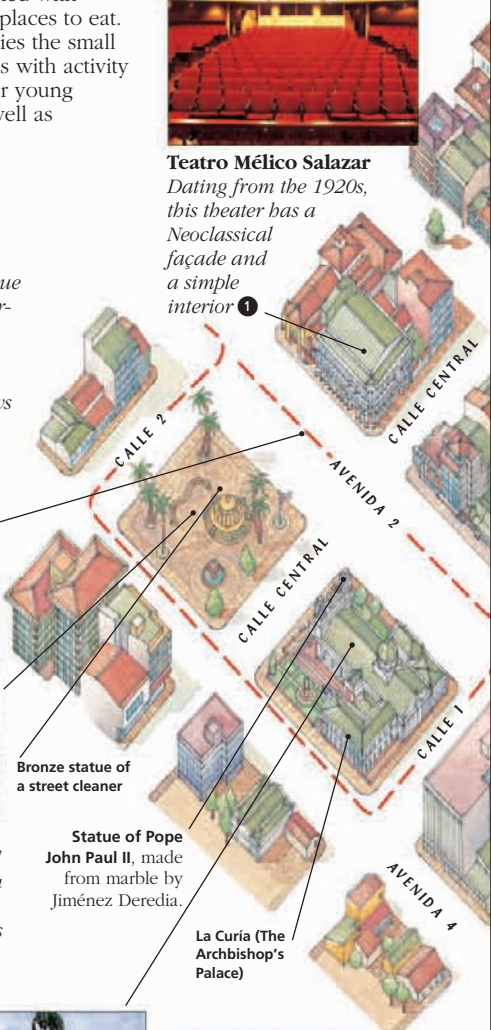

Avenida 2

This bustling avenue is lined with important buildings, including banks, between Calles 1 and 3. Traffic flows eastward on this four lane-wide avenue, which slopes downhill east of Calle 3.

Parque Central

Laid out in 1885 and shaded by palms and guanacaste trees, the compact central plaza has an unusual bandstand, which is supported by arches. Beneath it is the children's library, Biblioteca Carmen Lyra.

Bronze statue of a street cleaner

Statue of Pope John Paul II, made from marble by Jiménez Deredia.

La Curia (The Archbishop's Palace)

★ Cathedral

Metropolitana

The blue-domed Metropolitan Cathedral, built in 1871 in a simple Greek Orthodox style, features an elaborate altar ②

STAR SIGHTS

- ★ Cathedral Metropolitana
- ★ Museo del Oro Precolombino
- ★ Teatro Nacional

Plaza de la Cultura

Created between 1975 and 1983, this is San José's main hub of social activity, despite its relatively austere layout.

★ Teatro Nacional

The capital's finest architectural gem, the National Theater is renowned for its ceiling, which depicts a coffee harvest, and for its lavish tri-level, 1,040-seat auditorium. The theater was built in the early 1890s ③

The Gran Hotel, designed by architect Juan Joaquín Jiménez in 1930, is a city landmark (see p200).

Clock tower

★ Museo del Oro Precolombino

A subterranean modern structure, the Museum of Pre-Columbian Gold houses a superb collection of ancient gold adornments, as well as the National Coin Collection ④

ICT office

Teatro Variedades was founded in 1891. Today it functions as a cinema.

Parque Mora Fernández is a palm-shaded plaza, lively with marimba music.

Statue of Juan Mora Fernández, Costa Rica's first president.

La Caja (Social Security Building)

KEY

--- Suggested route

The horseshoe-shaped auditorium of Teatro Mélico Salazar

Teatro Mélico Salazar 1

Map 1 C4. Calle Central and Ave 2. Tel 2233-5172. 8am–4pm Mon–Fri. by appointment. www.teatromelico.go.cr

One of the city's landmarks, this theater was built in 1928 as the Teatro Raventós, and was renamed in 1986 after Manuel "Mélico" Salazar Zúñiga (1887–1950), a celebrated Costa Rican tenor. Designed by architect José Fabio Garnier, it has a Neoclassical façade adorned with fluted Corinthian pilasters. To the left of the entrance is a larger-than-life bronze bust of Zúñiga. To the right is a bas-relief plaque honoring José Raventós Gual, who had the theater built.

The handsome lobby, in checkered green-and-black tile, leads into a triple-tiered, horseshoe-shaped auditorium, which hosts theatrical and musical events, as well as folk shows. The auditorium boasts a striking parquet wooden floor beneath a wood-paneled ceiling, which is decorated with a simple mural and a wrought-iron chandelier.

Catedral Metropolitana 2

Map 1 C4. Calle Central and Aves 2/4. Tel 2221-3820. 6am–noon & 3–6pm Mon–Sat, 6am–9pm Sun.

San José's pre-eminent church, the Metropolitan Cathedral was built in 1871 to replace the original cathedral, which had been destroyed by an earthquake in 1820. Designed by Eusebio Rodríguez, the austere-looking structure combines Greek Orthodox, Neoclassical, and Baroque styles. Its linear façade is supported by an arcade of Doric columns and topped by a Neoclassical pediment with steeples on each side. Inside, a vaulted ceiling runs the length of the nave, supported by two rows of fluted columns. In a glass case to the left of the entrance is a life-size statue of Christ.

Although entirely lacking the ornate Baroque gilt of many other Latin American churches, the cathedral has many fine features, notably an exquisite Colonial-style tiled floor and beautiful stained-glass windows depicting biblical scenes. The main altar, beneath a cupola, comprises a simple wooden base atop a marble plinth and supports a wooden figure of Christ and cherubs.

Pillared façade of the austere Catedral Metropolitana

To the left of the main altar is the Capilla del Santísimo (Chapel of the Holy Sacrament), which has walls and ceilings decorated with wooden quadrants painted with floral motifs. The short gallery that leads to the chapel contains a glass-and-gilt coffin with a naked statue of Christ draped with a sash in the colors of the Costa Rican flag.

To the south of the cathedral is La Curia (The Palace of the Archbishop), built in 1887. This two-story structure has been remodeled, and is closed to the public.

A small garden in front features a life-size bronze statue of Monseñor Bernardo Augusto Thiel Hoffman

Fountain on Avenida Central

(1850–1901), the German-born second archbishop of Costa Rica. Hoffman lies buried in the crypt of the cathedral, alongside former president Tomás Guardia (see p45).

On the cathedral's north side is a contemporary marble statue of Pope John Paul II by Jiménez Deredia.

Teatro Nacional 3

See pp60–61.

Museo del Oro Precolombino 4

See pp62–3.

Mercado Central 5

Map 1 B3. Calles 6/8 and Aves Central/1. Tel 2295-6104. 6am–8pm Mon–Sat.

An intriguing curiosity, San José's Central Market was built in 1881. The building, which takes up an entire block northwest of the Catedral Metropolitana, is itself rather uninspiring, but its warren of narrow alleyways, hemmed in by more than 200 stalls, immerse visitors in a slice of Costa Rican life. This quintessential Latin American market thrives as a chaotic emporium of the exotic, with every conceivable item for sale, from herbal remedies and fresh-cut flowers to snakeskin boots and saddles for sabameros (cowboys).

Toward the center, sodas (food stalls) offer inexpensive cooked meals sold at the counter. The market extends one block north to Mercado Borbón, which has stalls of butchers, fishmongers, and fruit sellers, and buyers crowded in as thick as sardines. Next to the market's entrance on the southeast corner, there are plaques honoring important political figures.

Pickpockets operate within the tightly packed alleys of the market. Remember to leave your valuables in the hotel safe when you venture out. It is best to tuck your camera well out of sight when it is not in use.

Edificio Correos 6

Map 1 B3. Calle 2 and Aves 1/3.

Tel 2223-6918.  7:30am–6pm Mon–Fri, 7:30am–noon Sat.

 Museo Filatélico de Costa Rica Tel 2223-9766 (ext. 205).

 8am–5pm Mon–Fri.  public hols.

The building housing the main post office, or Correo Central, was completed in 1917. Designed by Luis Llach in eclectic style, it has a pea-green reinforced concrete façade, which is embellished with Corinthian pilasters. The arched centerpiece is topped by a shield and supported by angels bearing the national coat of arms. There is a tourist information office on the ground floor. The post office is abuzz with the comings and goings of locals picking up their mail at apartados (post office boxes) that fill the ground floor of the two-storey atrium.

The Edificio Correos, featuring a blend of architectural styles

Philatelists can view rare stamps in the small Museo Filatélico de Costa Rica (Philatelic Museum of Costa Rica), which takes up three rooms on the second floor. The first room has a fine collection of old telephones and telegraphic equipment that goes back more than a 100 years.

The collection of stamps occupies the other two rooms, which also have exhibits on the history of philately in Costa Rica. The nation's first stamp, from 1863, is displayed here. Other exhibits include important and rare stamps from abroad, including the English Penny Black. The museum hosts a stamp exchange on the first Saturday of every month. The Edificio Correos is fronted by a pedestrian plaza shaded by fig trees. Towering over the plaza is a statue of the first president of Costa Rica, Juan Mora Fernández, who was in power from 1824 to 1828. Nearby, to the southwest of the Edificio Correos is another square, Plaza Los Presentes, which is dominated by Los Presentes, a contemporary monument in bronze. Created in 1979 by well-known sculptor Fernando Calvo, the monument consists of statues of a dozen Costa Rican campesinos (peasant farmers).

Statue of Juan Mora Fernández opposite Edificio Correos

Los Presentes by Fernando Calvo, in Plaza Los Presentes, near Edificio Correos

Teatro Nacional ③

Statue of Music

Considered the finest historic building in San José, the National Theater was conceived in 1890, when Spanish-born prima donna Adelina Patti sidestepped Costa Rica while on a Central American tour due to the lack of a suitable venue. This spurred the ruling coffee barons to levy a tax on coffee exports to fund the building of a grand theater.

Locals claim, disputably, that the structure was modeled on the Paris Opera House.

Completed in 1897, it was inaugurated with a performance of El Fausto de Gounod by the Paris Opera. Declared a National Monument in 1965, the theater has a lavish Neo-Baroque interior, replete with statues, paintings, marble staircases, and parquet floors made of 10 species of hardwood.

La Danza de Vignami, painted on the ceiling of the auditorium

Teatro Café

The coffee shop adjoining the lobby is decorated in black and white tile, and has marble-topped tables. The ceiling is painted with a triptych.

Allegorical statues of the Muses of Music, Dance, and Fame top the Neoclassical façade.

Statue of Calderón de la Barca, the 17th-century dramatist, by Italian artist Adriático Froli.

The small garden is formally patterned and features a life-size marble statue of a female flautist (1997) by Jorge Jiménez Deredia.

Entrance Lobby

With its pink marble floor and bronze-tipped Corinthian marble columns, the lobby hints at the splendors to come. The doors are topped by gilt pediments adorned with lions' faces. The wooden ceiling has a simple floral motif.

A statue of Ludwig van Beethoven, created in the 1890s by Adriático Froli, stands in an alcove.

STAR FEATURES

- ★ Auditorium
- ★ Coffee Mural
- ★ Foyer

★ Coffee Mural

Depicting a coffee harvest, the huge mural on the ceiling of the intermezzo, between the lobby and the auditorium, was painted in 1897 by Milanese artist Aleardo Villa. The scene is full of errors, with coffee being shown as a coastal crop instead of a highland one.

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Map 1 C4. Calles 3/5 and Ave 2.
Tel 2221-9417. Cemeterio-Estadio. 9am–4pm Mon–Sat.
Shows Orquesta Sinfonia Nacional (National Symphony Orchestra) performances Mar–Dec: 8pm Thu and Fri; 10:30am Sun. 9am–5pm Mon–Sat.
www teatronacional.go.cr

The Palco Presidencial, or presidential balcony, has a ceiling mural, Alegoría a la Patria y la Justicia, painted in 1897 by Roberto Fontana.

The structure was built with a steel frame.

The exterior of the building is of sandstone.

★ Auditorium

Dominated by a rotunda ceiling with a mural of cherubs and deities, the red-and-gold auditorium has three floors, a horseshoe shape, and wrought-iron seats. The stage can be lowered and raised.

★ Foyer

A double staircase with gold-gilt banisters leads to the magnificent foyer, which features pink marble and a surfeit of crystals, gilt mirrors, and gold-leaf embellishments. Splendid murals show scenes of Costa Rican life.

Museo del Oro Precolombino 4

Frog figurine in gold

Occupying the starkly modern subterranean space beneath the Plaza de la Cultura and managed by the Banco Central de Costa Rica, the Museum of Pre-Columbian Gold boasts a dazzling display of ancient gold items.

The collection consists of more than 1,600 pieces of pre-Columbian gold dating back to AD 500. Most of the amulets, earrings, shamanic animal figures, and erotic statuettes exhibited here originated in southwest Costa Rica, attesting to the sophisticated art of the Diquis culture. The uses and crafting of these items are demonstrated with the help of models and other displays, which also depict the social and cultural evolution of pre-Columbian cultures.

★ El Guerrero

The most stunning piece is the life-size warrior adorned with gold ornaments, including a gold beadband, chest disc (paten), amulets, and ankle rings. Gold objects were a symbol of authority.

The First Coin

Costa Rica's first coin, called the Medio Escudo, was minted in 1825, when the country was part of the Federation of Central America (see p44).

Frog figurines, a traditional symbol of life for indigenous tribes, are among the gold displays.

Auditorium

Model of an Indian village

Third level

Gold Craftsmanship

This section explains how pre-Columbian cultures utilized repoussé, the technique of decorating metal surfaces by hammering from the back.

★ Museo de Numismática

The National Coin Museum exhibits date back to 1502. The displays include coins, bank notes, and unofficial currency such as coffee tokens.

El Curandero (The Healer) is a life-size model of a "medicine man" performing a ritual healing using medicinal plants.

STAR FEATURES

- ★ El Guerrero
- ★ Museo de Numismática

Golden treasures

The main exhibition space, situated on the third level, is packed with golden objects of all sizes, from large gold chest discs to small, intricate pieces of jewelry.

Subterranean Vault

Accessed from Calle 5 by a broad staircase, the Gold Museum is housed in an underground space protected by steel doors.

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Map 1 C4. Plaza de la Cultura, Calle 5 and Aves Central/2.

Tel 2243-4202. all downtown buses. 9:30am–5pm daily.

by appt. www.museosdelbancocentral.org

KEY

- Museo de Numismática
- Temporary exhibition gallery
- Pre-Columbian Gold Museum (introduction and orientation area)
- Pre-Columbian Gold Museum (exhibition of gold pieces)
- Nonexhibition space

GALLERY GUIDE

The museum occupies three floors below the plaza. Beyond the entrance, a broad foyer leads past a temporary exhibition space to the Museo de Numismática. Adjacent to this is a spiral staircase that descends to the second level. This floor offers an introduction to pre-Columbian culture and metallurgy, as well as temporary exhibitions that are changed every four months. The third level features an auditorium as well as the main gallery, which displays a permanent exhibition of ancient gold items.

Finca 4 Site

This is a replica of a pre-Columbian grave unearthed in the 1950s. Discovered on a banana plantation in southeastern Costa Rica, the grave contained 88 gold objects.

LOST WAX TECHNIQUE

Pre-Columbian groups, notably the Chibchas and Diquis of the Pacific southwest, were masterful goldsmiths, skilled in the use of the “lost wax” technique. Here, the desired form is carved in wax, then molded with clay and baked. The wax melts, leaving a negative into which molten metal is poured to attain the required result. Most pre-Columbian pieces were alloys of gold and copper, with the alloy called tumbaga being the most commonly used.

Gold shaman figurine

CORREOS

TELÉGRAFOS

The intriguing Edificio Metálico, constructed entirely of metal

Parque Morazán 7

Map 2 D3 Calles 5/9 and Aves 3/5.

Laid out as Plaza González Víquez on the site of an open-air reservoir in 1930, this small park was later renamed after Francisco Morazán (see p44). The Honduran-born Central American federalist served briefly as president of Costa Rica before being executed in 1842. Shaded by tabebuia (also called trumpet trees) that bloom in the dry season, the park is popular with office workers, schoolchildren, and lovers, although it is to be avoided at night when transvestites gather.

The park's four ornate iron gateways are topped by Roman urns. At its center is the domed Neoclassical Templo de Música, built in 1920. Busts honor Morazán and other luminaries such as South American liberator Simón Bolívar (1783–1830). To the park's southwest is a bronze statue of former president Julio García, seated in a chair. Facing the park on the northeast, is an 11-ft (3.5-m) tall statue of another former president, Daniel Quiros, by Costa Rican artist Olger Villegas.

Edificio Metálico 8

Map 2 D3. Calle 9 and Aves 5/7. Tel 2222-0026.

Constructed entirely of prefabricated pieces of metal, this intriguing San José edifice, standing between Parque Morazán and Parque España, was designed by French architect Charles Thirio. The metal pieces were cast in Belgium in 1892 and shipped to Costa Rica for welding and assembly in situ. Since then, it has functioned as an elementary school, the Escuela Buenaventura Corrales y Julia Lang. A small bust of Minerva, the Roman goddess of wisdom, sits on top of its imposing Neoclassical façade. Take in a bird's-eye view of its exterior from the lobby of the Museo de Jade Fidel Tristán Castro across the street.

Carved pillars at Casa Amarilla in 1903, that the Costa Rican national anthem, written by José María Zeledón Brenes (1877–1949) and Manuel María Gutiérrez (1829–87), was first performed.

On the northeast corner, a quaint Colonial-style pabellón (pavilion), erected in 1947, is inlaid with sepia-toned ceramic murals of the apparition of the Lady of Los Angeles, the church of Orosi, and the cathedral of Heredia. A patinated life-size statue of conquistador Juan Vázquez de Coronado (see p42) stands at the southwest corner of the park. Brick pathways wind past busts of important figures, including Queen Isabel II of Spain (1830–1904) and philanthropist Andrew Carnegie (1835–1919). Facing the northwest side of the park is the ochre-colored, stuccoed Casa Amarilla (Yellow House). Designed by architect Henry Wiffield in an ornate Spanish Baroque style, it was completed in 1916 to house the Pan-American Court of

Parque España 9

Map 2 D3. Calles 9/11 and Aves 3/7.  Casa Amarilla Tel 2223-7555.  8am–4pm Mon–Fri.  by appointment.

Shaded by densely packed trees and bamboo groves, this leafy plaza is pleasantly full of birdsong. It was here,

The Colonial-style pavilion in Parque España

Justice. In later years it served as the Presidential Residence and the Asamblea Legislativa. Today, the Foreign Relations Ministry has its offices here.

The most striking element of Casa Amarilla is the grand ornamental lintel above the front door. The grounds behind the ministry contain a section of the Berlin Wall; this can be viewed at the corner of Calle 13 and Avenida 9.

The towering building west of the Casa Amarilla is the Instituto Nacional de Seguro (INS or the National Institute of Insurance). In its front courtyard, paying homage to the institution of the family, is La Familia, a huge sculpture by Francisco Zúñiga (see p19).

The Legación de Mexico, 55 yd (50 m) east along Avenida 7, was built in 1924 and is a splendid example of Colonial-style architecture. The armistice of the 1948 War of Liberation was signed here.

Museo de Jade Fidel Tristán Castro 10

Map 2 D3. Calle 9 and Ave 7.
Tel 2287-6034. 8:30am–3:30pm Mon–Fri, 9am–1pm Sat.
 public hols.

Located on the first floor of the National Institute of Insurance (INS) building, the Fidel Tristán Castro Jade Museum contains the largest collection of pre-Columbian jade in the Americas. It was founded by Fidel Tristán Castro, the first president of the INS, in 1977. The collection consists of adzes, ceremonial heads, and decorative pieces from 500 BC to AD 800. There are also metates (grinding tables made of volcanic stone), ceramics, and gold ornaments. The Sala de Jade displays jade pendants in kaleidoscopic hues of green and blue, exquisitely backlit to demonstrate their translucent quality. The jade pieces that make up this collection did not come from archaeological sites – they were purchased from private collectors who had bought them from looters.

Barrio Amón 11

Map 1 C2. Calles Central/9 and Aves 7/13.

The richest architectural collection in San José is the complex of historic homes in this residential barrio (neighborhood), founded in the 1890s by French immigrant Amón Fasileau Duplantier. Once on the verge of decay, the area has now undergone restoration.

The most interesting homes are along Avenida 9; the stretch between Calles 3 and 7 is lined with beautiful ceramic wall murals by local artist Fernando Matamoros showing traditional Costa Rican scenes.

Begin at Calle 11, where No. 980 is a two-story colonial mansion boasting a life-size campesino (peasant) in pre-cast concrete gazing over the wrought-iron railing. At Calle 7, the Hotel Don Carlos

Detail of a ceramic mural showing a traditional scene, Barrio Amón

(see p200) was formerly the residence of President Tomás Guardia (see p45) and is a curious blend of Art Deco and Neoclassical styles. One block west, at the corner of Calle 5, is the Casa Verde, a clapboard building of New Orleans pine, dating to 1910 and notable for its soaring lounge spectacularly lit by a stained-glass atrium.

The most audacious building in this barrio is the Bishop's Castle at Avenida 11 and Calle 3. It was built in 1930 in ornate Moorish style with turrets, crenellations, keyhole windows, a central dome, and a façade decorated with glazed tiles showing scenes from Don Quixote.

Centro Nacional de la Cultura 12

Map 2 D3. Calles 11/15 and Aves 3/7.
Tel 2255-3638; Museo de Arte y Diseño Contemporáneo: 2257-9370.
 10:30am–5pm Tue–Sat.
 10am–3pm Tue–Fri by appt. www.madr.ac.cr

Immediately east of Parque España, the rambling structure of the National Center of Culture takes up a block on the site of the former Fábrica

Nacional de Licores (State Liquor Factory). In 1994, the defunct factory was converted into the multi-faceted Centro Nacional de la Cultura (CENAC), although traces of the old distillery can still be seen. The Ministry of Culture is located here, as are venues hosting the National Theater Company and the National Dance Company (see p245). Most of the extant buildings date to 1856, as does the perimeter wall, whose stone west gate is topped by a triangular pediment. Note the reloj de sol (sun clock), carved into the perimeter wall to the right of the southeast portalón (gate) by architect Teodorico Quirós (see p19).

The Museo de Arte y Diseño Contemporáneo (Museum of Contemporary Art and Design) occupies the southeast part of the complex and features permanent and rotating exhibitions of art, architecture, and ceramics in six rooms. Evelia con baton, a sculpture by Francisco Zúñiga, stands in the west courtyard.

Detail on the façade of the Centro Nacional de la Cultura

JADE CARVING

Jade anthropomorphic figure

Jade carving was introduced to the region by cultures from the north around 500 BC and died out around AD 800, when it was replaced by gold. The indigenous people used saws made of fiber string, as well as drills and crude quartz-tipped chisels, to carve the semi-precious stone into necklaces, pendants, and religious figurines bearing replicas of animal motifs. No local source is known to have existed: jade was traded from Guatemala and neighboring regions.

Street-by-Street: Around Parque Nacional

Commanding a bluff on the east side of downtown, Parque Nacional, one of the city's largest parks, is a bucolic tree-shaded retreat in the heart of San José. Surrounding the park on three sides are the country's most important government buildings, including the Legislative Assembly complex. Also in the vicinity are many of Costa Rica's significant cultural sights, such as the National Museum. The area makes for pleasant strolling, especially with the addition of a pedestrian precinct sloping south from Parque Nacional, which is a lovely place to sit and relax.

Biblioteca Nacional

This modern-looking structure was erected in 1969–71 to house the national library.

Centro Nacional de la Cultura

Occupying the site of the former State Liquor Factory, the National Center of Culture's attractions include the state-of-the-art Museum of Contemporary Art and Design 12

A fish pond, stocked with koi, runs along the western side of the park.

Epítome del Vuelo statue

Plaza de la Libertad Electoral

This small, semi-circular plaza honors the nation's democracy. Neoclassical columns enclose a pink granite statue, Epítome del Vuelo (1996), created by sculptor José Sancho Benito.

The Tribunal Supremo de Elecciones building houses the government body that ensures the integrity of elections.

STAR SIGHTS

- ★ Asamblea Legislativa
- ★ Museo Nacional
- ★ Parque Nacional

0 meters 100
0 yards 100

KEY

— Suggested route

★ Parque Nacional

Centered on the impressive granite-and-bronze Monumento Nacional (1892), this fine park is thick with trees and dotted with busts of several Latin American heroes 15

Bulevar Ricardo Jiménez

This stretch of Calle 17 running south of Parque Nacional is a handsome palm-lined, pedestrian-only causeway. It is also known as the Camino de la Corte.

Bust of José Martí,
the Cuban patriot.

Statue of Juan Santamaría

★ Asamblea Legislativa

Costa Rica's Legislative Assembly is housed in three historic buildings dating back to 1914. Built in different styles, the structures contain several galleries 13

Casa Rosada is occupied by congressional offices.

Castillo Azul, the oldest of the Asamblea Legislativa buildings, earlier served as the presidential palace.

Bulevar
Ricardo Jiménez

Plaza de la Democracia was laid out in a series of concrete terraces in 1989 for the Hemispheric Summit. On the southwest corner stands a bronze statue of former president José "Don Pepe" Figueres (see p47).

Bust of Don Andrés Bello, a Venezuelan intellectual.

★ Museo Nacional

Located in an early 19th-century fortress, Costa Rica's National Museum traces the history of the nation from pre-Columbian to contemporary times 14

Asamblea Legislativa 13

Map 2 E3. Calles 15/17 & Ave Central. Tel 2243-2000.

compulsory: 9am; 2243-2547.

Legislative debates 3pm Mon–Thu; by apt. www.asamblea.go.cr

The country's seat of government is in an enclave of four buildings, covering an entire block. The main structure, Edificio del Plenario, built in 1958, serves as the congress building along with an adjoining edifice. A bronze statue of national hero Juan Santamaría (see p84), torch in hand, stands in the north courtyard. The pink Casa Rosada, to the northeast, houses the offices of various political parties.

The Mediterranean-style Castillo Azul to the southeast was built in 1911 for Máximo Fernández, then a presidential aspirant. It served as the Presidential Residence until 1927, after which it was briefly the US mission. Since 1989, it has been used for official functions and contains government offices. Its six salons, boasting beautiful hardwood floors and Italian marble, include the Sala Alfredo González Flores, which is used for cabinet meetings, and the Sala Próceres de la Libertad, with its gilt-framed portraits of Latin American liberators such as Simón Bolívar.

Visitors are admitted to the Edificio del Plenario to witness legislative debates. Note that sandals are not permitted for men, nor bare legs for either sex.

Part of the Asamblea Legislativa complex in San José

Pre-Columbian stone spheres in the Museo Nacional

Museo Nacional 14

Map 2 E4. Calle 17 & Aves Central/2. Tel 2257-1433.

8:30am–4:30pm Tue–Sat, 9am–4:30pm Sun. public hols.

www.museocostarica.go.cr

Dramatic and imposing, the crenellated, ochre-colored Bellavista Fortress – opposite the Legislative Assembly – was built in 1917 and served as an army barracks. Its exterior walls, with towers at each corner, are pocked with bullet holes from the 1948 civil war. Following his victory, José “Don Pepe” Figueres (see pp46–7) disbanded the army, and the fortress became the venue for the National Museum, which had been founded in 1887.

The entrance, on the east side, opens on to a landscaped courtyard displaying pre-Columbian carretas (ox-carts), stone bolas (spheres), and colonial-era cannons. The museum, to the right of the entrance, is arranged thematically in a counter-clockwise direction. Rooms are dedicated to geological, colonial, archeological, contemporary, and religious history. The displays start from the first arrival of humans in Costa Rica and go up to the formation of the nation and recent events: a key exhibit is the 1987 Nobel Peace Prize awarded to president Oscar Arias Sánchez (see p47). The museum has a particularly impressive pre-Columbian collection, notably of metates (stone tables) and ceramics, as well as spectacular gold ornaments displayed in the Sala de Oro, in the northeast tower. The Sala Colonial is laid out with rustic colonial furniture, and looks as a room would have looked in the 18th century.

Steps lead down from the courtyard to a large netted butterfly garden in the southwest corner. Beyond the butterfly garden lies Plaza de la Democracia, which was laid out in 1989 and received a much-needed facelift in 2009. The stepped plaza hosts a 1994 bronze statue of José Figueres; a crafts market occupies the western end.

Parque Nacional 15

Map 2 E3. Calles 15/19 and Aves 1/3.

The largest of San José's inner-city parks, laid out in 1895, this is also its most appealing, although it is to be avoided at night. The peaceful park is set on a gentle hill that rises eastward. Stone benches fringe the irregular paths that snake beneath flowering trees, swaying palms, and bamboo groves. The massive Monumento Nacional is under towering trees at the center. Cast in the Rodin studios in Paris and unveiled on September 15, 1892, it is dedicated to the heroic deeds of the War of 1856. Its granite pedestal has five bronze Amazons representing the Central American nations

Bust of Don Andrés Bello in Parque Nacional

Children playing by a fish pond in Parque Nacional

repelling the adventurer William Walker (see p45). Costa Rica stands in the middle holding a flag in one hand and supporting a wounded Nicaragua with the other; El Salvador holds a sword, Guatemala an axe, and Honduras an arch and shield. Bronze bas-reliefs to each side depict scenes from the battles.

Busts dotted around the park honor such Latin American nationalists as the Mexican revolutionary and priest Miguel Hidalgo (1753–1811), the Venezuelan poet and intellectual Don Andrés Bello (1781–1865), and the Cuban patriot and poet José Martí (1853–95).

The park is surrounded by important buildings. The Biblioteca Nacional (National Library) is to the north, and to the south, the pedestrianized Bulevar Ricardo Jiménez, named for the three-time president, slopes downhill three blocks to the building of the Tribunal of Justice.

Antigua Estación Ferrocarril al Atlántico 16

Map 2 F3.
Calles 21/23 and Ave 3.

To the northeast of the Parque Nacional is the former Estación Ferrocarril al Atlántico (Atlantic Railroad Station). Built in 1908, this ornate building, which resembles a pagoda, later became the terminus for the famous “Jungle Train,” discontinued in 1991 following a devastating earthquake that destroyed much of the railway line. The building once housed the Museo de Formas, Espacios y Sonidos (Museum of Form, Space & Sound), which closed in 2007, when the former station was earmarked as the entrance for a new presidential palace that is still awaiting construction. For the time being, rail buffs can appreciate the vintage rolling stock to the rear and east of the building. This includes Locomotora 59, a 1939 steam locomotive imported from Philadelphia for the Northern Railway Company.

A bust of Tomás Guardia (see p45), under whom the railroad was established, stands in front of the building, next to an obelisk commemorating the abolition of capital punishment in 1877.

The ornate, pagoda-style exterior of the Antigua Estación Ferrocarril al Atlántico

Display of butterflies at San José's Museo de Insectos

Universidad de Costa Rica 17

Calle Central, San Pedro. Tel 2207-4000. Museo de Insectos Tel 2207-5647. 1–5pm Mon–Fri. Planetario Tel 2207-2580. for shows: 8:30, 9:30 & 10:30am Mon–Fri; 10am, 11am, 2pm & 3pm Sat.

The University of Costa Rica imbues the suburb of San Pedro with bohemian life. The campus entrance is on Calle Central (off Avenida Central), which throbs with student bars and cafés. The campus itself is not particularly appealing, although numerous busts and statues are sprinkled about the tree-shaded grounds. A botanical garden is located in the southwest corner.

The Museo de Insectos, in the basement of the Music Department in the northeast corner of the campus, boasts a large display of butterflies, beetles, spiders, wasps, and other insects. A planetarium hosts daily presentations in Spanish. Call ahead to request an English-language showing.

Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura 18

Housed in a fortress-like building that served as the penitenciario central (central penitentiary) from 1910 to 1979, the Costa Rican Science and Cultural Center was inaugurated in 1994. The ochre façade, topped by salmon-colored crenellations, presents a dramatic sight at night, when it is illuminated. The center contains the Galería Nacional, whose airy exhibition halls feature paintings, sculptures, and other art forms by Costa Rica's leading exponents of avant-garde art. Also here is the Museo de los Niños, with dozens of thematic hands-on exhibits that provide children with an understanding of nature, science, technology, and culture. The center includes a youth center and auditorium. Scattered around the complex are models of various modes of transport.

Stained-Glass Ceiling

A skylit vidriera (stained-glass window) by Italian Claudio Dueñas lights the staircase to the Galería Nacional.

Museo Histórico Penitenciario

The old jail cells are preserved in their original condition in this area. Historic photographs show the jail in former years.

The eastern wall features paintings by contemporary artists such as Fabio Herrera.

★ Galería Nacional

Occupying 14 large rooms upstairs, the National Gallery showcases rotating exhibits of contemporary works by local artists in spotlighted rooms converted from former jail cells.

STAR FEATURES

- ★ Galería Nacional
- ★ Museo de los Niños

Sala Kaopakome

Named for an indigenous Bribri word meaning "Hall of Meetings," this space is used for artistic performances and other events.

Genesis

This granite sculpture (1998) by Jorge Jiménez Deredia shows a woman evolving from an egg.

The Auditorio Nacional

the nation's premier auditorium, hosts performances of music and dance.

Imagen Cómica (1998) by Jorge Jiménez Deredia is a bronze and marble sculpture.

The entrance is in the form of a medieval castle, with twin turrets.

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Map 1 B1. Calle 4 and 110 yd (100 m) N of Ave 9. Tel 2233-4929. Sabana-Cementerio along Ave 3. Best to take a taxi. 8am-3:30pm Tue-Fri, 9:30am-5pm Sat & Sun. www.museocr.org
Auditorio Nacional
Tel 2222-7647.

★ Museo de los Niños

The Children's Museum, dedicated to interactive education, is spread throughout 39 separate rooms, with exhibits on the themes of astronomy, Earth, Costa Rica, ecology, science, human beings, and communications.

Escuela "El Grano de Oro" has exhibits on the coffee culture and the history of coffee in Costa Rica.

An electric train and carriages date from 1928-30, when the rail system was electrified.

Helicopter

Aircraft cockpit

Complejo Juvenil

Designed as a learning center for youth, the twin-level complex features a library, with books, audio cassettes, music CDs, interactive games, and an Internet café.

Parque Sabana 19

Calle 42/Sabana Oeste and Ave las Américas/Sabana Sur.

Officially named Parque Metropolitano La Sabana Padre Antonio Chapui, after the first priest of San José (1710–83), this park was the city's main airfield until 1955, when it was converted into a bucolic retreat and sports venue. The former airport buildings now house the Museo de Arte Costarricense. Looming over the park are the curving ICE (Costa Rican Institute of Electricity) tower to the north, and the strangely sloping Controlaría de la República, the government's administrative headquarters, to the south.

The park, which is accessed from downtown via the wide Paseo Colón, is popular with Costa Rican families, who picnic on weekends beneath the eucalyptus and pine groves. The park's facilities include jogging and cycling tracks, basketball, volleyball, and tennis courts, riding trails, a swimming pool, a gymnasium, soccer fields, and the National Stadium, completed in 2010. On the south side, a man-made lake is surrounded by modern sculptures. To the park's west, a cross honors Pope John Paul's visit to Costa Rica in 1983. It is best to avoid the park at night.

Museo de Arte Costarricense 20

Calle 42 and Paseo Colón. Tel 2222-7155.   9am–5pm Tue–Fri, 10am–4pm Sat & Sun.  public hols.  free on Sun.    www.musarco.go.cr

Costa Rica's leading museum of fine art, on the east side of Parque Sabana, is situated in the Colonial-style former airport terminal that closed in the 1950s. The Costa Rican Art Museum displays more than 3,200 important 20th-century works of art by Costa Rican sculptors and painters, as well as works by a smattering of foreign artists, including the Mexican Diego Rivera (1886–1957). Only a fraction of the museum's collection is on display, in rotating exhibitions that change yearly. Many of the works, most of which are privately owned, celebrate an archaic, pastoral way of life, best exemplified by El Portón Rojo (1945) by Teodorico Quirós Alvarado (see p19).

A highlight of the collection, and not to be missed, are Francisco Amighetti's wooden sculptures and woodcuts. On the second floor, the Salón Dorado has a bas-relief mural in bronze and stucco by French sculptor Louis Ferrón. Sweeping around all four walls, the panorama depicts an idealized version of Costa Rican history from pre-Columbian times to the 1940s. On the north wall is a representation of Christopher Columbus with Indians kneeling before him.

View of the Museo de Arte Costarricense, San José

The Jardín de Esculturas (Sculpture Garden) at the back of the museum, exhibits works by prominent sculptors, and also displays pre-Columbian esferas (spheres) and petroglyphs. Most intriguing are the Tres Mujeres Caminando, Francisco Zúñiga's sculpture of three women, and the granite Danaide, a female curled in the fetal position, by Max Jiménez Huete.

Museo de Ciencias Naturales "La Salle" 21

Sabana Sur. Tel 2232-1306.   8am–4pm Mon–Sat, 9am–5pm Sun.  public hols.

Located in the former premises of the Colegio La Salle school, the La Salle Museum of Natural Sciences was founded in 1960.

Flags for sale in downtown San José

A spectacular bird diorama at Museo de Ciencias Naturales "La Salle"

Housing one of the most comprehensive collections of native and exotic flora and fauna in the world, it boasts more than 70,000 items, from molluscs to moths to manatees. A dinosaur exhibit in the central courtyard includes a replica skeleton of a Tyrannosaurus Rex made of resin. The fossil, shell, and butterfly displays are particularly noteworthy. Most exhibits are in dioramas that try to recreate natural environments. Snakes are poised to strike their prey. Fish swim suspended on invisible wire. The stuffed species are a bit moth-eaten, and their contrived contortions often comic. Despite this, the museum provides an interesting introduction to Costa Rica's natural world.

A traditional dance performance at Parque Diversiones

Parque Diversiones (Pueblo Antiguo) 22

1 mile (1.6 km) W of Hospital México, La Uruca. Tel 2242-3500.
 ☎ 9am-7pm Fri-Sun. ♿ ♿ 11
 🌐 www.parquediversiones.com/pueblo.htm

This splendid park, in Barrio La Uruca, 2 miles (3 km) west of downtown, draws local families not only for the roller coasters, water slides, and other pay-as-you-go rides, but also for the marvellous re-creations of typical early-20th-century Costa Rican settings in the adjoining Pueblo Antiguo (Old Village).

Pueblo Antiguo has three sections: the coast, the capital city, and the countryside. Buildings in traditional architectural style include a church, a market, a fire station, a bank, and a railway station. There are several original adobe structures, such as a coffee mill, a sugar mill, and a milking barn, which have been moved here from the countryside. A farmstead is stocked with live animals.

Victorian-style Casa de Las Tías hotel in San Rafael de Escazú

Horse-drawn carriages, ox-carts, and an electric train offer rides, and actors in period costume dramatize the past. Folkloric shows with music and dance bring the place to life on Friday and Saturday evenings. Parque Diversiones has several craft shops as well as a restaurant that serves traditional Costa Rican cuisine.

Escazú 23

2 miles (3 km) W of Parque Sabana. ☎ ☎ Día del Boyero (Mar). Barry Biesanz Woodworks Barrio Bello Horizonte. Tel 2289-4337.
 ☎ 8am-5pm Mon-Fri, Sat by appt. ♿ ♿
 🌐 www.biesanz.com

This upscale district lies west of Parque Sabana and is accessed by the Carretera Prospero Fernández. It exudes an appeal that it owes partly to its blend of antiquity and modernity, and partly to its salubrious position at the foot of Cerro Escazú mountain. The suburb, which derives its name from the indigenous word itzkatzu (resting place), sprawls uphill for several miles. It is divided into three main barrios – San Rafael de Escazú, San Miguel de Escazú, and San Antonio de Escazú.

Modernity is concentrated in congested San Rafael de Escazú, where an exquisite Colonial-style church, designed in the 1930s by architect Teodorico Quirós Alvarado, is encircled by high-rise condominiums and US-style malls. Half a mile (1 km) uphill, in San Miguel de Escazú, admire the colonial-era adobe houses, each painted with a strip of blue – many local residents still firmly believe that this will ward off witches.

San Antonio de Escazú, farther uphill, is a farming community. Time your visit here for the second Sunday of March, when flower-bedecked carretas

(oxcarts) parade during Día del Boyero (Oxcart Drivers' Day), a festival honoring the men who drive the oxcarts. Barry

Biesanz Woodworks is in the barrio of Bello Horizonte, in east Escazú.

This is the workshop of Costa

Rica's leading woodcarver and craftsman, who creates elegantly beautiful furniture, bowls, and boxes from Costa Rica's hardwoods. His works are available at the studio and at upscale San José stores.

Detail of church dome in San Miguel de Escazú

SAN JOSÉ STREET FINDER

The map below shows the area covered by the map on pages 54–5, as well as the city center area shown on the Street Finder maps on pages 78–9. It also shows the main highways used for getting around the potentially confusing area that is greater San José.

All map references for places of interest, hotels, and restaurants in San José city

Tourists geared up to explore San José center refer to the Street Finder maps in this section. An index of street names and all the places of interest marked on the maps can be found on the facing page. Attractions located to the west of downtown are shown on the map on pages 54–5, while more distant places of interest are plotted on the inset Greater San José map on page 55.

The busy Calle Central, which runs north–south through the center of downtown San José

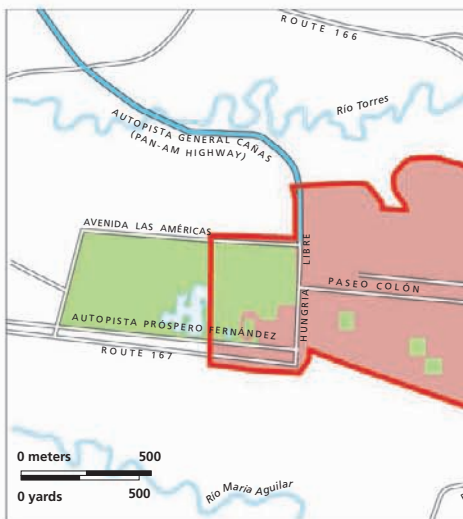

SCALE OF MAPS 1–2

0 meters 500

0 yards 500

KEY TO STREET FINDER

	Major sight
	Place of interest
	Other building
	Bus station
	Visitor information office
	Hospital
	Police station
	Church
	Post office
	Pedestrian street

0 meters 500

0 yards 500

Street Finder Index

A

Antigua Estación
Ferrocarril al Atlántico	2 E3
Archivos Nacionales	2 D4
Asamblea Legislativa	2 E3
Avenida 1	1 A3
2	1 B4
3	1 A3
4	1 A4
5	1 A2
6	1 A4
7	1 A2
8	1 A4
9	1 B2
10	1 A5
11	1 A2
12	1 A5
13	1 A1
14	1 A5
15	1 A1
16	1 B5
17	1 A1
10 bis	2 F5
12 bis	2 E5
Central	1 A3

B

Banco Central	1 B3
Banco de Costa Rica	1 B3
Banco Nacional de Costa Rica	1 B3
Biblioteca Nacional	2 E3
Bulevar Ricardo Jiménez	2 E4
Bishop's Castle	1 C2

C

Calle 1	1 C3
2	1 B2
3	1 C3
4	1 B2
5	2 D2
6	1 B2
7	2 D2
8	1 A1
9	2 D3
10	1 A1
11	2 D2
12	1 A2
13	2 E2
14	1 A2
15	2 E2
16	1 A1
17	2 E3
18	1 A1
19	2 F2
21	2 F2
23	2 F2
25	2 F3
27	2 F4
29	2 F4
3 bis	1 C2
Central	1 C1
Carretera Guápiles	1 C1
Casa Amarilla	2 D3
Casa Verde	2 D2
Catedral Metropolitana	1 C4
Centro Comercial El Pueblo	2 D1
Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura	1 B1
Centro Nacional de la Cultura	2 D3
Clínica Bíblica	1 C5
Clínica Santa Rita	2 E5

Coca Cola Bus Terminal	1 A3
Corte Suprema de Justicia	2 E4

E

Edificio Correos	1 B3
Edificio Metálico	2 D3

G

Gran Hotel	1 C3
------------	------

H

Highway 5	1 C1
Hospital Calderón Guardia	2 E3
Hospital San Juan de Dios	1 A3
Hotel Don Carlos	2 D2

I

Iglesia El Carmen	1 C3
Iglesia La Dolorosa	1 C5
Iglesia La Merced	1 A4
Iglesia La Soledad	2 D4

L

La Caja	1 C4
La Curia	1 C4
Legación de Mexico	2 E3

M

Mercado Borbón	1 A3
Mercado Central	1 B3
Museo de Jade Fiel	2 D3
Tristán Castro	2 D3
Museo del Oro	1 C3
Precolombino	1 C3
Museo Nacional	2 E4

P

Parque Central	1 B4
Parque España	2 D3
Parque la Merced	1 A4
Parque Morazán	2 D3
Parque Nacional	2 E3
Parque Solón Núñez	1 A4
Parque Zoológica Simón Bolívar	2 D2
Paseo de Los Estudiantes	2 D4
Plaza de la Cultura	1 C3
Plaza de la Democracia	2 E4
Plaza de la Libertad Electoral	2 E3
Plaza Los Presentes	1 B3

R

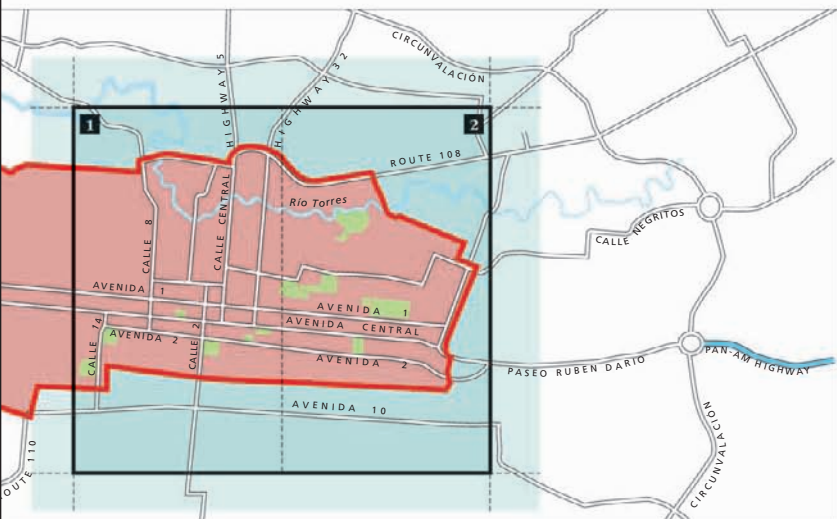

Radiográfica Costarricense	1 C3
Roja Cruz	1 A4
Route 108	2 F1
Route 166	1 A1

S

Servicio de Parques Nacionales	2 F5
Sirca Terminal	1 C4

T

Teatro Mélico Salazar	1 B4
Teatro Nacional	1 C4
Teatro Variedades	1 C4
Tribunal Supremo de Elecciones	2 E3
Tribunales de Justicia	2 E4

D

E

F

2

1

Centro Comercial El Pueblo

ROUTE 108

ROUTE 108

BARRIO TOURNON

PARQUE ZOOLOGICA SIMON BOLIVAR

Rio Torres

BARRIO OTOYA

BARRIO ARANJUEZ

AVENIDA 11

Casa Verde

Hotel Don Carlos

PARQUE ZOOLOGICA SIMON BOLIVAR

AVENIDA 11

AVENIDA 9

AVENIDA 15

AVENIDA 13

AVENIDA 11

CALLE 23

CALLE 5

CALLE 7

CALLE 7

CALLE 17

CALLE 13

CALLE 15

CALLE 17

Museo de Jade Fidel Tristán Castro

Casa Amarilla

Legación de México

Hospital Calderón Guardia

Edificio Metálico

PARQUE ESPAÑA

Centro Nacional de la Cultura

Biblioteca Nacional

PARQUE MORAZÁN

PARQUE NACIONAL

Antiguo Estación de Ferrocarril al Atlántico

PLAZA DE LA LIBERTAD ELECTORAL

Tribunal Supremo de Elecciones

CALLE 7

CALLE 9

AVENIDA 1

AVENIDA CENTRAL

Asamblea Legislativa

PLAZA DE LA DEMOCRACIA

Museo Nacional

CALLE 23

CALLE 25

AVENIDA 1

3

Universidad de Costa Rica

BARRIO SOLEDAD

Archivos Nacionales

Iglesia La Soledad

AVENIDA 6

CALLE 11

CALLE 13

CALLE 15

Tribunales de Justicia

AVENIDA 6

CALLE 27

AVENIDA 1

4

PASEO DE LOS ESTUDIANTES

AVENIDA 10

Clínica Santa Rita

AVENIDA 8

BARRIO MILFLOR

AVENIDA 12

CALLE 13

CALLE 15

AVENIDA 12 BIS

AVENIDA 10

AVENIDA 10 BIS

AVENIDA 14

CALLE 17

AVENIDA 14

Servicio de Parques Nacionales

5

D

E

F

THE CENTRAL HIGHLANDS

Simmering volcanoes dominate the landscape of the Central Highlands as they tower over the country's central plateau – a broad valley at an altitude of around 3,300 ft (1,000 m). With steep slopes lushly covered by verdant forests and coffee bushes, the region offers glorious scenery. The climate is invigorating – one reason why two-thirds of the country's population live here today.

The mild climate and fertile soils of the meseta central (central plateau) attracted early Spanish colonial settlers. Pre-Columbian peoples had already occupied the region for about 10,000 years, although their most evolved community – Guayabo – was mysteriously abandoned before the Spanish arrival and overgrown by tropical jungle until discovered 500 years later. Today, the indigenous communities are relegated to the remote margins of the Talamanca Mountains.

Agricultural communities evolved throughout the valley and, eventually, farther up the mountain slopes. During the period of Spanish rule, these humble adobe villages were relatively isolated, and even larger urban centers, such as Alajuela and Heredia, garnered few structures of importance. Earthquakes were responsible for the destruction of much colonial-era architecture, including some fine churches, and most of the surviving historically significant buildings are barely a century old.

The region has some stunning drives along roads that wind up the mountainsides through green coffee plantations, dairy pastures, and, higher up, cool forests of cedar and pine. Most of the mountain forests are now protected, and national parks and wildlife refuges provide excellent opportunities for hiking and wildlife viewing. Sights and activities ranging from butterfly farms and coffee fincas to canopy tours and world-class whitewater rafting make the area a thrilling microcosm of the country's tourist attractions.

The striking Iglesia de Sarchí, standing in Sarchí's main square

Exploring the Central Highlands

Mountains surround this temperate region. Bustling Alajuela is a good base for exploring Volcán Poás, where it is possible to drive to the summit. Nearby is Heredia, a center of coffee production. To the north-west, the road to Sarchí and Zarcero makes a superb drive. Two other lovely drives are La Ruta de los Santos and the Orosi Valley. Costa Rica's main pre-Columbian site, the Monumento Nacional Guayabo, lies to the east of San José. For the more adventurous, Reventazón and Pacuare Rivers are ideal for rafting, while the cloud-forested upper slopes of the Poás, Barva, and Turrialba Volcanoes offer great hiking opportunities. Other options include coffee tours at plantations such as Café Britt and the Doka Estate.

The decorated interior of Iglesia de San José de Orosi

Orchid, Jardín Botánico Lankester

SIGHTS AT A GLANCE

Towns and Villages

- Alajuela 1
- Barva 16
- Cartago pp93-5 18
- Grecia 5
- Heredia 14
- La Guácima 3
- San Isidro de Coronado 17
- Sarchí 6
- Turrialba 25
- Zarcero 8

Sites and Buildings of Interest

- Monumento Nacional Guayabo pp104-5 26
- Universidad de Paz 4

Coffee Estates

- Café Britt 15
- Doka Estate 10

National Parks

- Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo 13
- Parque Nacional Los Quetzales 20

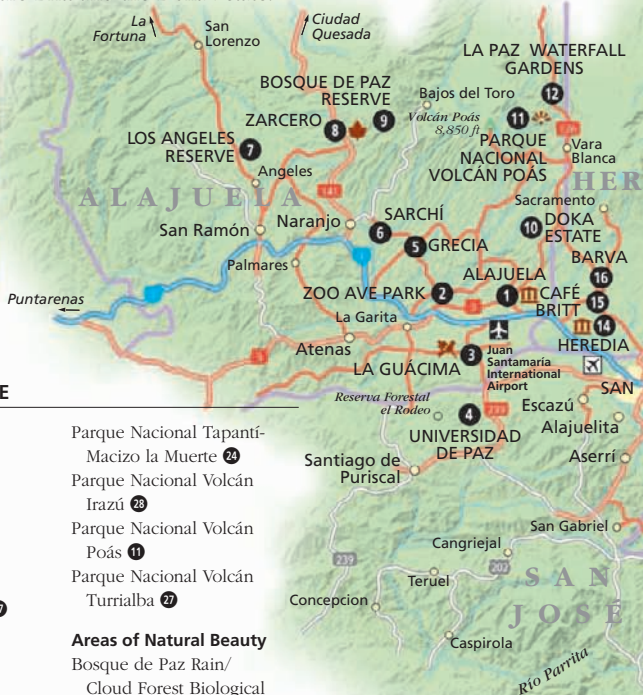

- Parque Nacional Tapantí-Macizo la Muerte 24
- Parque Nacional Volcán Irazú 28
- Parque Nacional Volcán Poás 11
- Parque Nacional Volcán Turrialba 27

Areas of Natural Beauty

- Bosque de Paz Rain/Cloud Forest Biological Reserve 9
- Jardín Botánico Lankester 19
- La Paz Waterfall Gardens 12
- Los Angeles Cloud Forest Private Biological Reserve 7
- The Orosi Valley pp98-100 23
- San Gerardo de Dota 21
- Zoo Ave Wildlife Conservation Park 2

Tour

- La Ruta de los Santos p97 22

KEY

- Pan-American Highway
- Major road
- Secondary road
- Minor road
- Scenic route
- Provincial border
- Peak

Panoramic view from the slopes of Volcán Irazú

SEE ALSO

- Where to Stay pp203–6
- Where to Eat pp227–9

GETTING AROUND

Juan Santamaría International Airport is on the outskirts of Alajuela, 1 mile (1.6 km) from the Pan-American Highway, which links the Central Highlands with the Pacific coast. It's easiest to explore the region by car. However, rotulos (directional signs) are few, and it's easy to get lost. Avoid nighttime driving and beware of potholes, sharp bends, and fog at higher elevations. Public buses run between most towns and to places of interest, but service can be erratic. Organized tours are available, and private guides and transfers can be arranged from San José.

View of a small town near Grecia

Alajuela ①

Road Map D3. 12 miles (19 km) NW of San José. 45,000. Sat. Día de Juan Santamaría (Apr 11); Festival de Mangos (Jul).

Sitting at the base of Volcán Poás, this busy market town is Costa Rica's third largest city. The mango trees that shade the main square, Plaza del General Tomás Guardia, are the source of Alajuela's nickname, "City of Mangoes." Centered on a triple-tiered fountain with cherubs at its base, the plaza has a bandstand, and benches with built-in chess sets. It is dominated by the simple, domed Catedral de Alajuela, with a Classical façade. More interesting is the Baroque Iglesia Santo Cristo de la Agonía, five blocks east, which dates only from 1935. The interior boasts intriguing murals. The former jail, one block north of the main plaza, houses the Museo Cultural y Histórico Juan Santamaría, honoring the local drummer-boy who gave up his life torching William Walker's hideout in the War of 1856 (see pp44-5). Call ahead to arrange a screening of a video about the event. A bronze statue of Santamaría, rushing forward with rifle and flaming torch, stands in tiny Parque Juan Santamaría, which is two blocks south of the main plaza.

Iglesia Santo Cristo de la Agonía

Environ

Southeast of Alajuela, Flor de Mayo is a breeding center for green and scarlet macaws. These endangered birds are raised for release into the wild.

Museo Cultural y Histórico Juan Santamaría

Calles Central/2 and Ave 3. Tel 2441-4775. 10am-5:30pm Tue-Sun. Tue-Fri. www.museojuansantamaría.go.cr

Flor de Mayo

Río Segundo de Alajuela, 2 miles (3 km) SE of Alajuela. Tel 2441-2658. by appointment. by donation. www.hatchedtoflyfree.org

Zoo Ave Wildlife Conservation Park ②

Road Map D3. Hwy 3, La Garita, 2 miles (3 km) E of Pan-Am Hwy. Tel 2433-8989. from San José (Sat-Sun at 8am) & Alajuel. 9am-5pm daily. www.zooave.org

With the largest collection of tropical birds in Central America, Costa Rica's foremost zoo covers 145 acres (59 ha). The privately owned zoo is one of only two in the world to display resplendent quetzals. More than 60 other native bird species can be seen in large flight cages. Mammals are represented by deer, peccaries, pumas, tapirs, and the four native monkey species. Crocodiles, caimans, and snakes are among the dozens of reptile species found here.

Many of the animals and birds were confiscated from poachers, or rescued by the National Wildlife Service.

An enclosure at Zoo Ave Wildlife Conservation Park

Zoo Ave is also a breeding center and has successfully raised endangered species such as green and scarlet macaws. The breeding center and wildlife rehabilitation are off limits.

La Guácima ③

Road Map D3. 7.5 miles (12 km) S of Alajuela. 15,500.

The sprawling community of La Guácima is renowned for The Butterfly Farm, which supplies live pupae to zoos all over the world. Visitors can enjoy the splendid sight of some 60 native butterfly species flitting around a netted tropical garden. Learn about lepidopteran ecology on an educational 2-hour tour. Sunny mornings, when butterflies are most active, are the best times to visit.

Horse-lovers will find a visit to Rancho San Miguel, on the outskirts of La Guácima, worthwhile. This stable and stud farm raises Andalusian horses and offers horseback riding lessons, as well as a dressage and horsemanship show in the manner of the Lipizzaners of the Spanish Riding School at Vienna.

The Butterfly Farm

Guácima Abajo, 330 yd (300 m) SE of Los Reyes Country Club. Tel 2438-0400. 8:30am-4:30pm daily. 8:45am, 11am, 1pm, and 3pm. www.butterflyfarm.co.cr

Rancho San Miguel

2 miles (3 km) N of La Guácima. Tel 2439-0909. 9am-5pm daily; by reservation. Shows 7:30pm on Sat (Nov-Jul).

Interior of Alajuela's Museo Cultural y Histórico Juan Santamaría

For hotels and restaurants in this region see pp203-6 and pp227-9

Costa Rica's Colorful Butterflies

A lepidopterist's dream, Costa Rica has more than 1,250 butterfly species. The butterfly population increases with the onset of the rain from May to July, when breeding activity peaks. Most species of butterfly feed on nectar, although some prefer rotting fruit, bird droppings, and even carrion. Butterflies discourage predators through a variety of means. Many, such as the Heliconiinae, which eat plants containing cyanide, taste acrid; they advertise this to potential predators through distinct coloration – typically black striped with white, red, and/ or yellow – that other species mimic. Some are colored mottled brown and green to blend in with the background. Several butterfly species move seasonally between upland and lowland, while others migrate thousands of miles: the black-and-green Uranidae flits between Honduras and Colombia every year.

A moth species of Costa Rica

BUTTERFLY "FARMS"

These let visitors stroll through netted enclosures where dozens of species fly, forage, and reproduce. Some farms breed butterflies for export.

A chrysalid is created when a caterpillar attaches itself to a leaf or twig and its body hardens to form an encasement. Some caterpillars spin cocoons of silk; others roll leaves into cylinders, tying them with silken threads. They then pupate and emerge as butterflies.

TYPES OF BUTTERFLIES

With 10 percent of all known butterfly species in the world, Costa Rica has lepidoptera ranging from tiny glasswings with transparent wings, to the giants of the insect kingdom, such as teal-blue morphos.

Malachite butterflies change size and color between the wet and dry seasons.

Swallowtails, found in open habitats and rainforest, have trailing hindwings.

Owl-eyes' bindwings resemble the startling face of an owl, including two huge black, yellow-ringed "eyes."

Caterpillars, the larvae of moths and butterflies, start feeding the instant they emerge from the eggs. These voracious eaters sport impressive camouflage and defenses. Many have poisonous spikes; one species even resembles a snake.

Morphos are dazzling, neon-bright butterflies whose iridescent upper wings flash with a fiery electric-blue sheen in flight. The wings are actually brown, not blue. The illusion is caused by the tiny, layered, glass-like scales on the upper wing. There are more than 50 species of this neotropical butterfly.

Morpho's wing

The postman feeds on poisonous passion flower leaves as a caterpillar, making the butterfly bad-tasting to predators.

The impressive topiary archway on the central path of Parque Francisco Alvarado, Zarcero length and degree of difficulty. The reserve has horseback rides, guided hikes, and a canopy tour (see pp24-5).

El Silencio de Los Angeles Reserve is an extension of Cloud Forest Reserve. Clouds swirl around the colonial farmhouse here, which sits atop the Continental Divide and houses the Villablanca Cloud Forest Hotel & Spa (see p204). Nearby, the tiny La Mariana chapel has a high ceiling covered with hand-painted tiles, each devoted to a different female saint. Outside, an effigy of the black saint San Martín de Porres welcomes visitors.

El Silencio de los Angeles
0.5 mile (1 km) NW of Los Angeles
Cloud Forest Reserve. Tel 2461-
0300. ☐ 8am-5pm daily. 🗺️ 📞
www.villablanca-costarica.com

Zarcero 9

Road Map C3. 14 miles (22 km)
NW of Sarchi. 🗺️ 3,800. 📞
🗓️ Feria Cívica (Feb).

This quiet mountain town, at an elevation of 5,600 ft (1,700 m), has a spectacular setting, with lush pastures and forested mountains all around. It is renowned for its cheese, called palmito.

At the heart of the town, the main attraction is Parque Francisco Alvarado, a spacious park with well-tended gardens and topiary features. Since 1960, gardener Don Evangelisto Blanco has been transforming the park's cypress bushes into various fanciful forms: an ox and cart, an elephant with lightbulbs for eyes, a helicopter and airplane, a bullfight with matador and charging bull, and even a monkey riding a motorcycle. An Art Nouveau-style topiary archway frames the central pathway, which leads to a simple white-washed church with a painted interior.

Bosque de Paz Rain/Cloud Forest Biological Reserve 9

Road Map C2. 9 miles (14 km)
E of Zarcero. Tel 2234-6676. 🗺️ to Zarcero, then by taxi. ☐ 9am-4pm daily; only by appointment. 🗺️ 📞 www.bosquedepaz.com

Set deep in the valley of the Río Toro on the northern slopes of Volcán Platanar, this 4-sq-mile (10-sq-km) reserve connects Parque Nacional Volcán Poás (see p90) with remote Parque Nacional Juan Castro Blanco. Some 14 miles (22 km) of trails lead through primary and secondary forest, which span rain-sodden montane growth to cloud forest at higher elevations. The prodigious rainfall feeds the reserve's many waterfalls, as well as the streams that rush past a hummingbird and butterfly garden.

On clear days, miradores (viewpoints) offer fabulous vistas, as well as a chance to spot sloths, wild cats, and howler, capuchin, and spider monkeys. A favorite of bird-watchers, the reserve has more than 330 species of birds, including resplendent quetzals and three-wattled bellbirds.

Meals and accommodation are offered in a rustic log-and-riverstone lodge (see p204).

TRADITIONAL OXCARTS

The quintessential symbol of Costa Rica, the traditional carreta (oxcart) was once a regular feature on farmsteads and for transporting coffee beans. The wheels, about 4 ft to 5 ft (1.2-1.5 m) in diameter and bound with a metal belt, are spokeless. In the mid-19th century, the carts began to be painted in bright colors enlivened with stylized floral and geometric starburst designs. Metal rings were added to strike the hubcab and create a chime unique to the cart when in motion. Though still made in the traditional manner, almost all of today's carretas are purely decorative; miniature versions serve as liquor cabinets. Full-size oxcarts can cost up to $5,000.

A hand-painted oxcart, Sarchi

A vast expanse of coffee plants on the Doka Estate

Doka Estate 10

Road Map D3. Sabanilla de Alajuela, 7 miles (11 km) N of Alajuela.

from Alajuela. Tel 2449-5152.

9am, 10am, 11am, 1:30pm, 2:30pm, and 3:30pm Mon–Fri; 9am, 10am, 11am, 1:30pm, and 2:30pm Sat & Sun; reservation recommended.

www.dokaestate.com

Located on the lower slopes of Volcán Poás, this coffee fincas was founded in 1929 by merchant Don Clorindo Vargas. Still owned by the Vargas family, the estate has some 6 sq miles (15 sq km) planted in coffee bushes and employs about 200 permanent employees; an additional 3,000 temporary workers are hired during the harvest season, which lasts October through January.

The Doka Estate, which still follows the time-honored tradition of drying coffee beans by laying them out in the sun, welcomes visitors eager to learn about coffee production and processing (see pp30–31). A guided tour of the beneficio, which dates from 1893 and is a National Historic Landmark, starts on a delicious note with a coffee-tasting session. The tour demonstrates the various stages involved in coffee production and ends in the roasting room. The estate offers splendid views down the slopes and across the valley. There is a small hotel nearby (see p205).

Parque Nacional Volcán Poás 11

Road Map D1. 23 miles (37 km)

N of Alajuela. from Alajuela and San José. Tel 2482-2165.

May–Nov: 8am–3:30pm daily.

during phases of volcanic activity.

The nation's most visited national park was inaugurated on January 25, 1971. Covering 25 sq miles (65 sq km), the park encircles Volcán Poás (8,850 ft/2,700 m), a restless giant that formed more than one million years ago and is ephemerally volatile, with peak activity occurring in an approximately 40-year cycle. The volcano had a minor eruption in March 2006, and a 6.2 Richter earthquake on January 9, 2009 devastated much of the immediate region.

The gateway to the park is the mountain hamlet of Poasito. The summit of the volcano is reached by an immensely scenic drive, which winds along coffee fields, horticultural gardens, and dairy pastures, with spectacular views back down the valley. From the parking lot, a 5-minute walk along a paved path leads to the rim of one of the world's largest active craters. A viewing terrace grants visitors an awe-inspiring view down into the heart of the hissing and steaming caldera (collapsed crater, see p153), which is 895 ft (300 m) deep and a mile (1.6 km) wide. It contains an acidic turquoise lake, sulfurous fumaroles, and a 245-ft (75-m) tall cone that began to form in the 1950s. On clear days, it is possible to get magnificent views of both the Caribbean Sea and the Pacific Ocean.

The dormant Botos crater, to the southeast, is filled by the jade-colored Botos Lake, accessed by a trail that leads through forests of stunted myrtle, magnolia, and laurel draped with bromeliads and mosses. Over 80 species of birds, such as fiery-throated hummingbirds, emerald toucanets and resplendent quetzals, have been identified in the forests. Mammal species include margays and the Poás squirrel, which is endemic to the volcano.

Facilities at the national

Toucans at Parque Nacional Volcán Poás

park include an exhibition hall for audiovisual presentations, a shop and a café. Clouds typically form by midmorning, so it is best to arrive early. Bring warm clothing: the average temperature at the summit is 12°C (54°F), but cloudy days can be bitterly cold. If possible, visit midweek – locals wielding blaring radios crowd the park on weekends. Tour operators offer guided excursions to the park.

Botos Lake in a dormant volcano, Parque Nacional Volcán Poás

La Paz Waterfall Gardens 12

Road Map D2. Montaña Azul, 15 miles (24 km) N of Alajuela.

Tel 2482-2720. 🚗 from San José.

🕒 8am–5pm; last admission:

4pm. 📞 📧 📧 📧 📧

www.waterfallgardens.com

This multifaceted attraction's main draw is five thunderous waterfalls plummeting through deeply forested ravines on the northeast slopes of Volcán Poás.

Paved pathways lead downhill through pristine forest to the cascades, where spray blasts visitors standing on viewing platforms located above, below, and in front of the falls. Access to some falls involves negotiating metal staircases, and the climb back uphill requires a degree of stamina.

The landscaped grounds feature the Hummingbird Garden, which draws 26 species of hummers – about 40 percent of the nation's 57 species. A self-guided tour is aided by informative educational posters. As many as 4,000 butterflies flit about the Butterfly Garden, and scores of macaws, toucans, and other birds can be seen in a walk-through aviary enclosed by a massive netted dome the length of a football field. Other attractions include a walk-in ranarium displaying poison-dart and other frog species; a serpentarium, with dozens of snake species; and a re-creation of a traditional farmstead with staff in period costume. Renowned ornithologists lead birding tours.

The Butterfly Garden in La Paz Waterfall Gardens

Water merging with sulfuric flow, Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo

The park's restaurant has a veranda with marvelous views over the valley and forest. Deluxe accommodations are available at the Peace Lodge (see p205).

Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo 13

Road Map D2. Guápiles Hwy, 23 miles (37 km) N of San José.

🚗 San José–Guápiles. 🏠 Puesto

Quebrada ranger station, Hwy 32,

Tel 2233-4533. 🕒 8am–4pm Tue–

Sun. 📞 📧

Named for Costa Rica's third chief of state, this sprawling 185-sq-mile (480-sq-km) park ranges in elevation from 120 ft (36 m) at La Selva in the northern lowlands to 9,500 ft (2,900 m) at the top of Volcán Barva. The Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo is bisected by the Guápiles Highway, which links San José with Puerto Limón; indeed, it was the construction of this highway that prompted the creation of the park in 1978 to protect the capital's major watershed. Despite its proximity to San José, the park is one of the nation's most rugged, with mountains, dense rainforest cover, and numerous waterfalls, plus it is subject to torrential rains. It protects five life zones, including cloud forest at higher elevations. Wildlife is diverse, with 135 mammal species, 500 species of birds, and many species of snakes.

The main entrance to the park is the Quebrada González ranger station, located 8 miles (13 km) north of the Zurqui ranger station (closed to visitors), near the Rainforest Aerial Tram (see p159). The most rewarding hiking is around the summit of Volcán Barva, on the west side of the park and accessed by 4WD via the Puesto Barva ranger station above the village of Sacramento. From here, a trail leads through the spectacular cloud forest to the crater.

The dormant Barva has at least 13 eruptive cones, several of which are filled with lakes. Tapirs can be frequently seen around Danta and Barva Lakes.

Experienced hikers can tackle longer trails, taking several days, which descend the northern slopes via deep canyons. There are no facilities, and proper equipment is absolutely essential. Note that there have been instances of armed robberies and theft from cars parked near trailheads. Hikers must report to the ranger stations when setting out and returning. Tour operators in San José can arrange half-day or full-day tours.

Margay at Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo

Stained glass at La Parroquia de la Inmaculada Concepción, Heredia

Heredia 14

Road Map D3. 7 miles (11 km) NW of San José. 42,500. by appointment. Sat. Easter Parade in San Joaquín de Flores (Mar/Apr).

A peaceful and orderly town founded in 1706, Heredia has a smattering of important colonial buildings at its heart and a bustling student life, owing to the presence of a branch of the University of Costa Rica (see p71). It is centered on Parque Nicolás Ulloa, popularly called Parque Central. Shaded by large mango trees, the park contains numerous busts and monuments. Dominating the park is the squat, weathered cathedral La Parroquia de la Inmaculada Concepción. Built in 1797, the cathedral has a triangular pediment, lovely stained-glass windows, and a two-tone checkerboard floor of marble.

On the north side of Parque Central, the forecourt of the municipality office features the Monumento Nacional a la Madre, an endearing bronze sculpture of a mother and child by Miguéla Brenes. Adjoining the Municipalidad, to the west, the colonial-era Casa de la Cultura occupies the home of former president Alfredo González Flores (1877–1962). It is now an art gallery and a tiny museum. Nearby is El Fortín, an interesting circular fortress tower built in 1876.

Environs

A popular attraction in the lively town of Santa Barbara de Heredia, northwest of Heredia, is the Ark Herb Farm. Its orchards and gardens spread over 20 acres (8 ha). The farm exports medicinal herbs. North of Heredia, the steep upper slopes of Volcán Barva are popular getaway spots for Josefinos for their crisp air and solitude. Tyrolean-style houses set amid cypress and pine forests can be rented at Monte de la Cruz, a reserve with trails. In July–August, Hotel Chalet Tirolo (see p205) hosts the International Festival of Music. To the southeast of Heredia is the environmental park INBioparque, with exhibits relating to conservation and biodiversity, including various re-creations of natural habitats.

Casa de la Cultura

Calle and Ave Central. Tel 2260-4485. 9am–9pm daily.

Ark Herb Farm

Santa Barbara de Heredia, 3 miles (5 km) NW of Heredia. Tel 8846-2694. 9am–4pm daily, by appt. 9:30am, by appt. www.arkherbfarm.com

INBioparque

3 miles (5 km) SE of Heredia. Tel 2507-8107. 8am–4pm Tue–Fri, 8am–5pm Sat & Sun. www.inbioparque.com

Visitors admiring tropical flowers at Ark Herb Farm, near Heredia

Café Britt 15

Road Map D3. Santa Lucía, 0.5 mile (1 km) N of Heredia. Tel 2277-1600.

organized transfers from San José. mandatory; Dec 15–Apr: 9am, 11am, and 3pm; May–Dec 15: 9am and 3pm. Concerts, lectures, films. www.coffeetour.com

A mecca for coffee lovers and one of the country's most visited tourist attractions, this beneficio (processing mill) roasts and packs gourmet coffees. Entertaining guided tours are led by campesinos, played by professional actors in period costume. The guides' home-spun repartee unfolds a spellbinding love story along with a fascinating educational narrative on the history and production cycle of coffee, from the plantation to the cup. Visitors are led through the

Label of a Café Britt product

6-acre (2.5-ha) coffee estates before taking a hard-hat tour of the packing facility, where they breathe in the tantalizing aroma of roasting beans. The tour ends in the coffee bar and dining room, after a multimedia presentation that highlights coffee's role in cultivating Costa Rican democracy and molding a national identity.

Barva 16

Road Map D3. 2 miles (3 km) N of Heredia. 4,900. from Heredia. Festival de San Bartolomé (Aug 24).

One of the country's oldest settlements, this quaint town was founded in 1613, with the official name San Bartolomé de Barva. Located at the base of Volcán Barva, the town contains many simple 18th-century adobe houses with traditional red-tile roofs.

The flower-filled and palm-shaded town square, laid out in 1913, is graced by the pretty Iglesia de San Bartolomé de Barva, erected in 1867 on the site of an Indian burial ground. It replaced two earlier churches felled by earthquakes. On the northeast side is a grotto dedicated to the Virgin of Lourdes.

The Museo de Cultura Popular, on the outskirts of Barva, provides a portrait of late-19th-century life, with period pieces laid out in the fashion of the times. The building is a former home of ex-president Alfredo González Flores. A part of the dung-and-straw adobe masonry is exposed to view. The kitchen serves traditional meals.

M Museo de Cultura Popular

Santa Lucía de Barva, just S of Barva. Tel 2260-1619. ☐ 8am–4pm Mon–Fri, by appt Sat & Sun.

San Isidro de Coronado 17

Road Map D3. 6 miles (10 km) NE of San José. A 8,400. www Festival de San Isidro Labrador (May 15).

Clinging to the western slopes of Irazú volcano, San Isidro de Coronado is an agricultural center boasting the largest Gothic church in the country. The Parroquia de San Isidro, which soars over the town's tree-shaded plaza, was prefabricated in Germany in 1930 and erected in situ, being completed in 1934. The town also hosts the Instituto Clodomiro Picado, part of the University of Costa Rica and one of the world's foremost research centers into snake venom.

San Isidro is a gateway to Irazú Volcano National Park via an unbelievably scenic route through Rancho Redondo. The road snakes along the mountainsides, granting spectacular vistas over San José and the Central Highlands.

Sign of the Instituto Clodomiro Picado, San Isidro de Coronado

I Instituto Clodomiro Picado

Tel 2229-0344. ☐ 8am–4pm Mon–Fri; only for groups & by appt. www www.icp.ucr.ac.cr

Cartago 18

Road Map D3. 13 miles (21 km)

E of San José. A 120,000. www

☒ Corpus Christi (May/June); Día de Nuestra Señora de la Virgen de los Ángeles (Aug 2).

Costa Rica's first city and original colonial capital was founded in 1563 by conquistador and Spanish governor Juan Vázquez de Coronado (see p42). Named for the Spanish word for Carthage, it lost its capital status to San José at the Battle of Ochomogo in 1823. The city was destroyed when Volcán Irazú erupted in 1723. Most of the subsequent colonial structures were felled by violent earthquakes in 1841 and 1910. Despite its size, the city today has limited appeal, and is an agro-industrial center.

However, Cartago remains the nation's religious capital, centered on the Byzantine-style Basilica de Nuestra Señora de los Ángeles (see pp94–5), dedicated to Costa Rica's patron saint, La Negrita.

Memories of the earthquake of April 13, 1910, remain in the ruins of the Iglesia de la Parroquia, originally built in 1575 and destroyed five times by earthquakes before its final demise. The mossy ruins now form the centerpiece of a small garden adjoining the stark central plaza.

Jardín Botánico Lankester 19

Road Map D3. 4 miles (6 km)

E of Cartago. Tel 2552-3247.

☒ from Cartago. ☐ 8:30am–4:30pm daily. www www.jardinbotanicolankester.org

Operated by the University of Costa Rica as a research center, these luxuriant botanical gardens were founded in 1917 by English horticulturalist and coffee-planter Charles Lankester West. Covering 27 acres (11 ha), they display almost 3,000 neotropical species in separate sections dedicated to specific plant families.

The highlight is the orchid collection, spread throughout the garden. The 1,100 species are best seen in the dry season, especially from February to April. Pathways snake through a bamboo tunnel, a swathe of premontane forest, a medicinal plant garden, a cactus garden, a butterfly garden, and a Japanese garden. Visitors are given an orientation talk before setting out on a self-guided tour.

An orchid in Jardín Botánico Lankester

The weather-beaten ruins of Iglesia de la Parroquia, Cartago

Cartago: Basilica de Nuestra Señora de los Ángeles

Detail on pillar

Named in honor of the country's patron saint, the Virgin of Los Ángeles (also called La Negrita), Cartago's Cathedral of Our Lady of the Angels is Costa Rica's most important church. Legend has it that on August 2, 1635, a mulatto peasant girl called Juana Pereira found a small figurine of a dark-skinned Virgin Mary on a rock. The statue was put away in safe custody twice and mysteriously returned to the rock both times. The basilica was built to mark the spot. Destroyed in 1926 by a massive earthquake, it was rebuilt in 1929. The impressive Byzantine-style edifice features a stone exterior with a decorated façade and is topped by an octagonal cupola. A spring flowing beneath the basilica is considered to have curative powers.

Side Altars

The side altars contain a series of shrines to saints such as San Antonio de Padua, San Cayetano, San Vicente de Paul, and the black saint, San Benito de Palermo.

There are also life-size statues of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph.

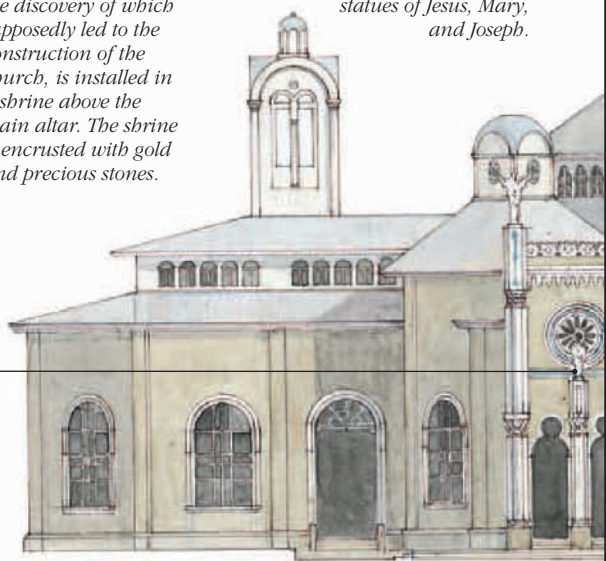

★ La Negrita Statue

The 8-inch (20-cm) high statue of Mary, the discovery of which supposedly led to the construction of the church, is installed in a shrine above the main altar. The shrine is encrusted with gold and precious stones.

Façade

The façade has Moorish-style arches and fluted pilasters capped by angels.

THE LA NEGRITA PILGRIMAGE

Every August 2, devout Costa Ricans join in the Día de Nuestra Señora de la Virgen de los Ángeles procession. Thousands walk the 15 miles (24 km) from San José to Cartago – many crawl much of the way on their knees; others carry crosses. Devotees descend to the subterranean Cripta de la Piedra to touch the rock and collect holy water from the underground spring. The statue of La Negrita is paraded through the city before being replaced in its shrine.

Pilgrims and tourists outside the church

The Ceiling

The wooden ceiling is centered on an octagonal, wood-paneled dome ringed by windows through which sunlight pours in, illuminating the nave and producing a sense of religious exaltation.

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Calle 14/16 and Aves 2/4, Cartago. Tel 2551-0465.
 from San José (Calle 5 and Aves 18/20).  6am–7pm daily.
 regular services throughout the day.

★ The Nave

The elaborate interior in the shape of a double cross is made entirely of hardwoods, painted with decorative floral patterns of white alabaster. Parabolic arches are supported atop clover-leaf-shaped wooden pillars.

The walls are made of galvanized steel stuccoed with cement.

The Cripta de la Piedra (Crypt of the Rock) is the subterranean shrine containing the rock where the La Negrita statue was supposedly found. Entered via a ramp to the rear of the basilica, it is filled with votive offerings.

STAR FEATURES

- ★ The Nave
- ★ La Negrita Statue

Stained-Glass Window

The basilica boasts several fine vitrales (stained-glass panes) depicting biblical scenes. The finest are in the Sacristy, in the southeast corner, and depict Jesus with various saints.

Cloud forest in the Parque Nacional Los Quetzales

Parque Nacional Los Quetzales 20

Road Map D3/D4. Pan-Am Hwy, 47 miles (76 km) SE of San José. 🚗 to Km 80, then hike. Tel 2200-5354. ☏ 8am-4pm daily. 🌐 www.sinac.go.cr

Bordering the Pan-American Highway is the Parque Nacional Los Quetzales, created in 2005 from the Los Santos Forest Reserve, the Biological Reserve of Cero de las Vueltas, and various state properties. The park covers 12,355 acres (5,000 ha) of cloud forest, spread over the banks of the Río Sevegre. This is one of the most biologically diverse regions in Costa Rica, with 25 indigenous species, 116 species of mammals, mangroves, and lagoons of glacial origins. One of the highlights, however, are the quetzals for which the park is named. Other birds include sooty robins and hummingbirds.

Dantica Cloud Forest Lodge, which is just north of San Gerardo de Dota, has trails running through primary cloud forest in which peccaries, deer, tapir, otters, ocelots, and pumas have all been sighted.

Dantica's three-room indigenous art gallery exhibits jewelry, textiles, ceramics, statues, and masks from such nations as Peru, Venezuela, and Colombia. There are also masks and natural-dye cotton bags produced by the Boruca indigenous group from southern Costa Rica.

🦋 Dantica Cloud Forest Lodge

Tel 2740-1067. ☐ 24 hrs. 📞 📧 www.dantica.com

San Gerardo de Dota 21

Road Map D4. 5.5 miles (9 km) W of Pan-Am Hwy at Km 80. 🚗 1,000. 🚗 to Km 80, then hike or arrange a transfer (call 8367-8141).

One of the best sites in Costa Rica for quetzal-watching, this small community is tucked into the bottom of a steep valley furrowed by Río Sevegre. Go down a switchback from the Pan-Am Highway to reach the town, which was first settled in 1954 by Don Efraín Chacón and his family. Today, the Chacóns' Savegre Mountain Hotel

Biological Reserve protects around 1,000 acres (400 ha) of cloud forest and houses the Quetzal Education Research Complex (QERC).

This study center for quetzal ecology is the tropical campus of the Southern Nazarene University of Oklahoma. April to May is nesting season, when quetzals are most abundant. More than 170 other bird species are present seasonally.

Dramatic scenery, crisp air, and blissful solitude reward the few travelers who take the time to make the sharp descent into San Gerardo de Dota. Fruits grow in profusion in orchards surrounded by meadows and centenary oaks.

About 22 miles (35 km) of trails crisscross the forest. Activities include guided treks from the frigid heights of Cerro Frío (Cold Mountain) at 11,400 ft (3,450 m) to San Gerardo de Dota at 7,200 ft (2,200 m). Other trails lead along the banks of the gurgling river, which is stocked with rainbow trout.

🦋 Savegre Mountain Hotel Biological Reserve

Tel 2740-1028. 📞 📧 📧 www.savegre.co.cr

Savegre Mountain Hotel Biological Reserve, San Gerardo de Dota

La Ruta de los Santos 22

South of San José, the Cerro de Escazú rise steeply from Desamparados to the town of Aserri. Twisting roads then pass through San Gabriel, San Pablo de León Cortés, San Marcos de Tarrazú, Santa María de Dota, and San Cristóbal Sur in the steep-sided coffee country known as Tarrazú. These off-the-beaten-track communities – named for saints Gabriel, Paul, Mark, Mary, and Christopher – give this fabulously scenic drive through verdant highlands and valleys its apt name, “Route of the Saints.”

TIPS FOR DRIVERS

Tour length: 95 miles (153 km) round-trip.

Stopping-off points: Stop for a bite at the charming Bar Restaurante Vaca Flaca (see p228) or the homey La Casona de Sara in Santa María (see p229).

Information: Beneficio Coopedota Tel 2541-2828. Beneficio Coopetarrazú Tel 2546-6098. www.cafetarrazu.com

Desamparados ①

This town is dominated by its handsome church in Neoclassical style.

Aserri ②

The mountainside above Aserri offers superb vistas across the valley toward Barva, Irazú, and Turrialba Volcanoes.

San Cristóbal Sur ⑦

This is the setting for the mountain farm where Figueres (see p47) prepared to launch the 1948 revolution that resulted in civil war.

Santa María de Dota ⑥

This tidy town's plaza has a granite monument commemorating those who died in the 1948 civil war. The Beneficio Coopedota accepts visitors – by reservation – for plantation tours.

San Gabriel ③

Occupying a mountain spur overlooking Río Tarrazú, this town is dominated by a white church with a domed roof.

San Pablo de León Cortés ④

The Iglesia de San Juan de la Cruz, built in 1997, towers above the plaza in this coffee center.

KEY

- Tour route
- Highway
- Other road
- Viewpoint

San Marcos de Tarrazú ⑤

Surrounded by coffee-covered slopes, the region's most important town boasts a fine church. Arrange a visit to Beneficio Coopetarrazú coffee mill in advance.

0 km 3
0 miles 3

The Orosi Valley 23

South of Cartago, the land falls away steeply into the Orosi Valley, a large gorge hemmed to the south by the Talamanca Mountains. Río Reventazón drains the valley and joins Lago de Cachí, also fed by other streams and raging rivers tumbling out of hills enveloped by cloud forest. Shiny-leafed coffee bushes cover the valley, which was an important colonial center and has two of Costa Rica's oldest religious sites. The ruins of the 17th-century church in the village of Ujarrás, set at the edge of Lago de Cachí, are the highlight of a visit to the valley. Orosi village is home to the country's oldest extant church. The valley's social life centers on this tranquil hamlet. Looping around the Orosi Valley is Route 224, which passes the main points of interest and makes for a perfect half- or full-day tour.

Mirador de Orosi

Operated by ICT (Instituto Costarricense de Turismo), this mirador (viewpoint) offers stunning views over the valley and has picnic tables on lawns abuzz with hummingbirds.

Orosi

Surrounded by coffee plantations and peppered with waterfalls, the picturesque village of Orosi is known for the colonial-era Iglesia de San José de Orosi, which contains a small museum of religious art. Orosi has several thermal mineral springs called balnearios (see p100).

For hotels and restaurants in this region see pp203–6 and pp227–9

View of the spillways of Cachi Dam on Lago de Cachí

Ujarrás

This village has all but vanished after being flooded in 1833. It is known for the ruins of the Iglesia de Nuestra Señora de la Limpia Concepción, built in 1693 (see p100).

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Road Map D3. Cartago. 14,000. hourly from Cartago to Orosí. Buses also run to Cachi via Ujarrás. 2533-3640 (Orosí Tourism). Romería Virgen de la Candelaria (3rd Sun of Apr), Orosí Colonial Tourist Fair (Sep). La Casona de Cafetal 11am–6pm daily. Monte Sky Mountain Retreat Tel 2231-3536. 8am–5pm daily.

Paradero Lacustre

Charrarra offers picnic areas, a swimming pool, and recreational and sport facilities (see p100).

La Casona de Cafetal, a lakeside coffee finca, offers hiking trails and horseback rides.

Casa el Soñador

This is the home of the Quesada family – famous woodcarvers whose naive bas-relief art forms adorn their property (see p100).

Lago de Cachi

Trout-fishing is popular in this lake, created to generate hydroelectric power by damming Río Reventazón (see p100).

Monte Sky Mountain Retreat protects a 139-acre (56-ha) area of cloud forest. Trails lead to waterfalls and offer a chance to spot quetzals. There are also facilities for tent camping. A 4WD vehicle is required to get here.

Exploring the Orosi Valley

Wood carving,
Iglesia de San
José de Orosi

The first colonists arrived in the valley of Río Reventazón in 1564 to convert the indigenous Cabécar people who were led by a cacique (chief) named Orosi. The valley soon became an important religious center. It is the colonial relics that draw visitors to the region, but the scenery is no less appealing. Route 224, which encircles the valley, brings in an ever-increasing number of tourists.

Iglesia de San José de Orosi's interior, dominated by wood and terra-cotta

Ujarrás

8 miles (13 km) SE of Cartago. Located at the edge of Lake Cachí and surrounded by coffee bushes, the hamlet of Ujarrás features the ruins of the Iglesia de Nuestra Señora de la Limpia Concepción, completed in 1693. The ruins stand in a charming garden awash with tropical flowers.

The site previously housed the shrine La Parroquia de Ujarrás. According to legend, a converted Indian found a wooden box containing a statue of the Virgin Mary. He carried it to Ujarrás, where it suddenly became too heavy for even a team of men to lift. The local priest considered this a sign from God that a shrine should be built here. When pirates led by Henry Morgan attacked the region in 1666, local inhabitants prayed at the shrine for salvation. A defensive force led by Spanish governor, Juan Lopez de la Flor, routed the pirates and in gratitude built a church in honor of the Virgen del Rescate de Ujarrás (Virgin of Rescue). Damaged in a flood in 1833, the church was thereafter abandoned. Every third Sunday in April, pilgrims walk to the shrine from Paraíso, which is 4 miles (6 km) to the west, in honor of the Virgin.

Orosi

5 miles (8 km) S of Paraíso. ☰ 8,862.

Balnearios Termales Orosi Tel 2533-2156. ☑ 7:30am–4pm Wed–Mon.

☎ Museo de Arte Religioso

Tel 2533-3051. ☑ 1–5pm Tue–Fri,

9am–5pm Sat & Sun. ♿ ♿ ⬆️ ☎

Nestling neatly on the banks of Río Grande de Orosi, this small village is a coffee growing center. Mineral hot springs gush from the hill-sides and can be enjoyed in orderly and well-maintained pools at Balnearios Termales

Ruins of Nuestra Señora de la Limpia Concepción, Ujarrás

Orosi. Orosi's pride is the beautifully preserved Iglesia de San José de Orosi, the oldest functioning church in Costa Rica. Built by Franciscans in 1743–66 and dominated by a solid bell tower, the white-washed church has withstood several earthquakes, despite its plain adobe construction. The interior features a beamed ceiling, terra-cotta floor, and simple gilt-adorned wooden altar. The Franciscan monastery adjoining the church is now the Museo de Arte Religioso, displaying period furniture and religious icons dating back three centuries. Most of the items – such as paintings, statuary, and altar pieces – come from Mexico and Guatemala.

☎ Lago de Cachí

Paradero Lacustre Charrarra

1.6 mile (2 km) E of Ujarrás. Tel 2574-7557. ☑ 8am–5pm daily. ♿ ♿

☎ Casa el Soñador 5 miles (8 km)

E of Orosi. Tel 2574-7557. ☑ 9am–

6pm daily. www.charrarra.com

This massive lake was created between 1959 and 1963, when the ICE (Costa Rican Institute of Electricity) dammed Río Reventazón. The Presa de Cachí (Cachí Dam) funnels water down spillways to feed massive hydroelectricity turbines. Visitors can enjoy kayaking, canoeing, and boating on the lake, arranged by local tour operators. The national tourist board operates Paradero Lacustre Charrarra, a recreational complex offering boating from the north shore. Horseback riding is also on offer.

On the southern shore is Casa el Soñador (Dreamer's House), the pretty bamboo-and-wood home of sculptor Macedonio Quesada Valerín (1932–94). Carved figures representing the town gossips lean out of the upper-story windows and a bas-relief of Leonardo da Vinci's The Last Supper adorns the exterior. Macedonio's sons carry on their father's tradition of carving walking sticks, religious figures, and ornaments from coffee plant roots. The house serves as an art gallery for the works of other local artists.

A waterfall at Parque Nacional Tapantí-Macizo la Muerte

Parque Nacional Tapantí-Macizo la Muerte 24

Road Map D3. 5.5 miles (9 km) S of Orosi. Tel 2200-0090. 🚗 to Orosi, then by jeep-taxi. ☐ 8am–4pm daily. 📞 📍

South of the Orosi Valley, the vibrantly green Tapantí-Macizo National Park, created in 1982, protects 225 sq miles (583 sq km) of the Talamanca Mountains. Ranging in elevation from 3,950 ft to 8,350 ft (1,200–2,550 m). It features diverse flora, from lower montane rainforest to montane dwarf forest on the upper slopes. The national park is deluged with rains almost throughout the year, which feed the fast-flowing rivers rushing through it; February to April are the least rainy months, and the best time to visit.

Spectacularly rich in wildlife, the park has animals such as anteaters, jaguars, monkeys, tapirs, and even otters in streams. Tapantí is a birder's heaven – more than 260 bird species inhabit its thick forests. Resplendent quetzals frequent the thickets near the ranger station, which has a small nature display.

Well-marked trails lace the rugged terrain. A particularly pleasant and easy hike is Sendero La Catarata, which leads to a waterfall. Fishing in the park is permitted from April to October.

Turrialba 25

Road Map E3. 27 miles (44 km) E of Cartago. 🚗 32,000. 📞

This pleasant regional center squats in a broad valley on the banks of Río Turrialba at 2,130 ft (650 m) above sea level, against the base of Volcán Turrialba (see p103). Once an important transportation hub midway between San José and the Caribbean, Turrialba had to forego that position with the opening of the Guápiles Highway in 1987, and cessation of rail service in 1991. Rusting railroad tracks serve as reminders of the days when the Atlantic Railroad thrived.

There is little of interest in the town; its importance lies in being a center for kayaking and rafting trips on Río Reventazón and Río Pacuare, and serving as a good base for exploring nearby attractions.

Environs

The valley bottom southeast of Turrialba is filled by the 630-acre (255-ha) Lake Angostura, created by the building of a dam in 2000 to generate hydroelectricity. It lures several species of waterfowl and is a water sports center, although it is gradually being choked by water hyacinths. Río Reventazón (Exploding River) below the dam has class III–IV rapids and is fabulously scenic, as is the nearby Río Pacuare, also favored by rafters (see p102). Hotel Casa Turire, on the south shore of Lake Angostura, is a charming deluxe hotel offering biking, hiking, horseback riding, and many other activities (see p205).

East of Turrialba, the Centro Agronómico Tropical de Investigación y Enseñanza (CATIE), or Center for Tropical Agriculture Investigation and Learning, has trails through 3 sq miles (9 sq km) of landscaped grounds, forests, and orchards, which grow exotic fruits, plus a botanical garden. A lake attracts waterfowl. Guided tours provide fascinating insights into ecology and animal husbandry.

Farther east is Parque Viborana, a serpentarium that exhibits several species of snakes, including boas, in a large walk-in cage.

Wooden tortoise, Turrialba

The guided tour includes a lecture on snake ecology.

Women in traditional dress can be seen at Reserva Indígena Chirripó, an incredibly scenic indigenous reserve in the Talamanca Mountains beyond Moravia del Chirripó, southeast of Turrialba.

🚗 Centro Agronómico Tropical de Investigación y Enseñanza (CATIE)

1.2 miles (2 km) E of Turrialba. Tel 2556-2700. 🕒 7am–4pm daily (Jardín Botánico). 📞 📍 www.catie.ac.cr

🚗 Parque Viborana

Pavones, 5.5 miles (9 km) E of Turrialba. Tel 2538-1510. ☐ 9am–5pm daily. 📞 📍 by appt. 📍

Casa Turire, a delightful hotel near Turrialba

Whitewater Rafting

Costa Rica boasts rivers that are perfect for whitewater rafting. The best of the runnable rivers flow down from the mountainous Central Highlands to the Caribbean, cascading through narrow canyons churned by rapids, and interspersed with calm sections. Small groups paddle downstream in large purpose-built rubber dinghies, led by experienced guides. Trips can be anything from half a day to a week-long, catering to every level of experience: rivers are ranked from Class I (easy) to Class VI (extremely difficult). May, June, September, and October are the best months, when heavy rainfall gives rivers an extra boost. Rafting is organized by professional operators who provide gear, meals, and accommodations (see p251).

Rafter in a life-jacket

Costa Rica's whitewater rivers offer an extraordinary combination of scenic beauty, wildlife sightings, and thrills. One of the finest rafting destinations, Río Reventazón (left) caters to enthusiasts of differing skill levels, with separate sections that have difficulty ratings ranging from Class II to V.

Rafters should wear T-shirts, shorts, and sneakers or sandals, and carry spare clothes.

Guides steer and give commands from the rear.

Safety gear such as life-jackets and helmets are mandatory.

Calm stretches provide ample scope for wildlife viewing – kingfishers, parrots, toucans, caimans, iguanas, and varieties of monkeys are among the easily seen fauna.

RAFTING DOWN RIO PACUARE

Torrential Río Pacuare is ranked among the world's top five whitewater rivers. Rafting trips of varying duration take thrill-seekers on adrenaline-packed rides along thickly forested, wildlife-rich gorges, rushing currents, and amazing rapids.

Numerous waterfalls pour down the sides of the river's gorges. Some fall hundreds of feet, showering rafters with cool water on hot days.

Pounding rapids are found all along the length of the Río Pacuare, and offer spectacular whitewater rides ranked Class III and IV in difficulty.

Riverside stops are arranged for bearty breakfasts and lunches. Overnight bails in wilderness lodges or tents on longer trips also offer opportunities for biking and soaking in the scenery.

Monumento Nacional Guayabo 26

See pp104–5.

Parque Nacional Volcán Turrialba 27

Road Map D3. 15 miles (24 km) NW of Turrialba. to Santa Cruz, then by jeep-taxi. 2273-4335 (Volcán Turrialba Lodge).

The easternmost Volcano in Costa Rica, the 10,950-ft (3,340-m) high Turrialba has been dormant for more than a century following a period of violent activity in the 1860s.

The volcano's name comes from the Huetar Indian words turiri and abá, which together mean "river of fire." Local legend says that a girl named Cira, lost while exploring, was found by a young man from a rival tribe, and they fell in love. When the girl's enraged father eventually found the two lovers and prepared to kill the young suitor, Turrialba spewed a tall column of smoke, signifying divine assent.

Established in 1955, the Turrialba Volcano National Park protects 5 sq miles (13 sq km) of land, much of which is covered in cloud forest. The upper forests contain gnarled and twisted oak and myrtle trees.

Dirt roads go to within a few miles of the summit, which is then accessible by trails. Stamina is required for the switchback hike to the top. From there, it is possible to see the Cordillera Central and the Caribbean coast in clear weather. A trail also descends to the floor of the largest crater, where sulfurous gases hissing out of active fumaroles and heat radiating from the ground betray the tremendous energy of the dormant giant.

There are no public facilities or transport within the park, but the privately run Volcán Turrialba Lodge (see p206), on the western flank of the volcano at 9,200 ft (2,800 m), provides a base from which to explore the area.

Deep green lake in the largest crater of Parque Nacional Volcán Irazú

Parque Nacional Volcán Irazú 28

Road Map D3. 19 miles (30 km) N of Cartago. Tel 2200-5025. from Ave 2, Calles 1/3, San José, 8am daily. 8am–3:30pm daily.

Encircling the upper slopes of Volcán Irazú, this 7-sq-mile (18-sq-km) park was established in 1955. At 11,260 ft (3,430 m), the cloud-covered Irazú is Costa Rica's highest volcano, and historically its most active – the first written reference to an eruption was in 1723. Several devastating explosions occurred between 1917 and 1921, and it famously erupted on March 13, 1963, when US President John F. Kennedy was in the country to attend the Summit of Central America Presidents.

The name Irazú is derived from the Indian word istarú, which means "mountain of thunder." Legend has it that Aquitaba, a local chief, sacrificed his daughter to the volcano gods. Later, in a battle with an enemy tribe, Aquitaba called on the gods for their aid. The volcano erupted, spewing fire on the enemy, while a boiling river of mud swept away their village.

The road to the summit winds uphill past vegetable fields. A viewing platform lets visitors peer down into a 985-ft (300-m) deep, 0.5-mile (1-km) wide crater, containing a pea-green lake. Four other craters can be accessed, but there are active fumaroles, and the marked trails should be followed. Although the volcano is often covered by fog, the cloud line is frequently below the summit, which basks in bright sunshine. Arriving early increases the chances of clear weather and good views. The lunar landscape of the summit includes a great ash plain called Playa Hermosa. Hardy vegetation, such as myrtle and the large-leaved "poor man's umbrella," maintains a tenuous foothold against acidic emissions in the bitter cold. Wildlife is scarce, although it is possible to spot birds such as the sooty robin and endemic volcano junco.

Signage at Parque Nacional Volcán Irazú

Monumento Nacional Guayabo 26

Proclaimed a national monument in 1973, Guayabo, on the southern slope of Volcán Turrialba, is the nation's most important pre-Columbian site. Although minor in scale compared to the Mayan remains of Mexico, the 540-acre (218-ha) site, which is still shrouded in mystery, is considered to be of great cultural and religious significance. Believed to have been inhabited between 1500 BC and AD 1400, Guayabo is said to have supported a population as high as 10,000, before being abandoned for reasons unknown. The jungle quickly reclaimed the town, which was discovered in the late 18th century by naturalist Don Anastasio Alfaro. The peaceful site, most of which is yet to be excavated, has mounds, petroglyphs, walled aqueducts, and paved roads. Pottery, gold ornaments, flint tools, and other finds are displayed in San José's Museo Nacional (see p70).

Petroglyphs

The most noteworthy of the petroglyphs scattered around the site are along the Sendero de los Montículos. The Monolitho Jaguar y Lagarto has a lizard on one side and, on the other; a spindly bodied jaguar with a round head.

Cisterns

Rectangular water tanks are situated in the western side of the settlement, and are spanned by a three-slab bridge.

Premontane rainforest surrounding the site hosts hundreds of bird species, such as aracarís and oropendolas.

The stone aqueducts, forming a network of covered and uncovered channels, continue to feed water into stone-lined cisterns.

Sendero de los Montículos

A 1-mile (1.6-km) self-guided trail leads from the entrance to a lookout, El Mirador Encuentro con Nuestro Orígenes (The Encounter with Our Origins Lookout), before dropping down to the main archeological site. Along the way, visitors can stop at 15 interpretive points that explain the social organization of the Guayabo tribe.

EXCAVATED SITE

Initiated in 1968, excavation of the site was led by archeologists from the University of Costa Rica. To date, only about 12 acres (5 ha) have been retrieved. Parts of the causeway and key structures have been rebuilt, and restoration work is ongoing.

STAR SIGHTS

- ★ Calzada (Causeway)
- ★ Montículos (Stone Foundations)

For hotels and restaurants in this region see pp203-6 and pp227-9

★ Montículos (Stone Foundations)

Believed to date from AD 300–700, the circular and rectangular mounds of stone on the site were the foundations of conical wooden structures.

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Road Map E3, 12 miles (19 km)

N of Turrialba. Tel 2559-1220.

🚗 from Turrialba. 🕒 8am–3:30pm daily. 📶 📱 🦽 🚶

www.sinac.go.cr

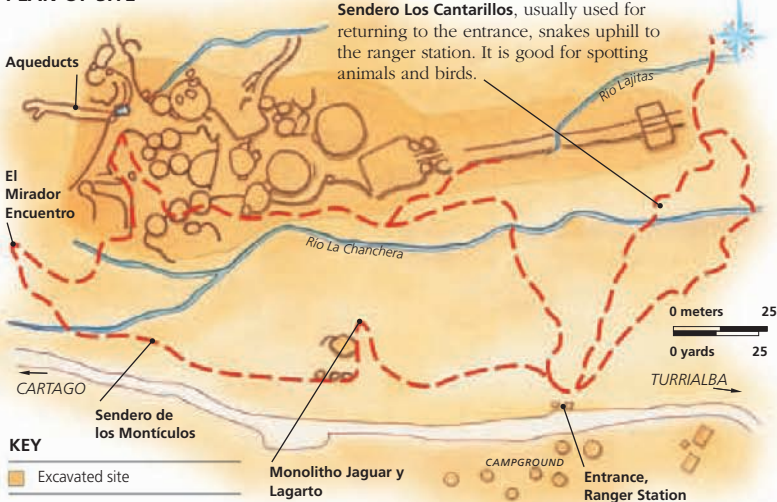

★ Calzada (Causeway)

The 21-ft (6.5-m) wide causeway is believed to have extended between 2.5 and 7.5 miles (4–12 km) from the main town. About 246 yd (225 m) have been reconstructed, including two rectangular stone structures thought to have been used as sentry posts.

The largest mound – measuring 98 ft (30 m) in diameter and 15 ft (4.5 m) in height – is thought to have been a base for the house of the local cacique (chief).

PLAN OF SITE

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN NICOYA

Fine white beaches are scattered along the shores of Southern Nicoya, while the sun-drenched Central Pacific coastline is pummeled by non-stop surf and fringed with forest. The region acts as a transition between two ecosystems – the drier Meso-American to the north and the humid Andean to the south – with flora and fauna of both ecosystems. As a result, its wildlife reserves, such as Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio, are among the nation's best.

Mangroves line the shores of the Gulf of Nicoya, which is studded with islands that are important nesting sites for birds. Forest areas, notably in Southern Nicoya, were heavily denuded during the last century, but major conservation and reforestation efforts are now extending the protected areas.

Spanish conquistadors explored the region in the early 16th century and established short-lived settlements, which fell victim to tropical diseases and the ferocious resistance of indigenous tribes. However, the Indians were swiftly defeated. The principal city of the region, Puntarenas, was founded in the early 1800s. It flourished due to the 19th-century coffee trade, and developed into the nation's main port for coffee exports to Europe. In the early decades of the 20th century, bananas were planted along the narrow coastal plain farther south. They were replaced in the 1970s by African oil palms, which today dominate the economy and extend for miles between the shore and forested mountains. In recent decades, Jacó has blossomed as a beach resort for surfers, while the town of Quepos retains its stature as a major sportfishing base.

Locals waiting for the bus in a small town in Southern Nicoya

Exploring the Central Pacific and Southern Nicoya

Beaches and national parks, teeming with wildlife, are the highlights of this region. The main town is the fishing port of Puntarenas, from where it is possible to take a day-trip by ferry to Isla Tortuga with its fabulous beach. Other fine beaches in Southern Nicoya await at off-the-beaten-track Montezuma and Malpaís, which are popular with surfers and budget travelers. Nearby Cabo Blanco is the site of the nation's oldest wildlife refuge. Inland from the Central Pacific coast, nature lovers can enjoy a crocodile safari on Río Tárcoles and hikes in Parque Nacional Carara, where scarlet macaws, monkeys, and other wildlife can be easily spotted. Major attractions along this coast are the lively surfing town of Jacó and the sportfishing center of Quepos, which gives access to Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio, one of the country's most popular wildlife parks.

Reserva Natural Absoluta Cabo Blanco

SIGHTS AT A GLANCE

Towns and Villages

- Jacó 9
- Malpaís 7
- Montezuma 5
- Puntarenas 1
- Quepos 12
- Tambor 4

National Parks and Reserves

- Parque Nacional Carara 8
- Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio pp118-19 13
- Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Curú 2
- Reserva Natural Absoluta Cabo Blanco 6

Areas of Natural Beauty

- Boca Damas 11
- Isla Tortuga 3
- Rainmaker Conservation Project 10
- Valle del Río Savegre 14

A riot of colors at the Tango Mar Resort in the fishing village of Tambor

Gleaming sportfishing boats lined up at Los Sueños Marina, near Jacó

An eye-catching sportfishing sign at Quepos docks

SEE ALSO

- Where to Stay pp206–8
- Where to Eat pp229–31

GETTING AROUND

Jacó and Quepos, in the Central Pacific region, and Southern Nicoya's Tambor are linked by daily scheduled flights to Juan Santamaría International Airport and San José's Tobias Bolaños domestic airport. Puntarenas, Jacó, and Quepos are served by bus from San José; several companies cater solely to tourists.

Puntarenas is the gateway for ferries to Southern Nicoya. A regular car and passenger ferry service links it with Paquera; from here, a bus service operates to Montezuma along badly deteriorated Highway 160. In the Central Pacific region, well-paved Highway 34 runs along the shore, linking all the major tourist sights. Away from the coastal highways, most roads are dirt tracks that can be treacherous during the wet season. A 4WD vehicle is essential if you plan to drive around.

KEY

- Pan-American Highway
- Major road
- Secondary road
- Minor road
- Provincial border

Fishing and excursion boats moored at the Puntarenas docks

Puntarenas 1

Road Map B3. 75 miles (120 km) W of San José. 100,000. Carnaval (last week of Feb); Festival de la Virgen del Mar (mid-Jul).

Often seen as a provincial backwater, the city of Puntarenas (Sandy Point) was once an important port. First settled in 1522 by the Spanish, Puntarenas later became the main shipping point for coffee beans, brought from the highlands in carretas (oxcarts). City fortunes waned in 1890, once the Atlantic Railroad was built, and many of its wooden structures are dilapidated. Today this slightly down-at-heel town exists on fishing, as attested to by rows of decrepit fishing boats moored at the wharves. It remains the main gateway for excursions to Isla Tortuga and for ferries to Paquera and Naranjo, on the Peninsula de Nicoya.

The town occupies a 3-mile (5-km) long, thin peninsula fringed on the south by a beach offering good views across the Gulf of Nicoya. A broad estuary runs along the north shore, where extensive mangrove forests are home to waterfowl such as roseate spoonbills, storks, pelicans, and frigate birds.

Puntarenas is favored as a balneario (bathing resort) by Josefinos who flock to the seafront boulevard, Paseo de las Turistas. The boulevard also features the Parque Marino del Pacifico, an aquarium housing 22 fish tanks and a selection of local wildlife from conservation projects, including crocodiles, sea turtles, and pelicans.

Environs

The sweeping sands of Playa San Isidro, 5 miles (8 km) east of town, are very popular with beachgoers from San José. During the weekend it can become crowded.

Parque Marino del Pacifico
Paseo de las Turistas. Tel 2661-5272. 9am–5pm Tue–Sun. by appt. www.parquemarino.org

Serene white beaches of Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Curú

Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Curú 2

Road Map B3. 2 miles (3 km) S of Paquera. Tel 2641-0100. Paquera-Cobano. 7am–4pm daily; but advance notice is preferred. by appt. www.curu.org

Part of a much larger privately owned hacienda, the seldom-visited 210-acre (85-ha) Curú National Wildlife Refuge has been set up to protect five distinct habitats extending inland from Golfo Curú.

The majority of the hilly reserve is tropical deciduous and semi-deciduous forest populated by capuchin and howler monkeys, anteaters, agoutis, and sloths, as well as several species of wild cats and more than 220 species of birds. Endangered spider monkeys have also been successfully reintroduced. Since the number of visitors is low, it is possible to spot animals more easily than at many other refuges. Marked trails provide access.

Three beautiful beaches – Playa Colorada, Playa Curú, and Playa Quesera – are tucked inside the fold of green headlands and extend along 3 miles (5 km) of coastline. Hawksbill and olive ridley turtles crawl ashore at night to nest in the sand. Whales and dolphins can sometimes be seen swimming in the warm offshore waters, while the mangrove swamps and lagoons that extend inland along Río Curú are good for spotting caimans.

Isla Tortuga 3

Road Map B3. 2 miles (3 km) SE of Curú. organized excursions.

This sun-bleached island – actually twin islets, Isla Tolinga and unoccupied Isla Alcatraz – offshore of Curú is run as a privately owned 765-acre (310-ha) nature reserve. Isla Tolinga, which has no overnight accommodation, is very popular for day-visits.

Isla Tortuga is rimmed by white beaches that dissolve into startlingly blue waters. Coconut palms lean over the

Catamaran Manta Ray transporting visitors to Isla Tortuga

Kayaking on offer at Isla Tortuga, along with other beach activities and water sports beach. The hilly interior is covered by deciduous forest, accessed by a short but steep trail that leads to the highest point of the island (570 ft/175 m). Signs point out rare hardwoods, such as indio desnudo (naked Indian).

The preferred activity is to laze in a hammock while sipping the island cocktail – coco loco (rum, coconut milk, and coconut liqueur) – served in a coconut shell. The warm waters are great for snorkeling. There are no jet skis to break the blissful silence, but visitors can choose from an array of other water sports.

Trips were pioneered in 1975 by Calypso Cruises, which operates a 70-ft (21-m) motorized, high-speed catamaran that departs from Puntarenas. Other companies offer similar excursions, which usually include hotel transfers, round-trip transportation, and buffet lunch. The 90-minute journey is its own reward – dolphins and whales are frequently spotted. A mid-week visit is best, as weekends can get crowded.

Environs

Boobies, pelicans, frigate birds, and other sea birds nest on the scattered islands that comprise the Reserva Biológica Isla Guayabo y Isla Negritos, to the north of Isla Tortuga. Visitors are not allowed on shore. Excursion boats pass between the islets that make up the biological reserve.

Calypso Cruises
Tel 2256-2727.
www.calypsocruises.com

Tambor 4

Road Map B3. 11 miles (18 km) SW of Paquera.

A small, laid-back fishing village with a wide silver-gray beach, Tambor lines the aptly named Bahía Ballena (Whale Bay), where whales gather in mid-winter. Palm-fringed sands extend from the bay north to mangrove swamps. The village itself is somewhat somnolent, but two upscale resorts just outside town attract a large number of foreign beachgoers and Josefinos, most of whom fly in to the local airstrip. Visitors can play a round of golf or a game of tennis for a fee at the Tango Mar Resort (see p208), which has a 9-hole golf course, or at the Los Delfines Golf and Country Club, which has an 18-hole course. Scuba diving for all abilities is on offer at the nearby Playa Tambor Beach Resort and Casino, which is affiliated to Barceló Los Delfines Club. The casino offers everything from slot machines and Caribbean poker to American roulette. Other activities popular in Tambor include sportfishing and horseback riding.

Environs

West of Tambor, the botanical garden and nursery Vivero Solera has a wide range of plants on display, as well as butterflies and hummingbirds.

Los Delfines Golf and Country Club

1 mile (1.6 km) E of Tambor.
Tel 2683-0294.

Vivero Solera

2 miles (3 km) W of Tambor.
Tel 2642-0469.   6am–4pm
Mon–Fri, 6am–noon Sat.

The lush greens of the golf courses of Tambor

Bright signs adorning shop fronts in Montezuma village

Montezuma 5

Road Map B3. 16 miles (26 km)
W of Paquera. from Paquera.

A favorite with budget travelers, this offbeat beach community has a laidback lifestyle, magnificent ocean vistas and beaches, and unpretentious yet hip bars. The compact village is tucked beneath precipitous hills and opens onto a rocky cove with fishing boats bobbing at anchor. Two superb beaches – Playa Montezuma and Playa Grande – unspool eastward, shaded by tall palms and backed by thickly forested mountains. Swimmers should watch out for the riptides. Sliding between treetops on the Montezuma Canopy Tour is a safe, fun, and adrenaline-boosting activity, while Finca Los Caballos offers invigorating horseback rides in the hills abutting the Reserva Absoluta Nicolas Weissenburg. The reserve, however, currently has no public access. Clambering up the waterfalls to the west of the village is unsafe; instead, cool off in the pools at the base of the waterfalls.

Montezuma Canopy Tour
1 mile (1.6 km) W of Montezuma.
Tel 2642-0808. daily.
8am, 10am, 1pm and 3pm. www.
montezumatraveladventures.com

Finca Los Caballos
2 miles (3 km) NW of Montezuma.
 2642-0124. 9am daily.
 www.naturelodge.net

Reserva Natural Absoluta Cabo Blanco 6

Road Map B4. 6 miles (10 km)
W of Montezuma. Tel 2642-0093.
 Montezuma–Cabuya. Also taxis from Montezuma. 8am–4pm
Wed–Sun and public hols.

Established in 1963 as the nation's first protected area, and elevated to the status of a reserve in 1974, the 4-sq-mile (10-sq-km) Cabo Blanco owes its genesis to the tireless campaign of the late Olof Wessberg and his wife Karen Morgenson; they also helped set up the Costa Rican National Park Service. Cabo

Activities in Montezuma

Blanco was initially an “absolute” reserve, off-limits to all visitors, but today there is access to the eastern part of the tropical forests that cover the hilly tip of the Nicoya Peninsula. About 85 percent of the reserve is covered by rejuvenated secondary forest and pockets of lowland tropical forest. There are numerous monkeys, as well as anteaters, coatis, and deer. The 3-mile (5-km) long Sendero Sueco trail leads to the beautiful Playa Cabo Blanco; other beaches lie along the shore, but exploring should not be attempted when the tide is rising.

Offshore, the sheer walls of Isla Cabo Blanco are stained white by guano deposited by colonies of nesting seabirds, including frigate birds and brown boobies.

Cabo Blanco is accessed from the community of Cabuya, a mile (1.6 km) along a rough dirt road. It can also be entered at Malpaís. Tour operators nationwide offer excursions to the reserve.

Malpaís 7

Road Map B4. 6 miles (10 km)
NW of Montezuma. from Cobano,
4 miles (6 km) N of Montezuma.

Its name may mean “bad land,” but the Malpaís area's Pacific shoreline is unsurpassed for its rugged beauty. Until a few years ago, the region was unknown; today it is a famed surfers' paradise.

Named for their respective gray-sand beaches, three contiguous communities are strung along the dirt road that fringes the shore. Relaxed to a fault, they are characterized by colorful hotels, restaurants, and bars. The main hamlet is Carmen, from where the road runs 2 miles (3 km) south, through Santa Teresa, to the fishing hamlet of Malpaís, which gives the area its popular name. Beyond Malpaís, where vultures perch on fishing boats, the beach ends amid tidepools and fantastically sculpted rocks near the entrance to Cabo Blanco. A 4WD is required.

The best surf beach is Playa Santa Teresa, merging in the north with playas that are virtually uninhabited: Los Suecos, Hermosa, and Manzanillo. Santa Teresa boasts the understatedly deluxe Florblanca Resort (see p206), in stunning counterpoint to the budget options.

Surfer and sun-lovers on Playa Santa Teresa's Pacific shoreline

Wild Cats of Costa Rica

Costa Rica has six members of the wild cat family, found in habitats that range from the wetlands to alpine páramo (grasslands). All are endangered to a greater or lesser degree, and are difficult to sight. These well-camouflaged, silent predators vary widely in size and coloring. Of the six species found in Costa Rica, four have spotted coats – the jaguar, the ocelot, the margay, and the extremely rare oncilla. Most species are as comfortable in the trees as they are on the ground, using branches as catwalks in their search for arboreal rodents, monkeys, and other edible prey. Cats enjoy superb vision, and are usually active by both night and day.

An oncilla on the lookout for prey

Jaguars (jaguar), the largest of neotropical cats, were worshipped by pre-Columbian peoples. They can weigh up to 330 lb (150 kg). These formerly abundant denizens of lowland rainforests and savannas are threatened by deforestation and poachers.

Jaguarundis (león breñero) tend to avoid deep rainforest, preferring savanna and lowland forests. These cats have slender, elongated bodies.

Margays (caucel) are tree-dwelling, nocturnal hunters. A special ankle joint rotates 180 degrees, an adaptation for an arboreal lifestyle. The oncilla is a smaller cousin of the margay.

Ocelots (manigordo) are found throughout the country. These 3-ft (1-m) long cats are ground dwellers and often follow human trails. Uniquely, they have short tails, with black and white rings.

Pumas (puma), although widely found in Costa Rica, are rarely seen. They are large, slender, adaptable, and solitary cats.

CAT	IDENTIFICATION	BEST PLACES TO SEE	VISIBILITY
Jaguar	Orange or cobalt-gray coat with large black rosettes	PN Corcovado	Elusive
Jaguarundi	Uniform coloring from rust to chocolate brown; long, feline tail	PN Santa Rosa	Most easily spotted
Margay	House-cat sized; distinctively spotted	PN Corcovado	Relatively visible
Ocelot	Gray coat heavily spotted with beige blotches ringed in black	PN Corcovado	Relatively visible
Oncilla	Smaller and darker than the margay; slim tail	PN Tapanti and La Amistad Biosphere Reserve	Rare; unlikely to be seen
Puma	White throat; uniform coat varies from gray-brown to red	PN Santa Rosa and PN Guanacaste	Elusive

Hiking through a lower elevation forest at Parque Nacional Carara

Parque Nacional Carara 9

Road Map C3. 31 miles (50 km) SE of Puntarenas. Tel 2637-1054. 📍 from San José and Jacó. ☑ 7am–4pm daily. 📞 📧 www.sinac.go.cr

Occupying a climatological transition zone where dry northerly and humid southerly ecosystems meet, Carara National Park's forests are complex and varied. Despite its relatively small size—20 sq miles (52 sq km)—the park offers some of the most diverse wildlife viewing in Costa Rica. Species from both the Meso-American and Amazonian environments are abundant, including the endangered spider monkey and the poison-dart frog. The birding is spectacular, with scarlet macaws being a major draw. They can be seen on their twice-daily migration between the forest and nearby coastal mangroves.

Carara's lower elevation forests have easy-to-walk trails that begin at the roadside visitor center; the longest is 5 miles (8 km) around. Guides can be hired to access pre-Columbian sites. Several tour operators in San José arrange day visits.

Environs

Carara is a Huetar Indian word for crocodile. The reptiles are easily seen from the highway as they bask on the banks of Río Tárcoles. Safaris are offered from Tárcoles, 2 miles (3 km) southwest of Carara. The spectacular 600-ft (183-m) drop of Catarata Manantial de Agua Viva makes the waterfall popular with hikers who cool off in the pools at its base. Nearby, Jardín Pura Vida has walking trails through 30 lush acres (12 ha).

🌿 Catarata Manantial de Agua Viva

Bijagual, 4 miles (6 km) E of Tárcoles. Tel 2645-1215.

☑ 8am–3pm daily. 📞 📧

🌿 Jardín Pura Vida

Bijagual. Tel 2645-1001.

☑ 7am–5pm daily. 📞 📧 📱 www.puravidagarden.com

Jacó 9

Road Map C4. 40 miles (65 km) S of Puntarenas. 📍 8,000. ☑ 📞 International Festival of Music (Jul–Aug).

Thriving on the surfer trade and that of Canadian “snowbirds” escaping the northern winter, Jacó has evolved as the nation's largest and most party-oriented beach resort. Palms shade the 2-mile (3-km) long beach. Despite this, its gray sands are unremarkable, the sea is usually a murky brown from silt washed down by rivers, and riptides make swimming unsafe. There's no shortage of things to do, however—from crocodile safaris to horseback rides—and the nightlife is lively. Many of the nation's top surfers live here, although as a surf center, Jacó is best for beginners.

Outside town, the Pacific Rainforest Aerial Tram takes you on a 90-minute guided ride through the treetops on silent open-air gondolas. The modified ski lifts skim the forest floor, soar above giant trees, pass waterfalls, and give fabulous views along the Pacific coast. Guided tours such as the Poisoned Frog Trail, are also offered along nature trails. Nearby, the Waterfalls Canopy Tour lets you whiz between treetops on ziplines; it also has hiking trails and rappelling.

Environs

Sportfishing and excursion boats set out from Los Sueños Marina at Playa Herradura, a gray-sand beach tucked into a broad bay north of Jacó. The marina is part of the Los Sueños Marriott Ocean & Golf Resort (see p208), which boasts a championship golf course.

Perched on a headland just north of Playa Herradura, Hotel Villa Caletas (see p207) is the remarkable creation of

The gray sands of palm-fringed Playa Jacó

French designer Denis Roy. A long ridgetop driveway lined with Roman urns has dramatic vistas out to sea and also provides a striking entry to this deluxe restaurant and hotel. Musicians perform in a Greek-style amphitheater built into the hillside, a setting for the International Festival of Music. The Serenity Spa offers pampering treatments. A winding track leads down to Playa Caletas, a rocky beach with a bar and grill. South of Jacó, Playa Hermosa is served by dedicated surf hostels. Sand bars provide consistently good breaks swelling in from deep waters offshore.

Pacific Rainforest Aerial Tram

2 miles (3 km) E of Jacó.

Tel 2257-5961. ☎ 9am-4pm

Mon, 6am-4pm Tue-Sun. 📶 📶

 www.rainforesttram.com

Waterfalls Canopy Tour

2 miles (3 km) NE of Jacó.

Tel 2643-3322. 📶 8am, 11am, and 2pm daily. 📶

www.waterfallscanopy.com

Rainmaker Conservation Project 10

Road Map D4. Pocares, 4 miles (6 km) E of Hwy 34, 28 miles (45 km) S of Jacó. Tel 2777-3565.

 organized transfers. 📶 only; 8:45am, 10:45am, and 12:45pm Mon-Sat. 📶 📶

www.rainmakercostarica.com

A trail through the rainforest canopy forms the highlight of this private reserve and conservation project, covering

A small lizard at the Rainmaker Conservation Project

2 sq miles (5 sq km) on the flanks of the Fila Chonta Mountains. The reserve is at an average altitude of 5,600 ft (1,700 m), and protects four distinct ecological habitats, including montane cloud forest at higher elevations.

There are several hiking trails and a river walk, which leads through the Río Seco canyon to a sparkling pool safe for bathing. A steep climb leads uphill to the canopy trail, with suspension bridges slung between treetops forming an aerial walkway. The longest bridge is 170 ft (50 m) long. These are perfect vantage points for spotting sloths, monkeys, iguanas, toucans, and scores of other species, including the extremely rare harlequin toad.

Boca Damas 11

Road Map D4. 33 miles (53 km)

S of Jacó. 📶

Crisscrossed by countless sloughs and channels, this vast manglare (mangrove) complex extends along the shoreline between the towns of Parrita and Quepos, at the estuary of Río Damas. Coatis, pumas, white-faced monkeys, and several species of snakes inhabit the dense forests. Crocodiles and caimans lurk in the tannin-stained waters. Stilt-legged shorebirds and boat-billed herons, with their curious keel-shaped beaks, pick among the mudflats in search of molluscs.

Tour operators in Quepos offer kayaking excursions. Guides offer boat trips from the small dock at Damas.

Signs identifying flora at the Rainmaker Conservation Project

CROCODILE SAFARI

Indiscriminate hunting during the past 400 years has resulted in a decimation of the American cocodrilo (crocodile) population. Since gaining protected status in 1981, however, crocodiles have managed to make a comeback. They can be seen in rivers throughout the Pacific lowlands, but are nowhere so numerous as near the mouth of Río Tárcoles, where populations of more than 200 crocodiles per mile have been counted. Boats depart from the village of Tárcoles, near the mouth of the river, for 2-hour crocodile-spotting safaris upriver. The reptiles, which grow up to 16 ft (5 m) in length, often approach to within a few feet. Keep your hands in the boat. You can also expect to see roseate spoonbills, scarlet macaws, and dozens of other Costa Rican bird species.

Crocodiles seen from a bridge over Río Tárcoles, Puntarenas

A relaxed cafeteria and ice cream bar on a downtown Quepos street

Quepos 12

Road Map D4, 34 miles (55 km) S of Jacó. Pop 12,000. Carnaval (Feb–Mar). www.queposlandia.com

Traditionally a game fishing base and center for the production of African palm oil, Quepos has blossomed as a tourist center and a gateway to Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio. Relatively quiet by day, the town buzzes at night when its numerous bars and restaurants come alive.

On the north side of town, Boca Vieja village has wooden huts, which are linked by flimsy walkways that overhang the brown sands of Playa Cocal. In the hills to the south, quaint clapboard homes recall the 1930s, when the Standard Fruit Company established banana plantations. Panama disease killed them off, and today African oil palms dominate the coastal plains for miles around.

Environs

South of Quepos, a two-lane road winds over steep headlands to the hamlet of Manuel Antonio, fronted by Playa Espadilla, a wide scimitar of gray sand. At the north end of the beach is a lagoon with crocodiles. Restaurants, bars, and hotels line the route, including El Avión, a converted Fairchild C-123 transport plane, which was used by the CIA in the 1970s to run arms to the Nicaraguan Contras (see p135).

Nearby, Fincas Naturales Wildlife Refuge & Butterfly Garden offers easy walks through 40 acres (16 ha) teeming with sloths, raccoon-like coatis, leafcutter ants, and phenomenal birdlife.

The Rio Naranjo Valley extends east of Quepos into the Fila Nara Mountains. The ruins of a Spanish mission, established in 1570, still stand by the roadside. Whitewater rafting trips are a popular excursion from Quepos.

Farther up the valley, Rancho Los Tucanes offers guided horseback and 4WD tours of its vanilla and pepper plantations. Trails lead through montane rainforest to the 295-ft (90-m) high Los Tucanos waterfall.

Fincas Naturales Wildlife Refuge & Butterfly Garden

1 mile (1.6 km) S of Quepos. Tel 2777-0850. 6am–8pm daily; butterfly garden: 8am–4pm daily. www.butterflygardens.co.cr

Rancho Los Tucanes

Londres, 7 miles (11 km) NE of Quepos. Tel 2777-0775. 7am–3pm daily. www.rancholostucanes.com

Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio 13

See pp118–19.

Valle del Río Savegre 14

Road Map D4, 15 miles (25 km) SE of Quepos. from Quepos.

Cutting inland into the Fila San Bosco Mountains, the Río Savegre Valley is covered by plantations of African oil palms at its lower levels. Farther up the valley lies the rural community of El Silencio, where the local farmers' cooperative operates an ecotourist center called Coopesilencio. It offers horses for rides down rustic trails into a nature reserve, and has a wildlife rescue center with scarlet macaws, deer, and monkeys.

Modeled on a South African safari camp, Rafiki Safari Lodge (see p208) is set atop a ridge overlooking the Savegre. It makes a great base for hiking, birding, and horseback riding, as well as for exhilarating whitewater rafting and kayaking trips on Río Savegre. A 4WD vehicle is essential for negotiating the rugged track, which is often inundated in the wet season.

Coopesilencio

25 miles (40 km) SE of Quepos. Tel 2779-9554. 9:30am–noon and 1–3:30pm daily. www.turismoruralcr.com

Plantations of African oil palms in the Valle del Río Savegre

Sportfishing on the Pacific Coast

The ultimate draw for the game-fishing enthusiast, Costa Rica's waters witness the setting of new International Game Fish Association records every year. More anglers have claimed "grand slams" – both species of marlin and one or more sailfish in a single day – on the country's Pacific coast than in any other place on earth. In the wet season (May–November), fishing is best off the Golfo de Papagayo. In the dry season (December–April), when high winds in the Golfo de Papagayo make the waters dangerous, the best fishing is found farther toward the south, out of the year-round marinas of Quepos, Bahía Drake, and Golfito. Angling on the Caribbean coast is different: inshore fishing using light tackle is the norm here (see p251).

Fishing lure

ORGANIZED FISHING TRIPS

Sportfishing vessels often journey 20 miles (32 km) or more from shore to find game fish. Hooking a fish is only the beginning. The real sport lies in the fight that ensues.

Anglers strap themselves into the "fighting chair" to bring in larger species. Fights sometimes take hours and can tire the angler almost as much as the fish.

Charter shops and fishing lodges abound in Costa Rica. Apart from hiring out boats, they can also arrange fishing licenses for visiting anglers.

A catch-and-release policy is usually followed by sportfishing operators in Costa Rica. However, maritime laws designed to protect fish stocks from commercial over-exploitation are poorly enforced.

DEEP SEA FISH

A wide variety of game fish await the keen angler on Costa Rica's Pacific coast. Angling is possible year-round, but there are prime areas and peak seasons for each species.

Yellowfin tuna are extremely powerful, weighing up to 350 lb (160 kg). They are found in warm currents year-round, but June–October is best.

Wahoo are long, sleek, and explosively fast fish that are found in northern waters between May and August.

Dorado (also called dolphin-fish or mahimabi) have scales that flash a wide range of colors. This dramatic fighter is found from May to October.

Sailfish, bard-fighting giants up to 7 ft (2 m) long, and known for their spectacular leaps when hooked, are plentiful from December to April.

Blue marlins are considered the ultimate prize. The "Bull of the Ocean" puts up a fight like no other. Females weigh up to 1,000 lb (455 kg); males are smaller. August–December are generally the best months.

Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio 15

Signage within
PN Manuel Antonio

Named for a Spanish conquistador, and flanked by the ocean and forested hills, this beautiful park was inaugurated in 1972. Although it is the smallest in Costa Rica's park system, covering a land area of 6 sq miles (16 sq km), Manuel Antonio National Park has remarkable biodiversity, with abundant wildlife and magnificent beaches. Sightings of coatis, sloths, toucans, and scarlet macaws along the well-maintained trails are virtually guaranteed. This is one of the most visited parks in the nation: although there is a limit on the daily number of visitors, its wildlife is threatened by overuse, pollution, and unregulated hotel expansion.

Visitors queuing at the park entrance

Playa Espadilla Sur

A long swathe of coral-colored sand curling south from Manuel Antonio village, this beach connects with Playa Espadilla to the north.

Punta Catedral

This former island is now connected to the mainland by a tombolo (natural land bridge). The rocky promontory has tidal pools at its base and is encircled by a trail that ascends to a mirador (viewpoint).

Playa Manuel Antonio

This scimitar-shaped beach with soft white sands shelves into calm jade waters containing a small coral reef. Snorkeling is splendid, especially in the dry season. Green and Pacific ridley turtles sometimes nest here.

TO QUEPOS

Coral reefs form a refuge for crabs, starfish, shrimp and colorful fish. Dolphins and humpback whales are often seen in this area.

THE MANCHINEEL TREE

Manchineel trees

Locally called manzanillo, or “beach apple,” the manchineel tree is quite common on the beaches, causing problems for unwary visitors seeking its shade. This evergreen species (Hippomane manicinella), identified by its short trunk and bright green elliptical leaves, is very toxic. The sap and bark inflame the skin, while the small yellow apple-like fruit is poisonous. Moreover, if its wood is burnt, the smoke is an irritant to the lungs.

VISITORS’ CHECKLIST

Road Map D4. 100 miles (160 km) S of San José and 5 miles (8 km) S of Quepos.
Tel 2777-4122. 📍 from San José and Quepos. 🕒 8am–4pm
 Tue–Sun. Limited to 600 visitors a day. 📱 📺 📷

Sendero Mirador

Ascending a hill and dropping past Playa Escondido, this muddy, 0.8-mile (1.3-km) long trail then rises to a mirador with great views toward Punta Catedral.

Monkeys

Capuchin monkeys and tiny squirrel monkeys are easily spotted throughout the park. Do not feed them – the illegal practice is a threat to their health and behavior.

Laguna Negra’s brackish waters and mangrove swamps are home to the alligator-like caiman.

Playa Playitas is remote and, being a nesting site for marine turtles, is off-limits to visitors.

Isla Mogote is a sacred site for the Quepoa Indians.

Rocky Islands

An additional 212 sq miles (550 sq km) of the park protects 12 islands that host large colonies of seabirds.

GUANACASTE AND NORTHERN NICOYA

With its arid plains, men on horseback, rodeos, and bullfights, the province of Guanacaste is steeped in the hacienda heritage. The region stretches from the cloud-tipped volcanoes of the Cordillera de Guanacaste to the marshes of the Río Tempisque basin and the magnificent surf-washed beaches of Northern Nicoya – paradise for marine turtles and surfers.

A chain of volcanoes and mountains runs across this vast region, framing it to the east. To the northwest, the rugged Pacific shore, which is serrated by deep bays, has many of the nation's best beaches. Between mountain and coast lies a broad trough whose wetlands harbor crocodiles and waterfowl. To the southwest, the Nicoya Peninsula enfolds the mangrove-fringed Gulf of Nicoya. Although the plains can be searingly hot, the mountains offer cool, beautiful retreats, while refreshing breezes caress the beaches.

In spring, the sparsely foliated deciduous forests of the plains explode in a riot of color while offering the advantage of relatively easy wildlife spotting. Thick evergreen cloud forests on the upper slopes of the mountains provide a splendid study in contrasts.

The Chorotega culture was one of the region's most developed at the time of the Spanish arrival, and was quickly assimilated.

While no great pre-Columbian architecture has been discovered, a tradition of superb pottery continues in the Guaitil area. The predominant culture now is that of the sabanero (cowboy), tracing a lineage back to colonial days, when great haciendas were constructed. Raising or tending cattle is still the dominant occupation here, although many inhabitants cling to a way of life established in pre-Columbian times, earning their livelihood from fishing.

Sabaneros (cowboys) herding cattle at a ranch in Liberia

Exploring Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya

The driest of Costa Rica's regions offers possibilities ranging from the spectacular cloud forests of Monteverde to the volcano parks of Rincón de la Vieja, Miravalles, and Guanacaste, and the beach-fringed Parque Nacional Santa Rosa. Birding is superb at Palo Verde, Lomas Barbudal, and near Cañas. To the north is Liberia, with its colonial buildings. Laid-back Playas del Coco to the west is a base for scuba diving, while Playa Flamingo is a sportfishing destination. Farther south is the surf center of Tamarindo, and Playa Grande and Ostional draw marine turtles. Guaitil is famed for its traditional pottery, while Barra Honda attracts cavers.

Liberia's main plaza, flanked by trees

SIGHTS AT A GLANCE

Towns and Villages

- Cañas 3
- Guaitil 22
- Islita 19
- Liberia 7
- Nicoya 20
- Nosara 17
- Sámara 18
- Santa Cruz 21
- Tamarindo 15
- Tilarán 2

National Parks and Reserves

- Monteverde and Santa Elena* pp124-8 1
- Parque Nacional Barra Honda 13
- Parque Nacional Guanacaste 9
- Parque Nacional Palo Verde 4
- Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja 8
- Parque Nacional Santa Rosa*
pp134-5 11
- Refugio Nacional de Vida
Silvestre Ostional 16
- Reserva Biológica Lomas Barbudal 5
- Zona Protectora Volcán Miravalles 6

Areas of Natural Beauty

- Bahía Culebra 12
- Bahía Salinas 10

Beaches

- Playa Flamingo 14
- Playas del Coco 13

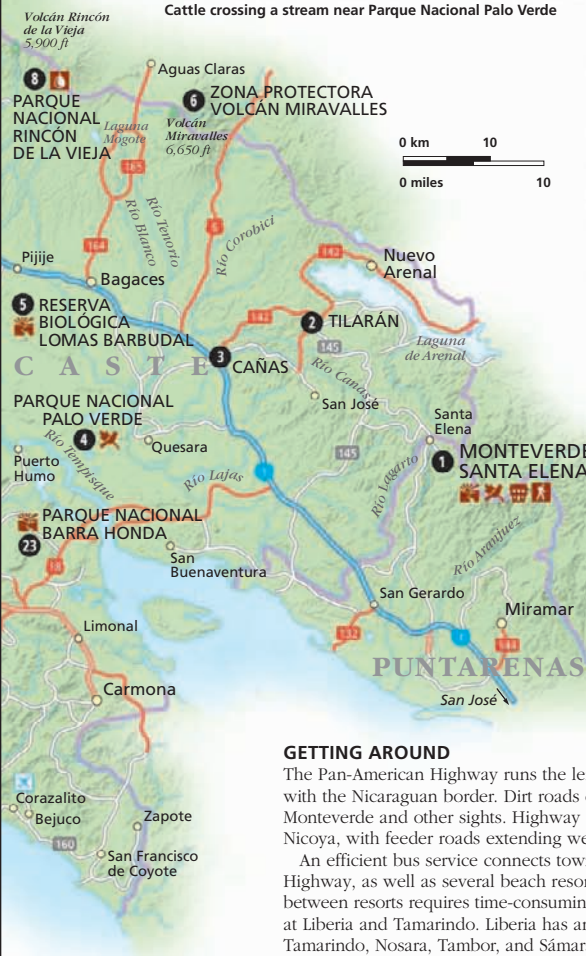

A mask at Rancho Armadillo, Playas del Coco

RAGUA

Cattle crossing a stream near Parque Nacional Palo Verde

KEY

- Pan-American Highway
- Major road
- Secondary road
- Minor road
- International border
- Provincial border
- Peak

SEE ALSO

- Where to Stay pp208–12
- Where to Eat pp231–4

GETTING AROUND

The Pan-American Highway runs the length of the region, connecting with the Nicaraguan border. Dirt roads connect the highway with Monteverde and other sights. Highway 21 links Liberia to Northern Nicoya, with feeder roads extending west to the principal beach resorts.

An efficient bus service connects towns along the Pan-American Highway, as well as several beach resorts, with San José, but bus travel between resorts requires time-consuming connections. Cars can be rented at Liberia and Tamarindo. Liberia has an international airport, while Tamarindo, Nosara, Tambor, and Sámara are served by domestic airports.

Monteverde and Santa Elena ①

Monteverde logo

Known worldwide for its unique cloud forest reserve that helped promote Costa Rica's reputation for ecotourism, Monteverde boasts a pastoral alpine setting at an elevation of 4,600 ft (1,400 m), in the heart of the Cordillera de Tilarán. To the northwest is Santa Elena, which is the main commercial center. Several other reserves, incorporated within the Zona Protectora Arenal-Monteverde, are found in the area. Monteverde's fame has spawned all manner of attractions, including a variety of tours that permit visitors a monkey's-eye view of the forest canopy. However, even in the face of these ever-increasing services and attractions, Monteverde retains a bucolic charm.

Canopy Tours

Four canopy tours permit visitors to explore the canopy along zipline or by rappelling.

Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena

Offering similar wildlife species to the Monteverde Cloud Forest Biological Reserve, the Santa Elena reserve is, however, less crowded (see p128).

Serpentario

This boasts close-up encounters with snakes that inhabit the local forests, as well as various other amphibians and reptiles (see p126).

KEY

— Major road

— Other road

— Trail

— Park boundary

— Visitor information

Orquídeas de Monteverde displays one-third of Costa Rica's orchid species (see p126).

Ranario de Monteverde

Finca Ecológico has four trails through montane tropical forest.

Bajo del Tigre Trail is a self-guided interpretative trail. Three-wattled bellbirds and quetzals are frequently seen.

Bat Jungle has a bat flyway.

Monteverde Nature Center and Butterfly Gardens

Dozens of butterfly species flit about inside netted gardens at this educational center, which has displays spanning the insect world (see p126).

Santa Elena

Located downhill of Monteverde, with the locality known as Cerro Plano lying in between, this is the area's main village, with a bank, bus stop, and other services.

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Road Map C2. 42 miles (68 km) N of Puntarenas, 22 miles (35 km) uphill from the Pan-Am Hwy. 5,000. to Santa Elena and up to Monteverde Cloud Forest Biological Reserve. www.acmcr.org
Original Canopy Tour
 Tel 2645-5243. 7:30am, 10:30am, and 2:30pm daily.
www.canopytour.com

La Lechería

Started by immigrant Quakers from the United States, the "Cheese Factory" is the foundation of the local economy. It offers visitors an insider's view of cheese-making (see p126).

Pastures

Monteverde's lush rolling hills are fertile pastures for the cattle that are the source of the area's famous cheeses.

Monteverde is actually the name of the Quaker community of American extract, whose members live in scattered homes in the forests below the Monteverde reserve.

The Friend's Meeting House is the venue for meetings of Monteverde's Quaker community (see p126).

Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde

The world-famous Monteverde Cloud Forest Biological Reserve is the nation's foremost locale for viewing resplendent quetzals – one among more than 400 species of birds found here (see p127).

Exploring Monteverde and Santa Elena

Monteverde Reserve sign

Cool and verdant Monteverde has its fair share of interesting sights, many of which are spread out along the winding dirt road that slopes gently upward from Santa Elena to the Monteverde Cloud Forest Biological Reserve. Other sights are tucked away off side roads, some of which are quite rugged and steep. Walking is a pleasurable option, but the heavily trafficked roads can be muddy or dusty, depending on the weather. It is always a wise idea to take along an umbrella. Dozens of hotels and restaurants line the route. A steeper dirt road leads northeast from Santa Elena to Santa Elena Cloud Forest Reserve, passing several key attractions along the route.

🦎 Ranario de Monteverde

330 yd (300 m) SW of Santa Elena.

Tel 2645-6320. ☐ 9am–8:30pm

daily. 📞 📧 📱 📺 📷

www.ranario.com

The Frog Pond of Monteverde displays about 20 species of frogs and other amphibians, as well as snakes, salamanders, and lizards in large glass cases that attempt to replicate their natural environments. Several of Costa Rica's most intriguing ranas and sapos (frogs and toads) can be seen here, including poison-dart frogs, the endearing red-eyed tree frogs, transparent frogs, and huge marine toads. The best time to visit the Ranario is evening or night, when the frogs are most active and visitors can hear their distinctive calls.

🦎 Serpentario

550 yd (500 m) S of Santa Elena.

Tel 2645-6002. ☐ 8am–8pm daily.

📞 📧 📱 📺 📷 www.snaketour.com

Among more than 20 species of snakes shown behind glass in this snake house are the fearsome terciopelo (fer-de-lance, or Bothrops asper) and its nemesis, the terciopelo-eating musarana (Clelia clelia). Most species displayed here can be encountered in local forests. Also exhibited are turtles, iguanas, basilisk lizards, chameleons, and frogs. Although the educational labels are only in Spanish, English-speaking guides are available.

Delicate orchids grown at Orquídeas de Monteverde

🦎 Orquídeas de Monteverde

0.8 mile (1.3 km) E of Santa Elena.

Tel 2645-5308. ☐ 8am–5pm daily.

📞 📧 📱 📺 📷

A great place to learn about orchids (see p183), the Monteverde Orchid Garden has more than 500 local species. They are arranged in 22 groups along a winding self-guided trail labeled with educational signs. Visitors are each handed a magnifying glass to help them appreciate such diminutives as the liverwort orchid (Platystele jungermannioides), the world's smallest flower.

🦎 Monteverde Nature Center & Butterfly Garden

1.2 miles (1.8 km) S of Santa Elena.

Tel 2645-5512. ☐ 9:30am–4pm daily.

📞 📧 📱 📺 📷 www.monteverde

butterflygarden.com

With educational exhibits as well as butterfly arenas representing three distinct habitats, this nature center is an ideal locale for learning about the life cycle of the butterfly.

The fascinating displays also include tarantulas, stick insects, giant rhinoceros beetles, and 5-in (13-cm) long caterpillars.

Educational videos are shown, and a video “bug cam” gives visitors a larger-than-life real-time view of leafcutter ants inside a nest. The highlight of the hour-long guided tour is a large netted flyway where more than 40 species of colorful butterflies flit about amid dense foliage. Go midmorning, when the butterflies become active.

🦎 Bat Jungle

1.75 miles (2.5 km) SE of Santa

Elena. Tel 2645-6566. ☐ 9:30am–

7pm daily. 📞 📧

Costa Rica boasts 109 species of bats (Monteverde alone has 65 of them), and you can learn all about these fascinating creatures at this exhibit. The highlight is a glass-walled flyway that is a habitat for eight bat species. Documentaries are shown, and you can don giant ears to gain a sense of a bat's phenomenal acoustic abilities.

THE QUAKERS

The original settlers of Monteverde were 44 members of the pacifist Protestant religious group called Quakers. Hailing from Alabama, USA, where they had been jailed for refusing to be drafted, they arrived in Costa Rica in 1951, drawn by the fact that the country had abolished its army following the 1948 Civil War. They settled in the Cordillera de Tilarán, raising dairy cattle to produce the cheese that is now famous throughout the nation. The Quakers have been at the forefront of local conservation efforts in Monteverde.

Painting of a Quaker in traditional attire

THE GOLDEN TOAD

In 1964 scientists discovered a new species of toad (Bufo periglenes) in the cloud forest above Monteverde. They named the brilliant orange creature sapo dorado (golden toad). In fact, only the male, which is 1-in (3-cm) long, is bright orange; the female is larger and speckled in patches of black, red, and yellow. Although abundant as recently as 1986, sapo dorado has not been seen since 1988 and is now considered extinct.

Golden toads, now extinct

La Lechería

2 miles (3 km) SE of Santa Elena.
Tel 2645-5436. ☐ 7:30am–5pm daily (to 12:30pm Sun). 📞 📧 9am and 2pm. www.monteverde.net
 Founded by the original Quaker settlers of Monteverde in 1953, the “Cheese Factory” today produces 14 types of pasteurized cheese, including parmesan, Gouda, and the best-selling Monte Rico. Guided tours show visitors the manufacturing process, resulting in the production of more than 2,200 lb (1,000 kg) of cheese daily. Visitors can buy cajeta, a butterscotch spread, and cheeses on-site.

Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde

4 miles (6 km) SE of Santa Elena.
Tel 2645-5122. ☐ 7am–4pm daily. 📞 📧 by reservation. 📞 📧 📧 www.cct.or.cr
 The dirt road that winds uphill from Santa Elena ends at the 40-sq-mile (105-sq-km) Monteverde Cloud Forest Biological Reserve, the jewel in the crown of the vast Arenal-Monteverde Protection Zone. Owned and operated by the Tropical Science Center of Costa Rica, the reserve straddles the Continental Divide and comprises six distinct ecological zones extending down the Pacific and Caribbean slopes. The upper elevation forests of the reserve are smothered by near-constant mists fed by sodden trade winds sweeping in off the Atlantic. On the more exposed ridges, trees are reduced to stunted dwarfs by the battering of the wind.

Wildlife abounds here. There are more than 150 species of amphibians and reptiles, and over 500 species of butterflies. More than 100 species of mammals include five wild cats – jaguars, jaguarundis, pumas, margays, and ocelots. The umbrella bird and the endangered three-wattled bellbird are among the 400 species of birds.

Quetzals are easily seen, the best viewing time being the April–May mating season, when they are especially active after dawn. Also easily spotted are hummingbirds, which gather at feeders outside the visitor center; the reserve counts more than 30 species. Most wildlife, however, is elusive and difficult to detect. The reserve is crossed by 75 miles (120 km) of trails. A self-guided booklet corresponds to educational posts along the most popular trails, which are covered with wooden boardwalks and are linked together to form what is colloquially called “the triangle.” Sendero Chomogo is a steep trail leading to a mirador (viewpoint) atop the Continental Divide. From here, on rare days when the mists clear, visitors can see both the Pacific and the Caribbean. More challenging

Iguana at Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde

trails extend down the Caribbean slopes to the lowlands; these involve a full day’s hike, with mud oozing underfoot. Rubber boots can be rented, along with binoculars. The driest months are between December and April. Hotels organize transport, and both taxis and buses operate from Santa Elena.

A hike through Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde

Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena

4 miles (6 km) NE of Santa Elena.
 Tel 2645-5390. ☐ 7am–4pm daily.
 📞 📧 7:30am, 11:30am, and 7pm, by appointment. 📧 📧

www.reservasantaelena.org
 Funded and run by the community of Santa Elena, the 2-sq-mile (5-sq-km) Santa Elena Cloud Forest Reserve is dedicated to conservation and education. The students of the local high school play a vital role in its development.

Set at a higher elevation than the more famous and crowded Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde (see p127), this magical green world is cloudier and wetter. Spider and howler monkeys are easily seen, as are resplendent quetzals, orange-bellied trogons, squirrels, and agoutis. More elusive are the tapirs, jaguars, ocelots, pumas, and tayras, which belong to the same family as otters and weasels. On clear days, there are fabulous views toward Volcán Arenal in the northeast. A self-guided booklet is available for the 7 miles (11 km) of hiking trails.

Sky Walk/SkyTrek

3 miles (5 km) NE of Santa Elena.
 Tel 2645-5238. ☐ 7am–4pm daily. 📞 📧 8am, 10am, and 1pm (Sky Walk); 7:30am, 9:30am, 11:30am, 1:30pm, and 2pm (SkyTrek).
 📞 📧 📧 www.skywalk.co.cr;
www.skytrek.com

With high walkways, ziplines, and suspension bridges, this project on the edge of Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena

A visitor trying the Sky Walk along the cloud forest canopy offers a variety of ways in which to explore the cloud forest canopy. Thrill-seekers can try the 2-hour SkyTrek. Securely harnessed, visitors slide between treetop platforms along ziplines that total a mile (1.6 km) in length. Two observatory towers offer panoramic views of the Guanacaste and Puntarenas lowlands. The more sedate Sky Walk is just as good for wildlife viewing, with 3,300 ft (1,000 m) of aerial pathways, including five suspension bridges hung between treetop platforms.

Selvatura Park

4 miles (6 km) NE of Santa Elena.
 Tel 2645-5929. ☐ 7am–5pm daily. 📞 📧 📧 📧 📧

www.selvatura.com
 Selvatura Park boasts 2 miles (3 km) of treetop walkways with eight suspension bridges that meander through the cloud forest canopy. Visitors can also take part in a 14-platform zipline canopy tour, one of the longest in the whole of Costa Rica, for a monkey's-eye view of the upper elevation forest.

A highlight of Selvatura Park is the Jewels of the Rainforest Bio-Art Exhibition, which features a superb display of the world's largest private insect collection, put together by entomologist Dr. Richard Whitten. Beautifully laid out in a riot of colors, thousands of stick insects, butterflies, spiders, wasps, beetles, moths, and other insects are exhibited in educational panels arranged according to geographic regions and themes. Other exhibits in the Jewels collection include giant crustaceans and skulls of prehistoric creatures, such as the saber-toothed tiger. There are also human skulls, ranging from Australopithecus to Homo sapiens. Fascinating videos about insect life are shown in an auditorium. Visitors can also watch Dr. Whitten at work in his Selvatura laboratory via a real-time video link.

Selvatura Park's other attractions include a hummingbird garden with more than 14 species of hummingbirds, a climbing wall, guided nature walks, and a domed, climate-controlled butterfly garden with over 20 species of butterflies, including the shimmering blue morphos.

The entrance to Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena

For hotels and restaurants in this region see pp208–12 and pp231–4

Cloud Forests of Costa Rica

Named for the ephemeral mists that always envelop them, Costa Rica's cloud forests are typically found at elevations above 3,500 ft (1,050 m). More properly called montane tropical rainforests, they show extreme local variations in flora. On wind-swept, exposed ridges, trees and shrubs grow close to the ground as a form of protection, forming elfin forest with a primeval quality. More protected areas have taller vegetation typical of rainforests, with several levels (see pp22-3). However, the lush canopies rarely reach 100 ft (30 m), although massive trees occasionally break through. Epiphytic plants such as orchids and bromeliads cling to branches, which also drip with lichen, fungi, mosses, and liverworts.

Clear-wing butterfly

Pipers, found in moist areas, can have large leaves up to 20 inches (50 cm) in size. Costa Rica has 94 species of pipers.

Swirling mists are created by humid Caribbean trade winds that condense as they sweep up to the Continental Divide.

Mosses breathe and draw water directly from the air through roots that hang from branches like an old man's beard.

FLORA AND FAUNA

The constant interplay of sunshine, clouds, and rainfall in cloud forests produces flora of astounding diversity. Fauna is correspondingly abundant, although the mists and thick foliage hamper sightings.

Trees include guarumo, wild fig, and the huge zapote, with branches often weighed down by epiphytic plants.

Collared peccaries forage in large groups and are highly social. They use their long canines to defend themselves.

Prong-billed barbets have a telltale yodel but are reclusive and rarely seen. At night they sleep huddled together.

Howler monkeys are arboreal leaf- and fruit-eaters. Males are known for their intimidating, booming roars.

Tilarán 2

Road Map B2. 14 miles (22 km) E of Cañas. 7,700. Feria del Día Cívica (Apr–Jun).

This neat little town, at an elevation of 1,800 ft (550 m) on the Continental Divide, has crisp air and a pretty plaza shaded by pines and cypress trees. It makes a delightful stop en route to and from Lake Arenal, although the only sight of note is the 1960s modern-looking, arch-roofed cathedral, decorated with marquetry. An agricultural town surrounded by undulating fields, Tilarán is known for its annual livestock show and rodeo.

Tower, Tilarán cathedral

Enviros

Orchid lovers should visit Vivero Poporí, where tropical orchids are raised and more than 20 species of butterflies flutter inside a netted garden.

Vivero Poporí

2 miles (3 km) E of Tilarán. Tel 2695-5047. 7:30am–6pm daily.

Cañas 3

Road Map B2. 48 miles (77 km) N of Puntarenas. 19,000. Feria Domingo de Resurrección (Mar/Apr).

This dusty cowboy town set dramatically in the lee of the Cordillera de Guanacaste is also known as Ciudad de la Amistad (City of Friendship). Surrounded by cattle haciendas in the searingly hot Tempisque basin, Cañas is most appealing for its sabaneros (cowboys). It sits astride the Pan-Am Highway, and serves as the gateway to Parque Nacional Palo Verde and Lake Arenal.

Enviros

To the north, the Centro de Rescate Las Pumas (Puma Rescue Shelter) is a private facility for rescued wild cats. Some of the cats – which include jaguars, pumas, ocelots, margays, jaguarundis,

Bird-watching from canopied boats at Parque Nacional Palo Verde and oncillas – are quite tame, having been raised by the late founder, Lilly Bodmer de Hagnauer. No guard rails prevent visitors from going up to the cages – caution is needed. Nearby, Río Corobicí is popular for rafting trips offered by Safaris Corobicí; small rapids add touches of excitement.

Centro de Rescate Las Pumas

Pan-Am Hwy, 3 miles (5 km) N of Cañas. Tel 2669-6044. 8am–5pm daily. <http://laspumas.org>

Safaris Corobicí

Pan-Am Hwy, 3 miles (5 km) N of Cañas. Tel 2669-6091.

Parque Nacional Palo Verde 4

Road Map B2. 26 miles (42 km) W of Cañas. Tel 2200-0125. to Puerto Humo, then boat to trailhead leading to park HQ; to Bagaces (14 miles/22 km N of Cañas), then by jeep-taxi. 8am–4pm daily.

One of the country's most diverse national parks, Palo Verde was inaugurated in 1980. Spread over 50 sq miles (130 sq km), it protects a mosaic of habitats including mangrove swamps, marshes, savanna, and tropical dry forest at the mouth of Río Tempisque. Much of the vegetation consists of such drought-tolerant species as ironwood and sandbox, as well as evergreen paloverde (green stick) trees, which give the park its name.

Fauna is diverse and abundant. During the dry season from December to April, the trees burst into vibrant bloom. The ripening fruits draw monkeys, raccoon-like coatis, white-tailed deer, peccaries (wild hogs), pumas, and other mammals. In the wet season, much of the area floods and draws flocks of waterfowl to join herons, jabiru storks, ibis, roseate spoonbills and other stilt-legged waders. Palo Verde has more than 300 species of birds, including a large population of scarlet macaws and curassows. Isla de Pájaros, in the middle of Río Tempisque, is a major nesting site.

Wildlife viewing is best in the dry season when the deciduous trees lose their leaves and animals collect near waterholes. Lookout points can be accessed by well-maintained trails.

Reserva Biológica Lomas Barbudal 5

Road Map A2. 4 miles (6 km) SW of Pan-Am Hwy, 12 miles (19 km) NW of Bagaces. Tel 2695-5908. to Bagaces, then by jeep-taxi. 8am–4pm daily (subject to change). by donation.

Famous for its plentiful insect population, not least the 250 species of bees, the seldom-visited Reserva Biológica

Rare dry forests of Reserva Biológica Lomas Barbudal

Lomas Barbudal (Bearded Hills Biological Reserve) protects rare tropical dry forest. Established in 1986, the hilly, densely forested terrain hosts a similar array of wild-life to Parque Nacional Palo Verde. The reserve also has plant species not usually found in dry forests – its waterways are lined with evergreens such as guapinol and fruit-bearing nispero.

Trails span the 9-sq-mile (23-sq-km) reserve from the Casa de Patrimonio visitor center on the banks of Río Cabuyo, which has pools that are good for swimming. The best time to visit is during February and March, because this is when the park's trees bloom in spectacular profusion.

Fumaroles near Las Hornillas, Zona Protectora Volcán Miravalles

Zona Protectora Volcán Miravalles 6

Road Map B2. 16 miles (26 km) N of Bagaces. from Bagaces.

This active volcano rises 6,650 ft (2,030 m) above the Guanacaste plains. Few visitors hike the trails that lace the 42-sq-mile (109-sq-km) Miravalles Forest Reserve on the upper slopes. Tapirs are drawn to lakes near the summit, and there are several other species of fauna.

The main draw is Las Hornillas (Little Ovens), an area of steam vents and mud pools bubbling and hissing on the western slopes. The Institute of Electricity (ICE) produces power from the super-heated water vapor at Proyecto Geotérmico Miravalles. The fumaroles and mud pools are best viewed at Las Hornillas Volcanic Activity Center, where a short trail leads into an active crater. You can even wallow in warm, therapeutic mud before diving into a swimming pool. There are also horseback rides and a thrilling thermal waterslide that plunges you into a pool with magnificent volcano views.

Proyecto Geotérmico Miravalles
17 miles (27 km) NE of Bagaces. Tel 2673-1111, ext 232. by appt.

Las Hornillas Volcanic Activity Center
1 mile (1.6 km) SE of Proyecto Geotérmico Miravalles. Tel 8839-9769. 9am–5pm daily.
www.hornillas.com

Liberia 7

Road Map A2. 16 miles (26 km) N of Bagaces. 39,000.
Tel 2665-0135. Día de la Anexión de Guanacaste (Jul 25).

Guanacaste's charming, historic capital, founded in 1769, is known as the White City for its whitewashed adobe houses with terra-cotta tile roofs. The loveliest houses are on Calle Real (Calle Central). The city is also known for its puertas del sol – double doors, one on each side of a corner, to catch both morning and afternoon sun. Liberia's cowboy tradition is celebrated at the Monumento Sabanero, on the main boulevard, and at Hacienda

Liberia's Monumento Sabanero

Interior of a colonial-era house on Calle Real, Liberia

La Chácara, a ranch that hosts various horse-related activities. The main plaza has the modern Iglesia Imaculada Concepción de María. Next door, the ayuntamiento (town hall) flies Guanacaste's flag, the only provincial flag in the country. Each July, locals celebrate Guanacaste's separation from Nicaragua in 1824. The Iglesia de la Ermita de la Resurrección, familiarly known as Iglesia de la Agonía, is an engaging 1825 adobe colonial church, which features a small museum of religious art. Liberia is the main gateway to Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja (see p132) and the beaches of Northern Nicoya.

Hacienda La Chácara
1.5 miles (2.5 km) W of Liberia. Tel 8350-1527. www.haciendalachacara.com

Iglesia de la Agonía
Calle 9 and Ave Central. Tel 2666-0107. 2:30–3:30pm daily.

COWBOY CULTURE

A majority of Guanacastecos make their living as sabaneros (cowboys), also called bramaderos after the hardy Brahma cattle. Proud, folkloric figures, the sabaneros ride straight-backed in their elaborately decorated saddles, leading their horses in a high-stepping gait. The most important days of the year in Guanacasteco culture revolve around topes (horse shows) and recorridos de toros (bullfights). Bulls are ridden and baited, but never killed.

Sabanero on a working ranch

The impressive Volcán Rincón de la Vieja

Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja 8

Road Map B1. 19 miles (30 km) NE of Liberia. Tel 2200-0296. to Liberia, then by jeep-taxi. 7am–5pm daily; last admission: 3pm. www.acguanacaste.ac.cr

The dramatically beautiful Rincón de la Vieja volcano is studded with nine craters, of which only Rincón de la Vieja crater (5,900 ft/1,800 m) is active. The highest is Santa María (6,250 ft/1,900 m), while Von Seebach crater is filled with an acidic turquoise lake.

The park protects an area of 55 sq miles (140 sq km). The eastern slopes of the volcano are rain-soaked all year round; the western side has a distinct dry season, and ranges from deciduous forest at lower elevations to cloud forest below the stark moonscape summit.

Visitors can spot capuchin, howler, and spider monkeys, anteaters, sloths, kinkajous, and more than 300 species of birds, including quetzals and three-wattled bellbirds. Pea-green Lago Los Jilgueros is visited by tapirs.

The park offers superb hiking. Trails start at the park headquarters, the 19th-century Hacienda Santa María, and at Las Pailas ranger station. They lead past mud pools, hot sulfur springs, waterfalls, and fumaroles. The challenging 11-mile (18-km) summit trail requires a pre-dawn departure. The summit offers fabulous views as far as Lake Nicaragua.

Hikers must report to the ranger stations when setting out and returning. Both ranger stations can be reached from Liberia by jeep-taxis, and they are linked by a trail. The dry season from December to April is the best time to visit.

Environs

Several nature lodges on the western slopes of the volcano also operate as activity centers. On its southwestern flanks, Hacienda Lodge Guachipelín (see p211), accessed from Liberia via Curubandé, is a working cattle ranch, specializing in horseback rides. Nearby, Rincón de la Vieja Lodge (see p211) has a 900-acre (364-ha) private forest reserve. Both lodges offer canopy tours. From Liberia, a road leads via Cañas Dulces to Buena Vista Mountain Lodge & Adventure Center (see p211) on the northwestern slopes. It offers horseback rides, a canopy tour, and a 1,300-ft (400-m) long water slide. Hotel Borinquen

Careta la Cangreja waterfall in the Parque Rincon de la Vieja

Mountain Resort Thermae & Spa nearby has bubbling mud pools and spa treatments.

Hotel Borinquen Mountain Resort Thermae & Spa

19 miles (30 km) NE of Liberia via Cañas Dulces. Tel 2690-1900. www.borinquenresort.com

Parque Nacional Guanacaste 9

Road Map A1. 22 miles (35 km) N of Liberia. Tel 2666-5051.

to Liberia, then by jeep-taxi. 8am–5pm daily with advance notice. by reservation. www.acguanacaste.ac.cr

This remote national park encompasses more than 325 sq miles (840 sq km) of reforested woodland and pasture extending to the top of Volcán Cacao (5,400 ft/1,650 m) and Volcán Orosi (4,900 ft/1,500 m). Facilities are few, but the rewards are immense. The park, an extension of Parque Nacional Santa Rosa, has a variety of habitats, and wildlife viewing is stupendous. Biological stations Cacao, Pitilla, and Maritza have spartan accommodations; Cacao and Maritza can be accessed only on foot or horseback.

Pre-Columbian petroglyphs can be seen at Llano de los Indios, on the lower western flanks of Volcán Orosi.

Bahía Salinas 10

Road Map A1. 38 miles (62 km) NW of Liberia. to La Cruz, then by jeep-taxi.

Framed by cliffs to the north, salt pans to the east, and mangrove-fringed beaches to the south, this flask-shaped bay is swept by breezes from December to April. Fishing hamlets line its shores. Hotels at La Coyotera and Playa Copal serve as surfing centers.

Frigate birds use the drafts around Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Isla Bolaños to take off. A protected nesting site for pelicans and American oystercatchers, this island is off-limits to visitors.

Costa Rica's Dry Forests

Dry deciduous forests once swathed the lowlands of the Pacific littoral from Mexico to Panama, covering most of today's Guanacaste and Nicoya. After the arrival of Columbus, the Spanish cleared vast areas of these forests to raise cattle, which still dominate the economy of the Pacific northwest. Today, only about 2 percent of the original cover remains, notably in the Tempisque basin, and Santa Rosa, Rincón de la Vieja, and Guanacaste National Parks. Recent conservation efforts, spearheaded by the US biologist Dr. Daniel Janzen, are returning large areas of savanna and ranchland to their original state. The intent is to link the existing patchwork and regenerate dry forest ecosystems.

The orange bloom of the poró

The understory consists of short trees; above are stout-trunked, flat-crowned trees.

Grass and thorn scrub dominate at ground level.

Trees typically grow no higher than 40 ft (12 m) and are widely spaced.

The forest is relatively sparsely vegetated, with fewer species of flora.

The dry season sees the forest exploding in an outburst of color. Pink pouí blooms first, followed by bright orange poró, rose-colored Tabebuia rosea, vermilion malinche, and purple jacaranda.

Parque Nacional Santa Rosa (see pp132-3) protects the most important remnant of dry tropical forest in all Central America.

Guanacaste trees spread their wide-reaching branches close to the ground, providing precious shade in the searing midday heat. Such dry forest species have evolved to withstand the long seasonal drought by shedding their leaves.

Indio desnudo, or naked Indian, is named for its distinct copper-red bark, which readily peels to reveal an olive-colored trunk. Naked Indian is also called the gumbo-limbo.

White-tailed deer blend in well with the dun-colored grasses and dry forest. The best times to see them are dawn and dusk, when they emerge to search for food.

Thorny scrub, such as acacia, have long spikes to prevent birds and animals from eating their leaves and seeds.

Parque Nacional Santa Rosa ①

The country's first national park, inaugurated in 1971, Santa Rosa National Park covers 190 sq miles (492 sq miles) of the Santa Elena Peninsula and adjoining land. It is divided into two sectors. To the north is the little-visited Murciélago Sector, with hidden beaches – notably Playa Blanca – accessed along a rugged dirt track. To the south, the much larger Santa Rosa Sector was the site of battles in 1856 and 1955, and boasts most of the sights of interest. The park protects the nation's largest stretch of tropical dry forest, as well as nine other distinct habitats. With 115 mammal species, including 20 types of bats, and 250 species of birds, the park is a superb wildlife-viewing area, especially in the dry season, when the deciduous trees shed their leaves.

Islas Murciélagos

The waters around these islands offer splendid scuba diving (see p252). Manta rays, grouper, and other large species are common.

Playa Nancite

This is one of three sites in Costa Rica where olive ridley turtles nest en masse in synchronized arribadas (see p141), especially in September–October. Protected as a research site, it is off-limits to visitors except by permit.

Crocodiles

The mangroves at the northern and southern ends of Playa Naranjo harbor crocodiles.

Witch's Rock, off Playa Naranjo, is renowned among surfers for the powerful, tubular waves that rise here and pump ashore.

Playa Naranjo

A gorgeous white-sand surfing beach, Playa Naranjo has campsites with basic facilities. It is reached by an arduous dirt road that often gets washed out in wet season – check with rangers before setting out for the beach.

For hotels and restaurants in this region see pp208–12 and pp231–4

KEY

- Murciélagos Sector
- Santa Rosa Sector

Tanquetas (armored vehicles) lie half-buried in the undergrowth as rusting relics of an ill-fated attack launched by Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza against Costa Rica in 1955.

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Road Map A1. 22 miles (35 km) N of Liberia. Tel 2666-5051.
 🚗 Santa Rosa Sector: from Liberia; Murciélagos Sector: from Santa Rosa park entrance, via Cuajiniquíl. 🚌 tours to Playa Naranjo from Playa Tamarindo and Playas del Coco. 🕒 8am–4pm daily for vehicles; 24 hrs for hikers. 📞 by reservation. 🏠 by reservation. www.acguanacaste.ac.cr

Sendero Indio Desnudo

Named for indio desnudo (naked Indian) or gumbo-limbo trees, this short trail features a monument to the Costa Ricans who fought in the battles of 1856 and 1955.

ROSA SECTOR

Centro de Investigaciones
 La Casona

Centro de Investigaciones is the main center for tropical dry forest research in Costa Rica.

Sendero Los Patos leads to waterholes, which provide excellent opportunities for viewing peccaries and other mammals in the dry season.

La Casona

Also called Hacienda Santa Rosa, this important monument is a replica built in 2001 after the 1663 original was destroyed by arsonists. The battle of 1856 against William Walker (see p45) was fought outside the hacienda, which now functions as a historical museum.

KEY

- Pan-Am Highway
- Other road
- Trail
- Park boundary
- Visitor information
- Camping
- Viewpoint

THE CONTRA CONNECTION

Col. Oliver North

During the 1980s, the remote Murciélagos Sector was utilized as a secret training ground for the CIA-backed Nicaraguan Contras in their battle to topple the Sandinista government (see p46). An airstrip was illegally established here under the orders of Colonel Oliver North, a key player in the Iran-Contra scandal that shook the US in 1983–8. The road to the park entrance runs alongside the airstrip, which occupies land confiscated from Nicaraguan strongman Anastasio Somoza.

Visitors soaking up the sun on the wide gray-sand beaches of Tamarindo

Bahía Culebra 12

Road Map A2, 12 miles (19 km) W of Liberia.

Ringed by dramatic cliffs and fringed by beaches of varying hues, Bahía Culebra (Snake Bay) is the setting for Proyecto Papagayo, a controversial tourism project that has restricted access to the bay's sparkling waters. Spilling down the cliffs are big hotels, including the Four Seasons Resort at Papagayo Peninsula (see p208). Pre-Columbian settlements on the bay await excavation. Witch's Rock Canopy Tour has ziplines and a walkway through the dry forest canopy.

Witch's Rock Canopy Tour
23 miles (37 km) W of Liberia. Tel 2666-7101. ☐ 8am–5pm daily. <http://witchsrockcanopytour.com>

Playas del Coco 13

Road Map A2, 22 miles (35 km) SW of Liberia. 2,000.
 Fiesta Cívica (Jan); Festival de la Virgen del Mar (mid-Jul).

This wide beach combines the allure of a traditional fishing community with a no-frills resort. Although the pelican-patrolled beach is not particularly attractive, it is a favorite with Costa Rican families, and has a lively nightlife. Local outfitters offer sportfishing and scuba trips to Islas Murciélagos (see p134) and Isla Catalina, where schools of rays can be seen.

Environs

Secluded Playa Ocotol, west of Playas del Coco, has the region's best dive site. It is also a premier sportfishing destination. Playas Hermosa and Panamá, north of Coco, have exquisite settings, with Isla Catalina silhouetted dramatically at sunset.

Playa Flamingo 14

Road Map A2, 38 miles (62 km) SW of Liberia. 2,000.

With gently curving white sands cusped by rugged headlands, the gorgeous Playa Flamingo justifies its official yet less common name, Playa Blanca (White Beach). The large marina is a sportfishing base, but it is temporarily closed. Deluxe villas dot the rocky headlands. Most of the hotels are upscale timeshare resorts and, despite its fine beach, Flamingo is shunned by the off-beat and party crowd.

Surfers heading for the water

Environs

North of Playa Flamingo, the estuary of Río Salinas opens out at modestly appealing Playa Penca, where roseate spoonbills, egrets, and a rich variety of other birdlife can be spotted in the mangroves.

Southwest of Flamingo is Playa Conchal (Shell Beach), with its shining sands; the diamond-like sparkle of the sands is caused by crushed seashells. The beach slopes gently into turquoise waters, which are ideal for snorkeling and other water sports. For a fee, visitors can access Paradise Playa Conchal Beach & Golf Resort (see p210), which boasts a championship golf course.

Tamarindo 15

Road Map A2, 11 miles (18 km) S of Flamingo. 3,800.
 International Festival of Music (Jul–Aug).

Formerly a sleepy fishing village, Tamarindo has rapidly developed into the region's premier resort. This hip surfers' haven is also a center for sportfishing, diving, and snorkeling. Tamarindo is popular with backpackers, but also boasts a cosmopolitan selection of restaurants and boutique hotels.

The area lies within Parque Nacional Marino Las Baulas (Leatherback Turtle Marine National Park), inaugurated in 1990. It protects 85 sq miles (220 sq km) of ocean and 1,100 acres (445 ha) of beach – Playa Grande – a prime nesting site of leatherback turtles. Between October and April, as many as 100 leatherbacks can be seen on the beach. Pacific ridley, green, and hawksbill turtles occasionally nest here. During the nesting season, nobody is permitted on the beach after sundown, except guided groups by reservation.

The park also incorporates Playa Langosta, south of Tamarindo, and 990 acres (400 ha) of mangroves, which can be explored on boats.

Parque Nacional Marino Las Baulas

Tel 2686-4967. ☐ Oct–Feb: 24 hrs; Mar–Sep: 6am–6pm daily. compulsory on the beach; Oct–Feb: 6pm–6am daily.

Surfing Beaches of Northern Nicoya

Acclaimed as the “Hawaii of Latin America,” Costa Rica offers world-class surfing and warm waters year-round. The greatest concentration of surfing beaches is in Northern Nicoya, where Pacific breakers pump ashore all year. Conditions are ideal between December and March, when the Papagayo winds kick up high waves. Dozens of beaches guarantee that surfers will find a fairly challenging ride on any day, while extremely varied tidal conditions provide breaks for every level of experience. Be warned, however: riptides are common and many surfers lose their lives every year; few beaches have lifeguards. Numerous villages and resorts have become surfers’ havens and are heavily reliant on the waveboard trade, with scores of surf camps and surf shops.

Surfing board

Playa Naranjo ①

This remote beach in the Golfo de Papagayo boasts a superb beach break, called Witch’s Rock. Naranjo is accessed by 4WD or by boat from the resorts of Northern Nicoya.

Tamarindo ③

The surf capital of Northern Nicoya, Tamarindo offers a rivermouth break, rocky point break, and beach breaks. It is also the gateway to nearby isolated surfing beaches such as Playas Langosta, Avellanas, and Negra.

Playas Bejuco and San Miguel ⑤

Long slivers of silvery sand are washed by good surf. These remote beaches are oriented to budget travelers.

Playa Grande ②

Consistently high waves pump ashore onto this long, easily accessible beach. It is protected as part of a prime nesting site of the leatherback turtle.

Playa Nosara ④

A relatively new discovery among surfers, Nosara has a fine beach break and a dramatic setting. It is backed by mangroves and has warm, rocky tidepools.

0 km 10
0 miles 10

Playas Bongo, Ario, and Manzanillo ⑥

All three are as off-the-beaten-track as possible in Costa Rica. Just getting there is half the fun. Cracking waves, combined with the solitude, guarantee surfer bliss. Facilities are virtually nonexistent.

Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Ostional 16

Road Map A3. 34 miles (55 km) S of Tamarindo. Tel 2682-0470. from Santa Cruz and Nicoya via Nosara. 24 hrs daily. compulsory for the beach.

The setting for one of the most remarkable occurrences in nature, Ostional National Wildlife Refuge protects 4 sq miles (10 sq km) of land and sea around Playa Ostional. The beach is one of only a dozen worldwide where Pacific ridley turtles nest in synchronized arribadas. The best time to view them is during August and September. Green and leatherback turtles also nest here in smaller numbers. Ostional is the only place in Costa Rica where residents are legally allowed, under strict guidelines, to harvest eggs during the first 36 hours of an arribada.

Ostional is accessed by dirt roads that require 4WD during the wet season. The remote setting and the surrounding forests have shielded the area from development, though now there are a few hotels. Personal contact with turtles is forbidden, as are flashlights and flash photography.

Vultures, Nosara

tidepools in which monkeys can sometimes be seen enjoying a good soak. Strong tides rule out swimming, but the breakers are perfect for surfing. To the north, small Playa Pelada is encircled by steep cliffs. Nearby, Reserva Biológica Nosara protects 125 acres (50 ha) of tropical forest along the Río Nosara estuary. Over 250 bird species nest here, including wood storks, white-fronted parrots, and frigate birds. Crocodiles can be seen in the estuary.

Reserva Biológica Nosara
Bocas de Nosara. Tel 2682-0035.
 by appointment.
www.lagarta.com

Sámara 18

Road Map A3. 16 miles (26 km) S of Nosara. 2,700. at Carrillo.

Popular with backpackers, surfers, and middle-class Costa Ricans, Sámara is the most southerly of the beach resorts developed for tourism. At the southern end of Playa Sámara, at Matapalo, villagers eke out a living from the sea. There are few other sights of interest, and life revolves around lazing on the gray sands, or going surfing and riding. Playa Carrillo, 2 miles (3 km) south of Sámara, is a sportfishing center, while to the north, the Flying Crocodile Lodge and Flying Center offers flights by ultralight plane.

Beach sign, Sámara

Flying Crocodile Lodge and Flying Center

Esterones, 3 miles (5 km) N of Sámara. Tel 2656-8048.

7am–3pm daily.
www.flying-crocodile.com

Islita 19

Road Map B3. 9 miles (14 km) S of Sámara. 1,000. to Sámara, then by jeep-taxi.

Set in the lee of the soaring Punta Islita, this charming village is known for the Hotel Hacienda Punta Islita (see p209), a hilltop resort that houses the Galería de Arte Contemporáneo Mary Anne Zürcher. Artworks in varied media by established and local artists are available here. The hotel also fosters the Museo de Arte Contemporáneo al Aire Libre (Open Air Museum of Contemporary Art), spread around the village – houses, individual trees, and even the soccer field have been decorated by residents and hotel staff with murals and other spontaneous aesthetic expressions. Several rivers have to be forded along the rough dirt road linking Islita to Sámara. During the wet season, long detours via San Pedro to the east are often necessary, which is why many people choose to fly here.

Nosara 17

Road Map A3. 3 miles (5 km) S of Ostional. 2,800.

This isolated community on the Nicoya coast comprises twin villages. Bocas de Nosara, 3 miles (5 km) inland, on the banks of Río Nosara, is a peasant hamlet where ox-carts still creek along dusty lanes. Beaches of Nosara, to the south, is a predominantly foreign settlement, with contemporary homes amid forests near the shore. The maze of roads comprising Beaches of Nosara backs onto the stunning Playa Guiones, a long, calm stretch of white sand and sun-warmed

A participant in a surfing competition at Playa Guiones, Nosara

Arribadas of Olive Ridley Turtles

The synchronized mass nestings called arribadas (arrivals), which are unique to the ridley turtle, are known to occur regularly at only a dozen or so beaches worldwide. Of these, three are in Costa Rica – Playa Nancite, Playa Ostional, and Playa Camaronal. Arribadas take place between April and December, peaking in August and September. Lasting between three and eight days, they happen at two- to four-week intervals, usually during the last quarter of the moon's cycle. On any one night, as many as 20,000 turtles congregate just beyond the breakers. Then, wave after wave of turtles storm ashore, even climbing over one another in a single-minded effort to find a nesting spot on the crowded sands. Millions of eggs are laid during each arribada, believed to be an evolutionary adaptation to ensure survival in the face of heavy predation.

Mosaic turtle

Ridley turtles come ashore in groups numbering up to 100,000 turtles during a single arribada. Ridleys nest every year, sometimes as often as three times a season.

Hatchlings emerge together at night for the dangerous run to the sea and the safety it offers. Only about 1 percent survive to adulthood.

Flippers scatter sand on the nest to disguise it.

Females lay an average of 100 eggs each during an arribada.

Nests are scooped out to a depth of about 3 ft (1 m) using rear flippers.

THE NESTING PROCESS

Turtles seek sandy sites above the high-water mark in which to nest. Incubation typically takes around 50 days. The temperature of the nest affects the gender of the hatchling – cooler nests produce males, while warmer ones produce females.

Scientists tag ridley turtles during an arribada at Santa Rosa's Playa Nancite in an effort to track and study them.

Coatis, as well as raccoons and vultures, dig up turtle nests to feast on the eggs; less than 10 percent of turtle eggs hatch.

Commercial harvesting of eggs is legally done only by villagers of Ostional.

Nicoya 20

Road Map A3. 44 miles (71 km) SW of Liberia. 21,000. Fiesta de la Yegüita (Dec 12).

Emanating sleepy colonial charm, Nicoya dates back to the mid-1600s, and is named after the Chorotega cacique (chief) who greeted the Spanish conquistador Gil González Davila in 1523. An advanced Chorotega settlement existed here in pre-Columbian times. Today, the town serves as the administrative center for the Nicoya Peninsula and bustles with the comings and goings of campesinos (peasants) and cowboys. Nicoya is also the gateway for Sámara and the Pacific beaches of the south-central Nicoya Peninsula.

Life centers around the old plaza, Parque Central. Built in 1644, the intimate, wood-beamed Iglesia Parroquia San Blas, located in the northeast corner of the plaza, has a simple façade inset with bells. Inside, a small museum has a display of historical artifacts and religious memorabilia.

The simple exterior of the Iglesia Parroquia San Blas in Nicoya

FIESTA DE LA YEGÜITA

The Virgin of Guadalupe by Miguel Cabrera

Also known as the Festival of the Virgin of Guadalupe, this fiesta blends Chorotega and Catholic traditions. According to legend, twin brothers were battling to death for the love of an Indian princess when a yegüita (little mare) intervened to stop the fight. The festival takes place every December and features traditional Costa Rican food, bullfights, rodeos, street processions, fireworks, music and dance, and ancient Indian rituals.

Environs

Nature lovers can head about 17 miles (27 km) northeast to Puerto Humo, a riverside port town from where boats depart for Parque Nacional Palo Verde (see p130). Buses operate from Nicoya. Nearby, Tempisque Safari Ecological Adventure is a rescue and breeding center for animals such as tapirs, crocodiles, and wild cats.

Tempisque Safari Ecological Adventure

4 miles (6 km) NW of Puerto Humo. Tel 2698-1069. 10am–5pm daily. www.tempiquesafari.com

Santa Cruz 21

Road Map A2. 14 miles (22 km) N of Nicoya. 17,500. Fiesta Patronal de Santo Cristo (mid-Jan); Fiesta de Santiago (Jul 25).

Steeped in local tradition, Santa Cruz is Costa Rica's official La Ciudad Folklórica (National Folkloric City). Connected by Highway 160 to Tamarindo and the beaches of the north-central Nicoya Peninsula, this center was founded in 1760. Many of the wooden colonial edifices that once graced its historic core were destroyed in a fire, but the overall ambience is still charming. Plaza de los Mangos serves as a focal point for the city's festivals, which draw visitors from miles around to enjoy traditional marimba music and dance. Topes (horse shows) and recorridos de toros (bull-fights) also take place here.

Ruined bell tower, Plaza Bernabela Ramos, Santa Cruz

The architectural highlight of Santa Cruz is the landscaped Plaza Bernabela Ramos. On its east side is a modern church with fine stained-glass windows. Next to it is the ruined bell tower of a Colonial-style church, which was destroyed by an earthquake in 1950. The plaza is a pleasant spot to relax and admire the statues, including that of Chorotega cacique Diría in the southwest corner, and a montador (bull-rider) on a bucking bull in the northeast.

Statue of a bull-rider, Plaza Bernabela Ramos, Santa Cruz

Guaitil 22

Road Map A2. 7 miles (11 km) E of Santa Cruz. 1,500.

This small village offers the most authentic display of traditional culture (see pp32–3) in Costa Rica, with virtually the entire community deriving its income by making ceramics in pre-Columbian style. Guaitil sits on the cusp between cultures – even the contemporary pieces draw inspiration from traditional Chorotega designs.

Headed by the matriarch of the family, most households have a traditional wood-fired, dome-shaped borno (oven) for firing pots and other ceramic objects. Visitors are welcome in the yards to watch artisans work the red clay dug from nearby riverbanks. The dusty lanes are lined with thatched stores and open-air shacks where the pottery is displayed.

A regeneration of Chorotega culture is now spilling over into the nearby villages as well. In San Vicente, the tiny Ecomuseo de la Cerámica Chorotega offers a historical and cultural profile on the ceramic tradition.

Ecomuseo de la Cerámica Chorotega

1 mile (1.6 km) E of Guaitil. Tel 2681-1563. 8am–4pm Mon–Fri. www.ecomuseosanvicente.org

Parque Nacional Barra Honda 23

Road Map B3. 11 miles (18 km) E of Nicoya. Tel 2659-1551. Nicoya–Santa Ana village (0.5 mile/1 km from park entrance), then by jeep-taxi. 8am–4pm daily; last admission: noon; caving: 7:30am–1pm daily (Dec–Apr: to 2pm).

One of the best spots for caving, this national park was established in 1974, and spreads over 9 sq miles (23 sq km). A tropical dry forest area, Barra Honda was used for raising cattle, but is now in the process of being reforested.

The park has excellent hiking. Trails lead to lookout points atop Cerro Barra Honda (1450 ft/442 m), a massif lifted

CHOROTEGA POTTERY

Guaitil artisans use the same simple tools as their ancestors did to craft pottery in the age-old manner, perpetuating their native traditions. The decorative bowls, pots, and clay figures are polished with zukias (ancient grinding stones), and blessed by shamans, after which totemic animal motifs in black, red, and white are painted on ocher backgrounds. The quintessential Guaitil piece is a three-legged vase in the form of a cow. Although most pieces are traditional, some artisans work in a creative synthesis that blurs the line between the old and the new.

Clay figure from Guaitil

up by powerful tectonic forces. Cerro Barra Honda is riddled with limestone caverns formed by the action of water over millions of years. Of the 40 caves discovered so far, 20 have been explored. Santa Ana, the largest cave, soars to a height of 790 ft (240 m). Inside Cueva Terciopelo, a dripstone formation called El Órgano (The Organ) produces musical tones when struck. La Pozo Hediondo (Stinking Well) is named for the droppings of the bats roosting here. Some caves have blind salamanders and blind fish, and most boast dramatic stalactites and stalagmites. Indigenous artifacts have been found in some caves.

Cave descents into Cueva Terciopelo are permitted; a licensed guide is compulsory. Guides are also compulsory for the Las Cascadas trail, which leads to waterfalls. Spelunkers enter Terciopelo via a 100-ft (30-m) ladder. Access to the other caves requires prior permission. Spelunking equipment and guides can be hired. Hikers must report to the ranger station. A 4WD is needed to reach the park entrance. Jeep-taxi run from Nicoya.

Puente de Amistad con Taiwan across Río Tempisque on Hwy 18

Environs

The Puente de Amistad con Taiwan (Friendship with Taiwan Bridge) is a dramatic suspension bridge over Río Tempisque. It links Nicoya to the Pan-Am Highway.

A spelunker at Cueva Terciopelo, Parque Nacional Barra Honda

THE NORTHERN ZONE

The northern provinces are Costa Rica's flatlands – a gentle landscape quilted in pastures, fruit plantations, and humid rainforest. This wide-open canvas is framed by a dramatic escarpment of mountains. The extreme north of this perennially wet region is a world of seasonally flooded lagoons and migratory waterfowl, while the mountains in the south are cloaked in dense forests, which are protected in a series of national parks and wildlife reserves.

The rolling llanuras (plains) form a triangle, narrow to the west and broadening eastward, which extends north from the base of the cordilleras (mountain ranges) to Río San Juan, on the Nicaraguan border. The scenery is nowhere more splendid than around Lake Arenal, located on a depression between the Guanacaste and Tilarán Mountains. Volcán Arenal looms ethereally over the waters. Its near-constant eruptions and other local attractions have given a boost to the nearby town of La Fortuna, now a base for various adventure activities.

At the time of the Spanish arrival, the Corobicí peoples occupied the lower flanks of the mountains and were at war with their Nicaraguan neighbors. During the colonial era, settlements were restricted to the main river courses, and were subject to constant plundering by pirates.

The region remained aloof from the rest of the country until the early 19th century, when a trade route was laid linking highland towns to a wharfside settlement – today's Puerto Viejo – which gave access to the Caribbean. Founded around that time, Ciudad Quesada grew to become the region's administrative center. The settlement campaign initiated in the 1950s led to the decimation of huge tracts of forest to make room for cattle farms as well as banana and citrus plantations. More settlements have since sprung up throughout the region.

Cloud-wreathed Volcán Arenal, the country's most active volcano

Exploring the Northern Zone

The main gateway to the northern lowlands is Ciudad Quesada, a dairy town on the mountain flanks that fringe the region's southern border. La Fortuna, to the west, is a center for outdoor activities, from caving to horseback riding. The region's major attraction is Volcán Arenal, great for hiking and for soaking in the thermal waters of Tabacón. Nearby Lake Arenal offers fine fishing and world-class windsurfing. To the east of Ciudad Quesada are several private reserves – one of which includes the Rainforest Aerial Tram. Boats depart the nondescript town of Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí for nature cruises along Río Sarapiquí. Caño Negro Wildlife Refuge, in the far north, is a superb birding and angling destination.

Stone figurine, Centro Neotrópico SarapiquíS

SIGHTS AT A GLANCE

Towns and Cities

- Ciudad Quesada (San Carlos) 10
- La Fortuna 1
- Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí 12

National Parks and Reserves

- Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal 2
- Parque Nacional Volcán Tenorio 9
- Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro 8
- Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Corredor Fronterizo 14

Areas of Natural Beauty

- Arenal Hanging Bridges 5
- Arenal Rainforest Reserve and Aerial Tram 6
- Cavernas de Venado 7
- La Selva Biological Station 15
- Laguna de Arenal pp150–52 4
- Rainforest Aerial Tram 18
- Rara Avis 17
- Sarapiquí Heliconia Island 16
- Selva Verde 13
- Tabacón Hot Springs Resort and Spa 2

Indigenous Site

- Centro Neotrópico SarapiquíS 11

A cowboy at Selva Verde

Volcán Arenal shrouded in mist

The hot springs at Tabacón, near Volcán Arenal

SEE ALSO

- Where to Stay pp212–14
- Where to Eat pp234–5

La Fortuna ①

Road Map C2. 81 miles (131 km) NW of San José. 🏠 9,750. 📶

Volcán Arenal towers over this agricultural community and tourist hub, officially known as La Fortuna de San Carlos. Situated on a gentle slope, the picturesque town is laid out on a grid around a broad, landscaped plaza, which has a sculpture of an erupting volcano. A modern church stands on the plaza, its tall bell tower contrasting with Arenal behind.

Horseback riding in La Fortuna

Arenal Bungee offers various options for adrenalin-charged plunges from a metal tower. There are numerous restaurants and hotels that cater to the tourists who come here in search of adventure. Several agencies offer horseback rides, caving, fishing, biking, and rafting. A popular horseback trip is to Monteverde (see pp124–8), but the ride is very demanding on the horses, so ensure you choose a well-kept animal.

Enviros

The Ecoentro Danaus Butterfly Farm and Tropical Garden provides an educational introduction to the local fauna. It has a netted butterfly garden, a snake zoo, a frog garden, and a small lagoon stocked with waterfowl and caimans. Arenal Mundo Aventura is a 2-sq-mile (5-sq-km) wildlife refuge and ecotour center with trails, rappelling, and canopy tours. Nearby, a steep, muddy trail leads to the base of Catarata La Fortuna, a refreshingly cool, ribbon-like 210-ft (70-m) high waterfall. Swimming in the pools at its base is unsafe after heavy rains. Instead, visitors can soak in thermal waters at Baldi Termae Spa, which has landscaped outdoor pools and a swim-up bar and restaurant. Southeast of La Fortuna on Highway 142, Hotel Bosques de Chachagua (see p212) is a working cattle ranch with a

One of the many buses that run from La Fortuna to various sights

320-acre (130-ha) private forest reserve at the base of soaring mountains. The reserve, which also welcomes day visitors, offers horseback rides into the forest and has hiking trails too.

🌿 Arenal Bungee

La Fortuna. Tel 2479-7440.

🕒 9:30am–8:30pm daily. 📶

www.arenalbungee.com

🦋 Arenal Danaus Butterfly Farm and Tropical Garden

2 miles (3 km) E of La Fortuna.

Tel 2479-7019. 🕒 8am–4pm daily.

📶 www.ecocentrodanaus.com

🦋 Arenal Mundo Aventura

1 mile (1.6 km) S of La Fortuna.

Tel 2479-9762. 🕒 8am–5pm daily.

📶 www.arenalmundoaventura.com

🌿 Catarata La Fortuna

3 miles (5 km) SW of La Fortuna.

Tel 2479-8078. 🕒 8am–5pm daily.

📶

🌿 Baldi Termae Spa

3 miles (5 km) W of La Fortuna.

Tel 2479-9651. 🕒 10am–10pm daily.

📶 www.arenal.net/baldi-hot-springs.htm

Tabacón Hot Springs Resort and Spa ②

Road Map C2. 8 miles (13 km)

W of La Fortuna. Tel 2519-1999.

📶 from La Fortuna and Nuevo Arenal.

🕒 10am–10pm daily. 📶

📶 www.tabacon.com

Steaming-hot waters pour out from the base of Volcán Arenal and cascade through this lush, landscaped balneario (bathing resort). Río Tabacón feeds a series of therapeutic mineral pools with temperatures that range from 27° to 39°C (80°–102°F). Spa treatments are available. The main pool has a swim-up bar, and there is a splendid restaurant with views (see p235). La Fuentes Termales, an affiliated balneario nearby, can be accessed from Tabacón Lodge via zipline.

Tabacón's is in the path of the main lava flow and, along with Pueblo Nuevo, it was decimated in 1968 when Arenal erupted. Nonetheless, the resort is usually crowded on weekends and throughout the high season.

Enviros

Opened in 2009, Arenal Waterfall Gardens offers landscaped thermal pools and cascades, plus a wild cat rescue center.

🦋 Arenal Waterfall Gardens

6 miles (10 km) W of La Fortuna.

Tel 2401-3313. 🕒 8am–midnight daily.

📶 www.thespringscostarica.com

The landscaped pools of the balneario at Tabacón

A panoramic view of Volcán Arenal and the San Carlos Plains

Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal 3

Road Map C2. 11 miles (18 km)

W of La Fortuna. Tel 2461-8499.

🚗 to La Fortuna, then by jeep-taxi.

🕒 8am–4pm daily; last entrance: 3pm. 📶 📶 📶

Encircling the country's most active volcano, Arenal Volcano National Park spreads over 45 sq miles (120 sq km). Rising from the San Carlos Plains, the majestic Arenal is one of Costa Rica's most rewarding sights. Pre-Columbian tribes considered it the sacred "Home of the Fire God." Arenal ceased activity between the 13th and 16th centuries, and stayed inactive until July 29, 1968, when an earthquake re-awakened it. The perfectly conical 5,400-ft (1,650-m) high volcano now smolders incessantly and minor eruptions occur almost daily. At night it can look like a firecracker as it spews out red-hot lava, which pours down its northwestern flank. Witnessing an eruption is a matter of luck, as clouds often conceal the upper reaches; the dry season is the best for viewing. Ask to be woken if there is a nocturnal eruption.

Trails cross a moonscape of smoking lava scree on Arenal's lower western slopes. Hikers should note that access to some areas is restricted, and should observe the posted

"no entry" zones. The volcano has already claimed several lives. The ranger station at the park entrance sells maps and has restrooms. Tour companies and hotels in La Fortuna offer guided tours.

The park also includes the dormant 3,800-ft (1,150-m) high Volcán Chato to the east.

Arenal Observatory Lodge (see p213), midway up the western flank of Chato, has stunning views of Arenal and

Sign at Arenal Observatory Lodge

Lake Arenal. A museum provides an understanding of vulcanicity, and the restaurant offers grandstand views when Arenal erupts.

Trails from the observatory lead through thick forests to Chato's summit, where a jade-colored lake shimmers in the crater. Canoes can be hired here.

Laguna de Arenal 4

See pp150–51.

Arenal Hanging Bridges 5

Road Map C2. 12 miles (19 km)

W of La Fortuna. Tel 2290-0469.

🚗 to La Fortuna, then by jeep-taxi.

🕒 8am–4:30pm daily. 📶 📶 📶

📶 www.hangingbridges.com

A self-guided trail meanders through 620 pristine acres (250 ha) of primary forest and is punctuated by a series of 14 bridges suspended over ravines. The relatively easy, 2-mile (3-km) trail clings to the mountainside and offers close-up views of every level of the moist tropical forest, from ground to canopy. Guided walks include dawn birding and a night tour.

Arenal Rainforest Reserve and Aerial Tram 6

Road Map C2. El Castillo, 14 miles (22 km) W of La Fortuna. Tel 2479-9944. 🕒 7:30am–5pm daily.

🚗 to La Fortuna, then by jeep-taxi. 📶

🕒 7:30am and 3:30pm. 📶 📶 📶

www.arenalreserve.com

Aerial trams (teleféricos) whisk visitors up the northern slopes of the Cordillera de Tilarán at this private facility on the southern shore of Lake Arenal. The open-air carriages climb steeply through rainforest to a lookout point at 4,250 ft (1,300 m) from where visitors can enjoy fabulous views of the lake and the volcano. From the mirador, 2 miles (3 km) of ziplines connect treetop canopies and offer exhilarating rides across broad ravines.

Environs

The Jardín de Mariposas/ Castillo de Insectos has a small, fascinating display of insects, scorpions, and snakes, as well as a butterfly garden and a medicinal herb garden.

🦋 Jardín de Mariposas/ Castillo de Insectos

El Castillo, 14 miles (22 km)

W of La Fortuna. Tel 2479-1149.

🕒 8am–5pm daily. 📶

www.butterflyconservancy.org

Open-air teleféricos at the Arenal Rainforest Reserve & Aerial Tram

Laguna de Arenal 4

Butterfly at
Laguna de Arenal

Ringed by hills, with Volcán Arenal standing tall to the east, Lake Arenal has a breathtaking setting at an elevation of 1,800 ft (540 m). The 48-sq-mile (124-sq-km) lake fills a tectonic depression forming a gap between Tilarán and the Cordillera de Guanacaste, and was created in 1973 when the Instituto Costarricense de Electricidad (ICE) dammed the eastern end of the valley. The sole town is Nuevo Arenal, on the lake's north side. The easternmost shores are forest-clad, while huge swathes of verdant pasture lie to the south and west. The lake is swept by near-constant winds, providing windsurfers with world-class conditions. Archeologists have identified pre-Columbian settlements beneath the waters.

Lucky Bug Gallery

This small shop attached to Restaurante Willy's Caballo Negro (see p235) sells an eclectic range of quality artwork and crafts.

Lago de Coter

The small lake features an activity center offering kayaking, swimming, and birding (see p152).

Hotel Tilawa has a brewpub with lake views.

Wind turbines line ridges of the Continental Divide on the exposed western side of the lake, supplying electricity to the national grid (see p152).

Tilawa Viento Surf Center (see p152)

0 km 3
0 miles 3

KEY

- Major road
- Other road
- Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal boundary

The magnificent setting of Laguna de Arenal

For hotels and restaurants in this region see pp212-14 and pp234-5

Arenal Hanging Bridges

A series of suspension bridges are part of a 2-mile (3-km) self-guided interpretive trail through rainforest. The trail offers superb views of Volcán Arenal 5

Presa Sangregado, the 288-ft (88-m) long, 184-ft (56-m) high earthen dam that created the lake, generates a large portion of the nation's hydroelectric power.

Arenal Rainforest Reserve and Aerial Tram

The Arenal Rainforest Reserve's "sky tram" consists of open-air carriages, which ascend forest-covered mountain slopes. Fabulous views of the lake and volcano can be seen 6 Rancho Margot is a self-sufficient organic farm that also has a wildlife breeding center and trails into a rainforest reserve. Also on offer are kayaking and more extreme activities (see p152).

El Castillo

This community is a starting point for horseback rides to Monteverde via the Cordillera Tilarán. Other attractions include Jardín de Mariposas, which has a small museum displaying insects and reptiles, and a butterfly garden (see p149).

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Road Map B2.

11 miles (18 km) from La Fortuna along Hwy 142.

from La Fortuna.

Hotel Tilawa Tel 2695-5050.

www.hotel-tilawa.com

Exploring Laguna de Arenal

Lake Arenal is encircled to the west and north by the winding Route 142, which links Tilarán with La Fortuna. East of Nuevo Arenal, the road deteriorates and is frequently blocked by landslides. A dirt road along the southeastern shore is impassable from the west at all times. The hotels and restaurants lining the northern shore make a pleasant break from driving. The greatest attractions of the area are the picture-postcard vistas, which can be best appreciated from Arenal's southwest shore. The lake is also a favored spot for sportfishing, windsurfing, and other water sports.

Nuevo Arenal

24 miles (39 km) W of La Fortuna.

 2,200.

Replacing the old village, which was flooded in 1973 by the formation of the lake, this orderly town is a service center for the lake region. It has the only fuel station in the area, as well as several good restaurants. A dirt road, leading north through the Río Quequer Valley, links Nuevo Arenal with San Rafael on Highway 4.

A view of Lake Arenal

Rancho Margot

2 miles (3 km) W of El Castillo.

Tel 2479-7259.  to La Fortuna, then by jeep-taxi.  8am–5pm daily.

www.ranchomargot.org

The dirt road along the southeastern shore of Lake Arenal leads past Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal to Rancho Margot, a self-sustainable farm and activity center beside the Río Caño Negro. Educational tours of the eco-oriented farm give fascinating insights, and visitors can also enjoy the wildlife rescue, rehabilitation, and breeding center. Many sporting enthusiasts come here for activities such as kayaking, horseback riding, waterfall rappelling, and hiking in Rancho Margot's 375-acre (152-ha) forest reserve. Meals are served in a colonial farmstead.

Tilawa Viento Surf Center

11 miles (18 km) SW of Nuevo Arenal. Tel 22695-5050.

<http://windsurfcostarica.com>

Swept by steady, strong northeasterly winds between November and March, Lake Arenal is rated as one of the finest windsurfing sites in the world. The Tilawa Viento Surf Center, located on the lake's western shore, caters to all levels of windsurfers. In addition to hiring out sailboards, it offers multiday packages and beginners' and advanced lessons. The Tico Windsurf Center (tel 2692-2002; www.ticowind.com), 9 miles (15 km) southwest of Nuevo Arenal, offers a similar range of services between the months of November and April.

WIND TURBINES

Rising over emerald pastures on the western shores of Lake Arenal, two parallel ridge crests are dotted with over 100 wind turbines, each 120-ft (35-m) high. Situated near the village of Tejona, which has some of the highest average wind speeds in the world, this wind farm is the largest in Central America, with a projected annual production of up to 70 MW. Electricity is sold to the state-owned ICE (Instituto Costarricense de Electricidad).

Tilawa Viento Surf Center on Lake Arenal

Rain Goddess

Tel 2231-4299.

www.bluwing.com

Well stocked with guapote (rainbow bass) and other light-tackle game fish, Lake Arenal is considered a premier angling spot. Local hotels and tour operators offer fishing trips, as does the Rain Goddess. A 65-ft (20-m) cruise vessel with deluxe accommodations in wood-paneled cabins, it features multiday fishing packages.

Lago de Coter

4 miles (6 km) NW of Nuevo Arenal.

North of Lake Arenal, Lago de Coter occupies a basin in the Fila Vieja Dormida Mountains. The Lake Coter Eco-Lodge (see p213) is a center for activities such as canoeing, kayaking, horseback riding, and mountain biking. It also offers appealing accommodations. More than 350 species of birds have been recorded in the surrounding forests. A 3-sq-mile (9-sq-km) forest reserve nearby offers guided hiking and birding tours, as well as a zipline canopy tour.

Electricity-generating wind turbines on Lake Arenal's shores

Volcanoes in Costa Rica

Located in one of the world's most volcanic zones, Costa Rica has seven active volcanoes, and at least 60 that are either dormant or extinct. Volcanoes are created by plate tectonics – that is, the movement of the interlocking plates making up the earth's crust that ride on the magma (molten rock) in the mantle. Most volcanoes occur at the boundaries where plates meet or

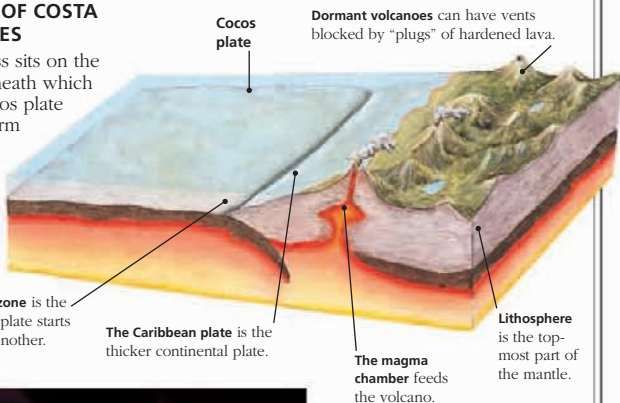

"Poor man's umbrella," found on volcanic soil move apart, with magma bursting through cracks in the plate. Lying between 100 and 150 miles (160–240 km) inland of the subduction zone of the Cocos and the Caribbean plates, Costa Rica's volcanoes are concentrated in the northwestern and central regions. Most are steep-sided cones formed by silica-rich magma, and are highly explosive, with Arenal being the most active.

THE FORMATION OF COSTA RICA'S VOLCANOES

Costa Rica's landmass sits on the Caribbean plate, beneath which the east-moving Cocos plate is being forced into a subduction zone. The intense pressure melts the rocks – this viscous magma wells up to create volcanoes.

The subduction zone is the region where a plate starts sinking below another.

The Caribbean plate is the thicker continental plate.

The magma chamber feeds the volcano.

Lithosphere is the top-most part of the mantle.

Volcanic eruptions can be viewed at Arenal, which erupts every few hours during its active phases, oozing hot lava down its slopes. Lava blasted laterally from volcanoes appears as nuées ardentes (glowing clouds) – superheated avalanches of gas, ash, and rock that move downhill at astonishing speeds.

Smoke and ash are often steadily emitted by active volcanoes such as Volcán Arenal (see p149). Smoking cinder blocks can sometimes be seen rolling down the slopes.

Bubbling mud pools and fumaroles (vents of steam), formed from rainwater superheated from below, are features of volcanoes such as Miravalles (see p131).

Calderas are formed when the craters of volcanoes collapse, creating huge circular depressions. This caldera on 8,850-ft (2,700-m) high Volcán Poás is a mile (1.6 km) wide, still emits smoke, and contains a mineral lake (see p90).

The wetlands of Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro

Cavernas de Venado 7

Road Map C2. 1 mile (1.6 km) W of Venado, 24 miles (39 km) NW of La Fortuna. Tel 2478-9081. 🚗 from Ciudad Quesada. ☐ 7am–4pm daily. 📞 📧 8am and 1pm. 📍

Bioluminescent fungi help light the way for visitors scrambling through the underground passageways of these limestone caverns. Ten chambers, extending almost 2 miles (3 km), have been explored. Exquisite stalagmites, stalactites, and other subterranean formations fill the labyrinthine and narrow chambers, many of which contain marine fossils. Cascada de La Muerte is an underground waterfall that gushes during the wet season from May to November and after heavy rain. Bats flit about, blind fish swim in the underground streams, and small transparent frogs hop around in the ooze.

Guides lead 2-hour long explorations. Wilbert Solís, who owns the land on which the caves are located, supplies safety helmets, flashlights, and rubber boots. Come prepared to get covered in mud, and bring a change of clothes.

Agencies in La Fortuna offer tours. Venado is also accessible by a dirt road that begins at Toad Hall (see p234), on the north shore of Lake Arenal. The village offers basic accommodation.

Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro 8

Road Map C1. 65 miles (105 km) NW of La Fortuna. Tel 2471-1309. 🚗 from Upala. 🚗 from Los Chiles. ☐ 8am–4pm daily. 📞 📧

One of Costa Rica's main wetland conservation areas, Caño Negro Wildlife Refuge protects over 38 sq miles (98 sq km) of marshlands, lagoons, and yolillo palm forest. Most visitors come to fish for snook and tarpon, which thrive in Río Frío and other watercourses that feed Lago Caño Negro, a 3-sq-mile (9-sq-km) seasonal lake. Rare ancient garfish also inhabit the tannin-stained waters. The short dry season (Dec–Apr) is best for viewing crocodiles, caimans, and the large mammals that gather near permanent bodies of water. Monkeys and tapirs are numerous, while jaguars and other cats are more elusive. Lucky visitors may also see large flocks of migratory birds and waterfowl, including jabiru storks, Nicaraguan grackles, roseate spoonbills, and the largest colony of neotropical cormorants in Costa Rica.

Neotropical cormorant

Caño Negro village, on the west bank of Lago Caño Negro, is the only community within the reserve. The park headquarters are located here, as are several lodges that arrange guided tours and fishing licenses. Boats can be rented in nearby Los Chiles, and agencies in San José offer tours, especially during the fishing season (Jul–Mar). Much of the area floods in the wet season, and access along the dirt roads can be a challenge.

Parque Nacional Volcán Tenorio 9

Road Map B2. 7 miles (11 km) E of Bijagua. Tel 2200-0135. 🚗 from Upala, then by jeep-taxi. ☐ 8am–4pm daily. 📞 📧

Several nature lodges offer easy access to this 71-sq-mile (184-sq-km) park. Trails lead through montane rainforest to thermal springs and the Pozo Azul, a teal-blue pool at the base of the volcano. Local guides lead hikes in search of tapirs and other wildlife, but the summit trail is closed to all but scientists.

Ciudad Quesada (San Carlos) 10

Road Map C2. 59 miles (95 km) NW of San José. 📞 36,350. 🚗 📍 Catuzon, S of the plaza, 2461-1112. 📞 Sat. 📧 FERIA del Ganado (Apr).

An important market center serving the local dairy and cattle industries, Ciudad Quesada is set amid pastures atop the mountain scarp of the Cordillera de Tilarán, at an elevation of 2,130 ft (650 m). The town, known locally as San Carlos, is the administrative center for the region, and is famous for its annual cattle fair and tope (horse show). The town plaza and numerous talabarterías (saddle-makers' workshops) justify a visit here.

Mineral spring pools at Termales del Bosque, Ciudad Quesada

Environs

Highway 140 slopes east, passing Termales del Bosque, where visitors can soak in thermal mineral springs and have mud baths. Hiking trails lace botanical gardens, and horseback rides and a zipline canopy tour are also on offer.

Nearby, La Marina Zoológica is a private, non-profit zoo that takes in orphaned and rescued animals. Its numerous inhabitants include jaguars, agoutis, monkeys, peccaries, and snakes, as well as macaws, toucans, and many other bird species. Tapirs are bred for release into the wild.

Termales del Bosque

4 miles (6 km) E of Ciudad Quesada. Tel 2460-4740.

 7am–10pm daily.

 www.termalesdelbosque.com

La Marina Zoológica

6 miles (10 km) E of Ciudad Quesada. Tel 2474-2202.

 8am–4pm daily.

Shaman healing table and stones, Museo de Cultura Indígena

Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí

Road Map D2. La Virgen de Sarapiquí, 29 miles (47 km) N of Alajuela. Tel 2761-1004.  San José–Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí.

 7am–8pm daily.

 www.sarapiquis.org

This broad-ranging ecological center on the banks of Río Sarapiquí offers an enriching insight into indigenous cultures (see pp32–3). The state-of-the-art Museo de Cultura Indígena is dedicated to Costa Rica's living indigenous communities and the preservation of their artifacts. Its impressive exhibits include a large collection of masks, bark cloth paintings, and other decorative, domestic, and ritual objects, including shamanic healing sticks. An air-conditioned theater shows a 15-minute documentary.

Parque Arqueológica Alma Alta at the Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí

The Parque Arqueológica Alma Alta, set in an orange orchard, is centered around four indigenous tombs, dating from the 15th century, and a representation of a pre-Columbian village. Indian guides offer tours of Chester's Field Botanical Gardens. Named for the naturalist Chester Czepulos (1916–92), the gardens have about 500 native species of plants renowned since pre-Columbian times for their medicinal use. The center also has a quality restaurant, hotel, library, and conference center.

Environs

The center adjoins the Tirim-bina Rainforest Reserve, which protects 750 acres (300 ha) of mid-elevation premontane forest. It can be reached from Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí by a 855-ft (260-m) long suspension bridge across Río Sarapiquí. A 325-ft (100-m) canopy walkway features among Tirim-bina's 5 miles (8 km) of trails. Guided tours include a special "World of Bats" night walk. The reserve's Education Center, which is on Tirim-bina Island in the middle of the river, is used for scientific investigation and has a library on tropical ecology.

Hacienda Pozo Azul is a working cattle ranch that offers whitewater rafting trips and canopy tours. Accommodation is available at Magsasay Lodge, adjoining Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo (see p91). The nearby Snake Garden allows visitors to get nose-to-nose with 70 snake species.

Tirim-bina Rainforest Reserve

Tel 2761-1579.

 7am–5pm daily.

 www.tirim-bina.org

Hacienda Pozo Azul

La Virgen de Sarapiquí.

Tel 2761-1360.

 9am–6:30pm daily.

     www.haciendapozoazul.com

Snake Garden

La Virgen de Sarapiquí.

Tel 2761-1059.

 9am–5pm daily.

    snakegarden@costarricense.co.cr

Horseback riding at Hacienda Pozo Azul, a working ranch

Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí 12

Road Map D2. 52 miles (84 km)
N of San José. 🏠 16,300. 🚗 🚚

Positioned at the base of the Cordillera Central, on the banks of Río Sarapiquí, Puerto Viejo has functioned as an important river port since colonial days. Before the opening of the Atlantic Railroad in 1890, the town was the main gateway between San José and the Caribbean Sea. While the port trade has reduced, pingas (water-taxis) still connect the town to Parque Nacional Tortuguero (see p167) and Barra del Colorado via Río San Juan. Boats also set out on nature excursions.

Banana trees cover most of the Llanura de San Carlos flatlands around Puerto Viejo. Banadero La Colonia, a processing factory in the middle of banana fields, welcomes visitors.

Banadero La Colonia

3 miles (5 km) SE of Puerto Viejo.
Tel 2768-8683. 📞 📧 by appt. 🌐
www.bananatourcostarica.com

Water-taxis on Río San Juan at Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí

FRESHWATER SHARKS

The presence of sharks in freshwater Lake Nicaragua has been a puzzle for centuries. In the 1970s, scientists tagged individual sharks with electronic monitors and found that they migrate along Río San Juan between the Caribbean Sea and the lake, a distance of 106 miles (169 km). These euryhaline sharks, capable of living in both fresh- and saltwater, are even able to navigate rapids.

Bull shark in the waters of Lake Nicaragua

A verdant trail in the rainforests of Selva Verde

Selva Verde 13

Road Map D2. 5 miles (8 km) W of Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí. Tel 2766-6800. 🚗 🚚 San José–Puerto Viejo via Vara Blanca. ☑ 7am–3pm daily. 📞 🌐 www.selvaverde.com

One of the country's best private reserves, the 470-acre (190-ha) Selva Verde (Green Forest) reserve adjoins Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo (see p91). A prime destination for birders, the virgin low-elevation rainforest is home to over 420 bird species, including eight species of parrots. Ocelots, sloths, capuchin monkeys, and mantled howler monkeys are among the 120 species of mammals to be seen. Poison-dart frogs are numerous, as are snakes, although these are difficult to spot. Several of Selva Verde's 500 species of butterflies can be seen in a netted butterfly garden.

Guided canoe trips are offered on Río Sarapiquí, which runs through Selva Verde. Naturalist guides can be hired, and maps are provided for the well-maintained trails. The reserve also has a lodge with comfortable rooms.

Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Corredor Fronterizo 14

Road Map C1. Bahía Salinas to Punta Castillo. Tel 2471-2191 (Los Chiles).
📧 refugio.fronterizo@sinac.go.cr

Intended as a biological corridor, the 230-sq-mile (590-sq-km) Frontier Corridor National Wildlife Refuge protects a wide strip of Costa Rican territory along the border with Nicaragua, from Bahía Salinas on the west coast to Punta Castillo on the east. The eastern part of the refuge runs along Río San Juan. Lined with virgin rainforest, this broad river flows 120 miles (195 km) east from Lake Nicaragua to Punta Castillo, and has long been disputed by the two nations.

Pingas link Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí to Trinidad village, at the confluence of Ríos Sarapiquí and San Juan. The river trip through the reserve is splendid for spotting sloths, crocodiles, and myriad birds, including oropendolas and rare chestnut-bellied herons.

Environs

Boca San Carlos, 24 miles (39 km) upstream of Trinidad on Río San Juan, has an airstrip and can also be reached by a dirt road. It is a gateway for river journeys into Nicaragua. Nearby, Laguna del Lagarto is a private reserve protecting 2 sq miles (5 sq km) of virgin rainforest and swamps. Elusive manatees inhabit the lagoons, and a nature lodge offers a good base for wildlife viewing. The restored, 17th-century, mossy hilltop fort of Fortaleza de la Inmaculada Concepción, near the Nicaraguan hamlet of El Castillo, 25 miles (40 km) upstream of Boca San Carlos, is worth a visit. Its small museum recalls the days when Spanish defenders fought back pirates and an English invasion fleet led by Lord Nelson.

Laguna del Lagarto

10 miles (16 km) S of Boca San Carlos. Tel 2289-8163. 📞 🌐 📧
<http://lagarto-lodge-costa-rica.com>

Costa Rica's Snakes

Costa Rica has almost 140 species of serpientes or culebras, of which only 18 are venomous. Snakes slither about in habitats ranging from savanna to montane rainforest; there are also pelagic species found in the sea. While many species are flamboyantly colored, most are camouflaged in shades of green and brown. Most snakes are nocturnal creatures and, therefore, seldom seen. They rarely strike unless threatened, and chances of the casual visitor being bitten are slim – most bites are inflicted on field laborers. Hikers should keep an eye on the trails and look carefully before parting foliage or placing their hands on branches or in holes. Sturdy shoes that protect the ankles are recommended.

Mural at the Snake Garden, La Virgen

SNAKE SPECIES

Costa Rica's snakes belong to nine families, including Elapidae (coral snakes), Boidae (boas), and Viperidae (vipers). Most other snakes belong to the Colubridae family.

Camouflage is provided by the eyelash viper's banana-yellow or lime-green skin.

Hood-like scales above its eyes give this viper its name.

Eyelash vipers (bocarácá) are highly venomous, with syringe-like fangs. Their upper jaws have heat sensors capable of detecting and tracking warm-blooded prey in complete darkness.

The fer-de-lance (terciopelo), camouflaged by its brown and gray skin, inhabits grasslands and riverbanks. Fast-moving and aggressive, this massive snake is responsible for the majority of fatal snake bites in Costa Rica.

Serpentarios (snake farms) permit visitors to view and handle snakes in safe environments with experienced handlers.

Pencil-thin, with long, pointed snouts, vine snakes rarely grow more than a foot (30 cm) long.

Vine snakes (bejuquillo) are commonly found inside bromeliads, from where they ambush frogs and birds. Their I-beam bodies support them as they negotiate branches in search of prey.

Coral snakes (coral) are very venomous. Costa Rica has four species, brightly colored in bands of red, black, and white or yellow.

Boas (boa) are relatively shy, and although non-venomous, have large teeth capable of inflicting a serious bite. They can exceed 13 ft (4 m) in length, and kill prey by coiling around it and squeezing it to death.

Broad-billed motmot, La Selva Biological Station

La Selva Biological Station 15

Road Map D2, 2 miles (3 km) S of Puerto Viejo. Tel 2766-6565. OTS shuttles from Puerto Viejo & San José. 8am–5pm by appt. 8am and 1:30pm. www.ots.ac.cr

Created by the scientist Dr. Leslie Holdridge in 1954, La Selva Biological Station has been run as a private research facility by the Organization of Tropical Studies (OTS) since 1968. Scientific research at this 6-sq-mile (15-sq-km) reserve spans physiological ecology, soil science, and forestry, with over 1,000 tree species in the Holdridge Arboretum.

The predominant habitat is a vast swathe of lowland and premontane rainforest at the base of Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo (see p91). Snakes, although profuse, are rarely seen. More noticeable are poison-dart frogs, enameled in gaudy colors, and more than 500 species of butterflies, including neon blue morphos. Elusive jaguars and other big cats prowl the forests, preying on monkeys, coatis, and deer, which are among La Selva's 120 mammal species. Leafcutter ants are underfoot everywhere, carrying their scissored cargos. About half of Costa Rica's bird species have been sighted here; the annual 24-hour La Selva Christmas Bird Count has become a pilgrimage for ornithologists from around the world. A basic bird-watching course is offered on Saturday mornings.

Access to the reserve is restricted to 65 people at any given time, and although it is open to the public by reservation, scientists and students get priority. Over 31 miles (50 km) of boardwalk trails crisscross La Selva, but precipitation can exceed 157 in (400 cm) in a year, and many trails are muddy. The gift shop has self-guiding booklets. OTS offers guided excursions from San José that include transport. Dormitory lodging is offered on a space-available basis.

Sarapiquí Heliconia Island 16

Road Map D2, 5 miles (8 km) S of Puerto Viejo. Tel 2761-5220. San José–Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí via PN Braulio Carrillo. 8am–5pm daily, by appointment. www.heliconiaisland.com

This beautifully laid-out garden on the banks of Río Puerto Viejo was created in 1992 by the American naturalist Tim Ryan and is now run by Dutch owners. Hundreds of tropical plant species grow amid the lush 5-acre (2-ha) lawns. The garden specializes in heliconias, of which it has more than 80 species from around the world.

Various species of gingers thrive here, and also a superb collection of bamboos and orchids. Equally impressive are the palms, which include the traveler's palm, native to Madagascar. It is so named because in an emergency, travelers can drink the water that is stored in its stalk.

Hummingbirds hover as they sip nectar. Violaceous trogons and orange-chinned parakeets are among the more than 200 species of birds drawn to the exotic flora. Rare green macaws nest in almendro (almond) trees and are frequently sighted.

Guided tours impart fascinating trivia on tropical plant ecology. The torchlit night-time tours are especially rewarding. The river has calm stretches safe for swimming.

Tropical
heliconia

POISON-DART FROGS

A colorful poison-dart frog

The rainforests of Central and South America are inhabited by poison-dart frogs, so named because Indians use their poison to tip their arrows and blow-darts. About 65 separate species exist, although only three species are deadly to humans (none are found in Costa Rica). The frogs, which are no more than an inch (3 cm) long, produce the bitter toxin in their mucous glands and advertise this with flamboyant colors – mostly vivid reds, greens, and blues – to avoid being eaten by predators. Thus, unusually for frogs, they are active by day among the moist leaf litter. Several species of non-toxic frogs mimic their coloration. In captivity, poison-dart frogs tend to lose their toxicity, which they derive from their principal diet of ants and termites.

Rara Avis 17

Road Map D2. 17 miles (27 km) S of Puerto Viejo. Tel 2764-1111.

San José–Las Horquetas.

www.rara-avis.com

This world-famous rainforest reserve was among the first private reserves in Costa Rica. Adjoining Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo and La Selva, the 4-sq-mile (10-sq-km) Rara Avis is perched on the remote northeast slopes of Volcán Chato at an elevation of 2,300 ft (700 m).

The brainchild of entrepreneur Amos Bien, who created it in 1983, Rara Avis pioneered the notion of generating income through ecologically sustainable ventures in protected primary forests. Its selective farming projects include a butterfly farm and philodendron and orchid cultivation.

Trails wander through pristine mid-elevation rainforest. The biodiversity is impressive, from anteaters, and spider monkeys, and porcupines to boa constrictors, coral snakes, red-eyed tree frogs, elusive jaguars and pumas, and almost 400 species of birds, including the umbrella bird, sunbitterns, and the endangered great green macaw. A rappelling system lets you get eye-to-eye with canopy dwellers such as toucans and capuchin monkeys. The park has several waterfalls, but caution is required when swimming in the pools that form at their base.

Rara Avis is accessed by a daunting track that is often knee-deep in mud. Transfers from Las Horquetas, on Highway 4, are by tractor-drawn canopied trailer, a bumpy 9-mile (14-km) journey that takes an hour. Come prepared for heavy rainfall, which averages more than 200 inches (500 cm) per year. Rubber boots are provided for hikers. Overnight stays are strongly recommended; accommodation is in a choice of rustic lodges.

Ripening fruit at a banana plantation

BANANAS

Costa Rica is the world's seventh largest banana producer and its second largest exporter. Plantations cover 195 sq miles (500 sq km) of the nation. Massive tracts of protected rainforest are felled each year to plant bananas, and many chemicals are used to maintain output. When washed out to sea, these chemicals kill fish, poison the waters, and foster the growth of plants that choke estuaries and corals. As a result of environmental campaigns, the banana industry now follows more ecologically sensitive practices.

Rainforest Aerial Tram 18

Road Map D3. Hwy 32, 25 miles (40 km) NE of San José. Tel 2257-5961. San José–Guápiles.

9am–4pm Mon; 6:30am–4pm

Tue–Sun.

www.rainforesttram.com

Offering a new view of the forest canopy, this automated exploration system was conceived by the American naturalist Dr. Donald Perry while he was involved in scientific investigation at Rara Avis. Inaugurated in 1994, the Rainforest

Aerial Tram, also called “El Teleférico,” is the highlight of a 875-acre (355-ha) private nature reserve on the eastern edge of Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo. Visitors ride in open gondolas that silently skim the floor of the rainforest and then soar above the trees on a 2-mile (3-km) circuit. The 90-minute tour is preceded by a video, which describes the construction of the $2 million system, and the flora and fauna to be seen. A naturalist guide accompanies each gondola to assist visitors in spotting and identifying wildlife. Howler and white-faced monkeys are occasionally seen at close quarters, as are iguanas, sloths, and snakes. Early morning and late afternoon are the best times to spot wildlife, but visitors should keep in mind that the main aim of the journey is to learn about rainforest ecology.

Trails lead to Río Corinto, and guided birding trips are offered, along with frog, snake, and butterfly exhibits. Accommodations are in the form of cabins. Tour agencies nationwide offer package excursions.

Porcupine in Rara Avis

Rainforest Aerial Tram gondola at the start of its tour

THE CARIBBEAN

Unique within the country for its Afro-Caribbean culture, this region is steeped in traditions brought by Jamaican forebears, which lend a colorful, laid-back charm to the ramshackle villages that sprinkle the coast. One of Costa Rica's wettest regions, it extends along 125 miles (200 km) of the Caribbean coastline between the Nicaraguan and Panamanian borders. Stunning beaches line the shore, and primordial rainforest merges with swampy lagoons in the north and rises into the rugged Talamanca Mountains in the south.

After the closure of the port of Puerto Limón to trade in 1665 (see p43), the Spanish made little attempt to settle the region.

This drew pirates and smugglers, who induced slaves to cut precious hardwoods for illicit trade. In the late 19th century, Jamaican laborers and their families arrived to build the Atlantic Railroad and work on banana plantations. Succeeding generations adopted a subsistence life of farming and fishing, which continues in today's Creole culture. Inland, descendants of the original indigenous tribes live in relative isolation in designated reserves in the Talamanca foothills, clinging to shamanism and other traditional practices.

The region's only significant town is Puerto Limón, located midway down the coast. Northward, flatlands extend to the Nicaraguan border.

The coastal strip is backed by swampy jungles and freshwater lagoons that culminate in Tortuguero National Park and Barra del Colorado National Wildlife Refuge. A network of canals, created in the 1960s to link Puerto Limón with Barra, opened up this otherwise virtually inaccessible region. South of Puerto Limón, the shore is lined with stupendous beaches. The communities of Cahuita and Puerto Viejo are popular with surfers and a predominantly young crowd seeking offbeat adventure.

Brightly colored wooden house in the village of Cahuita

Exploring the Caribbean

With several national parks and wildlife refuges, the humid Caribbean has as its jewel Parque Nacional Tortuguero, with its dense rainforests, raffia palm swamps, and exotic range of fauna. Farther north, rain-sodden Barra del Colorado attracts anglers. The port town of Puerto Limón is a gateway to the villages of Cahuita and Puerto Viejo de Talamanca, vibrant centers of indigenous Afro-Caribbean culture. Parque Nacional Cahuita, which adjoins Cahuita village, also protects a small coral reef. Fine beaches extend south to Gandoca-Manzanillo, a coastal wetland harboring manatees and also an important nesting site for marine turtles. Several horticultural venues along Highway 32 exhibit tropical flora.

Entrance to a house in Puerto Limón

SEE ALSO

- Where to Stay pp214–16
- Where to Eat pp235–6

KEY

- Major road
- Secondary road
- Minor road
- International border
- Provincial border
- Canal

SIGHTS AT A GLANCE

Towns and Villages

- Cahuita 9
- Puerto Limón 3
- Puerto Viejo de Talamanca 11

National Parks and Reserves

- Parque Nacional Cahuita 10
- Parque Nacional Tortuguero 5
- Refugio Nacional de Fauna Silvestre Barra del Colorado 6
- Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gandoca-Manzanillo 12
- Reserva Biológica Hitoy-Cerere 8
- Veragua Rainforest Research and Adventure Park 7

Areas of Natural Beauty

- EARTH 2
- Las Cusingas 1

Tour

- Canal de Tortuguero Tour p166 4

Indigenous Sites

- Indigenous Reserves 13

Beach at Puerto Viejo de Talamanca

A picker cushioning a large bunch of bananas, Cahuita

GETTING AROUND

Highway 32, linking San José to Puerto Limón, is heavily trafficked, particularly along the mountainous sections. A bus service provides easy access to Cahuita and Puerto Viejo de Talamanca. No roads penetrate to Tortuguero and Barra del Colorado, but both villages have airstrips serviced by daily scheduled flights from San José. Another popular option is to journey by canal – tour operators can make arrangements. An infrequent bus service connects the indigenous reserves along rough dirt roads – an uncomfortable, albeit cheap, ride.

Green honeycreeper, one of the species of birds found in Las Cusingas

Las Cusingas ①

Road Map D3. 2 miles (3 km) S of Hwy 32, 37 miles (59 km) E of San José. 🚗 San José–Guápiles, then by jeep-taxi or hiking. 📞 2382-5805. 🕒 8:30am–4:30pm daily. 📶 📷 📱 🗺

This botanical garden, spread over 35 acres (14 ha) near the less-than-appealing town of Guápiles, undertakes scientific investigation into tropical flora, fruits, and more than 80 species of medicinal plants. Hummingbirds, parrots, and scores of other birds flock to feed on the nectar and seeds. There are two short forest trails, one of which leads to Río Santa Clara and 10 sq miles (26 sq km) of protected forest. The visitor center, which includes a library, offers an introduction to reforestation, conservation, tropical ecology, and the use of medicinal plants.

Guided tours are offered, each about 2 hours long. A rustic family-size cabin with a wood-fired oven can be rented, and visitors can dine with the friendly Tico owners.

Environs

Acclaimed American-born artist Patricia Erickson welcomes visitors to her studio Gallery at Home, which displays her vibrant paintings inspired by scenes of Caribbean family life. To get there, turn south at Río Blanco; the studio is a short way down, on the left. Across the street, her husband Brian's Muebles de Bamboo offers a chance to watch bamboo furniture being made, using 32 different species grown in a bamboo garden.

Located on the borders of Parque Nacional Tortuguero and Refugio Nacional de Fauna Silvestre Barra del Colorado (see p167), Finca La Suerte offers superb opportunities for wildlife-viewing in a variety of habitats, including rainforests and marshes. Poison-dart frogs (see p158) and monkeys are particularly abundant. This private educational and research center specializes in residential workshops in tropical ecology, and offers overnight accommodation. It can be accessed from Guápiles by buses that pass through the community of Cariari.

🏠 Gallery at Home

330 yd (300 m) S of Hwy 32, 4 miles (6 km) W of Guápiles. 📞 2711-0823. 🕒 by appointment. @ patricia_erickson@amerisol.com

🌿 Finca La Suerte

La Primavera, 27 miles (43 km) NE of Guápiles. 📞 2710-8005. 🕒 9am–5pm daily. 📶 📷 📱 🗺

🌐 www.lasuerte.org

EARTH ②

Road Map D2. 1 mile (1.6 km) E of Guácimo. 📞 2713-0000.

🚗 San José–Puerto Limón.

🕒 9am–4pm daily. 📶 📷 📱 🗺

🌐 www.earth.ac.cr

One of the world's leading tropical research centers, the Escuela de Agricultura de la Región Tropical Húmeda (Agricultural College of the Humid Tropical Region) focuses on ecologically sustainable practices. Founded in 1990, the center offers university degrees. EARTH operates its own experimental banana plantation, banana processing plant, and paper-making plant that uses banana skins. There are guided tours and nature trails through a 990-acre (400-ha) primary rainforest; horses can also be hired.

Environs

More than 600 species of tropical flowers, including several varieties of heliconia, paint the landscape in riotous color at Costa Flores. Spread over 300 acres (120 ha), it is the world's largest commercial farm for tropical flowers. A 12-mile (19-km) long monorail system is used for picking and taking the blooms to the hangar-sized packing area. Hummingbirds, the sole pollinators of heliconia, zoom around the landscaped gardens, which is dotted with ponds.

Heliconia, Costa Flores

🌸 Costa Flores

9 miles (14 km) E of Guápiles. 📞 2716-6430. 🕒 8am–4pm Mon–Fri, by appointment Sat & Sun. 📶 📷 📱 🗺

Sign for EARTH, a center for tropical research

Bust of Don Balvanero Vargas in Puerto Limón's Parque Vargas

Puerto Limón 3

Road Map F3. 100 miles (160 km)
E of San José. 85,000.
 Black Culture Festival (Sep); Día de las Culturas (Oct 12).

Located in the bay where Christopher Columbus and his son Fernando anchored in 1502, the port town of Puerto Limón had its origins in early colonial days. Used by pirates and smugglers for trading mahogany and other tropical hardwoods, the settlement thrived on this illicit traffic under the nose of the Spanish authorities. The town has a large Chinese population, whose forebears arrived during the 1880s as indentured laborers for the construction of the Atlantic Railroad. A small Chinese cemetery at the entrance to the town honors this Asian heritage. Today, the port handles most of the nation's sea trade; the main highway into town is crowded with container trucks throughout the day. The maritime facilities have been expanded to serve cruise ships plying the Caribbean coast.

Columbus supposedly landed at Isla Uvita, half a mile (1 km) offshore. His landfall is commemorated by a bronze bust, which was unveiled in 1992, in time for the 500th anniversary of his arrival in the Americas. The bust faces Parque Vargas, a tiny tree-shaded park named after Don Balvanero Vargas, a former governor of Limón province. The park, which features a bust of Don Vargas, is at the east end of the pedestrian-only Avenida 2 (also known as El Bulevar). Nearby, a beautiful mural by artist Guadalupe Alvarez depicts local history since pre-Columbian days.

Puerto Limón has some intriguing architecture, with pretty filigreed iron balconies in the style of New Orleans. To the west of Parque Vargas, the cream-colored stucco Belle Epoque Alcaldía (Town Hall) is a fine example. Other structures are classics of the Caribbean vernacular style, made of wood and painted in lively tropical pastels, with broad balconies on stilts beneath which locals gather to play dominoes. Visit the lively Mercado Central, to the north of the museum, for everything from pigs' heads to freshly caught fish.

Detail of mural by Guadalupe Alvarez near Parque Vargas

Shoppers outside Mercado Central in Puerto Limón

Nocturnal bar-life in Puerto Limón is lively and colorful but somewhat seedy, and there is drug trading. Visitors should generally be cautious; avoid Parque Vargas at night.

Enviros

Local surfers find their fun off Playa Bonita, 2 miles (3 km) north of town. This gold-sand beach gets crowded on weekends with Limonenses, as the town's inhabitants are known. Swimming in the south end of the bay is dangerous. A mile (1.6 km) to the north of Playa Bonita, Moín is where Costa Rica's crude oil is processed and bananas loaded for shipment to Europe and North America. Boats leave from here for Tortuguero (see p167).

Mercado Central
Calles 3/4 and Aves Central/2.
 6am–6pm daily.

CARNAVAL

In the second week of October, Puerto Limón erupts into kaleidoscopic color for Carnival (see p37), a week-long Caribbean Mardi Gras celebration culminating on Día de las Culturas (Columbus Day). Special buses bring revelers from San José, and the city packs in as many as 100,000 visitors. Live reggae, salsa, and calypso get everyone dancing. Other amusements include beauty contests, bull-running, desfiles (parades), street fairs, and firework displays. The highlight is the Grand Desfile, a grand parade of flamboyant costumes and floats held on the Saturday before October 12. Most events take place on the docks.

Extravagantly dressed dancers at Carnival

Canal de Tortuguero Tour 4

Kingfisher

Travel along the Caribbean seaboard became possible with the building of the Tortuguero canal system in 1966–74. Four canals make up this 65-mile (105-km) long aquatic highway, which connects the port of Moín to Barra del Colorado village, and is lined with rainforest. Narrow in places, when the looming forest seems to close in on the water, the canal offers the chance of fascinating boating trips, with sightings of caimans and river turtles, and birds such as aricarís and kingfishers.

A tourist boat moving through the Tortuguero Canal

Caño de Penitencia 6

Opening into Río Colorado, this canal links Tortuguero to Barra del Colorado. To the north, Caño de Palma canal offers an exhilarating shortcut through yolillo swamp and raffia palm forests.

Laguna del Tortuguero 5

At Tortuguero, the canal opens into a wide, 4-mile (6-km) long lagoon, whose banks are lined with nature lodges.

0 km 10
0 miles 10

Caño Blanco 2

Organized tour boats depart and arrive at this small dock on Río Matina, amid banana plantations. Roseate spoonbills are frequently seen on the banks.

Moín 1

The terminus of the Tortuguero Canal is also Costa Rica's main banana-loading port. Private tour boats wait here for custom.

KEY

- Major road
- Canal de Tortuguero
- International border
- Park boundary

CARIBBEAN SEA

Puerto Jalova 4
The southern gateway to Parque Nacional Tortuguero is marked by a ranger station from where trails lead into the forest.

Parque Nacional Tortuguero

Barra de Parismina 3

This hamlet near the mouth of Río Parismina is considered Costa Rica's best spot to hook snook. Watch out for sand flats that beach unwary boats.

Puerto Limón

A guide escorting a tour group through Parque Nacional Tortuguero

Parque Nacional Tortuguero 5

Road Map E2. 32 miles (52 km) N of Puerto Limón. Tel 2709-8086. from Pavona, Moin, and Caño Blanco. 6am–6pm daily; last admission: 5pm.

Created to protect the most important nesting site of the green turtle in the Western Hemisphere, the 73-sq-mile (190-sq-km) Tortuguero National Park extends along 14 miles (22 km) of shoreline and 19 miles (30 km) out to sea. The Canal de Tortuguero runs through the park, connecting a labyrinth of deltas, canals, and lagoons.

With 11 distinct life zones ranging from raffia palm forest to herbaceous swamps, the park offers one of the most rewarding nature experiences in the country. Although trails start from the ranger stations at the northern and southern ends of the park, this watery world is best seen by boat: the wide canals allow grandstand wildlife viewing, and silent approaches on the water permit unusually close contact with the fauna. River otters, caimans, and howler, spider, and white-faced monkeys are easily sighted, as are birds such as oropendolas, toucans, and jacamars and other waterfowl. A guide is strongly recommended to avoid getting lost in the waterways and to identify wildlife that might otherwise be missed.

For most visitors, the star attraction is the green turtle, which nests between June and November. Three other species of marine turtles also come ashore throughout the year, although in lesser numbers. Entry to the beach is strictly regulated at night – only two tour groups are allowed each night, escorted by guides from the local cooperative.

Note that there are no roads to the park; access is by boat or small planes that land at Tortuguero village. Local lodges organize guided tours, and Tortuga Lodge (see p216) offers sportfishing.

Environs

The villagers of Tortuguero, to the north of the park at the junction of Laguna del Tortuguero and the Canal de Tortuguero, traditionally made their living by lumbering or by culling turtles. Today, tourism is the major source of employment, and locals have learned a new ethic as conservationists. The John H. Phipps Biological Station and Natural History Visitor's Center has excellent displays on local ecology, especially marine turtles.

John H. Phipps Biological Station and Natural History Visitor's Center

550 yd (500 m) N of Tortuguero village. Tel 2709-8091.

10am–noon and 2–5pm Mon–Sat; 2–5pm Sun.

Refugio Nacional de Fauna Silvestre Barra del Colorado 6

Road Map E2. 21 miles (34 km) N of Tortuguero. Tel 2709-8086. from Tortuguero, Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí, and Pavona. 8am–4pm daily. included with PN Tortuguero.

Connected to Parque Nacional Tortuguero by Caño de Penitencia, this 350-sq-mile (910-sq-km) refuge extends north to the border with Nicaragua. The flooded marshes, teeming rainforest, and vast raffia palm forests are home to an abundant wildlife, but despite this the refuge is virtually untapped as a wilderness destination. Crocodiles as well as birds such as jabiru storks and endangered great green macaws can be spotted, while tapirs, jaguars, and manatees inhabit the deep forests and swamps. The refuge's many rivers have populations of tarpon, snook, and garfish, and lodges catering to fishing enthusiasts are centered around Barra del Colorado at the mouth of Río Colorado.

MANATEES

The endangered West Indian manatee (Trichechus manatus), or sea cow, is found in lagoons and coastal habitats. With front flippers and a paddle-like tail, this hairless gray-brown mammal resembles a tuskless walrus. It feeds primarily on aquatic vegetation such as water hyacinths. Spending most of its time submerged, it is rarely seen. However, increasing encounters with manatees in Tortuguero and Barra del Colorado suggest that the population may be increasing.

West Indian manatee (Trichechus manatus)

Costa Rica's Marine Turtles

Survivors from the age of the dinosaur, turtles have remained virtually unchanged in their physiology for 200 million years. Marine turtles (Cheloniidae) can travel great distances, using their powerful flippers for propulsion, and often cross entire oceans to feed, mate, and lay eggs. Males spend their whole lives at sea, while adult females return to land to lay eggs once every two or three years. Most nest at their natal beach and return to it often to lay eggs at intervals of several weeks. Costa Rica is one of the world's premier turtle-watching sites, and regulates entry of visitors to the major nesting sites. However, the country's turtle species remain under threat: illegal poaching of turtles and eggs continues, and hatchlings fall prey to other wildlife.

A turtle-shaped planter made of rubber tire

TURTLE SPECIES

Five of the world's seven marine turtles species nest year-round along Costa Rica's coasts. The Caribbean coast is especially rich in turtle life.

Eggs are golf-ball sized and often illegally harvested.

Thick skin, rather than a shell, encases the skeleton.

Pacific/olive ridley turtles, the smallest of the marine turtles, synchronize their egg-laying. Tens of thousands nest at Playas Ostional and Nancite (see p141).

The leatherback turtle, although found across the world's oceans, is critically endangered. With the male weighing up to 2,000 lbs (905 kg), this is world's largest reptile. It nests at several beaches in Costa Rica, most importantly at Playa Grande (see p136).

Green turtles, once abundant, were decimated in the 19th century by hunting. Now, Tortuguero is an important nesting site (see p167).

Loggerhead turtles, seen in fewer numbers in Costa Rica than other turtles, prefer the Caribbean coast, and are found in Tortuguero.

TURTLE	BEST PLACES TO SEE	NESTING SEASONS
Green	PN Tortuguero (C) Playa Grande (P)	Jun–Nov May–Aug
Hawksbill	Gandoca-Manzanillo (C)	Mar–Aug
Leatherback	Gandoca-Manzanillo (C) Playa Grande (P)	Feb–Apr Oct–Apr
Loggerhead	PN Tortuguero (C)	Year-round
Olive ridley	Playa Ostional and Playa Nancite (P)	Apr–Dec

C – Caribbean, P – Pacific

Hawksbill turtles, hunted for their beautiful shells, rarely grow beyond 36 inches (92 cm) and nest singly. They are most easily spotted at Gandoca-Manzanillo Wildlife Refuge (see p172).

Puerto Viejo de Talamanca 11

Road Map F3. 8 miles (13 km) S of Cahuita. 5,000. 2750-0191 (Talamanca Association for Ecotourism & Conservation/A TEC).

One of the Caribbean coast's best surfing areas, Puerto Viejo de Talamanca is also a must-visit destination for offbeat travelers in Central America. Little more than a collection of stilt-legged shacks a decade ago, it has since expanded rapidly. Although electricity arrived in 1996, followed by a paved road in 2001, the village retains an earthy, laid-back quality.

Surfers come here between December and March to test their skills against the reef break La Salsa Brava, which can attain heights of up to 21 ft (6.5 m). The palm-fringed black sands of Playa Negra curl north from town. North of the beach, Finca la Isla Botanical Garden is an excellent place to explore the coastal rainforest along well-kept trails. Bromeliads are a specialty of this 12-acre (5-ha) garden, which also grows exotic fruits and ornamental plants. A self-guided booklet is available.

Puerto Viejo has some of the best budget accommodation in Costa Rica, as well as numerous colorful and outstanding eateries. Open-air bars and discos come

TUCUXI DOLPHIN

The rare tucuxí dolphin (Sotalia fluviatilis) – pronounced “too koo shee” – lives in the freshwater rivers and lagoons of Gandoca-Manzanillo and similar environments. This small species grows to 6 ft (2 m) in length and is blue-gray with a pink belly and long snout. It is shy and generally avoids boats, but is known to interact with its larger sea-going cousin, the bottle-nosed dolphin.

Tucuxí dolphin alive at night, with revelers spilling onto the sands.

Environs

A string of surfing beaches – Playa Cocles, Playa Uva, and Playa Chiquita – runs south from Puerto Viejo to the hamlet of Manzanillo. A paved road lined with hotels and cabinas (see p197) lies along the shore, with forested hills rising inland. Crazy

Monkey Canopy Ride

whisks you between treetops on a zipline. The Mariposario butterfly garden sits on a ridge overlooking Playa Uva. Public transport in these areas is limited, but bicycles, scooters, and cars can be rented in Puerto Viejo.

Finca la Isla Botanical Garden

0.5 mile (1 km) NW of Puerto Viejo. Tel 2750-0046. 10am–4pm Fri–Mon. <http://greencoast.com/garden.htm>

Crazy Monkey Canopy Ride

8 miles (13 km) S of Puerto Viejo. Tel 2271-3000. 8am & 2pm daily. www.almondsandcorals.com

Mariposario

4 miles (6 km) S of Puerto Viejo. Tel 2750-0086.

8am–4pm daily.

Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gandoca-Manzanillo 12

Road Map F4. 8 miles (13 km) S of Puerto Viejo. Tel 2759-9001.

from Puerto Viejo de Talamanca. 8am–4pm daily.

Enclosing a mosaic of habitats, Gandoca-Manzanillo Wildlife Refuge is a mixed-use park occupied by settlements whose inhabitants live in harmony with the environment. Created in 1985, this 32-sq-mile (83-sq-km) reserve extends out to sea, protecting a coral reef and 17 sq miles (44 sq km) of marine habitat where several species of turtles breed. The Costa Rican conservation society Asociación ANAI runs a volunteer program for those who are keen to assist with research and protection of turtles. On land, the refuge

Detail of a statue at a lodge in Puerto Viejo

The beach at Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gandoca-Manzanillo

For hotels and restaurants in this region see pp214–16 and pp235–6

has mangrove swamp, rare yolillo palm swamp and cativo forest, and tropical rainforest, all swarming with wildlife. Manatees and tucuxí inhabit the lagoons and estuaries. The waters are also important breeding grounds for sharks, game fish, and lobsters.

A coastal trail and several inland ones – often overgrown and muddy – afford unparalleled opportunities for spotting mammals and an astounding diversity of birds, amphibians, and reptiles. The coast trail leads to Punta Mona (Monkey Point) and Punta Mona Center, an educational institution and organic farm.

Enviros

Aquamor offers scuba diving and snorkeling, plus kayaking and a dolphin-spotting trip into Gandoca-Manzanillo Wildlife Refuge. A local cooperative, Guias MANT, also offers guided trips into the reserve, plus fishing and snorkeling. Finca Lomas, run by ANAI, is an experimental farm inside the refuge.

Green iguanas raised on Reserva Indígena KeköLdi have managed to retain much of their culture, native languages, animistic dances, and shamanistic practices (see pp32–3).

The most accessible reserve is the Reserva Indígena KeköLdi, spread across 14 sq miles (36 sq km) in the hills southwest of Puerto Viejo. The reserve's local conservation projects include a farm where green iguanas are bred. The farm is located off the main road near Hone Creek, a 30-minute walk from Puerto Viejo. Farther south, beyond the regional administrative center of Bribri, is the Reserva Indígena Talamanca-Bribri. Centered on Shiroles, 11 miles (18 km) southwest of Bribri, this reserve encompasses the Valle de Talamanca, a broad basin carpeted by plantations of bananas. Trips to communities within the reserve are offered by Albergue Finca Educativa Indígena, an educational center and tourist lodge in Shiroles.

From Bambú, 6 miles (10 km) west of Bribri, a trip by dug-out canoe down Río Yorkín leads to Reserva Indígena Yorkín, where visitors housed in traditional lodgings gain an appreciation of indigenous culture.

Another reserve worth visiting in this area is the Reserva Indígena Talamanca-Cabécar, reached from Shiroles along rugged dirt roads that push up the valley of Río Coén. This remote settlement of the San José Cabécar is considered the most important center of shamanism and Indian culture. Guided hikes and overnight visits to the reserves are arranged by the Talamanca Association for Ecotourism and Conservation (ATEC) in Puerto Viejo de Talamanca. Note that the only place where a permit to visit is not required is the iguana farm in the Reserva Indígena KeköLdi.

Albergue Finca Educativa Indígena

Shiroles. Tel 8378-4181. by appointment.

Asociación ANAI

Manzanillo. Tel 2224-3570. www.anaicr.org

Punta Mona Center

3 miles (5 km) SE of Manzanillo. Tel 2614-5735. 8am–5pm daily. <http://puntamona.org>

Aquamor

Manzanillo. Tel 2759-9012. 7am–6pm daily. www.greencoast.com/aquamor.htm

Guias MANT

Manzanillo. Tel 2759-9064. 8am–5pm daily.

Indigenous Reserves

Road Map F4.  to Bribri, then by jeep-taxi. Tel 2750-0191 (ATEC).

The indigenous Bribri and Cabécar peoples inhabit a series of fragmented reserves on the Caribbean slopes of the Talamanca Mountains, surviving primarily through subsistence agriculture. These two related groups

Inside a house in the Reserva Indígena KeköLdi

SHAMANISM

The Bribri and Cabécar have a spirit-filled, animist vision of the world in which the shaman-healer – called awá by the Bribri and jawá by the Cabécar – is the central authority in the community. Shamanic tools include magic stones, seteé (medicine collars), ulú (healing canes), and a whole pharmacy of medicinal herbs. These are used along with ritual song and dance to cure a person who is ill, or to restore harmony within the community.

Instrument used in ritual music

A Bribri shaman feather

THE SOUTHERN ZONE

From world-class surfing and sportfishing to hardy mountain bikes and scuba diving with hammerhead sharks, Costa Rica's remote south is a setting for splendid adventures. Pre-Columbian relics lie smothered in jungles that offer some of the finest wildlife viewing in the nation. The country's largest indigenous communities live in isolated mountain retreats in this region.

Spanish conquistadors marched into the region to conquer the nomadic Chibchas and Diquis tribes, and to search in vain, as it turned out, for gold. The coastal area remained isolated and neglected throughout the colonial period and beyond. In 1938, the United Fruit Company arrived, and planted bananas across the valleys of the Sierpe and Coto-Colorado Rivers; banana plantations are still the economic mainstay of the region. To the north, the shore is hemmed by the thickly forested Fila Costanera Mountains, while waves crash upon gray-sand beaches. Farther south, the Peninsula de Osa is deluged with rains that feed a huge swathe of emerald green rainforest. The peninsula hooks around Golfo Dulce – a calm bay attracting dolphins and whales, as well as sportfishing boats from the town of Golfito.

Isla del Caño floats on the horizon. Considered sacred by pre-Columbian tribes, it contains ancient burial sites. To the southwest, uninhabited Isla del Coco is surrounded by teeming sealife.

The Talamancas, in the northeast of the region, rise to 12,530 ft (3,820 m) at the top of Cerro Chirripó. Here, the Boruca and Guaymí peoples struggle to maintain their cultures in remote communities threatened by logging and other commercial interests. Thick forests carpet the rugged peaks, forming a virginal environment where jaguars, tapirs, and other endangered species thrive. Between the two mountain ranges, the fertile Valle de El General is a breadbasket of agricultural produce.

A hiker surveying the vast expanse of Parque Nacional Chirripó

Exploring the Southern Zone

The jungled shore of the Southern Zone is peppered with some of the country's finest beaches, including those at Bahía Drake, Zancudo, and Parque Nacional Marino Ballena. Surfers flock to Dominical and Pavones, while Golfito is a base for sportfishing. Whales and dolphins cavort in offshore waters, especially around Isla del Caño, while experienced divers can swim with hammerhead and whale sharks at remote Isla del Coco. Along the coast lie the rainforests of Parque Nacional Corcovado (on the Peninsula de Osa) and lesser-known sites such as the forest reserves Terraba-Sierpe and Barú. To the north, Chirripó offers an exciting hike to the summit.

Kayaking in Reserva Forestal del Humedad Nacional Terraba-Sierpe

KEY

	Pan-American Highway
	Major road
	Secondary road
	Minor road
	International border
	Provincial border
	Peak

SIGHTS AT A GLANCE

Towns and Villages

- Dominical 8
- Golfito 16
- Palmar 11
- Pavones 18
- San Isidro de El General 2
- Zancudo 17

National Parks and Reserves

- Parque Internacional La Amistad 5

Parque Nacional Chirripó

- pp180-81 4
- Parque Nacional Isla del Coco 19
- Parque Nacional Marino Ballena 9
- Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas 15
- Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Barú 7
- Reserva Biológica Isla del Caño 13

Reserva Forestal del Humedad Nacional Terraba-Sierpe 12

Areas of Natural Beauty

- Cerro de la Muerte 1
- Las Cruces Biological Station 6
- Península de Osa pp188-91 14
- Valle del Río Chirripó 3

Indigenous Site

- Reserva Indígena Boruca 10

Lush vegetation fringing aquamarine waters at Bahía Drake

IMÓN

Río Tefre
Cerro Punibeta
8,000 ft
Río Coen
PARQUE INTERNACIONAL LA AMISTAD

Colorful blooms outside a house near Parque Nacional Chirripó

GETTING AROUND

Palmar, Puerto Jiménez, Golfito, and Ciudad Neily have domestic airports, while charter planes serve smaller airstrips. Major tourist sights can be reached from San José by long-distance bus. Local buses are the main form of transportation in this region, although more remote sights are accessible only by jeep-taxi or cheap but uncomfortable colectivos (pickup trucks).

Highway 2 (the Pan-American Highway) is paved, as is Highway 16 through the Valle de Coto Brus, but most connecting routes are potholed dirt roads that are covered with mud after rains. Many nature lodges on the Osa Peninsula and the Golfo Dulce shores can be reached only by water-taxi.

SEE ALSO

- Where to Stay pp216–19
- Where to Eat pp236–7

Winding road in the valley of Cerro de la Muerte

Cerro de la Muerte 1

Road Map D4. 31 miles (50 km) S of Cartago. San José–San Isidro.

Cerro Buenavista is popularly called Cerro de la Muerte (Mountain of Death), in remembrance of the people who died of exposure while taking their produce to San José before the Pan-Am Highway was built across it.

The highway, connecting San José with the Valle de El General, passes below the actual summit (11,500 ft/3,500 m), which is buffeted by high winds. The vegetation is Andean páramo (grassland), with shriveled species that have adapted to the cold, boggy conditions. When the clouds part, there are superlative views.

The Príncipe de la Paz, a 10 m- (30 ft-) high statue of Christ, stands overlooking the road just after the descent from Cerro de la Muerte, about 4 miles (6 km) from San Isidro. A path leads to the base of the statue, where locals congregate for picnics. It is also possible to climb to the top of the Príncipe de la Paz to peer through the eyes. Designed by Costa Rican sculptor Francisco Ulloa, the statue was built as a symbol of peace in 1979, during the Nicaraguan civil war. This stretch of the Pan-Am Highway requires great caution – avoid it at night.

San Isidro de El General 2

Road Map E4.

51 miles (82 km) S of Cartago.

41,200. Selva Mar, Calle 1 and Aves 2/4, 2771-4582.

Día de San Isidro Labrador (May 15).

The peaceful market town of San Isidro de El General sits at the base of Cerro de la Muerte and is the administrative center for Valle de El General. For tourists, it serves mainly as a refueling stop and as a convenient base for exploring Chirripó and Parque Internacional La Amistad. The only sight of interest in town is the modern, concrete cathedral. Built in 1967 and located on the east side of the plaza, the cathedral has stained-glass windows and a simple altar, which is dominated by a mural of San Isidro Labrador, patron saint of San Isidro.

Environs

Bird-lovers are in for a treat at Los Cusings Neotropical Bird Sanctuary. Administered by the Tropical Science Center of Costa Rica, this 350-acre (142-ha) refuge for birds was founded by the eminent American ornithologist Dr. Alexander Skutch (1904–2004), co-author of the authoritative volume Birds of Costa Rica. More than 300 bird species have been noted in this sanctuary. Also of note at this refuge are the Indian petroglyphs that dot the grounds.

The striking modern cathedral of San Isidro de El General

Los Cusings Neotropical Bird Sanctuary

Quizarrá de Pérez Zeledón, 9 miles (14 km) SE of San Isidro.

2200-5472 (Tropical Science Center). 7am–4pm daily (to 1pm Sun), by appt.

Works of art at the Museo el Pelicano, Valle del Río Chirripó

Valle del Río Chirripó 3

Road Map E4. 6 miles (10 km) E of San Isidro. from San Isidro.

This valley is scythed from the Talamanca Mountains by the turbulent Río Chirripó. Trout swim in the river's waters, and rapids provide kayaking thrills. A great place to stop in the valley is the fruit-and-coffee finca Rancho La Botija (see pp219), a popular destination for locals on weekends. Its attractions include an antique sugarcane mill, restaurant, and accommodation. Nearby, the roadside Piedra de los Indios (Rock of the Indians) bears pre-Columbian petroglyphs as well as some modern graffiti.

The scenery grows more dramatic and the climate more alpine as the road climbs into the mountains to reach San Gerardo de Rivas. Perching over the river gorge, this hamlet is the gateway to Parque Nacional Chirripó. Close by, Museo el Pelicano is a curiosity for its inspired stone and timber art by coffee farmer Rafael Elizondo Basulta. Nearby, Agua Termales has natural thermal pools popular with local families seeking to counter the chilly mountain air. A steep track, strewn with boulders, leads past the trailhead to the summit of Cerro Chirripó and ends at the Chirripó Cloudbridge Reserve. The locally endemic parrot mountain snake can be seen at this private reserve; there are also some good hiking trails.

Variety of flora at the Chirripó Cloudbridge Reserve

Museo el Pelicano

Canaan, 10 miles (16 km) E of San Isidro. Tel 2742-5050. 8am-8pm Tue-Sat.

Aguas Termales

0.5 mile (0.8 km) NW of San Gerardo. Tel 2742-5210. 7am-6pm daily.

Chirripó Cloudbridge Reserve

San Gerardo de Rivas, 12 miles (20 km) E of San Isidro. F 2771-1866. 8am-4pm daily.

Parque Nacional Chirripó

See pp180-181.

Parque Internacional La Amistad

Road Map F4. to Guácimo, 66 miles (107 km) SE of San Isidro, then by jeep-taxi. F Estación Altamira HQ, 31 miles (50 km) SE of Buenos Aires, 2730-0846. 8am-4pm daily.

Extending into Panama, the International Friendship Park is contiguous with other protected areas that form the Reserva de la Biosfera La Amistad (Amistad Biosphere Reserve). It sprawls over 675 sq miles (1,750 sq km) of the rugged Talamancas Mountains, and ranges from elevations of 490 ft (150 m) to 11,650 ft (3,550 m) atop Cerro Kamuk. This enormous park spans eight "life zones," from low montane rainforest to swampy high-altitude grassland. The diverse wildlife includes five cat species and the endangered harpy eagle.

With permits and a guide, experienced hikers can cross the Talamancas on a trail that starts from the town of Buenos Aires, 38 miles (61 km) southeast of San Isidro, and leads to Reserva Indígena Talamanca-Cabécar (see p173).

The main ranger station, a hostel, and an ecology exhibition are at Estación Altamira, the recommended entry point. All the official access points require 4WD.

Environs

East of Buenos Aires, Reserva Biológica Durika, a 3-sq-mile (9-sq-km) forest reserve, is a self-sufficient holistic community offering guided hikes, vegetarian meals, and rustic accommodation. Reached via the small hill town of San Vito, La Amistad Lodge (see p218) is a good base for exploring the southern Talamancas. This cozy lodge, part of a cattle and organic coffee estate, provides access to the reserve Zona Protectorado Las Tablas. Horseback rides and guided birding hikes to two mountain camps are offered.

Reserva Biológica Durika

11 miles (18 km) N of Buenos Aires. Tel 2730-0657. www.durika.org

Las Cruces Biological Station

Road Map F5. 4 miles (6 km) S of San Vito. Tel 2773-4004.

San Vito-Ciudad Neily.

8am-5pm daily. www.ots.ac.cr

One of the world's leading tropical research and educational centers, Las Cruces is run by the Organization of Tropical Studies (OTS). The center is surrounded by a 580-acre (235-ha) mid-elevation forest, in which an incredible diversity of birds and mammals can be seen along 6 miles (10 km) of trails. Clouds envelop the reserve, nourishing the many ferns, palms, bromeli-ads, and orchids laid out in the 25-acre (10-ha) Wilson Botanical Gardens, designed by distinguished Brazilian landscaper Roberto Burle-Marx. A riot of color in even the rainiest of weather, the collection extends to greenhouses, where varieties of tropical plants are propagated.

Ferns, Las Cruces Biological Station

Resplendent quetzal

THE RESPLENDENT QUETZAL

Costa Rica is home to the most striking of the quetzal species (see p26) – the resplendent quetzal – one of the most beautiful tropical birds. The male bird has iridescent green feathers, blood-red chest, and 24-inch (60-cm) tail feathers; the female is less flamboyant. Pre-Columbian cultures worshipped the quetzal as a living depiction of Quetzalcoatl, the plumed serpent god.

The male's tail feathers, used in ceremonies, were considered more precious than gold; only nobles and priests were allowed to wear them.

Parque Nacional Chirripó 4

Red-tailed hawk

Costa Rica's highest mountain, Cerro Chirripó (12,530 ft/3,820 m) is enfolded in the 194-sq-mile (502-sq-km) Chirripó National Park. Part of the Amistad Biosphere Reserve, the park protects three distinct "life zones" in rugged, virgin territory where wildlife flourishes with minimal interference from humans. As many as 60 percent of all wildlife species in Costa Rica are found here, including all six types of wild cats (see p113) and many endemic species of flora and fauna. Glacial activity some 35,000 years ago carved small U-shaped valleys and deposited moraines, still visible today. Spring is the best time for hiking, although weather is always unpredictable, with frequent fog and rain.

Cloud Forest

Almost constantly shrouded in mist, the forests above 8,200 ft (2,500 m) are typified by dwarf blueberry trees festooned with epiphytes and mosses. Monkeys and quetzals are found in plenty.

The ranger station in San Gerardo de Rivas sells trail maps. Visitors must report here before setting out on the hike to the summit.

Sendero Termometro, leading into cloud forest, is one of the steepest stretches of the trail.

SAN ISIDRO DE EL GENERAL

HIKING IN THE PARK

Most visitors hike to the summit along a well-marked trail that ascends 8,200 ft (2,500 m) from the trailhead, near San Gerardo de Rivas. The 20-mile (32-km) hike to the top and back normally takes two days, with an overnight stay near the summit. Hire guide-porters in San Gerardo. An alternative route is from Herradura via Cerro Uran.

Hikers in Parque Nacional Chirripó

KEY

- Parque Nacional Chirripó
- Area of park illustrated

KEY

- Minor road
- Park boundary
- Trail
- Viewpoint
- Visitor information
- Peak

Serene Lago San Juan, Parque Nacional Chirripó

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Road Map E4. 12 miles (19 km) NE of San Isidro de El General.

to San Gerardo de Rivas, 2 miles (3 km) from the park.

Ranger station, San Gerardo de Rivas; 2771-3155 (Park office, San Isidro de El General).

7:30am–5pm daily; by appointment. No more than 40 people allowed at a time.

May. mandatory.

by reservation.

0 km 2
0 miles 2

Cerro Chirripó

The views in every direction from the summit are staggering in clear weather. Hikers usually stay overnight at Centro Ambientalista El Páramo, setting off early morning for the last leg of the trek to the top, which takes 90 minutes.

Tapirs

The park has the nation's largest population of tapirs. Baird's tapirs are often spotted drinking in Lago San Juan, a short distance west of the summit.

Valle de los Conejos (Valley of the Rabbits) is a marshy valley with a large rabbit population. It suffered from a devastating wildfire in 1992.

Centro Ambientalista El Páramo, the sole lodging on the mountains, sleeps 40 people in bunks. It has solar-powered electricity and a communal kitchen, and rents out sleeping bags, blankets, and stoves.

Sabana de los Leones (Savanna of the Lions) is named for the pumas frequently seen on the southern slopes.

Monte Sin Fe (Faithless Mountain) is reached by a steep uphill section called La Cuesta del Agua.

Los Crestones

Marking the end of a steep 1.2-mile (2-km) long climb called La Cuesta de los Arrepentidos (Repentants' Hill), these dramatic vertical rock formations were considered a sacred site by pre-Columbian Indians.

Zipline tour in Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Barú

Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Barú 7

Road Map D4. 2 miles (3 km) N of Dominical. Tel 2787-0003. <

Costa Rica's Tropical Flowers

A luxuriant hothouse of biodiversity, Costa Rica nurtures over 15,000 known plant species, including 800 types of ferns. Varieties of tropical flowers such as cannas, plumerias, and begonias flourish in the warm and humid regions, as do bromeliads and other epiphytes, which draw moisture and oxygen from the air. Cacti are found on the parched lowlands, while stunted dwarf forests and vivid clusters of pink, white, and lilac impatiens grow at higher elevations. Flowering trees color the tropical forests: the poinciana flames with vermilion blossoms, and the jacaranda drops its violet-blue, bell-shaped blooms to form spectacular carpets in spring.

Orchid bloom

Heliconias are known for their unusual bracts. The lobster-claw heliconia (right) has a yellow-tipped red bract. Costa Rica's 30 native species of heliconia thrive in areas with plenty of moisture.

Passion flowers emanate a foul smell to attract pollinators, especially Heliconiinae butterflies.

Bracts are flowerheads atop huge stems that can grow up to 25 ft (8 m).

Large leaves are typical of heliconias, of which the banana plant is a member.

Bromeliads collect water in their tightly wrapped, thick, waxy leaves. Falling leaf matter decays inside this whorl, providing nutrients for the plant and creating a self-contained ecosystem.

Anthuriums have a distinctive heart-shaped spathe – usually red, white, or greenish – from which the flower spike protrudes.

The Aristolochia, or "Dutchman's pipe," gives off a fetid odor resembling that of rotting flesh. This draws flies, its principal pollinators.

Ginger lilies have large, hyacinth-like flowers rich in nectar. Introduced from Asia, these shoulder-high plants are common in landscaped gardens.

ORCHIDS

More than 1,400 species of orchids grow in Costa Rica, from sea level to the heights of Chirripó (see p81). The greatest numbers are found below 6,000 ft (1,830 m). Orchids range from the 0.03-inch (1-mm) wide liverwort orchid (Platystele jungermannioides), the world's smallest flower, to others with pendulous 3-ft (1-m) long petals. All orchids have three petals and three sepals. Some have evolved unique features to attract specific pollinators: for example, the markings on certain orchids are visible only to insects that can see in the ultraviolet spectrum.

Detail of a mural showing various orchids

The bird of paradise flowers from a dramatic spathe with bright orange sepals and vivid blue petals. Set at right angles to the stem, the spathe looks like a bird's head.

Reserva Indígena Boruca 10

Road Map E5. 22 miles (35 km) SW of Buenos Aires. from Buenos Aires. Fiesta de los Diablitos (Dec 31–Jan 2).

This is just one of several indigenous reserves – inhabited by the Boruca and Bribri – in the mountains hemming the Valle de El General.

Located in the Fila Sinacra Mountains, the reserve is known for its Fiesta de los Diablitos, as well as its carved jicaras (gourds) and balsawood mascaras (masks). The women use traditional backstrap looms to weave cotton purses and shawls. The ridge-top drive to the hamlet of Boruca offers great views of the Río Terraba gorge. Local culture is showcased in the Museo Comunitario Boruca.

Reserva Indígena Térraba and Reserva Indígena Curré flank the Boruca reserve.

Reserva Indígena Cabagra, home to the Bribri, can be accessed from the town of Brujo, 7 miles (11 km) south-east of Buenos Aires. With visitors demonstrating a growing interest in indigenous cultures, these remote communities are gradually opening up to tourism.

Museo Comunitario Boruca Boruca, 25 miles (40 km) SW of Buenos Aires. Tel 2730-1673.

by request.

Palmar 11

Road Map E5. 78 miles (125 km) SE of San Isidro de El General. 9,900.

Sitting at the foot of the Río Terraba valley, at the intersection of Costanera Sur and the Pan-Am Highway, Palmar is the service center for the region. The town straddles Río Terraba, which flows west through the wide Valle de Diquis. Pre-Columbian esferas de piedra (stone spheres) and a centenarian steam locomotive are displayed in the plaza of Palmar Sur. Palmar Norte is the town's modern quarter.

Reserva Forestal del Humedad Nacional Terraba-Sierpe

Reserva Forestal del Humedad Nacional Terraba-Sierpe 12

Road Map E5. 11 miles (18 km) W of Palmar. 2788-1212 (Tours Gaviota de Osa). www.tourcorcovado.com

Created to protect the nation's largest stretch of mangrove forest and swamp, the Terraba-Sierpe National Humid Forest Reserve covers an area of 85 sq miles (220 sq km) between the deltas of the Sierpe and Terraba Rivers. Countless channels criss-cross this vitally important ecosystem, which fringes 25 miles (40 km) of coastline.

Visitors kayaking in these quiet channels can see a variety of wildlife, including basilisk lizards, iguanas, crocodiles, and caimans, as well as monkeys, coatis and crab-eating raccoons. The birding opportunities are also excellent. Guided boat and kayak tours are offered from Sierpe, 9 miles (14 km) south of Palmar.

Reserva Biológica Isla del Caño 13

Road Map D5. 12 miles (19 km) W of Bahía Drake. 2735-5580 (PN Corcovado). tours from Bahía Drake, Manuel Antonio & Dominical. 8am–4pm daily. www.sinac.go.cr

Thrust from the sea by tectonic forces, the 805-acre (325-ha) uninhabited Isla del Caño was named a protected reserve in 1976, along with 10 sq miles (26 sq km) of surrounding waters. Today, it is administered as part of Parque Nacional Corcovado (see p191). In the past, the island was considered to be sacred by the pre-Columbian Diquis peoples.

The coral-colored beaches are great for sunbathing. In the shallows, coral reefs team with lobsters and fish, while dolphins, whales, and manta rays swim in the warm waters farther out. Diving is permitted in designated zones (see p252). Terrestrial wildlife is relatively limited, although the lucky hiker might come across four-eyed foxes, brown boobies, and ospreys.

Mossy pre-Columbian tombs and granite esferas (spheres) are scattered along a trail running from the beachfront ranger hut to a lookout point. The trail winds past milk trees (Brosimum utile), named for their drinkable milky latex.

Overnight stays are not permitted. Lodges in the Bahía Drake area (see p190) offer day trips and diving.

FIESTA DE LOS DIABLITOS

At midnight on December 31, the Boruca gather to reenact the war between their ancestors and the Spanish conquistadors. At the sound of a conch shell, men dressed in burlap sackings and devil masks pursue a fellow tribesman dressed as a bull. The diablitos (devils) drink chicha (corn beer) and perform theatrical skits recalling tribal events. After three days, the bull is symbolically killed, metaphorically freeing the tribe from colonial repression.

Borucas in devil masks

The Mangroves of Coastal Costa Rica

Costa Rica's shores contain five of the world's 65 species of mangroves – black, button-wood, red, tea, and white. Mangroves are woody halophytes – plants able to withstand immersion in saltwater – and form swampy forests in areas inundated by tides. These communities are of vital importance to the maritime ecosystem, fostering a wealth of wildlife. The tangled roots buffer the action of waves, preventing coastal erosion. They also filter out the silt washed down by turbulent rivers: the accumulated mud extends the land out to sea. Threatened by the country's coastal development, this fragile ecosystem is now legally protected, with the Terraba-Sierpe reserve being the largest tract.

Crab found in mangroves

THE MANGROVE ECOSYSTEM

Mangroves grow in mud so dense that there is little oxygen, and nutrients supplied by decomposing leaf litter lie close to the surface. Hence, most plants develop interlocking stilt roots that rise above the water to draw in oxygen and food.

Salt is expelled by mangroves in a variety of ways. A few species are "salt-excluders" that filter salt at root level, while some excrete it through special glands.

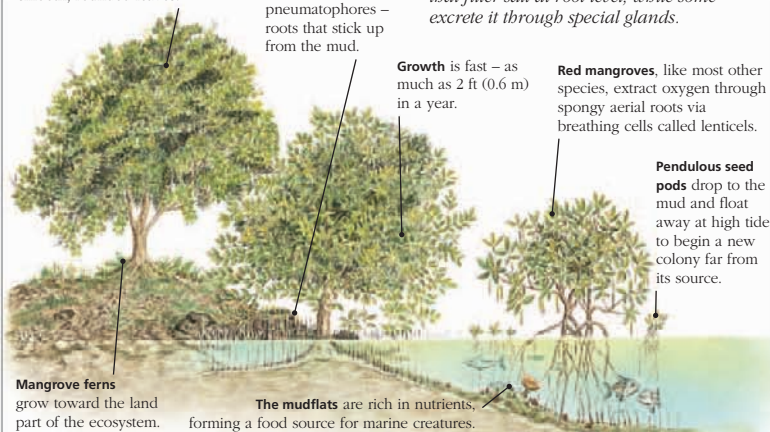

White mangroves have smooth, rounded leaves.

Black mangroves breathe through pneumatophores – roots that stick up from the mud.

Growth is fast – as much as 2 ft (0.6 m) in a year.

Red mangroves, like most other species, extract oxygen through spongy aerial roots via breathing cells called lenticels.

Pendulous seed pods drop to the mud and float away at high tide to begin a new colony far from its source.

Mangrove ferns grow toward the land part of the ecosystem.

The mudflats are rich in nutrients, forming a food source for marine creatures.

THE RICH FAUNA OF THE MANGROVES

The microorganisms that grow in the nutrient-rich muds foster the growth of larger creatures such as shrimps and other crustaceans, which in turn attract various species of mammals, reptiles, and birds.

Aquatic nurseries for oysters, sponges, and numerous fish species, including sharks and stingrays, thrive in the tannin-stained waters. The roots protect baby caimans and crocodiles from predators.

Larger species, such as raccoons, coyotes, snakes, and wading birds forage for small lizards and crabs.

Birds, such as frigate birds and pelicans, and endemic species such as the yellow mangrove warbler roost atop mangroves.

Peninsula de Osa 14

Scarlet macaw

Washed by warm Pacific waters on three sides, the isolated Osa Peninsula curls around the Golfo Dulce. The peninsula was a center for the pre-Columbian Diquis culture, whose skill as goldsmiths sent Spanish conquistadors on a futile search for fabled gold mines. Deluged by year-round rains, much of this rugged area remains uninhabited and trackless, and is covered with virgin rainforest. About half of Osa is protected within Parque Nacional Corcovado, the largest of the parks and reserves that make up the Corcovado Conservation Area. Those with a taste for adventure are richly rewarded with majestic wilderness and some of the most spectacular wildlife-viewing in the nation.

Playa San Josecito

Backed by rainforest, this is a beautiful golden sand beach with accommodations. Access is by boat or biking trail.

Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre

Punta Río Claro, located inland of Punta Marencó, protects more than 400 bird species, four monkey species, and prime rainforest habitat adjoining Corcovado (see p190).

Bahía Drake

With a beautiful setting, Drake Bay is great for scuba diving and sportfishing centered on the small village of Agujitas (see p190).

Parque Nacional Corcovado

Sprawling Corcovado National Park protects one of the last original tracts of the Pacific coast's tropical rainforest in Meso-America. La Leona (left) is one of its four ranger stations. Crocodiles, tapirs, jaguars, and scarlet macaws are found in the park in large numbers (see p191).

LOGGING

The peninsula's large stands of precious hardwoods, such as mahogany, have suffered from excessive logging. Although restrictions have been placed on the activities of lumber companies, the cutting of protected tree species continues unabated.

Logging truck

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

Road Map E5, SW Costa Rica.

Ⓜ 12,000. ✈ at Puerto Jiménez; airstrips at Carate, PN Corcovado, and Bahía Drake. 🚗 to Puerto Jiménez or La Palma, then take a jeep-taxi to the park or hike (from La Palma to Los Patos). 🚤 to Bahía Drake, then take another boat to the park or hike (caution is required to wade the Rio Claro).

Dolphins

Dolphins and humpback whales are frequently seen playing in the Golfo Dulce (Sweet Gulf).

KEY

— Main road

— Trail

— Park boundary

✈ Airstrip

Ⓜ Camping

ℹ Visitor information

Puerto Jiménez

The only town of significance on the Osa Peninsula, this is the starting point for visits to Corcovado, and a center for hiking, surfing, and similar activities, including kayaking through nearby mangroves (see p190).

Playa Platanares

A vital nesting site for marine turtles, the beach is fringed by wildlife-rich forest. A coral reef offshore is good for snorkeling.

Dos Brazos, a former gold mining center, welcomes visitors for gold-panning trips with community members.

Cabo Matapalo is popular with surfers.

Carate, the gateway to Corcovado, is accessed by chartered planes and a rugged dirt track.

Laguna Pejeperrito is inhabited by caimans, crocodiles, and waterfowl.

Exploring Peninsula de Osa

Ranger station,
Parque Nacional
Corcovado

The lush rainforests of Corcovado lie at the heart of the Osa Peninsula. Although tourism to the region is booming, travel into the interior is still a challenge. Highway 245 follows the eastern shore and a challenging dirt road links Rincón to Bahía Drake, but the only guaranteed access to the western shores is by boat or by small plane. Wilderness lodges line the coast.

Along the shore of sweeping Bahía Drake

Bahía Drake

Rocky cliffs and forested hills provide a compelling setting for the scalloped Drake Bay. Sir Francis Drake is said to have anchored the Golden Hind here in March 1579.

This is one of the most inaccessible areas in Costa Rica. In 2003, a dirt road was cut from Rincón, on Golfo Dulce, to Bahía Drake (pronounced "DRA-cay"), but the route is often impassable in wet weather, even for 4WD vehicles. Most visitors still arrive by boat from Sierpe (see p184). The small village of Agujitas, toward the bay's southern end, survives largely on subsistence farming and fishing.

Popular attractions include dolphin- and whale-watching trips on the bay. Snorkeling is another fun activity, especially in the southern bay, where the canyon of Río Agujitas can be explored by kayak. There are several budget accommodation options, as well as more expensive lodges that offer scuba diving and sportfishing. One such is Jinetes de Osa (see p216), which features snorkeling along with scuba diving and deep-sea angling.

Among its other attractions are zipline tours and a treetop observation walkway. You can also whiz between treetops with Corcovado Canopy Tour, which has 11 ziplines.

From Agujitas, a coastal trail leads south for 8 miles (13 km), via Playas Cocalito, Caletas, and San Josecito, to Parque Nacional Corcovado, passing by the Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Punta Río Claro. This 2-sq-mile (5-sq-km) nature reserve adjoins Corcovado, and is home to much the same species of wildlife as can be seen in Corcovado. Guided hikes can be booked at Punta Marengo Lodge, which is nearby. Tapirs and crocodiles are frequently sighted while canoeing on Laguna Chocuaco, to the east of Agujitas; the local community cooperative offers trips.

✂ Corcovado Canopy Tour

Los Planos, 8 miles (14 km)
SE of Agujitas. Tel 8810-8908.
www.corcovadocanopytour.com

✂ Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Punta Río Claro

Playa Caletas, 4 miles (6 km)
S of Agujitas. F 8877-3535.
☐ 8am–5pm daily. **📞 **📧 **📍
www.puntamarengo.com

Puerto Jiménez

🏠 6,200.

The only settlement of significance on the peninsula, this dusty village is popular with backpackers. In the 1980s, Puerto Jiménez briefly blossomed on income from local gold and had a reputation as a "Wild West" frontier town, where carrying a gun was considered a good idea and prostitutes were paid with gold nuggets. Today, the town thrives on tourist money.

Various adventure activities are offered by local operators. Kayakers flock to the mangroves extending east along the shore of the Golfo Dulce to the estuary of Río Platanares. Home to crocodiles, caimans, freshwater turtles, and river otters, this ecosystem is protected within the 555-acre (225-ha) Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Preciosa Platanares.

The refuge lies along the shores of the lovely Playa Platanares, which has a small coral reef good for snorkeling. The beach is a nesting site for five species of marine turtles, best sighted from May to December. A small vivero (nursery) raises hatchlings for release into the jade-green waters.

The shore south of Puerto Jiménez is lined with beaches. Cabo Matapalo, at the tip of the peninsula, and Playa Sombrero offer great surfing.

✂ Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Preciosa Platanares

2 miles (3 km) E of Puerto Jiménez.

📞 by donation. **📧 **📍

Locals on the main street of Puerto Jiménez

A lounging area on the beach at Parque Nacional Corcovado

Parque Nacional Corcovado

25 miles (40 km) SW of Puerto Jiménez. Tel 2735-5580.

8am–4pm daily. www.sinac.go.cr

Considered the crown jewel among the protected regions of the humid tropics, this 165-sq-mile (425-sq-km) park was created in 1975 to preserve the largest Pacific coast rainforest in the Americas, as well as 20 sq miles (52 sq km) of marine habitat. Corcovado (meaning “hunchback”) has eight distinct zones, including herbaceous swamps, flooded swamp forest, and montane forest. The area receives up to 158 inches (400 cm) of rainfall per year, with torrential rains from April to December.

Wildlife viewing is splendid and among the most diverse in Costa Rica. The park has over 400 species of birds, including the endangered harpy eagle, and the largest population of scarlet macaws in Central America; bird-watchers are guaranteed sightings. Jaguars are spotted more frequently here than at any other park in the nation, as are tapirs. Both species are often seen on the beaches, especially around dusk. Corcovado is known for its large packs of peccaries – menacing wild hogs that should be avoided. The endangered titi (squirrel monkey) is also found here. There are over 115 species of amphibians and reptiles.

Poison-dart frogs (see p158) are easily seen in their gaudy livery, but the elusive lime-green red-eyed tree frog and Fleischmann’s transparent frog are harder to spot. The fortunate might witness green, hawkbill, leatherback, or Pacific ridley turtles crawling ashore to nest. However, the park is understaffed and the wildlife is under threat by poachers.

Although there are hotels and organized tours close by, the park is best suited to self-sufficient hikers who enjoy rugged adventures. There are four official entry points and ranger stations. San Pedrillo, to the west, is linked by a trail from Bahía Drake. Los Patos, to the east, can be reached from La Palma, 12 miles (19 km) northwest of Puerto Jiménez. La Leona, to the south, is 1 mile (1.6 km) west of the airstrip at Carate, a hamlet 25 miles (40 km) west of Puerto Jiménez; visitors must then hike or ride a horse from Carate. Sirena, the main

Small biplane used for transport within Osa ranger station, is 10 miles (16 km) northwest of La Leona and 16 miles (26 km) southeast of San Pedrillo. Poorly marked trails connect the stations; it is wise to hire a guide.

The coastal San Pedrillo–La Leona trail passes the dramatic 100-ft (30-m) high Cascada La Llorona. Be prepared to ford rivers inhabited by crocodiles on this two-day hike. The trail’s northern section is open only from December to April. The San Pedrillo–Los Patos trail allows access to Laguna Corcovado, where tapirs and jaguars are often sighted.

There is no scheduled air service to the airstrips near the park, but air-taxis are offered by charter companies.

Interesting attractions close to Parque Nacional Corcovado include the 105-acre (43-ha) wetlands Humedal Lacustrino Laguna Pejeperrito, 2 miles (3 km) east of Carate, and the 865-acre (350-ha) Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Pejeperrito, 2.5 miles (4 km) farther east. They are little visited, but offer good opportunities for spotting birds, as well as crocodiles.

GOLD MINING

Oreos (gold panners) had sifted for gold in the rivers of the Osa Peninsula since pre-Columbian days. When the United Fruit Company (see p41) pulled out of the region in 1985, unemployed workers flooded the peninsula, leading to a latter-day gold rush. This short-lived gold rush caused major damage: trees were felled, river banks dynamited, and exposed soils sluiced. After violent clashes with the authorities, the oreos were ousted in 1986. Some still work the outer margins of Corcovado, while others earn their income leading gold hunts for tourists.

Nuggets of gold

Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas 15

Road Map E5. 28 miles (46 km) SE of Palmar. Tel 2741-8001 (Esquinas Rainforest Lodge). from Golfito. 8am–4pm daily.

Split off from Parque Nacional Corcovado in 1991, this 55-sq-mile (140-sq-km) park protects the forested mountains to the northeast of Golfo Dulce. In the village of La Gamba, a cooperative runs the Esquinas Rainforest Lodge (see p218), which breeds the rodent-like tepezcuintles and offers hikes.

The emerald forests spill over the beaches – Playa Cativo and Playa San Josecito, which has the botanical garden Casa de Orquídeas, known for its large collection of orchids and ornamentals. Lining the shores are wilderness lodges. Boat trips, including water-taxi rides, from Puerto Jiménez and Golfito to the two beaches make for pleasant excursions.

Casa de Orquídeas
Playa San Josecito, 6 miles (10 km) N of Puerto Jiménez. Tel 8829-1247. 8am–5pm Sat–Thu by appointment.

Sign of the colorful botanical garden, Casa de Orquídeas

Golfito 16

Road Map F5. 48 miles (77 km) SE of Palmar. 10,900.

A sportfishing base, port, and administrative center for the southern region, dilapidated Golfito (Small Gulf) unfurls along 4 miles (6 km) of shoreline. Established by the United Fruit Company in 1938, the town's reign as the nation's main banana shipping port ended when the company pulled out of the region in 1985. The legacy of "Big Fruit" can be seen in the intriguing architecture of Zona Americana, the north end of town, which has stilt-legged wooden houses. An antique locomotive sits in the small plaza of Pueblo Civil, the town center. The Museo Marino nearby is worth a peek for its collection of corals and seashells.

Stilt-legged house in Zona Americana, Golfito

On weekends and holidays, Golfito is flooded with Ticos drawn to the Depósito Libre (Free Trade Zone) shopping compound created in 1990 to revive the town's fortunes.

The forested hills east and north of town are protected within Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Golfito.

Museo Marino
Hotel Centro Turístico Samoa, just N of Pueblo Civil. Tel 2775-0233. 7am–11am daily.

Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Golfito
E of Golfito. 8am–4pm daily. with local operators.

Zancudo 17

Road Map F5. 6 miles (10 km) S of Golfito (41 miles/66 km by road). water-taxi from Golfito.

This hamlet on the east shore of Golfo Dulce is known for its stupendously beautiful gray sand beach, caressed by breezes and surf. The 4-mile (6-km) long strip of sand is a spit, projecting from the shore. A mangrove swamp inland of the beach is good for spotting crocodiles, caimans, and waterfowl. Sportfishing centers offer superb river-mouth and deep-water fishing (see p251), while tarpon and snook can be hooked from the shore.

Pavones 18

Road Map B5. 7 miles (12 km) S of Zancudo. water-taxi from Golfito.

Known in the surfing world for its consistent 0.5-mile (1-km) 3-minute break, this small fishing village has blossomed in recent years due to the influx of young surfers. The waves peak between April and October. Coconut palms lean over the beautiful, rocky coastline.

Environs

Marine turtles nest along the shore. At Punta Banco, 6 miles (10 km) south of Pavones, the local community participates in the Tiskita Foundation Sea Turtle Restoration Project, which has a nursery to raise baby turtles for release. Nearby, Tiskita Lodge (see p218) offers fabulous vistas from its hillside perch. This lodge is part of a fruit farm that lures a wealth of bird- and animal life. Guided hikes are offered into a private reserve, where waterfalls tumble through majestic rainforest.

Reserva Indígena Guaymí, 9 miles (14 km) south of Punta Banco, is the remote mountain home of the Guaymí. Visits are discouraged.

A surfer wading ashore at Pavones

Parque Nacional Isla del Coco 19

Named a National Park in 1978, the world's largest uninhabited island is a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Of volcanic origin, the 9-sq-mile (23-sq-km) island is a part of the Galapagos chain. Torrential rainfall feeds spectacular waterfalls that cascade to the sea, while dense premontane moist forest carpets the land. The fragile ecosystem protects endemic fauna such as the Pacific dwarf gecko and Cocos anole, as well as 70 endemic plant species. A highlight is the huge colonies of seabirds, including magnificent frigate birds, noddies, and white terns. With waters of astounding clarity, the island is a world-renowned dive site (see p252).

VISITORS' CHECKLIST

310 miles (500 km) SW of the mainland. 🚗 with dive operators (a 36-hr journey). 📞 2256-7476 (Fundación Amigos de La Isla del Coco). ☑ daily. Permit required to step ashore, which the dive operator can arrange. 🤿 Dive Operators Undersea Hunter: 2228-6613; Okeanos Aggressor: see p253. www.cocosisland.org

Isla del Coco, the "Dinosaur Island" of Jurassic Park

Bahía Chatham

The main anchorage has etchings carved into the cliff-face by sailors. Many of these date back centuries.

Bahía Wafer is a safe haven for yachters. Enclosed by steep cliffs – which surround the entire island – it has a dramatic setting.

Coral reefs around the island contain 18 coral species and more than 300 species of fish.

Cerro Yglesias, the highest point, is accessed by a steep, muddy trail. The mountain is tipped with coniferous forest.

Red-footed Boobies Virtually unafraid, these seabirds allow humans to approach within fingertip distance. Birds endemic to the island include the Cocos cuckoo and Cocos finch.

KEY

- Trail
- Viewpoint
- Peak
- Visitor information

Hammerhead Sharks

Congregating in their hundreds, these sharks provide an exhilarating experience for scuba divers. Also drawn by the huge fish population around the island are white-tipped sharks.

TRAVELERS' NEEDS

WHERE TO STAY 196-219

WHERE TO EAT 220-237

SHOPPING IN COSTA RICA 238-243

ENTERTAINMENT IN COSTA RICA 244-247

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES AND SPECIALTY
VACATIONS 248-253

WHERE TO STAY

Costa Rica has an excellent selection of accommodations covering the entire country, with a wide choice for every budget. Even the remotest corners have inexpensive cabanas (cabins). The country's forte is the wilderness nature lodge, many in extraordinary settings, where guests can view wildlife without leaving their hammocks. Also on offer are special-interest lodgings catering to a particular activity, such as surfing or sportfishing. Hotels range from self-catering apartotels (apart-hotels) to world-class luxury resorts and boutique hotels, which reflect the individuality of their owners. Recent years have seen an explosion in the number and quality of backpackers' hotels. Costa Rican hotels rarely use the star-grading system. Instead, the country has adopted the Certificate for Sustainable Tourism (CST) system, which grades hotels by their cultural and ecological sensitivity, such as level of energy efficiency.

Sign outside Orosi Lodge (see p205)

A warmly welcoming room at the upscale Four Seasons (see p208)

CHAIN HOTELS

Costa Rica's many chain hotels span a range of prices. The Enjoy Group offers several all-inclusive options, in which all meals, entertainment, and facilities are provided for a set room rate at its Fiesta beach resorts. International chains such as Best Western, Choice Hotels, and Quality Inn are well-represented in the low- and mid-range brackets. Occidental and Marriott offer reliable service and quality. Four Seasons represents the deluxe end.

Room cleaning and linen changing on a daily basis, and private bathrooms with showers are standard in most establishments, and all chain hotels have a restaurant and bar. However, visitors should be aware that standards among budget-oriented chain hotels vary considerably and may not conform to their equivalents in North America or Europe. The more expensive options usually offer a gourmet restaurant, gym, and casino or nightclub, and sometimes tour agency and boutique shops.

BOUTIQUE HOTELS

A pleasant and more unusual accommodation option is the range of intimate boutique hotels, which are characterized by a charming originality and hospitality. Ranging from upscale, family-run bed-and-breakfasts to architectural stunners in the midst of coffee plantations to beach hotels inspired by a Balinese aesthetic, these exquisite lodgings can be found throughout the country.

Capitán Suizo, one of Costa Rica's many boutique hotels (see p212)

Most of the boutique hotels are the creation of foreign entrepreneurs with artistic vision, and with few exceptions benefit from the owners' hands-on management. They are usually lower priced than many chain hotels of similar standard and represent excellent value. Many boutique hotels offer gourmet dining, a spa, and a range of activities and excursions.

WILDERNESS LODGES

Nature lovers can choose between more than 100 wilderness lodges in the country. The majority are located close to, or within, national parks and wildlife reserves, or otherwise offer immediate access to regions of natural beauty. Guided hikes and other wilderness-related activities are generally available at these lodges.

Accommodations range from basic to modestly upscale, although all have a degree of rusticity in common. The focus is on the nature experience, rather than the amenities offered. Several lodges have attained international fame; advance bookings are recommended for these. Many of the more simple lodges, including those located within indigenous reserves, are run by community cooperatives. These offer opportunities to appreciate local culture and experience nature from the local perspective. Cooprena is a promotion and booking agent representing many such ecolodges.

Bathroom in Shawandha Lodge at Puerto Viejo (see p215)

BUDGET HOTELS

The country has thousands of simple budget accommodations called cabinas, which cater to the mass of Tico (Costa Rican) travelers and backpackers. Usually the term refers to a row of hotel rooms, but it is used loosely and can cover a variety of accommodation types. Cabina is at times used interchangeably with albergue, hospedaje, or posada, three terms for "lodging." Albergue normally refers to simple rural lodges, and hospedaje and posada are usually akin to bed-and-breakfasts.

It is acceptable to ask to inspect rooms before taking them. Services and furnishings are minimal, and bathroom accouterments are usually limited to soap and towels; bring your own sink plug and wash cloth. Many cheaper cabinas require that visitors share bathrooms. Be prepared for cold water only; where hot water is available, it is typically heated by inefficient electric elements that can give you a shock if touched. You may be asked to place toilet paper in a basket to avoid blocking the toilet drain. Theft is a common problem in cabinas. Take a padlock, and check that doors and windows are secure and that there are no holes or cracks that can be used by peeping toms.

Several budget hotels operate as members of International Youth Hostel Federation (IYHF). Most are run to a very high standard and have clean, single-sex dormitories. Some also have co-ed dorms. Hostelling International Costa Rica is the representative of the IYHF in Costa Rica and can make reservations for hostels all over the country.

APARTOTELS AND MOTELS

Ticos are fond of apartotels, which are basic self-catering apartments with kitchens or kitchenettes and a small living and dining room; they are usually offered on long-term rentals. Rarely do they have restaurants or other facilities. San José has a large number of apartotels; they are also found in other towns and the major beach resorts.

Motels should not be confused with their North American or European equivalents. Found across the nation, they are no-frills places of convenience used mainly by lovers and rented by the hour. Overnight stays are usually permitted, even for singles. Occasionally they can prove useful at night in locations where few other options exist.

Corcovado Adventures Tent Camp, featuring furnished tents (see p216)

CAMPING

Visitors can camp in many of the national parks and wildlife refuges, including at ranger stations, where water, toilets, and occasionally showers are usually available. Some ranger stations prepare meals by arrangement; if not, carry your own provisions. A mosquito net and water-proof tent are also essential items to carry.

Outside the reserves, camping facilities are few except at major beach resorts. On weekends and public holidays, Tico families flock to beaches, where they camp on the sands. Avoid this illegal practice and restrict your camping to designated sites. Hammocks can be bought or rented and hung almost anywhere. Campers always need to beware of theft and should never leave items unguarded.

Casa de Las Tías (see p202), Escazú

Pool at Hotel Villa Caletas (see p207), of the Small Distinctive Hotels

HOTEL GROUPS

Several local hotel groups represent member hotels that market themselves jointly based on their similarities. Eight of the finest boutique hotels of the country form the Small Distinctive Hotels of Costa Rica. This group offers a distinctive ambience in their excellent accommodations, which are located in diverse regions ranging from the capital city to remote mountains and beaches. Small Unique Hotels is another group of six quality hotels situated in strategic spots around the country; all offer topnotch service. Several Swiss-and German-owned hotels are marketed under the Charming & Nature Hotels of Costa Rica umbrella.

SPECIALIZED LODGING

Many places cater for a specific activity. Several nature lodges, for instance, are dedicated exclusively to sportfishing, and offer all-inclusive packages. Usually these are in remote locations accessible solely by boat. Other resorts specialize in scuba diving, and offer diving lessons for beginners. Visitors planning more advanced diving will need to provide proof of their qualifications. Budget-oriented "surf camps" are often found at Costa Rica's many beaches. Some are quite sophisticated and offer various options, from outdoor dormitories with hammocks to private air-conditioned rooms. There are also plenty of health-oriented hotels, which range from rustic lodges to luxurious yoga retreats.

Many tour operators offer specialist tours for those interested in a particular activity (see p248). By far the largest focus is on nature tourism: packages usually include stays at wilderness lodges and pre-arranged hikes, birding, and similar nature excursions.

BOOKING

It is best to book your accommodation well ahead of your visit, particularly if you are traveling during the dry season (December–April). This is especially true around Christmas, New Year, and Easter, and during special local events, such as Carnival in Puerto Limón. Reservations are also recommended for travelers following a pre-planned route. Advance bookings for cabinas are not as critical except at the peak times.

Many hotels in Costa Rica have a reputation for not honoring reservations, and for not issuing refunds. It is, therefore, advisable to make reservations through a travel agency or tour operator. If making a booking yourself, never send your request by mail, as the postal service is unreliable. Instead, use the phone or fax, or book online using the hotel websites. If a deposit is required you can pay by credit card. In all cases, make sure that you obtain a written confirmation of your reservation.

Los Sueños Marriott Ocean & Golf Resort (see p208), set amid sprawling grounds in Playa Herradura

El Sano Banano Beach Hotel, part of Ylang Ylang Beach Resort (see p207)

PRICES AND PAYMENTS

Regardless of hotel type, prices will be higher in the dry season than in the wet season (May–November). The more expensive hotels usually charge an additional premium for the peak season, which is the Christmas–New Year holidays, as well as for Easter. Rates can also vary according to the type of room. Hotels that depend on business travelers often have reduced rates for weekends and long stays. Tour operators may also be able to offer special deals that you may find difficult to obtain yourself. Many hotels offer discount schemes, such as special rates for surfers.

A 16.39 percent tax is added to lodgings in tourist hotels. This is not always included in the advertised rate. Traveler's checks and credit cards are accepted in most hotels, with the exception of many budget hotels, which will only accept cash. Most places accept payment in US dollars.

TIPPING

It is customary to leave a propina (tip) for the hotel staff at the end of your stay. The amount will depend on the type and quality of service, as well as the length of your stay. Use your discretion. In general, it is normal to tip bellboys $1 and chambermaids $1 or more. Visitors should be aware that hotel wages among service staff in Costa Rica are often quite low and that tips in dollars often amount to a significant part of such workers' livelihoods.

DISABLED TRAVELERS

Only the more recently built hotels have access and purpose-built facilities for disabled travelers, including bathrooms with wheelchair access. Many wilderness lodges have level trails designed for wheelchairs. Hotel staff in all parts of Costa Rica will do everything they can to assist disabled travelers. Vaya con Silla de Ruedas (Go With Wheelchairs) provides services for disabled travelers, including recommendations for appropriate lodgings.

An executive suite at Hotel Grano de Oro (see p203) in San José

DIRECTORY

CHAIN HOTELS

Best Western

Tel 0800-011-0063.
www.bestwestern.com

Choice Hotels

Tel 0800-011-0517.
www.choicehotels.com

Enjoy Group

Tel 2296-6263.
www.enjoygroup.net

Four Seasons

Tel 2696-0000.
www.fourseasons.com/
costarica

Marriott

Tel 888-236-2427.
www.marriott.com

Occidental

Tel 2248-2323.
www.occidental-hoteles.com

Quality Inn

Tel 0800-011-0517.
www.qualityinn.com

WILDERNESS LODGES

Cooprena

Tel 2290-8646.
www.turismoruralcr.com

YOUTH HOSTELS

Hostelling International

Costa Rica
Ave 8 and Calle 41,
1002 San José.
Tel 2234-5486.
www.hihostels.com

HOTEL GROUPS

Charming & Nature Hotels of Costa Rica

www.charminghotels.net

Small Distinctive Hotels of Costa Rica

Tel 2258-0150.
www.distinctivehotels.
com

Small Unique Hotels

www.costarica-unique-hotels.com

DISABLED TRAVELERS

Vaya con Silla de Ruedas

Tel 2454-2810.
www.gowithwheelchairs.com

Choosing a Hotel

Most of the hotels and resorts in this guide have been selected across a wide price range for facilities, good value, and location. The prices listed are those charged by the hotel, although discounts may be available through agencies. The hotels are listed by area. For map references for San José, see pages 78–9.

PRICE CATEGORIES

For a standard double room per night in the tourist season, including tax and service:

- Under $25
- $25–40
- $40–80
- $80–140
- Over $140

SAN JOSÉ

CITY CENTER Casa Ridgway

Calle 15 and Aves 6 bis/8 Tel 2233-6168 Fax 2222-1400 Rooms 13

Map 2 E4

Located close to the Museo Nacional in downtown San José, Casa Ridgway is a peaceful hostel operated by a Quaker organization. With spacious dorms and private rooms, as well as a communal kitchen, this hostel is good value for money. Also on offer is a library and a TV lounge. www.amigosparalapaz.org

CITY CENTER Costa Rica Backpackers

Calles 21/23 and Ave 6 Tel 2221-6191 Rooms 16

Map 2 F4

On the eastern edge of downtown, this secure backpackers' hostel is run to high standards by French owners. It has both private rooms and dorms, plus a self-service kitchen, TV lounge, Internet rooms, and tour planning facilities. Its swimming pool is set in a lush garden. www.costaricabackpackers.com

CITY CENTER Hostel La Casa del Parque

Calles 19 and Ave 3 Tel 2233-3437 Fax 2258-7113 Rooms 4

Map 2 E2

This welcoming Costa Rican-run hostel, set in an art deco house in the northeastern corner of Parque Nacional, is convenient, has great views, and offers complimentary coffee, kitchen use, and storage. The owners are happy to arrange tours and car rentals on request. www.hostelcasadelparque.com

CITY CENTER Kap's Place

Calle 19 and Aves 11/13 Tel 2221-1169 Fax 2256-4850 Rooms 18

Map 2 E2

In a quiet locality close to Barrio Amón, this rambling converted home has a cozy family atmosphere and is enlivened by colorful decor. Each room is distinct, and some have TVs. Guests can use the kitchen, and a terrace garden has hammocks to laze in. Free Internet access is available. www.kapsplace.com

CITY CENTER Britannia Hotel

Calle 3 and Ave 11 Tel 2223-6667 Fax 2223-6411 Rooms 23

Map 1 C2

This restored mansion in Barrio Amón dates from 1910 and was built by a Spanish coffee baron. Stained-glass windows, mosaic tile floors, and period furnishings help create a warm atmosphere. A modern annex is similarly decorated and has lush courtyards. www.hotelbritanniacostarica.com

CITY CENTER Gran Hotel

Calle 3 and Ave 2 Tel 2221-4000 Fax 2255-0139 Rooms 94

Map 1 C4

Built in 1899, the Gran Hotel is considered a historic monument, and boasts a fabulous location for sightseeing. The lobby casino offers non-stop excitement. Open round the clock, the patio café is a great place to listen to marimba music and watch the world go by. www.granhotelcostarica.com

CITY CENTER Hotel Don Carlos

Calle 9 bis and Ave 9 Tel 2221-6707 Fax 2258-1152 Rooms 36

Map 2 D2

Located in the heart of Barrio Amón and once the residence of two former presidents, Don Carlos is a part of San José's heritage. Its maze of quiet corridors, decorated with artwork and pre-Columbian motifs, lead into garden settings. There is a splendid souvenir store. www.doncarloshotel.com

CITY CENTER Hotel Kekoldi

Calles 5/7 and Ave 9 Tel 2248-0804 Fax 2248-0767 Rooms 10

Map 2 D2

Decorated in bright pastels and saturated with sunlight, this Art Deco house enjoys a fine location in the heart of historic Barrio Amón. Its elegant rooms are well appointed, and it has a small private Japanese garden. Tours, transfers, and car rentals can be arranged. www.kekoldi.com

CITY CENTER Hotel Presidente

Calles 7/9 and Ave Central Tel 2222-3022 Fax 2221-1205 Rooms 100

Map 2 D4

Steps away from Plaza de la Cultura, this hotel has a casino, rooftop Jacuzzi and sauna, and an excellent street-front café and restaurant. The best suite in the house offers an eight-person Jacuzzi, an open-air shower, and spectacular views from oversized windows. www.hotel-presidente.com

CITY CENTER Hotel Santo Tomás

P H I I I TV $$$

Ave 7, Calles 3/5 Tel 2255-0448 Fax 2222-3950 Rooms 19

Map 1 A2

Located on the cusp between downtown and Barrio Amón, this former colonial mansion offers lodgings with tasteful furnishings and a peaceful ambience. Rooms vary widely in size. The adjoining restaurant is one of the city's best and opens onto a garden with a whirlpool spa. www.hotelsantotomas.com

CITY CENTER Clarion Hotel Amón Plaza

P H I I I I TV $$$

Calle 3 bis and Ave 11 Tel 2523-4600 Fax 2523-4614 Rooms 90

Map 2 C2

This modern hotel in Barrio Amón offers good service and excellent facilities. The elegant lobby is well appointed with objects of art. The hotel also has a disco, a conference center, a spa, and an upscale open-air roadside restaurant. All rooms have a wireless Internet connection. www.hotelamonplaza.com

CITY CENTER D'Raya Vida Villa

P TV $$$

Calle 15 bis and Ave 11 Tel 2223-4168 Fax 2223-4157 Rooms 4

Map 2 E2

This gracious Southern plantation-style mansion is now a bed-and-breakfast with stylish furnishings and splendid artwork. A quiet garden room with a fountain and a sunny, glass-enclosed den are ideal for relaxation. The hotel offers free transfers from the airport. www.rayavida.com

CITY CENTER Hotel Balmoral

P H I I I I TV $$$

Calles 7/9 and Ave Central Tel 2222-5022 Fax 2221-1919 Rooms 112

Map 2 D3

The modern Balmoral hotel is suitable for business travelers and tourists. The decor is uninspired, but it is located close to major sights and offers a wide range of services, including a business center and conference rooms. There is a casino for those who want to try their luck. www.balmoral.co.cr

CITY CENTER Hotel Fleur de Lys

H I I TV $$$

Calle 13 and Ave 2 Tel 2223-1206 Fax 2221-6310 Rooms 31

Map 2 E2

A quaint Swiss-run boutique hotel, this converted mansion is mere steps from the main sights in downtown San José. Each bedroom is named for a flower and individually styled, with either wicker or wrought-iron beds. Musicians perform live in the wood-paneled Italian restaurant. www.hotelfleurdeleys.com

CITY CENTER Hotel Villa Tournon

P H I I I I TV $$$

Barrio Tournon, E of "La Republica" Tel 2233-6622 Fax 2222-5211 Rooms 80

Map 2 D1

Located north of Barrio Amón, this modern hotel features modern artwork, polished hardwood floors, and rich fabrics in the guest rooms, all of which also have cable Internet connections. The piano bar and restaurant are excellent. A business center and conference rooms are also available. www.costarica-hotelvillatournon.com

CITY CENTER Hotel Aurola Holiday Inn

P H I I I I I TV $$$

Calle 5 and Ave 5 Tel 2523-1000 Fax 2255-1171 Rooms 200

Map 2 D3

The Aurola Holiday Inn is a 17-story, modern building on Parque Morazán. Some of its rooms have breathtaking views of volcanoes and the city. The hotel has a spacious, elegant lobby, as well as a casino, gym, and sauna. Also on offer are facilities for business travelers. www.aurola-holidayinn.com

CITY CENTER Radisson Europa Hotel and Conference Center

P H I I I I I TV $$$

Calle 3 and Ave 15 Tel 2257-3257 Fax 2257-8221 Rooms 210

Map 1 C1

This is a contemporary business hotel on the northern edge of downtown with international levels of service. The facilities on offer include a casino, gym, wireless high-speed Internet, six conference rooms, and shops. www.radisson.com/sanjoscer

EAST OF CITY CENTER Hostel Toruma

P H I TV $

Calles 29/31 and Ave Central Tel 2234-8186 Fax 2224-4085 Rooms 18

The residence of a former president of Costa Rica, this youth hostel is spotlessly clean and run to high standards. Both dormitories and private rooms are available. Breakfast is included, and there is a guest kitchen. There is also an Internet café and a travel desk to assist visitors. www.hosteltoruma.com

EAST OF CITY CENTER Hotel 1492 Jade y Oro

P & TV $$$

Calles 31/33 and Ave 1, No. 2985 Tel 2225-3752 Fax 2280-6206 Rooms 10

Named after the year that Columbus landed in the New World, this is a charming, atmospheric bed-and-breakfast hotel in a Colonial-style house. Setting Hotel 1492 apart are its personalized service, a cozy lounge with a fireplace, and wine and cheese served on a garden patio. www.hotel1492.com

EAST OF CITY CENTER Hotel Milvia

P H I TV $$$

NE of Centro Comercial M&N, San Pedro Tel 2225-4543 Fax 2225-7801 Rooms 9

Hotel Milvia is a small, intimate hotel housed in a 1930s wooden home in a quiet residential area. Sitting rooms and a tropical garden are great for relaxation. Hardwood floors, spacious rooms, and bathrooms featuring hand-painted decorative tilework add to its elegance. www.hotelmilvia.com

EAST OF CITY CENTER Boutique Hotel Jade

P H I I I TV $$$

N of Autos Subaru dealership, Barrio Dent Tel 2224-2455 Fax 2224-2166 Rooms 29

Close to the Universidad de Costa Rica, this two-story hotel has public areas boasting lively contemporary decor. It features a cigar bar and a superb restaurant (see p225). Each room has Internet access and a minibar. The hotel is a member of Small Unique Hotels of Costa Rica (see p198). www.hotelboutiquejade.com

EAST OF CITY CENTER Hôtel Le Bergerac

P H I & TV $$$

Calle 35, S of Ave Central Tel 2234-7850 Fax 2225-9103 Rooms 19

Set in a former colonial home in San Pedro, this hotel exudes a classical European aesthetic and has a fine French restaurant (see p225). Many of the spacious, wood-floored rooms have their own private garden patios. The hotel has a reputation for excellent service. www.bergerachotel.com

ESCAZÚ Apartotel María Alexandra

P H I & TV $$$

NW of El Cruce, San Rafael de Escazú Tel 2228-1507 Fax 2289-5192 Rooms 14

This offers modern apartments and twin-level units with elegant furnishings, close to the center of Escazú. The amenities include a swimming pool, sauna, fitness center, and mini-golf, as well as a travel agency, and Harley-Davidson authorized rentals for biking aficionados. www.marialexandra.com

ESCAZÚ Casa de Las Tías

P TV $$$

San Rafael de Escazú Tel 2289-5517 Fax 2289-7353 Rooms 5

This bed-and-breakfast is housed in a sprawling Victorian-style cedar house, set amidst lush gardens within walking distance of Escazú. The atmosphere is cozy and tranquil. The hosts are a delight and provide gourmet breakfasts. www.hotels.co.cr/casatias.html

ESCAZÚ Costa Verde Inn

P H I & TV $$$

Barrio Rosa Linda, San Miguel de Escazú Tel 2228-4080 Fax 2289-8591 Rooms 18

Polished hardwoods are a feature of this delightful bed-and-breakfast hotel, which has a cozy lounge warmed by a log fire. Each room is individually decorated. Guests can take relaxing swims in the pool, and the lush garden is perfect for lazing in a hammock. www.costaverdeinn.com

ESCAZÚ Out of Bounds Hotel & Tourist Center

P H I & TV $$$

Carretera John F. Kennedy, San Rafael de Escazú Tel 2288-6762 Fax 2288-5747 Rooms 5

Opened in 2007, this mid-range hotel on the road to Santa Ana offers spacious, contemporary-styled guest rooms with pine floors, split over two levels. Balconies offer magnificent views. The Italian-Canadian owners also provide a complete adventure-travel service. www.bedandbreakfastcr.com

ESCAZÚ Posada El Quijote

P TV $$$

Off Calle del Llano, San Miguel de Escazú Tel 2289-8401 Fax 2289-8729 Rooms 10

Exquisite gardens, complete with a brook running through them, and stupendous views through the floor-to-ceiling windows are the highlights of this contemporary hilltop hotel. Each of its eight rooms and two apartments has hand-crafted wood furniture and private baths. No children allowed. www.quijote.co.cr

ESCAZÚ Villa Escazú

P $$$

W of Banco Nacional, San Miguel de Escazú Tel 2289-7971 Fax 2289-7971 Rooms 6

This is a Swiss-style chalet with a veranda on three sides for great views. Surrounded by verdant gardens, it has a charming rustic atmosphere; log fires add to the cozy ambience inside. An upstairs veranda has rockers, and the studio apartment has a kitchen and TV. www.hotels.co.cr/vescazu.html

ESCAZÚ The Alta Hotel

P H I & TV $$$

Alto de las Palomas, 2 miles (3 km) W of Escazú Tel 2282-4160 Fax 2282-4162 Rooms 23

Set on a hillside with great views, this elegant hotel blends Colonial and contemporary styles. Graciously appointed rooms have deep Roman-style tubs. Its gourmet restaurant, La Luz (see p226), is considered one of the region's finest. www.thealthotel.com

ESCAZÚ Intercontinental Real Hotel & Club Tower

P H I & TV $$$

Autopista Prospero Fernández and Blvd Camino Real Tel 2208-2100 Fax 2208-2101 Rooms 372

This opulent hotel, 1 mile (1.6 km) west of San Rafael de Escazú, offers deluxe amenities and is popular with business travelers. The spa includes a beauty salon, fitness center, and swimming pool. A floodlit tennis court, shops, tour agency, and a business center are among its other amenities. www.ichotelsgroup.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Gaudy's Backpackers

P $$$

Calles 36/38 and Ave 5 Tel 2248-0086 Fax 2258-2937 Rooms 13

On a quiet residential street close to Paseo Colón, this clean backpackers' hostel is in a converted middle-class home. It has mixed dorms and private rooms with bathrooms. Also on offer are free tea and coffee, a lounge with cable TV, and a free Internet connection. There is no curfew. www.backpacker.co.cr

WEST OF CITY CENTER Mi Casa Hostel

P $$$

Calle 48, Sabana Norte Tel 2231-4700 Fax 2232-3928 Rooms 5

Housed in a beautiful modernist home in a quiet, upscale residential district, this backpackers' hostel boasts a well-lit co-ed dorm and a women's dorm, as well as private rooms. Guests also enjoy access to a TV lounge, pool table, Internet café, kitchen, and a lovely garden. www.micasahostel.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Apartotel La Sabana

P H I & TV $$$

Calle 44, N of Avenida las Américas Tel 2220-2422 Fax 2231-7386 Rooms 25

Located next to Parque Sabana, this modern apartotel offers rooms, studios, and apartments. As part of its Business Express service, it provides an office within the room, complete with ergonomic chair. Other amenities include babysitting services upon request and a sauna. www.apartotel-lasabana.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Hotel Cacts

P II 📺 📺 & $$$

Calles 28/30 and Ave 3 bis, No. 2845 Tel 2221-2928 Fax 2221-8616 Rooms 33

In a hilly residential area, this rambling hotel has ultra-clean rooms with simple decor; those in a modern annex are gloomy. Some rooms have shared bathrooms, while the deluxe rooms have TVs. Breakfast is served on a rooftop terrace. The hotel also has a travel service. www.hotelcacts.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Hotel Rosa del Paseo

P II 📺 📺 📺 $$$

Calles 28/30 and Paseo Colón Tel 2257-3225 Fax 2223-2776 Rooms 18

Facing onto Paseo Colón, this converted century-old Caribbean-Victorian stucco home has many historic features, such as Italian mosaic floors and old English furniture. Rooms are situated around two garden patios, and breakfast is served outside. There is also a crafts store. www.rosadelpaseo.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Best Western Irazú Hotel & Casino

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 $$$

Barrio La Uruca Tel 2290-9300 Fax 2520-2483 Rooms 214

Best Western Irazú is a comfortable modern hotel on the northwestern fringe of the city. Its amenities include tennis courts, a casino and bar, a travel agency, and a shopping mall. Shuttles connect the hotel to downtown and to the international airport. www.bestwesterncostarica.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Hotel Occidental Torremolinos

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 $$$

Ave 5 and Calle 6 Tel 2222-5266 Fax 2255-3167 Rooms 92

Close to Parque Sabana, this upscale two-story hotel is centered on a lush garden with swimming pool. The guest quarters have all modern conveniences and elegant furnishings. A courtesy bus shuttles guests to and from downtown San José. www.occidental-hoteles.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Hotel Parque del Lago

II 📺 📺 $$$

Calles 40/42 and Ave 2 Tel 2257-2000 Fax 2223-1617 Rooms 40

This is a well-kept modern establishment close to Parque Sabana. Popular with business travelers, it has an elegant bar-restaurant, and its public areas are decorated with tropical hardwoods, colonial tile work, and details from traditional Costa Rican architecture. www.parquedellago.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Quality Hotel Centro Colón

P II 📺 📺 📺 $$$

Calle 38 and Ave 3 Tel 2257-2580 Fax 2257-2582 Rooms 103

Located near Parque Sabana, this twin-tower high-rise hotel offers contemporary elegance. Amenities include a casino, nightclub, and coffee shop, as well as a tour agency, business center, and souvenir shop. www.hotelcentrocolon.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Crowne Plaza Corobicí

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 $$$

Autopista General Cañas, Sabana Norte Tel 2543-6000 Fax 2231-5834 Rooms 213

A landmark hotel with dramatic architecture and soaring atrium, this is popular with business travelers. The hotel has spacious rooms and abundant facilities including a casino, two restaurants and a bar, a travel agency, and a free shuttle service. www.crowneplaza.com

WEST OF CITY CENTER Hotel Grano de Oro

P II 📺 📺 📺 $$$

Calle 30 and Aves 2/4 Tel 2255-3322 Fax 2221-2782 Rooms 40

Combining exquisite decor and exemplary service with a peaceful location, this colonial-era mansion enjoys a loyal clientele. It has rooftop Jacuzzis and a splendid gourmet restaurant (see p226). Well managed by Canadian owners, it is a member of Small Distinctive Hotels of Costa Rica (see p198). www.hotelgranodeoro.com

THE CENTRAL HIGHLANDSALAJUELA Hotel II Millenium B&B

P 📺 📺 $$$

Río Segundo de Alajuela, 1 mile (1.6 km) SE of Alajuela Tel 2430-5050 Fax 2441-2365 Rooms 12

A favorite of backpackers, this simple but well-run, pleasant hostel has private rooms with baths as well as dorms. The owners offer a free 24-hour airport pickup service. The hotel also arranges day trips to nearby places of interest. Internet facilities are available. www.bbmilleniumcr.com

ALAJUELA Orquideas Inn

P II 📺 📺 📺 $$$

Cruce de Grecia y Poás, 2 miles (3 km) W of Alajuela Tel 2433-7128 Fax 2433-9740 Rooms 26

At the base of Volcán Poás, this atmospheric hacienda-style building sits in sprawling lush grounds. The comfortable rooms have brightly colored decor. Fountains feed the pool, which has a wooden sundeck. The bar draws its own clientele. www.orquideasinn.com

ALAJUELA Pura Vida Hotel

P II 📺 📺 $$$

Cruce de Tuetal Norte y Sur, 0.5 mile (1 km) N of Alajuela Tel 2430-2929 Fax 2430-2630 Rooms 7

Originally a coffee *finc*a (farm) set amid verdant hillside gardens, this family-run bed-and-breakfast has independent casitas (cottages) in distinct styles. The open-air restaurant serves gourmet meals, and the lobby has free Internet and Wi-Fi. The owners' dogs have the run of the place. www.puravidahotel.com

ALAJUELA Xandari

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷

Tacacori, 3 miles (5 km) N of Alajuela Tel 2443-2020 Fax 2442-4847 Rooms 21

A superb boutique hotel with visionary contemporary design set in its own coffee finca (farm) in the hills above Alajuela. Spacious guest villas have rippling ceilings, artwork, and fabulous views. Apart from a restaurant (see p227), the hotel boasts a holistic spa. Trails lead through bamboo groves to a waterfall. www.xandari.com

ATENAS El Cafetal Inn

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷

Santa Eulalia, 3 miles (5 km) N of Atenas Tel 2446-5785 Fax 2446-4850 Rooms 16

This friendly country inn is located on a coffee finca with nature trails. The spectacular two-story house with rounded glass corner alcoves overlooks the Rio Colorado valley and coffee and sugarcane fields. The live-in owners are charming conversationalists. Choose from rooms, cottages, or a two-story bungalow. www.cafetal.com

BAJOS DEL TORO Bosque de Paz Lodge

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷

9 miles (14 km) E of Zarcero Tel 2234-6676 Fax 2225-0203 Rooms 12

A two-story riverstone-and-timber building on the edge of the rainforest, this lodge has terra-cotta floors and wrought-iron beds. There is also a library with natural history books and research documents on the reserve. Meals are included in the price. Reservations are required. www.bosquedepaz.com

BAJOS DEL TORO El Silencio Lodge & Spa

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷

10 miles (16 km) E of Zarcero Tel 2761-0301 Fax 2761-0302 Rooms 16

The most luxurious nature lodge in Costa Rica, this gorgeous hotel opened in 2008. The lavishly appointed bungalows are eco-sensitive in every regard and offer fabulous views over lush rainforest. A holistic spa offers yoga, and the lounge has a cozy fireplace. www.elsilenciolodge.com

EL ROSARIO DE NARANJO Vista del Valle

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷

Calle Indio, El Rosario de Naranjo Tel 2450-0800 Fax 2451-1165 Rooms 22

Sitting right on the edge of the Rio Grande Canyon, this American-run boutique hotel has a beautiful main house and Japanese-style cottages, with individual porches; condo-villas have also been added. The rooms are well equipped and the hotel has its own reserve with a waterfall and plenty of wildlife. www.vistadelvalle.com

HEREDIA Casa Holanda

II 🍷 🍷

San Pablo de Heredia, 2 miles (3 km) E of Heredia Tel 2238-3241 Rooms 4

This bed-and-breakfast in a quiet residential area is run by classical musician James Holland, who offers impromptu concerts and private tours, in addition to gourmet meals served alfresco in a patio garden. The guest rooms are uniquely and tastefully furnished. www.casaholanda.com

HEREDIA Hotel Bougainvillea

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷

Santo Domingo de Heredia, 2 miles (3 km) SE of Heredia Tel 2244-1414 Fax 2244-1313 Rooms 81

This reasonably priced hotel is managed to high standards. Original pieces of specially commissioned modern art are scattered through the hotel. Rooms have views either of the mountains or of the San José skyline. The hotel offers tennis, swimming, and a jogging track, as well as a well-known restaurant (see p227). www.hb.co.cr

HEREDIA Finca Rosa Blanca Coffee Plantation & Inn

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷

Santa Barbara de Heredia, 4 miles (6 km) NW of Heredia Tel 2269-9392 Fax 2269-9555 Rooms 13

This fabulous family-run hotel on a coffee farm is an architectural delight inspired by Spanish architect Antoni Gaudí. Each guest room has unique decor and gourmet meals are served (see p227). Horseback rides, bungee jumping, and whitewater rafting can be arranged. www.fincarosablanca.com

LA GARITA Hotel La Rosa de América

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷

Barrio San José, 3 miles (5 km) W of Alajuela Tel 2433-2741 Fax 2433-2741 Rooms 12

Located at an elevation of 3,000 ft (915 m) between La Garita and Alajuela, La Rosa de América is an intimate, reasonably priced hotel. Rooms are available in cabins set amid lush gardens. The Canadian family who owns it keeps it spotlessly clean. www.larosadeamerica.com

LA GARITA Martino Resort & Spa

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷 🍷

Hwy 3, 2 miles (3 km) E of Pan-Am Hwy Tel 2433-8382 Fax 2433-9052 Rooms 42

Manicured lawns, sumptuous hardwoods, and Romanesque-style statuary are hallmarks of this gracious family-run hotel. Facilities include a casino, tennis court, a modern gym and full-service spa, and a cigar bar and gourmet restaurant (see p228). www.hotelmartino.com

LOS ANGELES CLOUD FOREST RESERVE Villablanca Cloud Forest Hotel

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷

Los Angeles, 7 miles (12 km) N of San Ramón Tel 2401-3800 Fax 2461-0302 Rooms 35

Perched atop the Continental Divide at the edge of a cloud forest, this colonial-era farmstead offers charming cottages warmed by log fires. Horseback rides, hikes, and bird-watching tours over 5 sq miles (12 sq km) of dairy pasture and cloud forest are a specialty. www.villablanca-costarica.com

MONTE DE LA CRUZ Hotel Chalet Tiro

P II 🍷 🍷 🍷

6 miles (10 km) NE of Heredia Tel 2267-6222 Fax 2267-6373 Rooms 34

Designed in the style of a Swiss alpine village, this mountain retreat has a fine restaurant (see p228). Choose from modern hotel rooms or rustic yet cozy chalets. Trails lead into cloud forest, and its facilities include tennis courts, a sauna, and meeting and convention facilities. www.eltirol.net

OROSI Orosi Lodge

P II III $$$

SW of the plaza, Orosi village Tel 2533-3578 Fax 2533-3578 Rooms 6

This simple yet charming family-run hotel is a minute's walk from hot spring pools, and is well placed for other local attractions such as Casa el Soñador. It offers rooms with kitchenettes, private baths, and terraces. It is known for its excellent café, which also has Internet facilities (see p228). www.orosilodge.com

OROSI Rancho Río Perlas Spa & Resort

P II III IV $$$

1 mile (1.6 km) W of Orosi Tel 2533-3341 Fax 2533-3085 Rooms 69

Surrounded by lush gardens, the secluded valley setting is a plus point for this modern chain hotel resembling a village complete with chapel. Thermal waters feed the pool and spa. Fishing outings to the five ponds in the surrounding area can be organized for keen anglers. www.rioperlasspaandresort.com

POÁS Siempre Verde Bed & Breakfast

P II III IV $$$

Doka Estate, 7 miles (11 km) N of Alajuela Tel 2449-5562 Fax 2239-0540 Rooms 4

Scenically situated within a vast coffee plantation, this warm, friendly hotel is a peaceful retreat from the bustle of the cities. Siempre Verde provides breakfast, as well as meals for special events such as conferences and private parties. www.siempreverdebandb.com

SALISPUEDES Finca Eddie Serrano

P II III $$$

Km 80 on the Pan-Am Hwy Tel 8381-8456 or 2200-5915 Rooms 16

Quetzals are found in plenty at Finca Eddie Serrano (see p96), also known as Albergue Mirador de Quetzales. Located near Genesis II, this rustic timber lodge has simple log cabins offering awesome views, and is perfect for keen birders. The rates include breakfast and dinner. www.elmiradordequetzales.com

SAN ANTONIO DE BELÉN Costa Rica Marriott

P II III IV V $$$

Ribera de Belén, 1 mile (1.6 km) E of San Antonio de Belén Tel 2298-0000 Fax 2298-0011 Rooms 290

This deluxe hotel set amid coffee fields boasts a sensational location with splendid views toward the Talamanca mountains. Guest rooms are sumptuous, and the well-rounded facilities include swimming pool, gym, boutiques, and a choice of restaurants. www.marriotthotels.com

SAN GERARDO DE DOTA Trogon Lodge

P II $$$

5 miles (8 km) W of the Pan-Am Hwy Tel 2293-8181 Fax 2239-7657 Rooms 23

Situated amid lush gardens at an elevation of 7,000 ft (2,135 m) in the Valle de San Gerardo, this wooden lodge enjoys a marvelous setting next to the clear waters of Río Savegre. It offers trout fishing, as well as hiking, horseback rides, and mountain biking, plus a zipline. www.grupomawamba.com

SAN GERARDO DE DOTA Dantica Lodge & Gallery

P II III IV $$$

2.5 miles (4 km) S of reserve entrance Tel 2740-1067 Fax 2740-1071 Rooms 10

With its own private trails within the cloud forest, this colonial-style lodge has bungalows with modern interiors and large glass windows offering stunning views over the surrounding canopy. The forest is rich in bird species, and the lodge has all mod cons, as well as its own gallery of indigenous crafts. www.dantica.com

TURRIALBA Hotel Villa Florencia

P II III IV $$$

4 miles (6 km) SE of Turrialba Tel 2557-3536 Fax 2556-2372 Rooms 11

Opened in 2008, this converted villa is an excellent option for bird-watchers, given its hilltop setting overlooking sugarcane fields close to Lake Angostura. The spacious guest rooms feature such details as terracotta tiles and river stones. www.villaflorencia.com

TURRIALBA Hotel Casa Turire

P II III IV $$$

Hacienda Atirro, 5 miles (8 km) SE of Turrialba Tel 2531-1111 Fax 2531-1075 Rooms 16

Situated on the shores of Lake Angostura, this delightful boutique hotel has spacious rooms and an elegant restaurant (see p229). Activities include visits to sugarcane, coffee, and macadamia nut processing centers. It is a member of Small Distinctive Hotels of Costa Rica (see p198). www.hotelcasaturire.com

TURRIALBA Rancho Naturalista

P II $$$

Tuis, 9 miles (14 km) E of Turrialba Tel 2544-8100 Fax 2544-8101 Rooms 11

Perched on a mountainside, this homely wilderness ranch run by Evangelicals, is considered one of the finest birding lodges in the country. They have an extensive trail system and resident guides. Visitors can choose between cottages or rooms. Meals and guided hikes are included in the price. www.ranchonaturalista.net

VARA BLANCA Poás Volcano Lodge

P II III $$$

14 miles (22 km) N of Alajuela Tel 2482-2194 Fax 2482-2513 Rooms 11

Remodeled after being damaged by the 2009 earthquake, this cozy family-run hotel stands amid cattle pastures with stupendous views. Guests are offered log fires and down comforters. There is also a games room, a gift shop, a small library, and an art gallery. www.poasvolcanolodge.com

VARA BLANCA Peace Lodge

P II III IV $$$

Montaña Azul, 15 miles (24 km) N of Alajuela Tel 2482-2720 Fax 2482-2720 Rooms 17

Located at the La Paz Waterfall Gardens, the lodge's dramatic deluxe decor includes natural wood beams, hardwood flooring, hand-crafted canopy beds, fireplaces, and garden bathrooms and riverstone showers in spacious rooms. Each room boasts a Jacuzzi and oversized balcony. www.waterfallgardens.com

VOLCÁN TURRIALBA Volcán Turrialba Lodge

P II III & $$$

12 miles (19 km) NW of Turrialba Tel 2273-4335 Fax 2273-0703 Rooms 22

This simple mountain lodge is situated between Turrialba and Irazú Volcanoes, perfect for horseback rides and hiking. Of particular interest is the Volcán Turrialba Tour, a unique opportunity to descend to the floor of a major volcanic crater. A 4WD is required to access the lodge. www.volcanturrialbalodge.com

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN NICOYAESTERILLOS Xandari by the Pacific

P II III IV & $$$$$

Esterillos Este, 10 miles (16 km) S of Jacó Tel 2778-7070 Fax 2778-7878 Rooms 21

A twin to the superb Xandari in Alajuela (see p204), this beachside property has gorgeous contemporary villas fronting a sweeping gray-sand beach, although many guests prefer to laze on their terraces or by the pool. The garden is studded with contemporary sculptures. Organic meals are served. www.xandari.com

JACÓ Hotel Cocal and Casino

P II III IV $$$

Calle Cocal Tel 2643-3067 Fax 2643-0036 Rooms 43

Conveniently located, this is a lively low-rise beachfront hotel. With two swimming pools and a poolside bar, an open-air restaurant that serves good international cuisine, and a casino, the hotel is popular with small tour groups. Children are not allowed. www.hotelcocalandcasino.com

JACÓ Hotel Poseidon

P II III IV TV $$$

Calle Bohío Tel 2643-1642 Rooms 14

The gourmet restaurant (see p229) is the highlight of this two-story hotel with modest furnishings. The upstairs rooms are better. All rooms have minibars and Wi-Fi, and some have ceiling fans instead of air-conditioning. The hotel can arrange tours and activities. www.hotel-poseidon.com

JACÓ Vista Guapa Surf Camp

P III IV $$$

1 mile (1.6 km) NW of Jacó Tel 2643-2830 Rooms 6

Set on a hillside, this surfers' hotel has simply but comfortably furnished bungalows, with great views of the ocean. Guests can watch TV in the communal lounge. While there is no restaurant as such, breakfast and dinner are available in the main house. The hotel specializes in surfing packages. www.vistaguapa.com

JACÓ Hotel Club del Mar

P II III IV TV $$$$$

Hwy 34, 1 mile (1.6 km) S of Jacó Tel 2643-3194 Fax 2643-3550 Rooms 31

This upscale beachfront hotel has rooms and self-catering villas around a huge pool with a tapas bar. There is a lush garden, an open-air restaurant, and a full-service spa. The focus is on water sports, with swimming, surfing, and canoeing on offer. Kayaks can also be rented. www.clubdelmarcostarica.com

MALPAÍS Malpaís Surf Camp & Resort

P II III IV TV $

S of Carmen Tel 2640-0031 Fax 2640-0061 Rooms 16

This well-run surfers' camp has several types of accommodations, from camping and cabins with shared bathrooms to poolside rooms and rustic bungalows with their own facilities. It offers various forms of recreation, such as horseback riding, mountain biking, and surf fishing, as well as surfing tours. www.malpaissurfcamp.com

MALPAÍS Hotel Milarepa

P II III IV & $$$$$

Playa Santa Teresa, 3 miles (5 km) N of Carmen Tel 2640-0023 Fax 2640-0663 Rooms 4

This intimate beachfront hotel is operated by live-in French owners. With an Asian aesthetic, the bungalows sit on the sands and have antique four-poster beds, open, screened walls, and partly open-air bathrooms. The restaurant serves gourmet cuisine. www.milarepahotel.com

MALPAÍS Moana Lodge

P II III IV TV $$$

2 miles (3 km) S of Carmen Tel 2640-0230 Fax 2640-0623 Rooms 10

Beautifully decorated according to an African safari theme, Moana Lodge offers log cabins and lavish suites that nestle right at the forest's edge. Huge showers are a highlight, and all lodgings have Wi-Fi. The gourmet open-air restaurant overlooks a landscaped pool. www.moanalodge.com

MALPAÍS Star Mountain Eco-Resort

P II III $$$

1 mile (1.6 km) E of Malpaís Tel 2640-0101 Fax 2640-0102 Rooms 5

A family-run ecological lodge, Star Mountain Eco-Resort is surrounded by forests adjoining Parque Nacional Cabo Blanco. Highlights are the colorful decor and a delightful tropical ambience. The hotel's open-air restaurant looks over lush grounds that meld into the lodge's own forest reserve. www.starmountaineco.com

MALPAÍS Florblanca Resort

P II III IV TV $$$$$

Playa Santa Teresa, 3 miles (5 km) N of Carmen Tel 2640-0232 Fax 2640-0226 Rooms 10

A serene beachfront deluxe resort with a Balinese motif. Spacious villas feature bathrooms open to the sky and tasteful furnishings, while the alfresco Nectar Bar & Restaurante offers gourmet food (see p229). Guests can learn yoga and martial arts. A member of Small Distinctive Hotels of Costa Rica (see p198). www.florblanca.com

PLAYA HERRADURA Los Sueños Marriott Ocean & Golf Resort P II ☰ ♿ ♻️ 📺 📺 $$$$$1 mile (1.6 km) W of Hwy 34 Tel 2630-9000 Fax 2630-9090 Rooms 201

This grand beachfront hotel boasts a marina, a golf course in the lap of nature, a casino, business facilities, and a choice of restaurants (see p230). Tastefully done-up suites have superb views of the ocean and mountains surrounding the resort, as well as minibars and 24-hour service. www.marriott.com/sjols

PLAYA HERRADURA Zephyr Palace P II ☰ ♿ ♻️ 📺 📺 $$$$$2 miles (3 km) N of Playa Herradura Tel 2637-0505 Fax 2637-0404 Rooms 12

The country's most luxurious hotel enjoys the same sublime views as the adjoining Hotel Villa Caletas (see p207). Inspired throughout by the grandeur of Imperial Rome, Zephyr Palace offers sumptuous suites on a range of themes, including African safari and Ancient Egypt. www.zephyrpalace.com

PUNTARENAS Hotel Tioga P II ☰ ♻️ 📺 📺 $$$$Calles 17/19 and Ave 4 Tel 2661-0271 Fax 2661-0127 Rooms 52

Established in 1959, this venerable hotel facing the Gulf of Nicoya is close to several good restaurants and bars. Rooms are adequate rather than inspired; some have only cold water. Hotel Tioga has a small casino, and the enclosed pool in the atrium courtyard has an island with a large tree. www.hoteltioga.com

PUNTARENAS Doubletree Resort by Hilton Puntarenas P II ☰ ♿ ♻️ 📺 📺 $$$$$Playa Puntarenas, 5 miles (8 km) E of Puntarenas Tel 2663-0808 Fax 2663-0856 Rooms 230

This lively beach resort has a casino and several pools, bars, and restaurants. Sports facilities include tennis, volleyball, mini-golf, and water sports. Also on offer are live entertainment at night and a kids' club. The resort has stylish guest rooms and gets crowded on weekends. www.doubletree1.hilton.com

QUEPOS Wide Mouth Frog P ☰ ♻️ 📺 $100 yards (100 m) E of the bus station Tel 2777-2798 Rooms 24

British and New Zealand partners run this highly regarded backpackers' hostel in the heart of Quepos. Maintained to high standards, Wide Mouth Frog has tastefully decorated dorms and private rooms around a courtyard with pool. Facilities include an Internet station and self-catering kitchen. www.widemouthfrog.org

SAVEGRE Rafiki Safari Lodge ☰ P II ☰ $$$$$19 miles (30 km) SE of Quepos Tel 2777-2250 Fax 2777-5327 Rooms 10

Set in a deep river valley, this African-style lodge has luxurious safari tents with fully appointed bathrooms. The lodge offers nature trips, as well as kayaking and whitewater rafting. A highlight is its South African braai (barbecue) in a thatched open-air restaurant. www.rafikisafari.com

TAMBOR Tambor Tropical P II ☰ $$$$$0.5 (1 km) SW of the airstrip Tel 2683-0011 Fax 503-371-2471 Rooms 20

A modern beachside hotel, Tambor Tropical features hexagonal two-story hardwood cabins in tranquil landscaped grounds. The hotel offers a spa and yoga classes. Among the many activities available for guests are boat trips, sportfishing, and horseback riding. www.tambortropical.com

TAMBOR Tango Mar Resort P II ☰ ♻️ 📺 📺 $$$$$3 miles (5 km) SW of Tambor Tel 2683-0001 Fax 2683-0003 Rooms 35

Tango Mar boasts a cliffside setting overlooking a splendid beach. Choose from amongst modern hotel rooms, romantic thatched cabins, and villas. The resort has a nine-hole golf course, stables, and a yoga and spa center, as well as a choice of two restaurants. www.tangomar.com

GUANACASTE AND NORTHERN NICOYABAHÍA CULEBRA Four Seasons Resort at Papagayo Peninsula P II ☰ ♿ ♻️ 📺 📺 $$$$$Punta Mala, 27 miles (43 km) W of Liberia Tel 2696-0000 Fax 2696-0510 Rooms 155

Visitors get the best of all worlds at this deluxe chain resort: a fabulous hilltop location, excellent facilities, and fine service. It offers three swimming pools, a full-service spa, tennis, and a championship golf course designed by Arnold Palmer. www.fourseasons.com/costarica

BAHÍA SALINAS Eco-Playa Resort P II ☰ ♻️ 📺 📺 $$$$$Playa La Coyotera, 10 miles (16 km) W of La Cruz Tel 2228-7146 Fax 2289-4536 Rooms 36

Home to an advanced windsurfing center, this beachfront resort has a windswept location and spacious, well-appointed rooms. Guests can visit nearby Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Isla Bolaños by kayak or boat. Also on offer are tours to Nicaragua's colonial cities and to Lake Nicaragua. www.ecoplaya.com

CAÑAS Hacienda La Pacifica P II ☰ ♻️ 📺 📺 $$$$$2.5 miles (4 km) N of Cañas Tel 2669-6050 Rooms 19

This historic property is situated at the heart of a working cattle estate and reforestation project. Oak furnishings evoke a suitably rustic feel, but guests rooms have Wi-Fi and cable TV, although the beds are far from comfortable. A homey restaurant serves traditional fare. www.pacificacr.com

ISLITA Hotel Punta Islita

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺

Punta Islita, 10 miles (16 km) S of Carrillo Tel 2231-6122 Fax 2232-2183 Rooms 32

This remote hillside deluxe hotel provides a variety of accommodations. Most of them have canopy beds and great views. The hotel has the gourmet 1492 Restaurante (see p231), a spa, and a beach club, and offers kayaking, canoe tours, and an ATV adventure ride along mountain trails. www.hotelpuntaislita.com

LIBERIA Best Western Hotel & Casino El Sitio

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺

Hwy 21, W of Pan-Am Hwy Tel 2666-1211 Fax 2666-2059 Rooms 52

This modern hotel has spacious rooms around an atmospheric courtyard with two pools. It also has gift stores, a tour desk, and a casino for those who wish to try their luck. It is the perfect jumping-off point for visiting Pacific beaches, national parks, and volcanoes. www.bestwestern.com

LIBERIA Bed & Breakfast El Punto

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺

1 mile (1.6 km) S of Liberia Tel 2665-2986 Rooms 6

Owner Mariana Estreda has transformed a former school into a cleverly designed boutique hotel with lively color schemes and contemporary furnishings. Shaded balconies face a lush garden, and there is also a stylish restaurant. An on-site spa is due to open soon. www.elpuntohotel.com

MONTEVERDE Pensión Santa Elena

📺 📺 📺 📺

Santa Elena, E of bus stop Tel 2645-5051 Fax 2645-5051 Rooms 24

In the heart of Santa Elena, this popular and friendly budget hotel appeals to backpackers. Bright and inviting private rooms, deluxe rooms, and budget dorms are available. The hotel offers a short cut tour to Volcán Arenal, and also has a tourist information bureau. www.pensionsantaelena.com

MONTEVERDE Arco Iris Lodge

P 📺 📺 📺

Santa Elena, NE of bus stop Tel 2645-5067 Fax 2645-5022 Rooms 12

Albergue Arco Iris is a superbly run budget hotel in the center of Santa Elena. Amid well-tended lawns are a dozen delightful stone-and-timber cottages built by craftsmen using locally available material. The hotel is well placed for both the Monteverde and Santa Elena Reserves. www.arcoirislodge.com

MONTEVERDE El Sapo Dorado

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺

Cerro Plano, 0.5 mile (1 km) E of Santa Elena Tel 2645-5010 Fax 2645-5180 Rooms 30

This hillside hotel has accommodations in lovely stone-and-timber cottages. Some suites offer the coziness of a fireplace, while others have open-air terraces overlooking the Gulf of Nicoya. El Sapo Dorado also boasts one of Monteverde's premier restaurants (see p232). www.sapodorado.com

MONTEVERDE Monteverde Lodge

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺

SE of Santa Elena Tel 2257-0766 Fax 2257-1665 Rooms 27

A contemporary hotel set in exquisite gardens at the edge of Costa Rica's best-known cloud forest, Monteverde Lodge offers spacious rooms, a family-size Jacuzzi, and fine dining. Operated by Costa Rica Expeditions, it specializes in birding and nature hikes. www.costaricaexpeditions.com

NOSARA Hotel Café de Paris

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺

Beaches of Nosara, 4 miles (6 km) S of the airstrip Tel 2682-0087 Fax 2682-0089 Rooms 17

What started as a great French-run bakery has expanded into an open-air restaurant, bar, and hotel featuring a range of accommodations. The architecture of the hotel makes the most of the tropical breezes. A selection of activities is available. www.cafedeparis.net

NOSARA Lagarta Lodge

P II 📺 📺 📺

Punta Nosara, 2 miles (3 km) S of Boca Nosara Tel 2682-0035 Fax 2682-0135 Rooms 6

A Swiss-run hilltop hotel whose main appeal lies in the wonderful coast or hill vista that every room offers, as well as the restaurant and bar. Rooms are comfortable, although uninspired. Trails lead into Reserva Biológica Nosara, and canoeing, and bird- and turtle-watching trips are offered. www.lagarta.com

NOSARA Harmony Hotel

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺

Playa Guiones, Beaches of Nosara Tel 2682-4113 Fax 2682-4114 Rooms 24

This hotel is located just a stone's throw from the beach and has a hip contemporary aesthetic. It offers a choice of rooms and bungalows with Wi-Fi and colorful furnishings. The landscaped pool is set in lush grounds, and activities such as tennis and yoga are available. www.harmonynosara.com

NOSARA L'Acqua Viva Hotel & Spa

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺

2 miles (3 km) S of Boca Nosara Tel 2682-1087 Fax 2682-0420 Rooms 35

This fashionable Indonesian-themed resort opened in 2009 in the midst of a forest a 15-minute walk from the beach. Soaring thatched structures include a dramatic main lodge overlooking a multilevel swimming pool. Oriental furnishings abound throughout. www.lacquaviva.com

PLAYA AVELLANAS JW Marriott Guanacaste Resort & Spa

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺

Hacienda Pinilla, 3 miles (5 km) S of Tamarindo Tel 2681-2000 Fax 2681-2001 Rooms 310

The Marriott chain opened this deluxe hotel in 2009 at the heart of a residential complex with a championship golf course. Sumptuous throughout, the Guanacaste Resort exudes an atmosphere of pampered comfort. Facilities include a spa, gym, tennis, and stables. www.marriott.com

PLAYA OSTIONAL Tree Tops Bed & Breakfast

San Juanillo, 3 miles (5 km) N of Ostional Tel 2682-1334 Fax 2682-1334 Rooms 1

The owners rent out one sparsely furnished room in their thatched home overlooking a cove surrounded by wildlife-rich forest. Guests are welcomed as family, and the meals served are delicious. Activities include swimming with turtles, riding, and sportfishing. treetopscostarica@gmail.com

PLAYAS DEL COCO Café de Playa Beach & Dining Club

600 yards (600 m) E of the village center Tel 2670-1621 Rooms 5

Guests at this deluxe boutique hotel can enjoy the best of all worlds: a beachfront locale, a gourmet restaurant, a sushi bar, a canopy-shaded swimming pool, and hip contemporary furnishings in the individually styled bedrooms. A Hobie-Cat takes guests out on the bay. www.cafedeplaya.com

PLAYAS DEL COCO Hotel Puerta del Sol

SE of the plaza Tel 2293-8109 Fax 2239-3733 Rooms 22

Decorated in warm tropical pastels, this small, intimate hotel is run with panache by its Italian owners. It is acclaimed for Sol y Luna, its open-air gourmet restaurant (see p.233). Just a few minutes away from Playas del Coco fishing village, the hotel offers diving, sportfishing, and boat tours. www.bbpuertadelsol.com

PLAYAS DEL COCO Rancho Armadillo

1 mile (1.6 km) SE of Playas del Coco Tel 2670-0108 Fax 2670-0441 Rooms 6

This hacienda-style hotel offers a tranquil setting amid expansive grounds. There is delightful decor in the spacious rooms, all of which have "rainforest" showers. The owner, a former chef, prepares meals by request and rents out the entire complex to groups. www.ranchoarmadillo.com

RINCÓN DE LA VIEJA Aroma de Campo

Curubandé, 11 miles (18 km) E of Pan-Am Hwy Tel 2665-0008 Fax 2665-0011 Rooms 4

The Belgian owners of this charming hillside hotel, dramatically located at the base of the Rincón de la Vieja volcano, pamper guests with gourmet meals served on an open-air patio. Furnishings are simple yet colorful and romantic. Friendly dogs and other animals abound. www.aromadecampo.com

RINCÓN DE LA VIEJA Buena Vista Mountain Lodge & Adventure Center

17 miles (27 km) NE of Liberia via Cañas Dulces Tel 2665-7759 Fax 2665-7759 Rooms 80

This ecolodge, a former cattle ranch, is known for the range of activities it offers, including a water slide and canopy trail. Accommodation is in stone-and-timber cabins, and a rustic open-air restaurant serves típico (typical) meals, made using the lodge's own produce. www.buenavistalodge.com

RINCÓN DE LA VIEJA Hacienda Lodge Guachipelín

14 miles (22 km) NE of Liberia via Curubandé Tel 2666-8075 Fax 2665-2178 Rooms 40

At the center of a working cattle and horse farm, this down-to-earth, cozy hotel is perfectly situated for exploring Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja on horseback. The hotel's wide, inviting verandas are great for spending a somnolent afternoon. There are many activities on offer. www.guachipelin.com

RINCÓN DE LA VIEJA Rincón de la Vieja Lodge

17 miles (27 km) NE of Liberia via Curubandé Tel 2200-0238 Fax 2666-2441 Rooms 22

Close to the park entrance, and the nearest hotel to the volcano, this nature lodge has rustic wooden dorms, cabins, and bungalows spread throughout landscaped grounds. About 70 percent of the lodge's vast grounds are part of a reserve. The rates include meals.

SÁMARA Flying Crocodile Lodge

Playa Buena Vista, 5 miles (8 km) N of Sámara Tel 2656-8048 Fax 2656-8049 Rooms 8

One of Costa Rica's most eclectic hotels, the German-run Flying Crocodile Lodge doubles as an ultralight flight center. The cabins, each distinct, are bold statements of artsy design infused with Moroccan, Indian, and other exotic influences. www.flying-crocodile.com

SÁMARA Hotel Belvedere

Playa Sámara, NE of soccer field Tel 2656-0213 Fax 2656-0213 Rooms 12

This cozy hotel on the hillside, close to the beach, has Swiss-style chalets, some with air-conditioning and king-size beds. The lush gardens contain a Jacuzzi and a swimming pool, which look out on to the ocean. Breakfast, included in the rate, is served on the terrace. www.belvederesamara.net

SÁMARA Hotel Casa del Mar

Playa Sámara, E of soccer field Tel 2656-0264 Fax 2656-0129 Rooms 17

This small, two-story bed-and-breakfast is run to high standards by its French-Canadian owners. The rooms have simple furnishings. There are hammocks and lounge chairs for relaxing in the tropical garden or by the Jacuzzi. Nearby is a 5-mile (8-km) long beach for quiet walks. www.casadelmarsamara.net

SANTA CRUZ Hotel La Calle de Alcalá

SE of Plaza de los Mangos Tel 2680-0000 Fax 2680-1633 Rooms 29

Hotel La Calle de Alcalá is an intimate modern hotel with delightful decor and an appealing open-air bar and restaurant. The air-conditioned rooms have attached bathrooms. Among the amenities it offers are a swimming pool and Jacuzzi, and two conference rooms. hotelalcala@hotmail.com

TAMARINDO Hostel La Botella de Leche

Across from the gym, Tamarindo Tel 2653-2061 Fax 2653-0189 Rooms 12

This hostel for surfers and backpackers offers exceptional value for money. Guests can choose from dorms or private rooms. There is a communal kitchen, lockers, and Internet access, and surfboard rental is offered. www.labotelladeleche.com

TAMARINDO Hotel Arco Iris

E of Parque Central Tel 2653-0330 Fax 2653-0330 Rooms 5

New owners have infused this formerly offbeat hotel with a dynamic 21st-century look, including stone-walled bathrooms. The highlights are a wood-and-tone sundeck and a gourmet restaurant serving Mediterranean-inspired cuisine. www.hotelarcoiris.com

TAMARINDO Luna Llena

SE of Iguana Surf Tel 2653-0082 Fax 2653-0120 Rooms 13

This brightly colored, intimate hotel is run to professional standards by its Italian owners. Stone pathways run between conical thatched cottages, whose comfortable rooms exude good taste. All the cottages have private bathrooms. www.hotellunallena.com

TAMARINDO Cala Luna Hotel & Villas

1 mile (1.6 km) W of central Tamarindo Tel 2653-0214 Fax 2653-0213 Rooms 41

Rich earth colors and polished hardwoods grace this deluxe hotel with a New Mexico theme. Guests can choose to stay in rooms or villas. Each room has a patio terrace. The villas have their own private pool, parking, and kitchen. Typical Guanacastecan cuisine (see p223) is on offer in the restaurant. www.calaluna.com

TAMARINDO Capitán Suizo

0.5 mile (1 km) SW of Plaza Colonial Tel 2653-0075 Fax 2653-0292 Rooms 31

This luxurious beachfront hotel is set in lush gardens that have a free-form swimming pool. The elegant rooms use plenty of natural stone and hardwood. The open-air restaurant is one of the area's finest (see p234). The hotel is a member of Small Distinctive Hotels of Costa Rica (see p198). www.hotelpitansuizo.com

TAMARINDO Sueño del Mar Bed & Breakfast

Playa Langosta, 0.5 mile (1 km) S of Tamarindo Tel 2653-0284 Fax 2653-0558 Rooms 6

This colonial-era home has been converted into a gracious family-run bed-and-breakfast. Rooms boast timber beams, terra-cotta tiles, and exquisite furnishings. Delicious breakfasts are served in the garden, which opens onto the beach. www.sueno-del-mar.com

TAMARINDO Tamarindo Diría

E of Plaza Colonial Tel 2653-0031 Fax 2653-0208 Rooms 182

With a beachfront location in the center of Tamarindo, this upscale resort has a beautiful aesthetic. The restaurant is set under a tall matapalo tree on Tamarindo beach. The hotel also has two bars and a small casino. Among other activities, it offers tennis, golf, turtle-watching, and jungle boat rides. www.hoteltamarindodiria.com

TILARÁN Hotel El Sueño

N of the plaza Tel 2695-5347 Fax 2695-5347 Rooms 15

This is a clean, well-run hotel with a friendly ambience and no-frills rooms at bargain prices. It is well placed as a pleasant stop en route to and from Laguna de Arenal. Rooms, all on the second floor, surround a skylit courtyard. No meals are offered, but there's a restaurant below.

THE NORTHERN ZONE

BIJAGUA Celeste Mountain Lodge

3 miles (5 km) NE of Bijagua Tel 2278-6628 Fax 2278-6628 Rooms 18

This French-run ecolodge has a dramatic contemporary design, with open walls angled for shade. Rooms with walls of louvered glass guarantee vistas of both Tenorio and Miravalles volcanoes. The lodge also has a whirlpool. A special rickshaw allows handicapped guests to explore mountain trails. www.celestemountainlodge.com

CAÑO NEGRO Hotel de Campo Caño Negro

NW of Caño Negro village Tel 2471-1012 Fax 2471-1490 Rooms 14

This sportfishing lodge on the edge of Lago Caño Negro has spacious modern cabins set in a former citrus orchard. In addition to sportfishing packages, the lodge offers horseback tours and nature excursions. A souvenir shop is located on the grounds, and fishing tackle is available for sale. www.canonegro.com

CHACHAGUA Hotel Bosque de Chachagua

6 miles (10 km) SE of La Fortuna Tel 2468-1010 Fax 2468-1020 Rooms 31

At the base of a mountain range, the Chachagua Rainforest Lodge is housed in a working cattle ranch located in a private rainforest reserve. Comfortable and spacious cabins are set amid lovely gardens, and an open-air restaurant overlooks a corral. www.chachaguarainforesthotel.com

LA FORTUNA Gringo Pete's Hostel

SE of the plaza Tel 2479-8521 Fax 2479-8521 Rooms 5

This rambling backpackers' hostel has colorful decor, and offers both dorms (one open-air) and private rooms. Guests can use the communal kitchen, and there's a barbecue grill. Facilities include lockers, hammocks and sofas in a simple lounge, as well as a travel service. www.gringopeteshostel.com

LA VIRGEN DE SARAPIQUÍ Rancho Leona

On the banks of Río Sarapiquí Tel 2761-1019 Rooms 5

Appealing to backpackers, this simple, offbeat hotel hangs over the banks of Río Sarapiquí. Some of the rooms have bunks. The lodge boasts a small spa. The main activity here is kayaking, with the owner leading kayak trips. Spanish language courses are also offered. www.rancholeona.com

LA VIRGEN DE SARAPIQUÍ Sarapiquí Rainforest Lodge

N of La Virgen de Sarapiquí Tel 2761-1004 Fax 2761-1415 Rooms 36

Part of a broad-based ecological center (see p155), this classy contemporary hotel boasts architecture inspired by traditional indigenous building techniques, and corresponding earthy interiors. The fine open-air restaurant and bar has the rainforest close at hand. www.sarapiquis.org

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Chalet Nicholas

1 mile (1.6 km) W of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2694-4041 Fax 2695-5387 Rooms 3

This bargain-priced, three-story, non-smoking bed-and-breakfast offers intimate rooms. Chalet Nicholas is run by welcoming hosts, who serve organic meals and arrange horseback rides. Trails lead into an adjacent forest reserve. www.chaletnicholas.com

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Lake Coter Eco-Lodge

4 miles (6 km) NW of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2289-6060 Fax 2288-0123 Rooms 46

This nature lodge is known for its wide range of activities, including kayaking, canoeing, freshwater fishing, hiking, horseback riding, and bird-watching. The duplex cabins are preferred over standard rooms, particularly for the views of Volcán Arenal as well as Arenal and Coter Lakes. www.ecolodgecostarica.com

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Mystica Lodge

10 miles (16 km) W of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2692-1001 Rooms 6

The charming Italian owners tend this intimate hotel with care. Rooms have a romantic aesthetic, and verandas offer splendid views. Gourmet meals are served at the restaurant, which is dominated by a baker's oven (see p234). There is also a small souvenir shop. www.mysticaretreat.com

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Villa Decary

2 miles (3 km) E of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2694-4330 Fax 2694-4330 Rooms 8

Originally a coffee farm, this modern bed-and-breakfast hotel overlooking tranquil Lake Arenal has a pleasing home-away-from-home feel. It is popular with birders as well as gay travelers. Bird books and binoculars are available for guests. www.villadecary.com

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Hotel La Mansion Inn

5 miles (8 km) E of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2692-8018 Fax 2692-8019 Rooms 17

This deluxe option, with a spectacular hillside location, boasts an elegant restaurant. Rooms are graciously appointed, and have broad verandas with rocking chairs. The suites and deluxe rooms have TVs and minibars. Horseback rides are included in the rates, and rowboats are available. www.lamansionarenal.com

LAS HORQUETAS Rara Avis

9 miles (14 km) W of Las Horquetas Tel 2764-1111 Fax 2764-1114 Rooms 18

One of Costa Rica's original nature lodges and private rainforest reserves (see p159), Rara Avis is deep in the rainforest. The rustic accommodations include a bare-bones treetop cabin. Rates are for a two-night stay and include meals and transfers by tractor-pulled rig. www.rara-avis.com

MONTERREY Leaves and Lizards Arenal Volcano Cabin Retreat

Monterrey Tel 2478-0023 Rooms 8

Built of ecologically sourced timber, Leaves and Lizards has six deluxe cabins and two houses perched on a hillside offering views of the volcano. The surrounding land is being reforested, and the friendly owners can arrange birding, riding, fishing, and hiking tours. Meals are served in the family dining room. www.leavesandlizards.com

MUELLE Tilajari Resort Hotel and Country Club

12 miles (19 km) NW of Ciudad Quesada Tel 2462-1212 Fax 2462-1414 Rooms 76

An expansive multifaceted resort on the banks of the Río San Carlos, Tilajari Resort Hotel and Country Club is popular for business meetings. The hotel has a wide range of excursions and facilities, including a gift shop, tennis courts, and botanical and butterfly gardens. www.tilajari.com

PARQUE NACIONAL VOLCÁN ARENAL Arenal Observatory Lodge

5 miles (8 km) SE of park entrance Tel 2479-1070 Fax 2479-1074 Rooms 35

Spectacularly located on the flanks of Volcán Chato, this modern ec lodge offers dramatic views of Volcán Arenal from its rooms as well as its pleasant restaurant (see p235). Accommodations range from standard rooms to a four-bedroom farmhouse. Guided hikes are offered. www.arenalobservatorylodge.com

PN VOLCÁN ARENAL Montaña de Fuego Resort & Spa

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺

4 miles (6 km) W of La Fortuna Tel 2460-1220 Fax 2479-1240 Rooms 50

The comfortable wooden cabins of this luxury hotel have large picture windows opening to the volcano. Trails lace the lush gardens. Helicopter tours are available, as well as activities such as horseback riding and whitewater rafting. The resort has a souvenir shop and a full-service spa. www.montanadefuego.com

PARQUE NACIONAL VOLCÁN ARENAL Arenal Nayara

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺

5 miles (8 km) W of La Fortuna Tel 2479-1600 Fax 2479-1601 Rooms 24

The fabulous Arenal Nayara hotel combines a hillside location offering outstanding volcano views with luxurious and colorful furnishings reminiscent of a Balinese theme. Its restaurant is acclaimed, and there is also a full-service spa. www.arenalnayara.com

PN VOLCÁN ARENAL The Arenal Springs Resort & Spa

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺 📺

6 miles (10 km) W of La Fortuna Tel 2401-3313 Fax 2401-3319 Rooms 42

The largest hotel in the region, this resort takes up six levels on a hillside with splendid volcano views. Landscaped thermal pools and cascades, a casino, spa, multiple restaurants, and a wildcat refuge are among its many draws. The resort also has villas. www.thespringscostarica.com

PUERTO VIEJO DE SARAPIQUÍ Posada Andrea Cristina

📺 P II 📺

0.5 mile (1 km) W of Puerto Viejo Tel 2766-6265 Fax 2766-6265 Rooms 4

This comfortable bed-and-breakfast is set in a forested garden, which draws varieties of wildlife. The lodge is run to high standards by an active conservationist and his wife, who cooks excellent meals on request. The naturalist owner takes guests on informative tours to nearby attractions. www.andreacristina.com

PUERTO VIEJO DE SARAPIQUÍ La Selva Biological Station

P II 📺 📺 📺

2 miles (3 km) S of Puerto Viejo Tel 2766-6565 Fax 2766-6535 Rooms 10

The lodge at this well-known biological station (see p158), operated by the Organization of Tropical Studies (OTS), offers dormitories as well as private rooms. The rates include set meals at fixed hours. Reservations are essential at La Selva, which appeals mainly to nature lovers. www.ots.ac.cr

PUERTO VIEJO DE SARAPIQUÍ Selva Verde

P II 📺 📺 📺 📺

5 miles (8 km) W of Puerto Viejo Tel 2766-6800 Fax 2766-6011 Rooms 40

A world-renowned ecolodge and private reserve (see p156), Selva Verde specializes in birding and nature hikes. The adventure activities have educational components, and there are conservation programs for student or teacher groups. The spacious rooms have canopied verandas, and the room rate includes food. www.selvaverde.com

THE CARIBBEAN

BARRA DEL COLORADO Río Colorado Lodge

II 📺 📺 📺 📺

W of Barra del Colorado Sur airstrip Tel 2232-4063 Fax 2231-5987 Rooms 18

Built on stilts at the mouth of Río Colorado, this sportfishing lodge offers well-equipped fiberglass fishing boats with knowledgeable guides and a well-stocked tackle shop. Among its other attractions are a small zoo, games room, and boat tours into the nearby rainforest. www.riocoloradolodge.com

BARRA DEL COLORADO Silver King Lodge

II 📺 📺 📺 📺

W of Barra del Colorado Sur airstrip Tel 2711-0708 Fax 2711-0708 Rooms 10

Adjoining Río Colorado Lodge and rising over a swampy riverfront, this all-wood sportfishing lodge has spacious cabins linked by boardwalks. Several fishing packages are on offer. The lodge is closed mid-June through August, and also from mid-November through December. www.silverkinglodge.net

CAHUITA Alby Lodge

📺 P 📺

SE of bus stop and plaza Tel 2755-0031 Fax 2755-0031 Rooms 4

Run by an Austrian couple, the lodge is situated amid lawns close to the beach. It features charming thatched and still-legged cabins, spaced well apart for privacy. Each small, simply appointed cabin has a hammock, plus mosquito nets over the bed. Guests can make use of a communal kitchen. www.albylodge.com

CAHUITA El Encanto Bed & Breakfast Inn

P II 📺

Playa Negra, 0.5 mile (1 km) N of Cahuita village Tel 2755-0113 Fax 2755-0432 Rooms 7

Set in a serene garden infused with a Buddhist aesthetic, this is a delightful family-run hotel. Tasteful fabrics and art pieces grace the rooms, which vary in size. The hotel organizes several activities such as kayak tours, horseback riding, snorkeling, scuba diving, and dolphin-watching. www.elencantobedandbreakfast.com

CAHUITA Kelly Creek Cabins & Restaurant

P II 📺

E of bus stop, next to Kelly Creek ranger station Tel 2755-0007 Rooms 4

Located adjacent to the entrance of Parque Nacional Cahuita, this Spanish-run beachfront hotel has spacious yet sparsely furnished wooden cabins with broad verandas. The open-air restaurant serves Spanish fare; an excellent barbecue is also available. www.hotelkellycreek.com

CAHUITA La Diosa

P II ☰ ☱ ☲ ☳ ☴ ☵ ☶ ☷ $$$

1 mile (1.6 km) N of Cahuita village Tel 2755-0055 Fax 2755-0321 Rooms 10

An inviting palm-shaded beachfront location is a major draw to this charming and colorful hotel, whose owner offers yoga classes. Rooms are cozy, and two of the cabins even boast whirlpool tubs.

www.hotelladiosa.net

CAHUITA Magellan Inn

P II ☰ ☱ ☲ ☳ ☴ ☵ ☶ ☷ $$$

Playa Negra, 3 miles (5 km) N of Cahuita village Tel 2755-0035 Fax 2755-0035 Rooms 6

The exquisite grounds are the top draw at this family-run hotel at the far north end of Cahuita. All rooms have verandas overlooking a sunken pool and the beautiful gardens with pool. The clean beaches of Cahuita are within walking distance. www.magellaninn.com

GUÁPILES Casa Río Blanco Ecologde

☰ P II $$$

Río Blanco, 4 miles (6 km) W of Guápiles Tel 2710-4124 Fax 2710-4124 Rooms 6

This delightful riverside bed-and-breakfast at the edge of the forest is run by a charming South African couple. Cabins boast rich and calming decor. It offers nature trails and splendid wildlife viewing – over 300 species of birds have been recorded in the surrounding forests. www.casarioblanco.com

PUERTO LIMÓN Hotel Park

P II ☰ ☱ ☲ ☳ ☴ ☵ ☶ ☷ $$$

Calle 1 and Ave 3 Tel 2758-3476 Fax 2758-4364 Rooms 32

This clean, well-run hotel has one of the town's best restaurants plus secure parking (a requirement in this town). Although fairly simple, the rooms are adequate. It's worth paying extra for an oceanfront room with balcony. Locals are drawn to the bar. parkhotellimon@ice.co.cr

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Rockings J's

P II $$$

E of the Puerto Viejo bus stop, on the road to Manzanillo Tel 2750-0657 Rooms 10

This is a well-run and popular surfers' hostel with a choice of accommodations, including camping, canopied hammocks, dorms, and private rooms. The ambience is lively and colorful, with ceramic murals throughout. Surf boards and bicycles can be rented. www.rockingsjs.com

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Casa Verde Lodge

P ☰ ☱ ☲ ☳ $$$

SE of the Puerto Viejo bus stop Tel 2750-0015 Fax 2750-0047 Rooms 13

Superbly run by a Swiss owner, this clinically clean hotel with spacious rooms and house rentals offers a solid budget-priced bargain. It boasts a gift store and poison-dart frog display, and also arranges tours. Several eateries serving excellent local and international cuisine are just a few blocks away. www.cabinascasaverde.com

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA La Costa de Papito

P ☰ $$$

Playa Cocles, 1 mile (1.6 km) E of Puerto Viejo Tel 2750-0080 Fax 2750-0704 Rooms 10

Located in front of the white expanse of Playa Cocles and surrounded by tropical gardens on the edge of a forest, this hotel has spacious hardwood cabins with endearing jungly decor, huge verandas, and attached baths. Breakfast is served on the verandas or in the main house. www.lacostadepapito.com

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Shawandha Lodge

P II ☰ $$$

Playa Chiquita, 3 miles (5 km) E of Puerto Viejo Tel 2750-0018 Fax 2750-0037 Rooms 11

Gracious contemporary decor in spacious thatched cabins highlight this romantic French-run resort, which extends up to the rainforest. The open-air restaurant is acclaimed for its French-inspired cuisine (see p236). www.shawandhalodge.com

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Cameléon Boutique Resort

P II ☰ ☱ ☲ ☳ ☴ ☵ ☶ ☷ $$$

Playa Cocles, 1.5 miles (2.5 km) S of Puerto Viejo Tel 2750-0501 Fax 2750-0501 Rooms 23

The hippest hotel on the Caribbean coast, this chic deluxe resort opened in 2009. Guest rooms with state-of-the-art amenities are aglow with whites highlighted by colorful pillows. The Cameléon has a spa and a trendy bar-restaurant. www.lecameleonhotel.com

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Samasati Nature Retreat

P II $$$

Hone Creek, 2 miles (3 km) W of Puerto Viejo Tel 2756-8015 Fax 2224-5032 Rooms 18

Nestled high in forested hills, this rustic hotel specializes in yoga and holistic practices. Choose from simple cabins with shared bathrooms, bungalows, or self-contained two-story houses. Wildlife viewing is fabulous. A 4WD is required to get there. www.samasati.com

SELVA BANANITO RESERVE Selva Bananito Lodge

☰ P II $$$

16 miles (26 km) SW of Puerto Limón Tel 2253-8118 Fax 2280-0820 Rooms 11

Close to Reserva Biológica Hitoy-Cerere, this rustic rainforest lodge has stilt-legged cabins, splendid for nature viewing and active adventures. Basic meals, included in rates, are served family style. A 4WD is essential for access. www.selvabananito.com

TORTUGUERO Casa Marbella B&B

☰ ☱ $$$

100 yards (100 m) N of the public dock Tel 2709-8011 Fax 2709-8094 Rooms 5

The Canadian owner of this simple yet well-maintained bed-and-breakfast lodge overlooking the lagoon is knowledgeable about the entire region and offers a selection of interesting tours. Guests enjoy full use of a kitchen and TV lounge. http://casamarbella.tripod.com

TORTUGUERO Miss Junie's*N of public dock, Tortuguero village* Tel 2709-8102 Rooms 12

A simple two-story hotel run by a delightful hostess who serves Caribbean soul food (see p236). Set close to the lagoon, the rooms have wicker furnishings, ceramic floors, shuttered windows with screens, and ceiling fans. Each has hot water in private bathrooms. www.iguanaverdetours.com

TORTUGUERO Tortuga Lodge & Gardens*3 miles (5 km) N of Tortuguero village* Tel 2257-0766 Fax 2257-1665 Rooms 27

Spacious rooms are on offer at this well-run eco- and sportfishing lodge with lush grounds. Top-class nature guides are on hand to take guests on turtle- or other wildlife-watching trips. It has gourmet dining and a romantic open-air lounge bar. Various packages are available. www.costaricaexpeditions.com

TORTUGUERO Laguna Lodge*1 mile (1.6 km) N of Tortuguero village* Tel 2709-8082 Fax 2709-8081 Rooms 80

This riverside ecodge specializing in nature excursions has butterfly and botanical gardens, and an atmospheric restaurant overlooking the waters. Package rates include transfers, buffet meals, and nature tours. Fishing trips with experienced guides are available on request. www.lagunatortuguero.com

THE SOUTHERN ZONEBAHÍA DRAKE Corcovado Adventures Tent CampPlaya Caletas, 3 miles (5 km) S of Agujitas* Tel 8384-1679 Rooms 10

Close to Parque Nacional Corcovado, this beachfront camp exudes a safari-style jungle atmosphere. Bathrooms are shared, and guests eat in a simple restaurant under a thatched roof. Meals are included in the room rate. Horseback rides are a popular activity. www.corcovado.com

BAHÍA DRAKE Finca Maresia*1 mile (1.6 km) E of Agujitas* Tel 8332-6730 Rooms 7

A charming Spanish couple runs this modernist hotel surrounded by luxuriant forest on the road to Los Patos. Guests can choose from various lodging options, including a dorm and individual cabins with Japanese-style screened sliding doors that look onto verandas. www.fincamaresia.com

BAHÍA DRAKE Jinetes de Osa*S of Agujitas* Tel 2231-5806 Fax 2231-5806 Rooms 9

Specializing in scuba diving, this hotel stands amid rainforest on the beach. The rooms, although simple, are clean and comfortable. Rates include meals in an open-air restaurant, and fresh bread and fresh produce supplement the hotel's Mexican and Italian cuisine. www.costaricadiving.com

BAHÍA DRAKE Aguila de Osa Inn*0.5 mile (1 km) S of Agujitas* Tel 2296-2190 Fax 2232-7722 Rooms 13

Tucked away in a canyon at the mouth of Río Agujitas, this lodge specializes in scuba diving and sportfishing. Spacious yet simply furnished rooms stairstep a steep hillside. Included in the room rate are quality meals served at the open-air restaurant (see p236). www.aguiladeosainn.com

BAHÍA DRAKE La Paloma Lodge*Playa Cocalito, 1 mile (1.6 km) S of Agujitas* Tel 2293-7502 Fax 2239-0954 Rooms 11

La Paloma is a deluxe family-run clifftop hotel set amidst lush grounds with dramatic sunset views. The spacious and cozy cabins have wide balconies with hammocks; villas are also available. A range of activities are offered, including night hikes, all of which are covered by the room rate. www.lapalomalodge.com

CABO MATAPALO Bosque del Cabo*12 miles (19 km) S of Puerto Jiménez* Tel 2735-5206 Fax 2735-5206 Rooms 12

This family-run clifftop hotel combines simplicity with luxury. The surrounding forest abounds in wildlife, and scarlet macaws nest on the property. The open-air, solar-powered restaurant serves delicious food, which is included in the room rate. Yoga, a canopy tour, and various excursions are on offer. www.bosquedelcabo.com

CABO MATAPALO Lapa Ríos*9 miles (14 km) S of Puerto Jiménez* Tel 2735-5130 Fax 2735-5179 Rooms 16

Set in a private nature reserve, this deluxe jungle lodge is superb for birding and wildlife viewing. The lodge offers breathtaking ocean vistas and the airy and open bamboo bungalows have great romantic appeal. The gourmet restaurant (see p236) is set beneath a palenque (soaring circular thatched cover). www.laparios.com

CARATE Lookout Inn*0.5 mile (1 km) E of Carate* Tel 2735-5431 Fax 2735-5043 Rooms 18

This three-story hotel has a splendid hillside location good for spotting scarlet macaws. A wooden staircase takes guests up the mountainside to spectacular ocean views. Lodgings include hotel rooms, beach bungalows, and jungle cabins. A range of activities is offered. Room rates include meals. www.lookout-inn.com

CARATE Luna Lodge

P II ☰ $$$$$

0.5 mile (1 km) N of Carate Tel 8380-5036 Rooms 15

This peaceful rainforest lodge offers guests a choice of airy thatched cabins and safari-style tents. A traditional, conical, thatched restaurant-bar enjoys a spectacular setting. Meals are included in the rates. A variety of tours are available. A 4WD is required for access. www.lunalodge.com

CIUDAD NEILY Hotel Andrea

P II ☰ TV $

23 miles (37 km) E of Golfito Tel 2783-3784 Fax 2783-1057 Rooms 45

Located in the heart of Ciudad Neily, this modern Colonial-style hotel has comfortable rooms and a fine restaurant (see p236). The room rates are a bargain considering the amenities the hotel offers. elhotelandrea@hotmail.com

DOMINICAL Cabinas San Clemente

☰ P II $

W from the soccer field Tel 2787-0026 Fax 2787-0055 Rooms 12

This is a friendly hostel aimed at surfers, located just a few steps away from the beach. Some rooms have air-conditioning and hot water, and some have wraparound verandas. Fully furnished houses are also offered. Avoid the barebones budget rooms. The hostel's popular bar and grill (see p236) is a short walk away.

DOMINICAL Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Barú

P II & $$$

2 miles (3 km) N of Dominical Tel 2787-0003 Fax 2787-0057 Rooms 6

This wildlife refuge (see p182) has modestly furnished cabins, each with a beautiful view of the forest and located within a short walk of the beach. A wide selection of activities is available, from night tours in the jungle to bird-watching hikes. www.haciendabaru.com

DOMINICAL Hotel Roca Verde

P II ☰ ☰ & $$$

0.5 mile (1 km) S of Dominical Tel 2787-0036 Fax 2787-0013 Rooms 10

The highlights of this small hotel near the beach are the charming cabinas (cottages) and an open and airy bar and restaurant with frequent live music, very popular with the surf crowd. Kayaking, canopy tours, sportfishing, and biking are on offer. www.rocaverde.net

DOMINICAL Cascadas Farallas

P ☰ $$$$$

Platanillo, 5 miles (8 km) E of Dominical Tel 2787-8378 Fax 2787-8378 Rooms 3

This deluxe, family-run riverside lodge at the edge of dense forest seamlessly blends into nature. Inspired by Balinese themes, it exudes a Zen-like peace. Riverstones and bamboo feature prominently in the design, and the three two-bedroom suites have balconies fronting the forest. www.waterfallvillas.com

DOMINICAL Cuña del Angel

P II ☰ ☰ ☰ & $$$$$

5 miles (8 km) S of Dominical Tel 2787-8012 Fax 2787-8015 (ext. 304) Rooms 16

A gracious, Italian-themed hotel that is a member of the Small Distinctive Hotels of Costa Rica, this colorful property offers a varied selection of rooms and villas. The elegant restaurant is first-rate. Cuña del Angel also has a spa, and sportfishing is a specialty. www.cunadelangel.com

ESCALERAS Bella Vista Lodge

☰ P II $$$

4 miles (6 km) SE of Dominical Tel 2772-3289 Rooms 5

Bella Vista is a horse ranch perched on a dramatic mountaintop. The wooden cabins have bathrooms and porches with hammocks. The rooms in the lodge have private bathrooms, and share other facilities. Horseback rides are available. www.bellavistalodge.com

GOLFITO Hotel Centro Turístico Samoa

P II ☰ ☰ ☰ TV $$$

N of Pueblo Civil Tel 2775-0233 Fax 2775-0573 Rooms 14

This clean and modestly furnished waterfront hotel has spacious rooms. The hotel marina has facilities for sailboats and sportfishing boats. The lively bar and restaurant have excellent views of the marina and the surrounding gulf (see p237). The hotel also contains the Museo Marino (see p192). www.samoadelur.com

GOLFITO Banana Bay Marina

P II ☰ ☰ TV $$$

S of the plaza Tel 2775-0838 Fax 2775-0735 Rooms 4

Located on the edge of tropical rainforest, Banana Bay Marina is a small contemporary hotel with delightful decor. Its quiet, comfortable rooms look out on to the marina and have private bathrooms. The hotel also offers Internet access. www.bananabaymarina.com

GOLFITO Casa Roland Marina Resort

P II ☰ ☰ ☰ ☰ & $$$$$

Zona Americana Tel 2775-0180 Rooms 53

Although located inland, at a considerable distance from a marina, this hotel bills itself as a sportfishing resort. Festooned throughout with contemporary art, it also has a fine (albeit windowless) restaurant. Rooms, which come in three different types, are rather on the gloomy side. www.fishingmarinareort.com

LAS CRUCES Las Cruces Biological Station

P II & $$$

4 miles (6 km) S of San Vito Tel 2524-0628 Fax 2524-0629 Rooms 12

This research center (see p179) has spacious and airy wooden cabins overlooking lush forest. All cabins have balconies and private baths. There are refectory-style meals in a dining room with views of the Talamanca Mountains. Guided nature hikes are on offer. Reservations are essential. www.ots.ac.cr

OJOCHAL Finca Bavaria

P II 📺 & $$$

0.5 mile (1 km) E of Playa Ballena Tel 8355-4465 Rooms 5

This German-run property is set in hilltop gardens. The spacious rooms have bamboo decor and a romantic aesthetic. Ocean views can be enjoyed from the terraces. There are nature trails for guests who wish to enjoy the solitude of the surroundings. www.finca-bavaria.de

OJOCHAL Villas Gaia

P II 📺 & $$$

Playa Tortuga, 0.5 mile (1 km) W of Ojochal Tel 2786-5044 Fax 2786-5004 Rooms 14

Providing easy access to Playa Tortuga and the Terraba-Sierpe mangrove ecosystem, this colorful property offers scuba diving and other activities, plus a gourmet restaurant (see p237). The hilltop swimming pool offers spectacular views of ocean sunsets. www.villasgaia.com

OJOCHAL The Lookout at Turtle Beach

📺 P II 📺 TV $$$

Playa Tortuga, 0.5 mile (1 km) W of Ojochal Tel 2786-5074 Rooms 10

This luxury option is set in lovely landscaped hilltop grounds. There is delightful pastel decor in the casitas (cottages), which have private patios and splendid views. Delicious breakfasts are included in the price, and a range of activities is available. www.hotelcostarica.com

PARQUE INTERNACIONAL LA AMISTAD Finca Anael

📺 P II $$$

Reserva Biológica Durika, 11 miles (18 km) E of Buenos Aires Tel 2730-0657 Fax 2730-0657 Rooms 9

A simple lifestyle is the hallmark of this ecologically sustainable mountain farm. Accommodation is in rustic cabins, with meals being included in the room rates. The finca (farm) can arrange guided nature hikes. A 4WD is required for access, but the daunting drive is best left to jeep-taxis. www.durika.org

PARQUE INTERNACIONAL LA AMISTAD La Amistad Lodge

P II $$$

Las Mellizas, 17 miles (27 km) NE of San Vito Tel 2228-8671 Fax 2289-7858 Rooms 10

This alpine coffee farm adjoining La Amistad is a good base for exploring the reserve. The rooms and cabins, although simple, are comfortable. The lodge specializes in nature hikes and horseback riding, including to two high-mountain camps. It can be reached only by a 4WD. www.laamistad.com

PAVONES Cabinas La Ponderosa

📺 P II 📺 & TV $$$

2 miles (3 km) S of Pavones, on the road to Punta Banco Tel 2776-2076 Rooms 6

This is a popular beachfront surfers' hostel with comfortable, casual cabins. All cabins have private bathrooms, outdoor sitting area, and either fans or air-conditioning; there are also villas and suites. Volleyball, basketball, horseback rides, and forest trails are also available. www.laponderosapavones.com

PAVONES Casa Siempre Domingo Bed & Breakfast

📺 P II 📺 $$$

1 mile (1.6 km) S of Pavones Tel 8820-4709 Rooms 4

A bargain-priced family-run bed-and-breakfast set in lush gardens. The elevation and open interiors allow for constant breezes and the tropical decor adds to the ambience. Miles of secluded beaches lend themselves to quiet walks, and trails lead into rainforest. www.casa-domingo.com

PAVONES Tiskita Lodge

P II 📺 $$$

Punta Banco, 3 miles (5 km) S of Pavones Tel 2296-8125 Fax 2296-8133 Rooms 16

This rustic hilltop ecolodge is part of a fruit farm and forest reserve fabulous for viewing wildlife. "Rainforest" bathrooms are made of river stones. Meals, served family-style in the open-air farmstead, and guided nature hikes are included. Closed mid-September to mid-October. www.tiskita-lodge.co.cr

PIEDRAS BLANCAS Agua Dulce Lodge & Resort

II $$$

Playa Cativo, 9 miles (14 km) W of Golfito Tel 2735-5062 Rooms 2

Backed by pristine rainforest, this intimate two-story beachfront ecolodge is constructed of native hardwoods and furnished with rattan and wicker pieces. Accommodation is in the beach house and a simply appointed cabin, and campers can pitch tents on the lawns. Access is by boat only. www.fincasaladero.com

PIEDRAS BLANCAS Esquinas Rainforest Lodge

P II 📺 $$$

Las Gambas, 6 miles (10 km) NE of Golfito Tel 2741-8001 Fax 2741-8001 Rooms 14

Adjoining Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas, this pleasant community-run ecolodge has comfortable rooms with private bathrooms and terraces. Guided nature hikes, Golfo Dulce kayak tours, and other activities are offered. The rates include meals made from the hotel's own fresh produce. www.esquinaslodge.com

PIEDRAS BLANCAS Playa Nicuesa Rainforest Lodge

II $$$

Playa Nicuesa, 9 miles (14 km) NW of Golfito Tel 2258-8250 Rooms 8

This is an atmospheric ecolodge nestled between ocean and rainforest reserve, adjoining Piedras Blancas. All rooms have canopied beds and garden showers. Electricity is provided by solar power. Rates include meals. Access is only by boat – a 20-minute journey from Golfito. www.nicuesalodge.com

PLAYA PLATANARES Iguana Lodge

P II $$$

2 miles (3 km) E of Puerto Jiménez Tel 8848-0752 Fax 2735-5436 Rooms 14

This lovely property has luxurious rooms with travertine-clad bathrooms, plus bamboo-and-log bungalows; some have garden showers. A beachfront restaurant has live music on Fridays. The lodge also has a Japanese bathhouse. www.iguanalodge.com

PLAYA SAN JOSECITO Casa Corcovado Jungle Lodge

8 miles (13 km) S of Bahía Drake Tel 2256-3181 Fax 2256-7409 Rooms 14

Close to the northern border of Corcovado, this luxurious jungle-themed hotel has thatched cabins with exquisite decor. Excursions and gourmet meals are offered. Access is solely by boat. Closed September to mid-November. www.casacorcovado.com

PUERTO JIMÉNEZ Cabinas Jiménez

100 yards (100 m) N of the soccer field Tel 2735-5090 Rooms 10

Under a new US owner, this once-mediocre shorefront property now offers the nicest accommodations in town. Comfortable and delightfully furnished, the rooms open onto verandas with bay vistas. Several restaurants are a short walk away. A variety of tours can be arranged. www.cabinasjimenez.com

RINCÓN Suital Lodge

4 miles (6 km) NE of Rincón Tel 8826-0342 Fax 8826-0342 Rooms 3

This is a rustic wooden lodge with individual stilt-legged cabins set in a forest clearing. All have private bathrooms and balconies. Close by are about 3 miles (5 km) of forest trails and a peaceful beach. Other activities include kayaking on Río Esquinas and horseback riding. www.suital.com

SAN GERARDO DE RIVAS Cabinas Roca Dura

9 miles (14 km) NE of San Isidro Tel 2742-5071 Rooms 9

Roca Dura is a backpackers' delight. Built into the rock-face and named accordingly, the hotel has basic and draughty yet distinctive rooms. The bedrock makes up one of the walls at the entrance, as well as in some of the bedrooms. The hotel also has a simple restaurant.

SAN GERARDO DE RIVAS Río Chirripó Mountain Retreat B&B

8 miles (13 km) NE of San Isidro Tel 2742-5109 Rooms 8

A fabulous riverside location, rich decor, and tasteful furnishings combine to make this bargain-priced bed-and-breakfast an irresistible option. All rooms have private baths and a deck overlooking the river. There are also some roofed camping platforms for the more adventurous, and a yoga dojo. www.riochirripo.com

SAN ISIDRO DE EL GENERAL Rancho La Botija

4 miles (6 km) NE of San Isidro de El General Tel 2770-2146 Fax 2770-2146 Rooms 11

This charming family-run hotel is set within coffee plantations and orchards. The land falls within an archeological zone, and a Tour of the Trails is offered. A 19th-century trapiche (sugarcane press) dominates the atmospheric restaurant. There is also an observatory. www.rancholabotija.com

SIERPE Veragua River Lodge

1 mile (1.6 km) NE of Sierpe Tel 2788-1460 Fax 2786-1460 Rooms 7

Veragua River Lodge is a peaceful and isolated riverside hotel with whimsical charm. The Italian artist owner has converted the two-story house into an intimate hotel with delightful tropical decor. All the rooms are comfortable and spacious. www.hotelveragua.com

UVITA Toucan Hotel

E of Hwy 34, Central Uvita Tel 2743-8140 Rooms 10

This is a well-run budget hostel near Parque Nacional Marino Ballena. Some of the rooms have private baths and air-conditioning, the others share facilities. Guests have the use of a communal kitchen, laundry, and TV room. Free Internet and Wi-Fi are available, as are live music and open-air films. www.tucanhotel.com

UVITA Las Terrazas de Ballena

0.75 mile (1 km) NE of Uvita Tel 2743-8034 Rooms 3

Perched on the forested hillside with views along the Costa Ballena, this intimate hotel provides accommodation in three thatched, stone-walled cabins with huge balconies. The Balinese-style restaurant is the best for miles (see p237). A 4WD is required for access. www.terrazasdeballena.com

ZANCUDO Cabinas Sol y Mar

1 mile (1.6 km) S of Zancudo village Tel 2776-0014 Rooms 5

This charming American-run hotel is always abuzz with karaoke, beach golf, and other activities. The restaurant specializes in Californian cuisine. The rooms are enlivened by Guatemalan fabrics. Camping is permitted, and a two-bedroom house can also be rented. Closed October. www.zancudo.com

ZANCUDO Oceano

400 yards (400 m) S of Zancudo village Tel 2776-0921 Rooms 2

This small, simple hotel is run by a charming Canadian couple who lavish attention on their guests. Although simple, the two rooms feature such thoughtful touches as flashlights and umbrellas. The open-air restaurant is the best around (see p237). Guests get free use of bicycles and Internet. www.oceanocabinas.com

ZANCUDO The Zancudo Lodge

N of Zancudo village Tel 2776-0008 Fax 2776-0011 Rooms 20

This highly respected sportfishing lodge enjoys a windswept oceanfront setting. The rooms are comfortable and well tended, and there are a swimming pool and large hot tub close to the ocean. The lodge provides tackle and lure for anglers, as well as fly rods. www.zancudolodge.com

WHERE TO EAT

Remarkably cosmopolitan, the restaurants in San José and tourist enclaves offer a wealth of dining options. These span the globe, from Peruvian to Indian, with French and Italian cuisine being well represented. In the countryside, food is based on traditional staples – rice and beans, accompanied by pork or chicken and tropical vegetables. Regional variations are prevalent, especially along the nation's eastern seaboard, where Afro-Caribbean dishes are infused with coconut milk and spices. Hot spices are rarely used elsewhere in Costa Rica. Small snack shops, called sodas, are found throughout the country, as are fast-food chain outlets, both US and local. Roadside fruit stalls are ubiquitous, with fresh fruits being an important part of the local diet (see p222). Some vegetarian restaurants exist in San José and other major cities, and most other establishments will feature at least one vegetarian dish.

A chef at San José's Hotel Grano de Oro

The dining room at the Restaurant Grano de Oro (see p226), San José

RESTAURANTS AND BARS

The capital city offers by far the greatest choice of places to eat, with a variety of cuisines for every budget and taste. Many of the finest gourmet restaurants are in deluxe hotels. There are a number of internationally renowned eateries presided over by award-winning chefs. Most of these specialize in conventional international cuisine. Hotels usually have their own restaurants, which in wilderness areas may be the only places to eat in the vicinity. In hospedajes (B&Bs), the owners may be willing to prepare meals for an extra fee. The cheapest places to eat local dishes are the family-run sodas, small snack counters serving fixed-price menus and casados (set lunches, often referred to as plato del día, plato ejecutivo, or comida corrida).

Working-class males visit cantinas – neighborhood bars often identified by their Wild West-style swing doors – where bocas (see p222) are served. These bars can be quite rough and women will generally not feel comfortable in these places. Visitors should stick to recommended bars in urban areas. Hotel staff can advise you of places to avoid.

CHAIN RESTAURANTS

All the principal American fast-food chains are conspicuous in Costa Rica, including Burger King, KFC, Pizza Hut, and McDonald's. There are also several homegrown companies, such as Burguín and Rosti Pollo, which compete with their US counterparts.

The main cities have a good selection of chain cafés, which serve light snacks and sometimes inexpensive buffets. An excellent option is Spoons, found in larger cities in the Central Highlands – it offers a wide range of sandwiches, salads, and hot meals at low prices. Musmanni is a nationwide panadería (bakery) chain selling freshly baked breads, confectionery, and sandwiches. Mexican fare is the specialty of Antojitos, which has outlets around San José. Bagelman's features bagels, sandwiches, and breakfast specials, while Pops is the local ice cream chain.

LOCAL EATING HABITS

For the most part, Ticos (Costa Ricans) follow North American eating habits, with some differences. The typical desayuno (breakfast) consists of gallo pinto (see p222) served with fresh fruit juice and milky coffee. Males often take a shot of whisky with their breakfast. Extended families usually come together on weekends for brunch. Many businesses close at noon for almuerzo (lunch), which might last as long as 2 hours. The merienda (mid-afternoon coffee break) is still

A bar in the village of Ojochal, near Dominical

El Sano Banano Village Restaurant & Café (see p230), Montezuma

popular. Most restaurants close by 11pm, as the local preference is for early dining. Ticos are leisurely in their dining, and often linger at the table after finishing their meal, which can be frustrating if the restaurant is full. Many eateries close on Sunday.

Ticos rarely invite friends and acquaintances to dine at home, and prefer to extend invitations to restaurants. They seldom arrive at an appointed hour, except for important businesses occasions, and it is considered rude to arrive on time if invited for cena (dinner) in a private home.

PAYING AND TIPPING

Fixed-price menus such as casados normally offer better value than their à la carte equivalents. At sodas, it is possible to have a wholesome cooked meal for around 800 colones. In elegant restaurants, a three-course dinner with wine might cost around 13,000 colones per person. Sodas have no tax – in other places, the prices shown on menus usually include a 13 percent sales tax. An additional 10 percent service charge is often automatically added to your bill. Feel free to challenge this charge if service has been poor, and tip extra only if you have been well attended to.

Credit cards are accepted by most restaurants in cities and major resorts, but expect to pay in cash in rural areas, small restaurants, and sodas. VISA is the widely accepted card, followed by MasterCard and American Express; few places take Diners Club or traveler's checks.

FOOD HYGIENE

Food is normally of a high standard nationwide, and tap water in most regions is trustworthy. If in any doubt, it is worth taking precautions by drinking only bottled water, fruit juices, or processed drinks. Bottled water is sold in all restaurants, hotels, and supermarkets. In restaurants and bars, order drinks without ice (sin hielo).

Salads, vegetables, and fruits pose little problem, except in the Caribbean, Puntarenas, and Golfito, where hygiene can be questionable. To play safe, you may wish to avoid salads and uncooked vegetables, and to peel all fruits, especially those bought from open-air markets and urban fruit stalls. Across the nation, milk, and dairy products are pasteurized and are no cause for concern. Take care to avoid undercooked shellfish, meat, and fish.

CHILDREN

Costa Ricans love children and most restaurants welcome them. High-chairs are usually available, and many restaurants offer child portions; some even have special kids' menus. Many eating places, especially fast-food outlets and rural roadside cafés, have children's playgrounds.

ALCOHOL

Restaurants are usually licensed to sell beers and spirits, including guaro, the popular alcohol of choice. The more elegant restaurants serve a variety of international wines, although outside the Central Highlands quality often suffers due to poor storage. Sale of alcohol is not permitted during election periods and three days (Thursday–Saturday) preceding Easter; nonetheless, Ticos stock up in advance, and the days before elections see heavy drinking.

Cocktail menu, Ricky's Bar, Cahuita

SMOKING

Smoking is popular in Costa Rica, and it is common for diners to light up between or even during courses. Many restaurants now have non-smoking sections, but these are rarely in separate rooms.

The kitchen of the Iguana Lodge, Playa Platanares (see p218)

The Flavors of Costa Rica

At Costa Rica's ferias de agricultores (farmers' markets), stalls are piled with glistening fruit, including exotics such as guayaba, marañon, and papaya. Tomatoes, peppers, and squash add their own bouquets and hues, as does a potpourri of herbs and spices. Pasture-fed cattle provide beef and fresh milk, while poultry roams free until ready for the pot. The warm waters off Costa Rica's shores deliver fresh fish and crustaceans glistening with brine. Caribbean and Creole are the main culinary styles.

Ripe papayas

One of the many sodas (foodstalls) found all over Costa Rica

CARIBBEAN CUISINE

Making the most of local spices, cuisine along Costa Rica's Atlantic seaboard bears the zesty imprimatur of Jamaica, thanks to the many islanders who settled in the region. The sea's fresh bounty, such as shrimp and lobster, finds its way into curries and stews enlivened with chilies, ginger, and Scotch bonnet peppers. In Tortuguero, green turtle has long been a favorite meat, popularly used in stews, along with mackerel. Pargo (red snapper) is often "jerked" – spiced up with mouth-searing peppers and grilled over coals.

The milk of the versatile coconut forms a base ingredient for cooking and in cocktails, while providing invigorating refreshment when drunk fresh from the shell. Local fruits such as citrus, papaya, and guava are jellied and candied with sugar, coconut, and cocoa.

A selection of fresh seafood available in Costa Rica

COSTA RICAN DISHES AND SPECIALTIES

Scotch bonnet peppers

Gallo pinto (fried rice and black beans) is the dish most associated with Costa Rica. It is commonly served as breakfast with scrambled eggs and slabs of local Monteverde cheese. At lunch it becomes arroz con pollo, with lightly seasoned stewed chicken or pork. This forms the basis of casados (set meals), served with vegetables such as carrots, yucca, cabbage, onions, plátanos (fried plantain), and a simple salad of lettuce, tomatoes, and hearts of palm. Rice dishes are enlivened by a splash of Salsa Lizano, a mildly spicy sauce made of vegetables. Countryfolk still favor traditional stews such as sopa de mondongo, made from tripe and vegetables, and a spicy meatball soup called sopa de albondigas, from Guanacaste. Main meals are often preceded by bocas, tasty tidbits such as tortillas with cheese. Turtle eggs on offer may have been illegally harvested.

Ceviche is raw chunks of white fish marinated in citrus juice with garlic, onion, and red and green peppers, served on crackers or lettuce leaves.

Well-stocked grocery store in San José

GUANACASTECAN SPECIALTIES

From the heartland of comida criolla (Creole cuisine), Guanacastecan fare revolves around maíz (sweet corn), introduced in pre-Columbian times by indigenous peoples. Succulent yellow sweet corn is eaten as a vegetable – cooked, boiled, or grilled – and, following ancient recipes, is ground into flour to form the base for tortilla and tamale dough. Arroz (rice) was brought by the Spanish from Asia. Today, it is a major crop in the lowlands and forms the chief accompaniment to the nation's cuisine, usually served alongside black beans, also grown in the lowlands. Brahma cattle graze the pastures, producing highly prized steaks and ground beef. The seas off Nicoya are famous for game

Vegetables at a feria de agricultores (farmers' market)

fish, such as the flavorful dorado or mahimahi. Playa Flamingo, Playas del Coco, and Tamarindo are the main centers for sportfishing, while the port town of Puntarenas has a large shrimping and commercial fishing fleet.

ON THE MENU

Arreglados (nationwide). Puff pastries filled with cheeses and/or meats.

Akee and codfish (Caribbean). Akee, blended with salted codfish and served with callaloo (similar to spinach) and fried dumplings called Johnny Cakes.

Cajetas (nationwide). A thick, nougat-like dessert made of coconut milk, sugar, orange peel, and other fruits.

Chorreadas (Guanacaste). Large corn tortillas served like pancakes and topped with natilla (sour cream).

Empanadas (nationwide). Turnover pastries filled with minced meat, potatoes, and onions, or cheese and beans.

Pan bon (Caribbean). Dark bread spiced with nutmeg and sweetened with caramelized sugar and candied fruits.

Rundown (Caribbean). Mackerel simmered in coconut milk with vegetables.

Tamales (nationwide). Steamed corn-dough pastries stuffed with minced beef and wrapped in banana leaves.

Filete de pescado grillé, grilled fillet of corvina (sea bass), is traditionally served with ajo (buttered garlic), rice, and mixed vegetables.

Olla de carne, a dish from Guanacaste, is a meat-and-vegetable stew with pumpkin-like chayote, corn, plantain, potatoes, and yuca.

Tres leches comprises layers of dense sponge cake soaked in condensed milk, evaporated milk, and cream, and topped with whipped cream.

Choosing a Restaurant

The restaurants in this guide have been selected, as far as possible, for the quality of the food and atmosphere. However, in some parts of Costa Rica there are few restaurants that can be recommended. In such cases, places have been suggested that offer at least good value. For map references for San José, see pages 78–9.

PRICE CATEGORIES

For a three-course meal for one (excluding wine), including tax and service:

- Ⓢ Under $10
- ⓈⓈ $10–15
- ⓈⓈⓈ $15–20
- ⓈⓈⓈⓈ $20–30
- ⓈⓈⓈⓈⓈ Over $30

SAN JOSÉ

CITY CENTER La Criollita

Calles 7/9 and Ave 7 Tel 2256-6511

Map 2 D3

This delightful eatery on the edge of Barrio Amón is suffused with sunlight filtering through a vidriera (stained-glass panel). Songbirds visit the lush outdoor patio. The large menu includes full breakfasts, snack lunches, and simple but well-executed entrées. It is popular with a business clientele at lunch. Closed Sunday.

CITY CENTER Mama's Place

Calles Central/2 and Ave 1 Tel 2223-2270

Map 1 B3

Attracting workers at lunchtime, this small, no-frills family-run diner in the heart of downtown specializes in filling casados (set meals) and Italian pastas and salads. Tipico (typical) dishes are displayed behind glass, cafeteria-style. The Italian family running the place fusses over their clientele. Closed Sunday.

CITY CENTER Restaurante Vishnu

Calles 1/3 and Ave 1 Tel 2250-6063

Map 1 C3

This is a splendid budget option for vegetarians, with an extensive menu and large portions. It focuses on health food, including vegetarian burgers, salads, fruit juices, and filling casados. The owners have similar restaurants downtown and throughout San José. The eatery is kept spotlessly clean.

CITY CENTER Café de la Posada

Calle 17 and Ave 2 Tel 2258-1027

Map 2 E4

A delightful bohemian café-restaurant run by Argentinians. Creative fare includes empanadas (stuffed turnovers), salads, quiches, and omelettes, as well as cappuccinos and delicious desserts, enjoyed to the accompaniment of jazz and classical music. Diners can sit outside under large umbrellas in a pleasant pedestrian precinct.

CITY CENTER Spoon

Calles 5/7 and Ave Central, plus various other locations throughout San José Tel 2255-2480

Map 1 C3

Clean and simple cafeteria-style venue popular for its bargain-priced casados and various dishes such as salads, sandwiches – including lapices (submarines) – and local favorites. Delicious baked goods attest to the chain's origins as a bakery.

CITY CENTER Balcón de Europa

Calle 9 and Aves Central/1 Tel 2221-4841

Map 2 D3

An informal, timeless restaurant in the heart of downtown, with wood-paneled walls and serving hearty pastas and other dishes conjured up by the French-born chef-owner. The decor includes framed proverbs and historical prints. Closed Saturday.

CITY CENTER Café Mundo

Calle 15 and Ave 9 Tel 2222-6190

Map 2 E2

This converted mansion with plenty of historical character provides a pleasant environment for enjoying dishes from an eclectic menu spanning salads to steaks. The restaurant, which has several dining rooms, a bar, and a tree-shaded patio, doubles as an art gallery. Closed Sunday.

CITY CENTER Gourmet

Parque Mora Fernández, Ave 2 Tel 2221-4000

Map 1 C4

An inviting 24-hour patio restaurant known for its splendid position in front of the Teatro Nacional, and for the comings and goings of itinerant musicians and hawkers. The simple arroz con pollo (chicken with rice) is cheap and filling, and a buffet is offered. Usually, there is a pianist playing.

CITY CENTER La Cocina de Leña

Centro Comercial El Pueblo, Barrio Tournon Tel 2256-5353

Map 2 D1

Tucked away amidst the narrow alleys of the El Pueblo complex, this invitingly rustic restaurant is decorated in the style of a quintessential Costa Rican farmstead and is considered the place to enjoy traditional fare. The menu also includes corn dishes.

CITY CENTER Restaurante Casa China

F B V $$$

Calle 25 and Aves 8/10 Tel 2257-8392

Map 2 F3

Located in the Asociación China de Costa Rica, this refectory-style restaurant is like a piece of Shanghai transported to the center of San José. The menu offers a varied and seemingly endless list of authentic Chinese dishes at unbeatable prices. Parking is available.

CITY CENTER Tin Jo

H Y F V $$$

Calle 11 and Aves 6/8 Tel 2221-7605

Map 2 D4

This homely restaurant spans the Orient with its wide-ranging menu featuring regional dishes from China, India, Indonesia, Japan, and Thailand. The cuisine is filling and tasty, rather than gourmet. The decor bears minimal Asiatic motifs, but the moodily dark ambience is appealing and the prices are right.

EAST OF CITY CENTER Bagelmen's

F V $

Calle 33 and Ave 2 Tel 2212-1314

Specializing in sandwiches, bagels, and baked goods, this clean modern option resembles a tastefully decorated fast-food restaurant in ambience. The breakfasts, including gallo pinto (see p222), are an attractive bargain, but the menu also features omelettes and other American favorites. There are also outlets in Escazú and San Pedro.

EAST OF CITY CENTER Café Ruiseñor

H F V $$$

Calles 41/43 and Ave Central Tel 2225-2562

Separated from the buzz of traffic by a wide grassy strip, this airy brasserie in the Los Yoses district is an excellent place to lunch on soups, salads, and nouvelle seafood and meat dishes. The cappuccinos and espressos are good. Choose indoor or shaded patio dining. Closed Sunday.

EAST OF CITY CENTER Ave Fenix

F $$$

Ave Central, Los Yoses Tel 2225-3362

An excellent Chinese restaurant with an extensive menu and an authentically Oriental ambience, including Chinese staff. The large portions come at reasonable prices. Exotic dishes are highlighted by a creative use of original sauces, such as maraschino cherries and lime juice.

EAST OF CITY CENTER Olio

B Y F V $$$

Calle 33, Aves 3/5, Barrio Escalante Tel 2281-0541

This tapas restaurant exudes a bohemian atmosphere and draws a trendy and sophisticated clientele. Exposed brick walls and dark wainscoting paneling add to the romantic ambience. The expansive menu spans the Mediterranean, from Spain to the Levantine.

EAST OF CITY CENTER L'Île de France

H F V $$$

Hôtel le Bergerac, Calle 35, S of Ave Central Tel 2234-7850

Inventive French dishes along with well-known classics such as vichysoise are the hallmark of this intimate restaurant inside the Hôtel le Bergerac (see p202). A large wine selection and delicious desserts round out the pleasing dining experience, which can be enjoyed in an airy courtyard patio.

EAST OF CITY CENTER Marbella

H B Y F V $$$

Ave Central, San Pedro Tel 2224-9452

Map 1 A3

Considered the finest Spanish restaurant in San José, this elegant establishment is situated at the rear of the Centro Comercial de la Calle Real. Chef Emilio Machado is especially renowned for his superb paellas. Marbella has a large wine list.

EAST OF CITY CENTER Jürgen's Grill

H Y F V $$$

Boutique Hotel Jade, N of Autos Subaru dealership, Barrio Dent Tel 2283-2239

Situated in the Boutique Hotel Jade (see p201), this fashionable restaurant exudes contemporary elegance. The menu of predominantly nouvelle dishes is invitingly creative and the ambience appealing, although the service is somewhat formal and a dress code applies. The bar has a cigar lounge. Closed Sunday.

ESCAZÚ Giacomini

H F V $

Calle del Llano, San Rafael de Escazú Tel 2288-3381

Light snacks and baked goods, from croissants to paninis, are offered at this café specializing in exquisite home-made chocolates and gourmet coffees. Enjoy your temptations in the air-conditioned café or on a terrace overlooking a landscaped garden. Closed Sunday.

ESCAZÚ Taj Mahal

B B Y F V $$$

0.5 mile (1 km) W of Paco Plaza Tel 2228-0980

Costa Rica's only Indian restaurant, the Taj Mahal serves biryanis, tandoor dishes, tikka masala, naan bread, and other authentic specialties from northern India. The menu accommodates both vegetarians and meat eaters, and the food is cooked as 'hot' as you like. The rack of lamb is not to be missed. A peacock roams the garden. Closed Monday.

ESCAZÚ Capital Grill

Y F V $$$

Tara Resort Hotel, San Antonio de Escazú Tel 2288-6362

This renowned restaurant is a magnet for Costa Rica's social elite. Walls of glass offer sensational views, while the menu features well-known Continental favorites, from lobster tail to corn-fed Angus steaks and Alaskan king crab.

ESCAZÚ La Luz

The Alta Hotel, Alto de las Palomas, 2 miles (3 km) W of Escazú Tel 2282-4160

High ceilings and elegant contemporary decor in mock-Tudor style characterize this upscale restaurant in the Alta Hotel (see p202). Inventive nouvelle gourmet cuisine makes the most of local ingredients, although the food quality has famously gone through periods of ups and downs. La Luz is favored for Sunday brunch.

ESCAZÚ Le Monastère

4 miles (6 km) W of Escazú Tel 2289-4404

Located high above Escazú, this fashionable restaurant in a former chapel plays on the monastic theme. Waiters dress as monks, and Gregorian music fills the historic hallways and dining rooms. The French cuisine includes escargot, and sea bass with crab, caviar, and champagne. Closed Sunday.

ESCAZÚ Saga

Guachipelin de Escazú, N of Centro Comercial Paco Tel 2289-6615

A trendy restaurant renowned for its food, ambience, and superb service. The menu features international dishes including chicken in peanut sauce served with chutney, and seafood risotto with coconut. The deep-fried calamari is a great appetizer. Don't miss the restaurant's own bread or its great desserts, such as rice pudding with strawberries.

WEST OF CITY CENTER Sabor Nicaragüense

Calle 20 and Aves Central/1 Tel 2248-2547

Situated close to the Coca Cola bus terminal, this clean and well-run family-operated restaurant serves Nicaraguan fare, as well as Costa Rican staples at budget prices. Although air-conditioned, it also has a small outdoor area facing the tumultuous street.

WEST OF CITY CENTER Antojitos

W of Sabana Oeste, Rohrmoser Tel 2231-5564

A lively Mexican restaurant serving all the traditional favorites, along with steaks and grilled meats, as well as excellent margaritas. Mariachis sometimes entertain diners. Antojitos has outlets throughout the city. The chain is extremely popular with locals and can get noisy.

WEST OF CITY CENTER Marisquería La Princesa Marina

Sabana Oeste, SW corner of Parque Sabana Tel 2296-7667

Good, simple dishes from the sea are served at this no-frills restaurant on the west side of Parque Sabana. This canteen-style option is always lively and very popular with the working-class crowd for its filling portions. The ceviche appetizer is recommended, as is the corvina al ajillo (garlic sea bass) as a main dish.

WEST OF CITY CENTER Fogo de Brasil

Ave las Américas, Calles 40/42 Tel 2248-2526

Carnivores are in heaven at this huge Brazilian restaurant, where waiting staff dress in gaucho gear and deliver all-you-can-eat charcoal-broiled meats to your table. A buffet table includes sushi, and there is also a pasta bar. Free hotel shuttles are provided.

WEST OF CITY CENTER Lubnan

Calles 22/24 and Paseo Colón Tel 2257-6071

Small and popular Lebanese restaurant with authentic Levantine dishes such as falafel and shish kebabs, served by waiters wearing red vests and fezes. Hookahs are passed around and prove popular with the young crowd, which flocks here for the quasi-party atmosphere. Closed Monday.

WEST OF CITY CENTER Machu Picchu

Calle 32 and Aves 1/3 Tel 2222-7384

Extremely popular seafood restaurant with superb service. The fare includes quality Peruvian dishes, from ceviche (marinated raw fish or shellfish) to the picante de mariscos seafood casserole. Meals are best accompanied with the pisco sour house drink. Peruvian art and posters enliven the place. Closed Sunday.

WEST OF CITY CENTER La Bastille

Calle 22 and Paseo Colón Tel 2255-4994

A long-standing fixture, this elegant and semi-formal restaurant on a busy thoroughfare serves highly regarded French cuisine from the hands of Chef Hans Pulfer. Service, however, is aloof, and although not required, a jacket and other dressy attire is not out of place. Closed Sunday.

WEST OF CITY CENTER Park Café

Calle 44, Sabana Norte Tel 2290-6324

Perhaps the finest dining experience in San José is to be had at this intimate restaurant in the courtyard garden of an antique shop. England's Michelin-starred chef Richard Neat delivers mouthwatering dishes, including tapas, that draw on influences from around the world. Reservations essential.

WEST OF CITY CENTER Restaurant Grano de Oro

Hotel Grano de Oro, Calle 30 and Aves 2/4 Tel 2255-3322

One of the city's finest restaurants, this elegant option is in San José's premier boutique hotel (see p203) and attracts the social and business elite. Superb French-inspired dishes blend Costa Rican influences, and the desserts alone justify dining here. The filling breakfasts include healthy options. The staff are efficient and courteous.

THE CENTRAL HIGHLANDS

ALAJUELA Jalapeños Comida Tex-Mex

Calle 2 and Aves Central/1 Tel 2430-4027

This lively restaurant draws a loyal clientele of local expatriate residents. The menu ranges from hamburgers and omelettes to Tex-Mex staples such as tostadas (tortillas with fillings), corn nachos, and huevos rancheros (a breakfast favorite made with tortillas and eggs). Closed Sunday.

ALAJUELA Xandari

Tacacori, 3 miles (5 km) N of Alajuela Tel 2443-2020

Magnificent views across the valley from the open-air balcony are a highlight at this romantic restaurant, located in a superlative boutique hotel set amid coffee plantations (see p204). Gourmet health-conscious dishes using fresh local ingredients are complemented by a robust wine list and estate-grown coffee.

ATENAS Mirador del Cafetal

Hwy 3, 5 miles (8 km) W of Atenas Tel 2446-7361

Tasty, simple food is served at this roadside restaurant with magnificent views over coffee fields and mountain valleys. The vast menu features filling breakfasts, plus indigenous dishes such as tamales (see p223), as well as smoothies, cappuccinos, and daiquiris. There is also a well-stocked gift store.

CIUDAD CARIARI Antonio Ristorante Italiano

6 miles (10 km) NW of San José Tel 2293-0622

An elegant and modern restaurant, Antonio Ristorante Italiano specializes in well-prepared Italian dishes, from gnocchi to a splendid spaghetti with squid. Inexpensive casados (set meals) are a lunchtime bargain. The service is excellent. It has a piano bar.

CIUDAD CARIARI Sakura

Ribera de Belén, 0.5 (1 km) SE of San Antonio de Belén Tel 2209-9800 (ext. 7060)

Quality Japanese fare is served in authentically Oriental surroundings adjoining the Ramada Herradura Hotel. It has a sushi bar, teppanyaki grills where guests can watch their food being prepared, and tatami rooms with private chefs. An indoor pond is stocked with koi.

HEREDIA Spoon

Plaza Heredia, Calle 9 and Ave 6 Tel 2260-1333

This small yet clean café on the edge of downtown is noted for its inexpensive casados, salads, snacks, desserts, and delicious baked goods, all served cafeteria-style. It is highly popular with university students as a breakfast and lunch spot.

HEREDIA Hotel Bougainvillea

Santo Domingo de Heredia, 2 miles (3 km) SE of Heredia Tel 2244-1414

This clean and well-lit restaurant in Hotel Bougainvillea (see p204) is adorned with appealing artwork. It serves Continental dishes along with local fare of superior quality. The service is always professional, overseen by a conscientious and capable owner. The weekend brunch is popular with locals in the know.

HEREDIA La Luna de Valencia

San Pedro de Heredia, 2 miles (3 km) NW of Heredia Tel 2269-6665

With his flamboyant command of the open kitchen, Vicente Aguilar, the Catalan owner of this restaurant, is reason enough to visit. At night Aguilar joins live musicians on stage, in addition to overseeing the making of superb paellas and other Spanish dishes, best washed down with sangría. The venue is a century-old wooden home.

HEREDIA Le Petit Paris

Calle 5 and Aves Central/2 Tel 2262-2524

In the heart of town, this compact and intimate restaurant occupies a converted home. The traditional French cuisine – chicken à la Normandie is typical – is well-prepared and tasty, and the wide-ranging menu includes salads, sandwiches, and pastries. Crêpes are a specialty. Live music is hosted on Fridays and Sundays.

HEREDIA Restaurante Don Próspero

Santa Lucía, 0.5 mile (1 km) N of Heredia Tel 2260-2748

Part of the Café Britt coffee processing site (see p92), this informally elegant open-air restaurant has a health-conscious menu featuring organically grown vegetables, plus delicious desserts and a wide variety of coffee drinks. Although best enjoyed as part of an inclusive tour, casual diners are also welcome.

HEREDIA El Tigre Vestido

Santa Barbara de Heredia, 4 miles (6 km) NW of Heredia Tel 2269-9392

Gourmet meals served at Finca Rosa Blanca Coffee Plantation & Inn (see p204) can be enjoyed alfresco. Their accomplished chef uses estate-grown ingredients in nouvelle temptations of award-winning quality. The menu includes Central American dishes, such as pupusas (stuffed flat breads). Dinner by reservation.

LA GARITA Fiesta del Maíz

V ⑤

Hwy 3, 0.5 mile (1 km) W of Pan-Am Hwy Tel 2487-5757

This popular roadside restaurant specializes in traditional corn-based items, such as chorreadas (corn fritters) and tamales (see p223), served in a no-frills environment. A favorite of locals, it gets packed on weekends, when gallo pinto (see p222) and other local favorites are also offered. Closed Monday.

LA GARITA Restaurante Le Gourmet

A P Y & Z V ⑤⑤⑤⑤

Martino Resort & Spa, Hwy 3, 2 miles (3 km) E of Pan-Am Hwy Tel 2433-8382

Sumptuous restaurant situated in the Martino Resort & Spa (see p204), with a curved balcony overlooking the pool that offers an option for outdoor dining. Health-conscious Italian fare utilizes fresh vegetables and fruits from the hotel's own gardens. The restaurant is open until 3am.

MONTE DE LA CRUZ Baalbek Bar & Grill

P F Y & Z V ⑤⑤⑤

Los Angeles de San Rafael, 2 miles (3 km) S of Monte de la Cruz Tel 2267-6683

A favorite of San José's upper crust, this Levantine-themed restaurant combines superb views over the valley with a big dose of ambience and top-class cuisine. Baba ghanoush and other Mediterranean favorites feature on the menu. At the end of your meal, you can enjoy a hookah in intimate upstairs booths.

MONTE DE LA CRUZ Bistro Chamonix

A Y V ⑤⑤⑤⑤

Monte de la Cruz, 6 miles (10 km) NE of Heredia Tel 2267-6222

Located in the Swiss-inspired Hotel Chalet Tiroi (see p204), this cozy, wood-beamed alpine restaurant has a log fire and candlelit dining at night. While the focus is on traditional French dishes, the menu also features creative dishes using Costa Rican ingredients, such as shrimp in fennel and Pernod sauce.

OROSI Orosi Lodge

P Y V ⑤

SW of the plaza, Orosi village Tel 2533-3578

Located in a small lodge (see p205) tucked into the southeast corner of the village, this small café has a charming ambience. It serves light breakfasts, pizzas, snacks, and cookies and ice cream sundaes. A juke box and table football are on hand for rainy days. It also offers Internet connectivity. Closed Sunday.

OROSI Restaurant Coto

P A & Z V ⑤⑤⑤

On the N side of the plaza Tel 2533-3032

This traditional open-air restaurant exudes ambience thanks to its wood-fired oven. Roast chicken and pork dishes feature prominently on the menu, which also offers garlic seabass, plus trout from nearby streams. Cheap casados (set lunches) ensure this restaurant is busy round the clock.

SABANA REDONDA Restaurante Jaulares

A P Y ⑤⑤

12 miles (19 km) N of Alajuela Tel 2482-2600

This restaurant on the cool mid-elevation slopes of Volcán Poás, designed as a rustic farmstead, serves traditional dishes, steaks, and seafood. Pizzas are fired in a traditional wood-burning horno (oven). Take a sweater for chilly nights. Live music on weekends draws in the crowds.

SAN ANTONIO DE BELEN El Rodeo

A P Y Z V ⑤⑤⑤

4 miles (6 km) S of Alajuela Tel 2293-3909

An appealing rusticity, with saddles and other equestrian paraphernalia, lend this airy timber-beamed restaurant a unique ambience. Authentic Costa Rica cuisine, such as corn tortillas with sliced tongue, and more imaginative dishes such as tenderloin in jalapeño cream, draw an appreciative clientele.

SAN GERARDO DE DOTA Comida Típica Miriam

A & Z V ⑤⑤⑤

2 miles (3 km) NE of San Gerardo de Dota Tel 2740-1049

Offering a real campesino (peasant) experience, this delightful little family-run restaurant on the mountain road above Dantica Lodge (see p205) serves hearty country fare, including freshly caught trout. A tiny cast-iron stove provides warmth.

SAN JOSÉ DE LA MONTANA Las Ardillas

P Y V ⑤⑤⑤

6 miles (10 km) N of Heredia Tel 2266-0015

This wood-and-stone lodge set amid pines has a delightfully rustic ambience enhanced by a huge hearth with blazing logs on chilly days and at night. It specializes in roasted meat dishes, prepared in a wood-burning oven, and seafood, but also has local favorites. It gets chilly here, so bring a sweater or jacket.

SAN PABLO DE LEÓN CORTÉS Bar Restaurante Vaca Flaca

P Y V ⑤⑤

25 miles (40 km) SE of San José Tel 2278-1868

Situated in a pine forest along the Ruta de los Santos (see p97), this rustic restaurant has a wonderful warm ambience. The decor includes cowhide seats, cowboy hats, mounted deer heads, and old rifles. Simple traditional dishes are served, as are burgers, sandwiches, and the restaurant's own brand of coffee.

SANTA ANA Bacchus

P Y ⑤⑤⑤⑤⑤

Santa Ana Tel 2282-5441

Housed in a refurbished 100-year-old house, this stylish bistro, which has modern art on the walls, serves French and Italian dishes including baked mushroom-and-polenta ragout and pizza cooked in a wood-fired oven. There is an extensive wine list and exceptional desserts. Wonderful service. Closed Monday.

SANTA MARÍA DE DOTA La Casona de Sara

V ⑤

E of Beneficio Coopedota Tel 2541-2258

Overseen by a charming matriarch, this simple family-run restaurant serves hearty típico fare from the open kitchen, where you are welcome to peek into the simmering pots to make your selection. Be sure to try the fresh fruit batidos, also called refrescos (shakes).

SARCHÍ Restaurante Las Carreteras

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤⑤

Adjacent to Fábrica de Carretas Joaquín Chaverri, Sarchí Sur Tel 2454-1633

A homely and airy restaurant in the heart of this artisans' center melds a rustic charm with a contemporary setting. The extensive menu ranges from soups, salads, and burgers to Italian dishes and local favorites. Outdoor dining is an option on sunny days.

TURRIALBA Hotel Casa Turire

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤⑤⑤

Hacienda Atirro, 5 miles (8 km) SE of Turrialba Tel 2531-1111

Opening on to a lavishly landscaped courtyard with fountains, this elegant restaurant in a classy boutique hotel (see p205) has a wide-ranging menu of locally inspired dishes highlighted by scrumptious desserts and estate-grown coffee. Dishes are creatively presented and filling, albeit not gourmet.

VARA BLANCA Restaurante Colbert

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤

14 miles (22 km) N of Alajuela Tel 2482-2776

Views down the mountain are reason enough to dine at this French-run bakery and café, which serves crêpes, light snacks, confections, and nouvelle Costa Rican cuisine à la français, such as tilapia fish in tomato sauce. Sitting atop the Continental Divide, it is often shrouded in clouds.

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN NICOYA

JACÓ Bar Restaurante Colonial

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤

Calle Bohío and Ave Pastor Díaz Tel 2643-3326

A spacious and airy tropical-themed restaurant with a skylight, a large bar, and shaded outdoor dining. It offers an ambitious menu with light fare, including bar snacks, and fresh seafood with a nouvelle twist – mussels in garlic and olive oil are typical.

JACÓ Clarita's Sports Bar & Grill

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤⑤

Off Ave Pastor Díaz, at the N end of Jacó Tel 2643-2615

One of very few dining options actually on the beach, this open-air US-style diner serves many North American favorites, from omelettes to burgers and burritos. The all-female waiting staff are chosen for their looks, and live music and beauty contests are regularly hosted.

JACÓ Taco Bar

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤⑤

Behind Multicentro Costa Rica, off Ave Pastor Díaz Tel 2643-0222

This casual, Israeli-run open-air establishment is a tremendous bargain for its all-you-can-eat buffet and Japanese-inspired fare, including sashimi and such main dishes as citrus-teriyaki chicken. It specializes in custom-made fish tacos, including spicy coconut shrimp. Taco Bar also has free Wi-Fi.

JACÓ Hotel Poseidon Bar y Restaurante

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤⑤⑤

Hotel Poseidon, Calle Bohío Tel 2643-1642

Located in Hotel Poseidon (see p206), this restaurant is known for its hearty breakfasts and creative fusion fare, such as filet mignon with a Béarnaise-jalapeño sauce. Oriental throw rugs, wooden carvings, and stone walls provide a warm ambience, enhanced by live jazz. The open-wall plan lets in the tropical breezes.

JACÓ Pacific Bistro

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤⑤⑤

Calle Las Palmeras and Ave Pastor Díaz Tel 2643-3771

Situated on the main street, this gourmet restaurant serves Asia-Pacific fusion cuisine with a focus on fresh seafood. Spicy Indonesian shrimp noodles are a signature dish. Professionally trained chef Kent Green proves adept in the kitchen. Patrons can choose from indoor or patio dining. Closed Monday and Tuesday.

MALPAÍS Rancho Itauna

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤⑤

Playa Santa Teresa, 1 mile (1.6 km) N of Carmen Tel 2640-0095

Renowned for its full moon and New Year parties, this small, unpretentious, and colorful restaurant serves international cuisine from around the globe, but with an emphasis on Brazilian dishes. It occasionally has live music and parties, and hosts a traditional barbecue every Thursday evening.

MALPAÍS Nectar Bar and Restaurante

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, ⑤⑤⑤⑤

Florblanca Resort, Playa Santa Teresa, 3 miles (5 km) N of Carmen Tel 2640-0232

Outstanding menu and atmosphere at the fashionable Florblanca Resort (see p206). Gourmet, Asian-inspired fusion dishes are presented with flair, and the airy beachfront setting is enhanced at night by candlelight. The curvilinear bar serves sushi and plays a wide variety of music, from classical to jazz.

MANUEL ANTONIO Café Milagro

3 miles (5 km) S of Quepos Tel 2777-0794

A small roadside café with a charming ambience and simple furnishings in various tropical pastels. Sandwiches and pastries and a large selection of coffees and teas can be enjoyed on the shady patio to the rear. The café also has a souvenir store. Closed Sunday and during evenings in the low season.

MANUEL ANTONIO Restaurante Gato Negro

Hotel Casitas Eclipse, 3 miles (5 km) S of Quepos Tel 2777-0408

Situated in an elegant hotel, the airy restaurant has a warm, romantic ambience with splendid views. With a large wine list, the eating place has a Mediterranean-inspired menu. The choice of pastas is extensive, and many Italian favorites (such as tagliatelle) are featured.

MANUEL ANTONIO Marlinini's

1 mile (1.6 km) S of Quepos, on the road to Manuel Antonio Tel 2777-7474

A newcomer in 2008, Marlinini's specializes in fresh seafood, but it also has many continental favorites, such as pork chops and steaks. Bring in your catch, and resident chef Art Lander will prepare it to your specifications. The lively bar features more than two dozen Martini-based cocktails.

MANUEL ANTONIO Claro Que Si

Hotel Si Como No Resort, 3 miles (5 km) S of Quepos Tel 2777-0777

This fine-dining restaurant with contemporary sophistication is located in an upscale hotel (see p207). An engaging seafood menu, combining local ingredients with Caribbean and international flavors, is complemented by a large wine list. Healthy, mouthwatering winners include the avocado salad and the seafood and spinach ravioli.

MANUEL ANTONIO La Mariposa

Hotel La Mariposa, 3 miles (5 km) S of Quepos Tel 2777-0355

Located in a venerable hotel (see p207), this acclaimed restaurant serves French-inspired cuisine in the open air, with unsurpassed views over the national park. Ranging from local staples such as gallo pinto, to tempting entrées, including chicken breast in mustard and French wine sauce, the inventive menu has plenty of appeal.

MANUEL ANTONIO Sunspot Poolside Bar and Grill

Makanda by the Sea, 3 miles (5 km) S of Quepos Tel 2777-0442

Acclaimed and intimate open-air gourmet restaurant with a romantic poolside setting located in a deluxe hotel with dramatic decor and ocean vistas (see p207). Fresh ingredients and creative flare are hallmarks of the nouvelle menu, with many dishes prepared on the grill. Gourmet pizzas are a signature dish. Closed Monday.

MONTEZUMA Bakery Café

200 yards (200 m) E of the village square Tel 2642-0458

Located close to the main beach entrance, this simple café pleases vegetarians and vegans alike with its creative range of organic dishes, including delicious banana breads and soy burgers. A wooden deck provides an alfresco dining space beneath the shade of trees.

MONTEZUMA El Sano Banano Village Restaurant & Café

W side of the plaza Tel 2642-0638

This natural-food restaurant in the heart of the village boasts an international menu and is known for its fresh fruit juices. The scrambled tofu breakfast and curried veggies are popular items, as are batidos (iced fruit shakes). Movies, free with dinner, are screened nightly. The restaurant prepares boxed lunches.

PLAYA HERMOSA Jammin Restaurante

Hwy 34, 2 miles (3 km) S of Jacó Tel 2643-7013

Popular with the surfing crowd and decorated in trademark black, red, and green, this atmospheric Rastafarian-themed café is built with rough-hewn timbers. Its menu includes American breakfasts and snacks such as quesadillas (stuffed fried tortillas) and ceviche (marinated raw fish or shellfish).

PLAYA HERRADURA Steve N' Lisa's Paradise Café

1 mile (1.6 km) S of Parque Nacional Carara Tel 2637-0954

Sandwiched between Highway 32 and the ocean, this long-standing and popular open-air roadside diner has a small terrace overlooking the surf. A large menu of light snacks and international dishes includes burgers, tuna melt sandwiches, and cooked meals from pastas to seafood.

PLAYA HERRADURA El Mirador and El Anfiteatro

Hotel Villa Caletas, 2 miles (3 km) N of Playa Herradura Tel 2637-0505

The sublime mountaintop setting at the renowned Hotel Villa Caletas (see p207) sets these two fine-dining eateries apart. Gourmet nouvelle dishes evoke the best of fusion cuisine and the classical-themed mood is inviting. A patio with fine views is suited to breakfasts and luncheons. Live concerts are offered in a classical amphitheater.

PLAYA HERRADURA El Nuevo Latino

Los Sueños Marriott Ocean & Golf Resort, 1 mile (1.6 km) W of Hwy 34 Tel 2630-9000

Seafood and gourmet Latin fusion dishes highlight the menu in this elegant, yet informal, restaurant with pool views at the Los Sueños Marriott Ocean & Golf Resort (see p208). Recommended appetizers include lobster and shrimp croquettes, followed perhaps by imaginative entrées such as plantain-crusted red snapper.

PUNTARENAS La Yunta Steakhouse

Paseo de los Turistas Tel 2661-3216

A venerable two-story wooden home on the main oceanfront drag, this restaurant has a shaded windswept veranda overlooking the Gulf of Nicoya. The menu includes grilled steaks, as well as seafood such as the signature corvina tropical (sea bass with tropical fruit sauce), all well prepared and offered in filling portions.

QUEPOS El Patio Café

On the shorefront road in town Tel 2777-4982

This colorful and airy café is a favorite local gathering spot for breakfasts such as granola with fruit and yoghurt, or traditional gallo pinto (fried rice and black beans). El Patio bakes its own breads and desserts, and it also serves delicious fruit shakes, plus lattes, cappuccinos, etc.

QUEPOS Dos Locos

W of the bus station Tel 2777-1526

This Mexican restaurant has lively decor playing on the cactus and sombrero theme. Open walls lend an airy tropical feel. Its acclaimed regional fare includes expected staples, from chimichangas (deep-fried burritos) and flautas (cylindrical stuffed tortillas) to quesadillas. American breakfasts are also served.

QUEPOS The Blue Monkey Rainforest Restaurant

1 mile (1.6 km) out of town towards Manuel Antonio Tel 2777-2572

This friendly, reasonably priced, garden restaurant serves casados – a typical Costa Rican dish of rice, beans, plantain, and either chicken, beef, or pork – and a range of international dishes. Breakfast specialties include mango pancakes and French toast made with coconut and raisin bread.

QUEPOS El Gran Escape

W of the bus station Tel 2777-0395

Immensely popular and often packed restaurant in an old two-story wooden building open to refreshing tropical breezes. The wide-ranging menu goes from light snacks to fresh seafood, steaks, and locally inspired coconut curry chicken. Closed Tuesday.

TAMBOR Restaurante Arrecife

Hotel Costa Coral, 1 mile (1.6 km) W of the airstrip Tel 2683-0105

This clean restaurant boasts colorful contemporary decor. It has an extensive menu of light snacks and seafood, from ceviche and corvina with heart-of-palm sauce to burgers and chicken in orange sauce. The bar has karaoke and a large-screen TV.

GUANACASTE AND NORTHERN NICOYACAÑAS Hacienda La Pacífica

2.5 miles (4 km) N of Cañas Tel 2669-6050

This restaurant housed in a historic hacienda offers a fabulous traditional ambience combining rusticity and elegance. Locally grown organic rice accompanies such international dishes as jumbo garlic shrimps and tenderloin pepper steak. Diners would be wise to bring mosquito repellent.

CAÑAS Restaurante Rincón Corobici

Pan-Am Hwy, 3 miles (5 km) N of Cañas Tel 2669-6262

Overhanging Río Corobici, this airy, multidecked roadside restaurant offers a fine vantage point to watch whitewater rafters. The broad-ranging menu features local staples, including seafood – the garlic sea bass is particularly good. The home-made lemonade is a perfect antidote to the mid-summer heat.

ISLITA 1492 Restaurante

Hotel Punta Islita, 6 miles (10 km) S of Carrillo Tel 2656-2020

A romantic and elegant gourmet restaurant under soaring thatch at the deluxe Hacienda Punta Islita resort (see p209) enjoys a fabulous hilltop setting and coastal vistas. Chef Lizbeth Molina Muñoz conjures local ingredients into mouthwatering treats influenced by Pacific Rim and European tastes. The service is excellent.

LIBERIA Café Europa

Hwy 21, 12 miles (19 km) W of Liberia Tel 6268-1081

Small roadside café-bakery offering delicious pastries and breads baked onsite by the German owner. Burgers and German-inspired hot dishes such as breaded veal cutlets are also served. The restaurant can get stuffy; if the weather permits, opt to sit outside.

LIBERIA Panadería Alemán

Ave Central and Calle 10 Tel 2665-2061

Opened by the owner of Café Europa (see above), this open-air restaurant is built around a huge guanacaste tree in the heart of town. It offers a budget-priced casado (set lunch), plus fresh seafood and meat dishes. German specialties feature prominently too, including apple strudel with ice cream.

LIBERIA Restaurante Paso Real

Calles Central/2 and Ave Central Tel 2666-3455

Situated over the plaza, this spacious restaurant offers quality seafood, including calamari and lobster dishes, along with casados (set meals) and more. A small balcony permits outdoor dining. Service is prompt and courteous. The lively bar has a large-screen TV.

MONTEVERDE Moon Shiva

2 miles (3 km) E of Santa Elena Tel 2645-6270

Adjoining the medical clinic, this offbeat restaurant fuses Costa Rican ingredients with fare inspired by the Middle East, but the menu also features popular non-Hispanic snacks and desserts, as well as cappuccinos. World music plays, adding to the hip, somewhat "alternative" ambience, and live musicians also perform here.

MONTEVERDE Restaurant Morphos

Santa Elena village Tel 2645-5607

In the heart of Santa Elena, this restaurant is built with natural stones and timbers, and has furniture made of rough-hewn logs. It has casados (set meals), but the menu also offers burgers, salads, and sea bass Dijon, as well as ice cream sundaes and fresh fruit batidos or refrescos (shakes). It can be packed, day or night.

MONTEVERDE Garden Restaurant

Monteverde Lodge, SE of Santa Elena Tel 2645-5057

Airy restaurant overlooking lush gardens. The menu highlights creative Costa Rican cuisine, such as shredded duck empanadas (stuffed turnovers), and coconut and macadamia-crust sea bass, supported by a large wine list. A cozy bar with a log fire adjoins the restaurant. Service is swift and efficient.

MONTEVERDE El Sapo Dorado

Cerro Plano, 0.5 mile (1 km) E of Santa Elena Tel 2645-5010

Recognized for its wholesome health-food dishes, this elegant restaurant attached to the El Sapo Dorado hotel (see p209) has a delightful ambience and an open-air terrace. The inventive menu includes dishes such as tofu with vegetarian primavera, and shrimp in Sambuca sauce, as well as delicious desserts.

MONTEVERDE Sofia

Opposite the medical clinic, 1 mile (1.6 km) E of Santa Elena Tel 2645-7017

Chef-owner Karen Nielsen raised the bar a notch when she opened this fine-dining restaurant serving fusion dishes that combine Costa Rican ingredients with inspirations from around the globe. Live music ranges from classical to jazz ensembles.

NOSARA Pizzeria Giardino Tropicale

Beaches of Nosara, 4 miles (6 km) S of the airstrip Tel 2682-0258

A rustic thatched restaurant with several wooden decks beneath shade trees. As the name suggests, it is known for its pizzas fired in a traditional wood-fired oven, but the menu also features seafood, including carpaccio of corvina (sea bass) and daily specials.

NOSARA Luna Bar and Grill

Playa Pelada, Beaches of Nosara Tel 2682-0122

Tucked in a cove, this atmospheric beachfront bar with a hip groove offers gourmet snacks such as sushi rolls and lentil soup. It has a west-facing terrace for enjoying the spectacular sunsets. World music draws patrons on to the dance floor.

NOSARA Marlin Bill's

Beaches of Nosara, 4 miles (6 km) S of the airstrip Tel 2682-0458

Situated at the main junction of the unpaved coast road, this elevated open-air eatery highlights American favorites, from pork loin chops and blackened tuna salad to Key lime pie. It is very popular with locals, who congregate at the bar, which also has a TV.

NOSARA Restaurante Vista del Paraíso

In the hills, 1 mile (1.6 km) E of Beaches of Nosara Tel 2682-0637

As the name suggests, this ridgetop restaurant offers sensational views up and down the coast. The Texan owner is a French-trained chef who serves a continental menu that includes such treats as baked goat's cheese salad and Napoleon of beef tenderloin. Candlelit dining can be enjoyed on a terrace.

PLAYA CONCHAL Outback Jack's Australian Road Kill Grill

Hotel Brasilito, NW corner of the plaza, Brasilito Tel 2654-4596

Open to the elements, this windswept restaurant in the Hotel Brasilito is splendidly situated just a few steps from the beach. A huge international menu includes Aussie fish and chips, and shrimp on the barbie. The place for breakfasts, it offers warm croissants, huevos rancheros (a breakfast favorite made with tortillas and eggs), and more.

PLAYA FLAMINGO Marie's Restaurante

Centro Comercial La Plaza, W of the marina Tel 2654-4136

Now in elegant surroundings, this venerable restaurant caters to sailors with a menu of international favorites – from fish and chips to burritos – served under a huge thatched ceiling. A wide choice of coffee drinks and ice cream sundaes are reason enough to choose Marie's, named after the English-born hostess.

PLAYA FLAMINGO Angelina's

Centro Comercial La Plaza, W of the marina Tel 2654-4839

With its trendy decor and creative fusion menu, this restaurant has upped the level of sophistication in Playa Flamingo. Start and end your Angelina experience at the stylish lounge bar, with its sumptuous leather sofas. Bear in mind that prices are steep and that management can be haughty toward guests.

PLAYA GRANDE The Great Waltini's

Hotel Bula Bula, S of El Mundo de la Tortuga, S end of Playa Grande Tel 2653-0975

This small restaurant in delightful Hotel Bula Bula (see p210) has a shaded deck overlooking a landscaped garden. Snacks and gourmet fusion dishes from the hands of a professional chef are served. Consider the shrimp and crab-cakes followed by duckling with red wine and raspberry reduction. Closed Monday.

PLAYA GRANDE Hotel Las Tortugas

W of El Mundo de la Tortuga, N end of Playa Grande Tel 2653-0423

Situated close to the beach within Hotel Las Tortugas (see p210), this restaurant serves light meals such as burgers and salads, as well as steaks and seafood. The owners boast of their apple pie and ice cream, and with good reason. There is a shaded wooden deck, and the service and mood are relaxed and friendly.

PLAYA HERMOSA The Bistro

Atop the hill, W of the main road, S end of Playa Hermosa Tel 2670-0227

Recherché French-Costa Rican cuisine served on the hilltop terrace of Hotel La Finisterra (see p210). Dishes such as filet mignon with peppercorn sauce have earned the chef a regional reputation for excellence. Sushi is served on Friday evenings. Closed Tuesday.

PLAYA HERMOSA Villas del Sueño

S end of Playa Hermosa Tel 2672-0026

Elegance is a keyword at this open-air restaurant of the well-run Villas del Sueño (see p210). Live bands perform in high season. Gourmet meals focus on fresh seafood such as mahimahi and shrimp in cream sauce, but also include such dishes as tenderloin in brandy and three-pepper sauce.

PLAYA NEGRA Café Playa Negra

S of Los Pargos Plaza Tel 2652-9143

Small, charming Internet café in the village center, a short walk from the beach. The Peruvian-born owner-chef offers a wide selection of light food, from pancakes and French toast to ceviche (marinated raw fish or shellfish), quiches, and pastas. Leave room for the lemon pie or an iced fresh fruit batido (shake).

PLAYA NEGRA Pablo's Picasso

S of Los Pargos Tel 2652-9158

Located in a budget hotel (see p210), this rustic restaurant with a barefoot ambience serves jumbo burgers, pastas, and típico (typical) dishes plus filling American breakfasts, including pancakes. It boasts a pool table and movies at the bar with oversize wooden chairs. Popular with the surfing crowd.

PLAYA OCOTAL Father Rooster Bar & Grill

2 miles (3 km) W of Playas del Coco Tel 2670-1246

Situated on the sands, this rustic restaurant is centered on a lively bar of rough-hewn timbers, which serves killer cocktails. The menu focuses on bar foods, such as burgers and quesadillas (stuffed fried tortillas). Activities include volleyball, and the mood is almost always party-hearty.

PLAYAS DEL COCO Restaurante Sol y Luna

Hotel Puerta del Sol, SE of the plaza Tel 2670-0195

Opening on to an exquisitely landscaped garden in Hotel Puerta del Sol (see p211), this intimate restaurant has Romanesque decor and a menu of Italian staples prepared by a professional chef. An extensive wine list and delicious coffee drinks and desserts, including tiramisu, round off the menu. Closed Tuesday.

PLAYAS DEL COCO Café de Playa

0.5 mile (1 km) E of the village center Tel 2670-1621

Facing the bay, the breeze-swept Café de Playa has a lovely contemporary elegance, but the main draw is its eclectic international menu of gourmet fusion dishes, from penne pastas to jumbo shrimp in rum sauce, and even sushi. There is also an impressive wine list.

PLAYAS DEL COCO Suely's

1 mile (1.6 km) W of the village center Tel 2670-1696

Two French sisters have created this sublime eatery just a stone's throw away from the beach. Sit beneath shade trees on multi-tiered decks as you savor such nouvelle delights as crusted salmon appetizer and the house special: seafood medley with saffron rice on a bed of leek fondue. The desserts tantalize equally.

SÁMARA Restaurante Las Brasas

On the NE corner of the soccer field Tel 2656-0546

Las Brasas is an atmospheric open-air Mediterranean restaurant made entirely of glazed hardwoods and thatch. The menu is laden with Spanish specialties such as gazpacho and paella, but a wide range of seafood, steak, and pasta dishes also feature on the menu.

TAMARINDO Lazy Wave

Hotel Pasatiempo, S of Plaza Colonial Tel 2653-0096

With a dead tree at its heart, this open-air restaurant draws a young, high-energy crowd. The seafood menu favors the health-conscious and offers a daily selection of fusion dishes, such as wasabi-crusting tuna. Eclectic dishes such as jambalaya (a kind of paella) are also available. Live music includes an open mic on Tuesdays.

TAMARINDO Panadería La Laguna del Cocodrilo

E of Tamarindo Diría and Plaza Colonial Tel 2653-0255

Situated in front of a lagoon with crocodiles, this congenial bakery-café produces superb pastries and empanadas (stuffed turnovers) and is known for its all-you-can-eat breakfast buffet. The French owners deliver consistently light croissants and sweet and savory tarts.

TAMARINDO Capitán Suizo

0.5 mile (1 km) SW of Plaza Colonial Tel 2653-0075

Fine nouvelle cuisine served in an airy, colorful, and tranquil beachfront restaurant with a poolside bar, located within the luxurious Capitán Suizo hotel (see p212). Creative dishes fuse European influences and Costa Rican ingredients – sea bass in mango sauce and tilapia fish in caper sauce are typical of the menu, which changes daily.

TAMARINDO Dragonfly

100 yards (100 m) NE of Hotel Pasatiempo Tel 2653-1506

Patrons have been known to travel from as far away as San José simply to dine on the inspired Latin-Asian fusion cuisine at the acclaimed restaurant of chef-owner Tish Tomlinson. The romantic open-air dining area has a canvas sail roof supported by twisting columns. Closed Sunday.

TAMARINDO El Jardín del Edén

SE of Tamarindo Diría and Plaza Colonial Tel 2653-0137

Overlooking a landscaped swimming pool, floodlit at night, this thatched restaurant is appealing for its exquisitely romantic atmosphere. Gourmet Mediterranean-inspired dishes include lobster in lemon sauce, and jumbo shrimp in whiskey. Fresh-baked pastries and gallo pinto (see p222) are served at breakfast.

THE NORTHERN ZONELA FORTUNA Choza de Laurel

400 yards (400 m) NW of the church Tel 2479-7063

A rustic restaurant in the style of an old farmhouse, with a wood-fired horno (oven) and beams adorned with cloves of garlic. Inexpensive casados (set meals) and local dishes are the focus, as well as rotisserie chicken and other grilled meats. The plato especial (mixed plate) is popular.

LA FORTUNA Rancho La Cascada

NW corner of the plaza Tel 2479-9145

With a huge circular thatched roof, La Cascada dominates the town square. Open-sided and airy, it has a pleasingly informal ambience. Mid-priced Western favorites are served, as are pastas, pizzas, and Costa Rican staples, from gallo pinto to corvina al ajillo (garlic sea bass). An upstairs bar has a large-screen TV and disco.

LA FORTUNA Restaurante Luigi

Luigi's Hotel, 2 blocks W of the plaza Tel 2479-9636

Flambée dishes are a specialty of this elegant restaurant, but the menu also includes local seafood and other internationally recognized dishes, such as beef stroganoff, along with pizzas and pastas. Attached to a hotel, this spacious eatery opens onto a pleasant roadside terrace.

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Tom's Pan German Bakery

Nuevo Arenal, SE of the plaza Tel 2694-4547

This rustic, German-run bakery-café on the main drag in town serves baked dishes hot from the oven. It also offers international favorites, including American breakfasts, as well as lasagne and sauerkraut. There are only a few tables and chairs on the shaded terrace out front, and German tour groups often fill the place.

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Mystica Lodge

10 miles (16 km) W of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2692-1001

Located in the intimate Mystica Lodge (see p213), this Italian restaurant is colorful by day and romantic by night. It has exquisite decor: informally elegant place settings, rough-hewn timber furniture, tropical pastels, and flowers on every table. Pizzas are the specialty, but the raviolis and other dishes, prepared in the open kitchen, are all top-notch.

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Toad Hall

5 miles (8 km) E of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2692-8001

Café-style balcony dining with splendid lake views is offered at this art gallery serving organic salads, focaccia sandwiches, scrumptious desserts, and gourmet coffees and teas. The decor is colorful, the setting sublime, and the simple dishes prepared by the live-in owners are tasty and filling.

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Gingerbread

$$$

2 miles (3 km) E of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2694-0039

Themed after a Tuscan villa, this restaurant is attached to a boutique hotel whose Israeli owner proves extremely proficient in the kitchen. His daily fusion menu can range from sushi to jumbo shrimp with couscous and lentils. Opt to dine on the shaded patio or in private booths in the cool interior.

LAGUNA DE ARENAL Restaurante Willy's Caballo Negro

$$$

1 mile (1.6 km) W of Nuevo Arenal Tel 2694-4515

The owner's German origins show in the menu of this delightful café overlooking a pond with waterfowl. Its schnitzels are well known, but eggplant Parmesan and veal cutlet in spicy onion and bell pepper sauce exemplify more inventive fare. Its art store, the Lucky Bug Gallery, is renowned.

PARQUE NACIONAL VOLCAN ARENAL Arenal Observatory Lodge

$$$

5 miles (8 km) SE of the park entrance Tel 2479-1070

Spectacular views of Volcán Arenal are the main draw of this restaurant, which is located in a modern ecolodge (see p213) on the upper flanks of Volcán Chato. Its menu melds international influences with local ingredients: the chicken in curry sauce and the various tilapia dishes are recommended. Service is courteous and efficient.

TABACÓN Ave del Paraíso

$$$

8 miles (13 km) W of La Fortuna Tel 2460-6229

Situated over steaming hot springs with dramatic volcano views at Balneario Tabacón, this airy restaurant offers Costa Rican staples and a wide choice of quality international dishes, from gallo pinto to burgers and French onion soup. The corvina in apple and chile pepper sauce is recommended. Service is efficient.

THE CARIBBEAN

CAHUITA Miss Edith's

$$$

NW of Cahuita Plaza Tel 2755-0248

Spicy Caribbean classics such as "rundown" (see p223) are featured at this colorful restaurant attached to the home of the eponymous owner. The family prepares meals in an open kitchen, and patrons dine on a shaded and colorful terrace. Home-made ice cream is served on weekends, and the herb teas are worth trying.

CAHUITA Café Cocorico

$$$

50 yards (50 m) N of the plaza Tel 2755-0324

Gauzy curtains, colorful cushions, and Arab-style ceiling drapes predominate at this small, open-air, Italian-run restaurant, which draws patrons for screened movies as much as it does for its delicious food. Gnocchi, pastas, and pizzas all feature alongside seafood dishes and home-made ice cream.

CAHUITA Cha Cha Cha

$$$

W of Cahuita Plaza Tel 2755-0476

A wide-ranging menu spans the globe at this charmingly rustic restaurant painted white with blue trim and lit by candles and fairy-lights. Grilled squid salad, fajitas, and spicy coconut honey wings are typical appetizers. Entrées range from filet mignon to sea bass with shrimp and basil sauce. Service is relaxed to a fault.

GUÁCIMO Restaurant Río Palmas

$$$

Hwy 32, 1 mile (1.6 km) E of Guácimo Tel 2760-0330

The special feature of this welcoming roadside restaurant are its forest trails good for spotting poison-dart frogs. The menu features the standard Costa Rican fare, as well as international dishes. The dining is in the open air beneath a red-tile roof, but is set back from the busy highway.

MANZANILLO Bar y Restaurante Maxi

$$$

Manzanillo village Tel 2759-9086

This no-frills restaurant in a two-story wooden structure draws a young party crowd and is always lively, even at lunch. Quality seafood snacks and dishes cooked Caribbean-style as well as filling típico (typical) dishes are served, including on the beach by request.

PLAYA COCLES La Pecora Nera

$$$$

1 mile (1.6 km) E of Puerto Viejo Tel 2750-0490

An unpretentious yet world-class restaurant where mouthwatering gourmet Italian fare belies the offbeat locale. Delicious gnocchis, bruschetta, pizzas, and calzones feature on the wide-ranging menu. The Italian owner-chef Ilario Giannono and his family fuss over patrons. Closed Monday.

PUERTO LIMÓN Restaurante Brisas del Caribe

$$$

Calles 0/1 and Ave 2 Tel 2758-0138

This clean and airy downtown restaurant, on the north side of Parque Vargas, is the best in town. It is known for its seafood dishes but the locals flock there especially for its lunchtime casados and for its large buffet of típico fare, served cafeteria-style.

PUERTO VIEJO DE SARAPIQUÍ Stanford's

On the beach, 100 yards (100 m) NE of the Hot Rocks intersection Tel 2750-0016

After a few years of decline, this venerable restaurant has been refurbished with livelier decor. It now offers a seafood menu featuring ceviche, garlic sea bass, and other local favorites. The open-air upstairs venue is a great spot for watching the surfers tackling the salsa brava wave.

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Café Rico

50 yards (50 m) W of Casa Verde Lodge Tel 2750-0510

This rustic open-air café in a two-story structure of rough-hewn timbers serves hearty, health-conscious breakfasts and lunches on the palm-fringed ground floor. This is the place for granola with fruit and yogurt, sandwiches and scrambles, or huevos rancheros (a breakfast favorite made with tortillas and eggs). Closed Thursday.

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Soda Miss Sam's

Two blocks SE of Hot Rocks on the main road Tel 2750-0108

Run by local senior citizen Hazel Miller on the porch of her home, Soda Miss Sam's serves classic Caribbean cuisine, such as rice and beans, as well as wonderful chicken and fish dishes. Diners should be aware that the casual, family-style atmosphere means that service is inevitably slow.

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Salsa Brava

E of Puerto Viejo village Tel 2750-0241

This informal rainbow-hued thatched restaurant has a lovely beachfront setting and an international menu featuring ceviche (marinated raw fish or shellfish), Caesar salad with chicken teriyaki, ice cream sundaes, and sangría. The Spanish owners provide filling portions. It has counter dining and a roadside patio. Closed Monday.

PUERTO VIEJO DE TALAMANCA Shawandha Lodge

Playa Chiquita, 3 miles (5 km) E of Puerto Viejo Tel 2750-0018

A delightful ambience pervades this classy restaurant attached to a romantic lodge (see p215). The Tico chef fuses tropical flavors into tantalizing French-Caribbean dishes. A typical dinner might comprise avocado and palmito salad, lobster à la Normandie, and mango mousse.

TORTUGUERO Miss Junie's

N of the public dock, Tortuguero village Tel 2709-8102

Named for a village matriarch who serves delicious Caribbean dishes, such as jerk chicken, and lobster in curry and coconut milk, this restaurant is now enclosed and air-conditioned. Also on the menu are pan bon (bread laced with caramelized sugar) and ginger cakes. Not open for breakfast. Reservations needed.

THE SOUTHERN ZONE

BAHÍA DRAKE Aguila de Osa Inn

0.5 mile (1 km) S of Agujitas Tel 8840-2929

This circular, thatched restaurant of the Aguila de Osa Inn (see p216) is perhaps the best in the area, and most dishes are filling and flavorful, albeit not gourmet. Seafood, including sushi, dominates the menu, which also ranges to pastas. It has splendid bay views, best enjoyed from the relaxing sofas with a cocktail in hand.

CABO MATAPALO Lapa Ríos

9 miles (14 km) S of Puerto Jiménez Tel 2735-5130

A soaring palenque restaurant and an eclectic gourmet menu are signatures of this acclaimed ecolodge (see p216). The chefs are locals trained to exacting standards. Pineapple honey ginger salad, coconut crusted fish, and delicious coffee cake are typical of the rotating menu. Spiral stairs lead to a lookout with spectacular views.

CIUDAD NEILY Hotel Andrea

23 miles (37 km) E of Golfito Tel 2783-3784

Set within a Colonial-style hotel (see p217) in the heart of town, this clean and well-run restaurant, open to the tropical breezes, offers the best dining for miles. Breakfast is excellent, with huevos rancheros, pancakes with honey, and more. The lunch and dinner menu offers international favorites, from onion soup to filet mignon.

DOMINICAL Confusione

400 yards (400 m) S of the police station Tel 2787-0036

Attached to a mediocre hotel, this Italian restaurant delivers consistently delicious gourmet cuisine in an airy, elegant setting. The creative dishes include penne with shrimps and capers in a vodka sauce. Live classical music and acoustic guitar liven things up four nights a week.

DOMINICAL San Clemente Bar and Grill

S of the soccer field Tel 2787-0055

This informal bar and grill serves American and Tex-Mex favorites, as well as seafood such as mahimahi with honey and orange sauce. Owner Mike McGinnis makes his own searingly hot sauces. The lively bar is festooned with surf boards, and has a pool table and sports TV. The place also runs a hostel a short walk away (see p217).

GOLFITO Le Coquillage

Hotel Centro Turístico Samoa, N of Pueblo Civil Tel 2775-0233

This airy restaurant at the Centro Turístico Samoa (see p217) encircles a bar in the shape of a ship's prow. It offers international favorites and a wide selection of seafood, including corvina al ajillo (garlic sea bass). Bar games include pool, table soccer, and darts.

OJOCHAL Citrus

200 yards (200 m) E of the Costanera Sur Tel 2786-5175

This sublime eatery, a sibling to Restaurant Exótica (see below), raised the dining experience to new heights when it opened in 2008. Stylish 21st-century decor provides an uplifting setting for award-winning fusion dishes. Musical events include flamenco and belly-dancing. Closed Sunday and Monday.

OJOCHAL Villas Gaia

Playa Tortuga, 0.5 mile (1 km) W of Ojochal Tel 2786-5044

Attached to the small Villas Gaia (see p218), this open-air roadside restaurant has colorful, casual decor, and a vast international menu with a selection of soups, salads, and light snacks, as well as exotic cooked dishes, such as macadamia-crusted fish fillet. The eatery features an extensive children's menu, and Friday is tapas night.

OJOCHAL Restaurant Exótica

Ojochal village Tel 2786-5050

This small and intimate restaurant is acclaimed for its creative tropical nouvelle cuisine that draws upon the best of Continental influences – fish filet with banana curry sauce, for example. The outdoor candlelit dining offers tremendous romantic appeal, and the wine list is extensive. Closed Sunday.

PUERTO JIMÉNEZ Restaurante Carolina

SE of the soccer field Tel 2735-5185

Located on the main street and popular with the backpacking crowd, this budget restaurant is the best breakfast spot in town. It offers well-prepared and filling típico (typical) dishes, including variations on gallo pinto, and seafood served al fresco. International influences are present in the likes of chicken cordon bleu.

PUERTO JIMÉNEZ Juanita's Mexican Bar and Grill

SE of the soccer field Tel 2735-5056

Filling Tex-Mex fare and a genuine Mexican ambience in an atmospheric cantina (see p220) that is the liveliest place in town. Choose from expected staples such as taco salads, burritos, and chimichangas (deep-fried burritos). Entertainment includes hula hoop contests and live crab races, the fun being assisted by giant margaritas.

PUERTO JIMÉNEZ Perla de Osa

Iguana Lodge, Playa Platanares, 2 miles (3 km) E of Puerto Jiménez Tel 8848-0752

A colorful beachfront restaurant with hammocks and a delightful button-down, barefoot ambience. Dishes include Caesar salad, empanadas (stuffed turnovers), and grilled chicken club sandwiches. It has pasta night on Fridays, with live music as an accompaniment. The hardwood bar serves fresh fruit smoothies and exotic tropical cocktails.

SAN ISIDRO DE EL GENERAL Taquería México Lindo

Calle Central and Ave 2 Tel 2771-8222

Situated on the northwest side of the plaza, this Mexican restaurant offers a full menu of regional fare at exceptional prices. The chef hails from Mexico, and the burritos, enchiladas, and vanilla flans are as authentic as anywhere in Costa Rica. The place is festooned with piñatas (papier-mâché vessels) and other Mexican decor. Closed Sunday.

SAN ISIDRO DE EL GENERAL Café Trapiche

Rancho La Botija, 4 miles (6 km) SE of San Isidro Tel 2770-2146

This rustic farmstead at Rancho La Botija (see p219) has endearing country decor, such as antique farm implements. The simple menu of típico and international dishes includes pastas, garlic sea bass, and steaks. It is open only for breakfast and lunch.

SAN VITO Pizzería Liliana

NW of the plaza Tel 2773-3080

Splendid pizzas and other Italian staples attest to the heritage of the owners at this simple restaurant located in the center of town. The cooking is homely rather than gourmet, and great value for money. Diners can eat al fresco on a small patio.

UVITA Las Terrazas de Ballena

0.75 mile (1 km) NE of Uvita Tel 2743-8034

The sensational views are reason enough to dine here. Perched on a forested hillside, this open-air candlelit restaurant has a sumptuous Balinese-style lounge. Choose from burgers and sandwiches to such exotic dishes as jumbo shrimp marinated in orange juice, ginger, and honey served with a sweet chili sauce.

ZANCUDO Oceano

400 yards (400 m) S of Zancudo village Tel 2776-0921

Located in a popular beach village with few dining options, this tiny open-air restaurant stands out for its charming diced-log tables. The live-in expatriate owners prepare burgers, huevos rancheros, and similar North American staples, plus ice creams. There are special theme nights, plus a popular Sunday brunch.

SHOPPING IN COSTA RICA

For many visitors, shopping is one of the thrills of a trip to Costa Rica. The range of quality artesanías (crafts) has grown rapidly in recent years, and most hotels have stores selling coffee, beautiful earthenware pottery in pre-Columbian style, handwoven hammocks, and souvenirs such as bowls and animal figures made of exotic hardwoods. San José has several art galleries, craft stores that stock a range of products including molás (reverse-appliqué cloth) from

Saddle, Ciudad Quesada

Bahía Drake and Sarchí leather rockers, and city malls that offer a vast choice of boutiques and jewelry stores. Across the country, bustling mercados (markets) are full of trinkets, piles of spices and herbs, talabarterías (saddle-makers) and zapaterías (shoe-makers), while colorful roadside stalls are piled high with fruits and vegetables. Indigenous crafts are increasingly appearing on the market. Note that it is illegal to buy or export pre-Columbian artifacts.

Palm-leaf baskets and hats for sale at a roadside stall

OPENING HOURS

Shops in San José are usually open from 8am to 6pm, Monday to Saturday. Large US-style malls are open on Sundays, but may close on Mondays. Outside San José, many tiendas (shops) close for lunch, typically between noon and 1:30pm. Shops in many tourist resorts remain open all week long, often until 9 or 10pm. Department stores and supermarkets everywhere stay open during lunchtime and often into the evening. Street markets and mercados usually open at around 6am and close by 2 or 3pm, although street stalls often stay open late.

PAYING AND PRICES

Cash will be needed to pay for goods bought directly from craftsmen and at street stalls and markets. However, most stores accept VISA, and to a lesser degree, MasterCard and American Express, as well as US dollars. Credit card payments are sometimes subject to a small surcharge. Torn dollar bills are usually refused by shopkeepers. Some shops accept traveler's checks. A 13 percent sales tax will be added to the cost of most consumer goods in shops.

While leather goods are less expensive here than in most other countries, in general prices are relatively high. Items in galleries and hotel gift stores are sold at a fixed price. However, a certain amount of bargaining is expected at craft markets and mercados. The local artisans' cooperative markets have the best prices, and being government-regulated, ensure that a large slice of the profit goes directly to the craftsman. In general, larger stores and local export companies will arrange to have purchases shipped to the buyer's home.

ART GALLERIES

San José has numerous art galleries selling paintings, sculptures, prints, and other artworks by leading artists. Many of the best are found in the area around Parque Morazán (see p66) and Centro Comercial El Pueblo, which has over a dozen galleries. Two good outlets are the Andrómeda Gallery and Kandinsky. For more avant-garde art works, try Teórica, in Barrio Amón, which has a comprehensive selection, or Galería 11-12, which is located in the upscale western suburb of Escazú.

Many professional artists live in Monteverde. Manco Tulio Brenes sells his lovely paintings and sculptures at Artes Tulio. In the Caribbean lowlands, it is worth dropping in at Patricia Erickson's Gallery at Home (see p164), from where the artist sells her vibrant Afro-themed paintings.

Centro Comercial El Pueblo, San José

Shelves of colorful objects in a San José craft store

CRAFT STORES

The variety of artesanías available in Costa Rica is quite large. Quality craft stores sell a range of products, from woodworks, which are created out of exotic hardwoods such as rosewood, ironwood, and purpleheart, to nature-themed books and tapes to Guatemalan weavings and embroideries.

The town of Sarchí (see p86) in the Central Highlands is the main source of crafts, and produces leather rocking chairs, handmade furniture with bas-relief carvings, and brightly painted miniature carretas (oxcarts; see p87). Here, the Fábrica de Carretas Joaquín Chaverri has the largest and best selection of crafts. Nearby, the Plaza de la Artesanía also has several craft shops.

Many store owners pride themselves on seeking out the finest quality crafts. Two such shops, Toad Hall (see p234) and Lucky Bug Gallery (see p150), are on the north shore of Lake Arenal. A huge array of crafts are displayed at shops along Highway 21, not far from Liberia's Daniel Oduber International Airport.

In San José, the Boutique Annemarie, in the Hotel Don Carlos, has a fabulous array of crafts at fair prices, as does La Casona, a two-story building with several stores selling a varied range of Central American crafts.

Visitors who like browsing open-air markets should head to the Mercado de Artesanías Nacionales. This artisans' market houses a broad range of craft stalls under one roof. The most concentrated crafts shopping, however, is in the north-eastern suburb of Moravia, where Calle de la Artesanía is lined with crafts stores. Here, the Mercado de Artesanía Las Garzas has several dozen stores. Competition is intense, and bargaining is normal.

Toad Hall sign, Lake Arenal

INDIGENOUS CRAFTS

Although Costa Rica does not have as strong an indigenous craft tradition as other Latin American nations, it has many unique handicrafts to offer visitors. The Boruca tribe of Reserva Indígena Boruca (see p184) make balsa-wood masks and bas-relief wall hangings, available at a discount if bought directly from the artists. When buying directly from the craftsmen, bear in mind that their margin of profit is usually quite low. Many of the finest examples of Boruca art are also available in quality crafts stores in San José, and at Coco Loco Art Gallery and Café (see p234) in Chachagua near La Fortuna. Coco Loco also sells some fabulous contemporary pottery and marble carvings by leading artists.

Intriguing indigenous pottery comes from Guaítíl (see p143), where ocher vases, bowls, plates, and animals emblazoned with traditional Chorotega motifs are sold at the potters' roadside stalls. Many venues also sell the colorful hand-stitched molos of the Kuna Indians of the San Blas islands of Panama. At Molas y Café, in Atenas, you can see Kuna members at work.

The two best commercial outlets for indigenous arts and crafts are Orinoco and Galería Namu, which sells an excellent selection of palm-leaf baskets, Boruca masks, Huetar carvings, and colorful, embroidered Guaymí clothing.

Pottery wares lining a street in Santa Ana, near San José

WOODWORKS

Popular items sold in stores specializing in woodwork include figurines, kitchen utensils, bowls, and jewelry boxes. Some of the finest wooden bowls and boxes are produced by Barry Biesanz Woodworks (see p75) – it is possible to buy directly from his Escazú studio. Biesanz's works have been gifted by the government of Costa Rica to many visiting dignitaries.

Gold jewelry on sale, Museo del Oro Precolombino store

JEWELRY

Skilled goldsmiths craft exquisite jewelry using both modern designs and pre-Columbian motifs such as frogs and birds, often incorporating semi-precious stones such as lapis lazuli, onyx, and jade. It is best to buy from reputable stores, such as San José's Esmeraldas y Diseños. Most deluxe hotels and large malls also have jewelry stores. For good-quality jewelry in 14-carat gold, the Museo del Oro Precolombino store (see p63) is worth a visit. Items sold at streetside jewelry stalls are usually gold-washed, not pure gold.

COFFEE

Several beneficios (coffee-processing factories) are open to visitors and will ship bulk purchases of vacuum-packed coffee. Among these are the Café Britt airport gift stores and the Café Britt beneficio (see p92), which has a well-stocked craft store. Many regional varieties of coffee are sold at hotel gift shops, where traditional Costa Rican coffee-strainers called chorreadores are also often available. Domestic-quality coffee is sold at shops in San José's Mercado Central (see p58), where it is roasted on the spot; ask for granos puros (whole beans) rather than café tradicional, which is coffee ground very fine and mixed with sugar.

GARMENTS

Traditional Guanacasteco (from Guanacaste) dresses and blouses, such as those worn by dancers of Fantasia Folklórico (see p245), are sold at the Mercado Central (see p58) in San José. Angie Theologos makes colorful jackets with Guatemalan cloth, while Fundación Neotrópica's Tienda de la Naturaleza, in the suburb of Curridabat, sells good-quality T-shirts. There are no factory outlets selling discounted designer clothes.

OTHER SPECIALTY STORES

The suburb of Moravia in San José is known for its leatherwork. Belts and purses are an excellent buy, as are cowboy boots, which range in design from classical to trendy. A wide selection of cowboy boots is sold by zapaterías (shoemakers) in Barrio México, northwest of downtown San José. Ciudad Quesada (San Carlos) (see p154) is the best place to go if you are looking for ornate saddles – a wide variety is available. It is worth keeping in mind that leather costs significantly less than in Europe or North America.

The capital city has several cigar outlets, which stock Cuban cigars. The Cigar Shoppe, in the city center; the Tobacco Shop, in the Centro Comercial El Pueblo; and Casa del Habano, in the San Pedro district, are recommended. Don't buy cigars on the street; the boxed cigars may look genuine, but they are almost always cheap fakes. However, US citizens should note that it is illegal for them to bring home Cuban products, even if bought in Costa Rica.

Beautiful orchids in sealed vials are available at airport gift shops and in various botanical gardens such as Jardín Botánico Lankester (see p93), near Cartago.

Many artists produce stunning vidriera (stained glass). Good sources are Escazú's Creaciones Santos and Rancho Leona (see p213).

One of the many specialty leather stores in Costa Rica

Stalls selling fresh produce and other articles at Mercado Central, San José

MARKETS

Every town has its mercado central (central market), selling everything from cowboy hats to medicinal herbs. Good buys at San José's Mercado Central include embroidered guayabero shirts (summer shirts for men), and cowboy boots made of exotic leathers. Town markets can be dark warrens, and quite crowded, especially on Saturdays; shoppers should watch out for pickpockets. Not many shopkeepers speak English. Most towns also have ferias de agricultores (farmers' markets) on weekends, which sell all kinds of fresh produce. These usually start at dawn and are frequented by locals.

Malls are found only in big towns. Mall San Pedro in San José has many boutiques.

DIRECTORY

ART GALLERIES

Andrómeda Gallery

Calle 9 and Ave 9,
Barrio Amón,
San José.
Tel 2223-3529.

Artes Tulio

Monteverde.
Tel 2645-5567.

Centro Comercial El Pueblo

Barrio Tournon.
Tel 2221-9434.

Galería 11-12

Plaza Itzkatzu,
Escazú.
Tel 2288-1975.

Kandinsky

Centro Comercial,
Calle Real,
San Pedro, San José.
Tel 2234-0478.

Teorética

Calle 7 and Aves 9/11,
San José.
Tel 2233-4881.

CRAFT STORES

Boutique

Annemarie
Calle 9 & Ave 9, San José.
Tel 2221-6707.

La Casona

Calle Central and Ave Central, San José.
Tel 2222-7999.

Mercado de Artesanía Las Garzas

Calle 8 and Ave 2 bis,
Moravia.
Tel 2236-0037.

Mercado de Artesanías Nacionales

Calle 11 and Ave 4,
San José.

Plaza de la Artesanía

Sarchi Sur, Sarchi.
Tel 2454-3430.

INDIGENOUS CRAFTS

Galería Namu

Calles 5/7 and Ave 7,
San José.
Tel 2256-3412.

Molas y Café

Atenas. Tel 2466-5155.

Orinoco

Plaza Itzkatzu, Escazú.
Tel 2288-2949.

JEWELRY

Esmeraldas y Diseños

Sabana Norte, San José.
Tel 2231-4808.

GARMENTS

Angie Theologos

San Pedro, San José.
Tel 2225-6565.

Tienda de la Naturaleza

Ave Central, Curridabat.
Tel 2253-1230.

OTHER SPECIALTY STORES

Casa del Habano

Plaza Calle Real,
San Pedro, San José.
Tel 2253-4629.

Cigar Shoppe

Calle 5 and Ave 3,
San José.
Tel 2257-5021.

Creaciones

Santos
Calles 1/3 and Ave 3,
San Miguel de Escazú.
Tel 2228-6747.

Tobacco Shop

Centro Comercial
El Pueblo, San José.
Tel 2223-0873.

MARKETS

Mall San Pedro

Ave Central and Circunvalación,
San José.

What to Buy

Wall hanging

With a wide selection of quality items sold in shops and galleries throughout the country, there is no shortage of mementos to take home. Hand-crafted objects made from tropical hardwoods, such as bowls, boxes, and kitchen articles, as well as aromatic coffee beans and coffee products of various kinds, are must-buys. Ceramics are excellent, as is jewelry, particularly gold necklaces and pendants that replicate pre-Columbian designs. T-shirts with wildlife motifs, and cuddly sloths, curling snakes made of wood, and other such toys, are popular choices.

HANDICRAFTS

Costa Rica's skilled artisans are concentrated in Sarchí, famous for its miniature oxcarts painted in gaudy patterns and colors, and for homespun rocking chairs of wood and leather. Dozens of artisans' studios produce a dizzying variety of crafts, which find their way into stores throughout the country. Moravia, near San José, is another center of crafts, particularly leather goods.

Wooden bowl and spoons

Painted wooden box

Carved box

Colorful wooden earrings

Hand-painted miniature oxcart

Wooden Items

Costa Rica's precious hardwoods yield a wealth of objects. They include statuettes, animal figurines, carved boxes, and notably, lathe-turned bowls, some thin enough to be transparent when held up to the light.

Hammocks

Hammocks made of colored bemp rope, in a variety of designs, are sold on the sea shores. Roomy two-person models are also available.

Brooch

Jewelry

Delicate brooches, necklaces, and earrings in 14-carat gold, often in combination with corals and semi-precious stones, are popular. Street hawkers sell bright necklaces of shells, hardwoods, and seeds.

Pearl earrings

Seed necklace

Necklace in gold and semi-precious stone

FORBIDDEN ITEMS

Objects made from various protected species are commonly sold at local markets. It is illegal to buy anything made from turtle shells, furs such as ocelot and jaguar skins, or feathers of quetzals and other endangered bird species. Conservation groups also discourage buying items made of coral, as well as framed butterflies.

Leather Goods

Cowboy boots, purses, and attaché cases exude quality and are relatively inexpensive. Those made of caiman and snake skins should be avoided for conservation reasons.

INDIGENOUS CRAFTS

Items made by Indian tribes can be bought at quality craft stores and, preferably, in indigenous reserves where income goes directly to the artists. Traditional weavings, carved gourds, painted masks, and musical instruments are often imbued with spiritual symbols.

Ocher Pottery

Pottery adorned with traditional Chorotega motifs are produced in Guaitil, using traditional firing methods. Pots, plates, and vases of varying shapes and sizes can be bought at roadside stalls and cooperatives throughout Guanacaste.

Carved Gourds

Decorated with wildlife motifs, carved gourds are lightweight and can be used as vases.

Painted mask*Boruca mask*"Devil" Masks

Made of balsa wood, these masks made by the Boruca tribe should be bought directly from the carver. Other indigenous wooden goods include wall hangings.

Coffee liqueur*Organic coffee*A regional variety of coffee*Chocolate-coated coffee beans*COFFEE

Coffee products range from gourmet roasted whole beans to coffee liqueurs. Be sure to buy export-quality coffee, as coffees sold for the domestic market are often of inferior quality and, if sold pre-ground, adulterated with large amounts of sugar.

SOUVENIRS

All manner of trinkets, utensils, and miscellaneous artistic creations are for sale at gift stores nationwide, from candles to stained-glass pendants. Typically, they are emblazoned with images of wildlife or rural scenes. The store at San José's international airport has a good selection.

Bright brooch*Candle*Ceramic plate*Painted metal jug*Stained-glass item

ENTERTAINMENT IN COSTA RICA

Cultural activities and live entertainment in Costa Rica have traditionally been somewhat restrained by the standards of many other Latin American countries. Nonetheless, Ticos have a tremendous love of music and dance, and recent years have witnessed a blossoming of entertainment venues. Nightlife, especially in San José, is excitingly diverse. Theater and classical concerts are an integral part of San José's social life, and even smaller cities usually have theater spaces and glorietas (bandstands) where live musicians perform. Music festivals are staged both indoors and outdoors, and country fairs called ferías are in full swing year-round. Every town has numerous discos, and karaoke bars are popular with lower-income Ticos. Entertainment in country towns revolves around topes (horseman-ship shows) and retornos (rodeos) that spill onto the streets with traditional live music and dance.

Guanacaste National Band poster

INFORMATION

A calendar of major events is carried in Spanish and English on the website of the Instituto Costarricense de Turismo (Costa Rican Tourism Institute, or ICT; see p256). The website also has addresses of theaters, nightclubs and similar venues. Tico Times (see p263), which is available in many hotels, also provides listings of artistic events and entertainment, as do the "Tiempo Libre" and "Viva" sections of the La Nación daily newspaper. San José Volando is a free monthly publication that contains information about live concerts, shows, nightclubs, and other entertainment.

Costa Rican Tourism Institute logo

THEATER

Costa Rica has a long tradition of producing great theater, and Josefinos are passionate theatergoers. San José has several small theaters, which offer everything from mainstream and experimental theater, to comedy and puppet shows, at affordable prices. Most productions are in Spanish and are typically restricted to Thursday–Sunday evenings. Mime performances are the main attraction at Teatro Chaplin. The country's oldest theater company, the English-language Little Theatre Group, performs at the Teatro Laurence Olivier, which doubles as a lively cultural center and has a jazz club and movie theater. The Teatro Eugene O'Neill, located inside the Centro Cultural Costarricense-Norte-americano (Costa Rican-North American Cultural Center), also hosts theater performances, plus monthly musical concerts on weekends.

CLASSICAL MUSIC, BALLET, DANCE, AND OPERA

Costa Rica's middle class are enthusiastic lovers of classical music. The nation's foremost venue for classical and ballet performances is San José's Teatro Nacional (see pp60–61). It was inaugurated to great national pride in 1897 with a performance of El Fausto de Gounod by the

The opulent interior of the auditorium of Teatro Nacional

A lively traditional dance in progress in Pueblo Antiguo, San José

Paris Opera. The theater hosts the Orquesta Sinfónica Nacional, founded in 1970, which performs a series of concerts each year between April and December. It also holds performances by the Compañía de Lirica Nacional (National Lyric Opera Company), the country's only opera company, from June to August. The companies feature many of the world's best-known works in their repertoires. International orchestras and singers also perform in the Teatro Nacional. Evening performances at the theater are considered an occasion to dress up for. Prices in the galería (galleries) are generally below $5, depending on the particular performance in question.

Theater production in Costa Rica has a long tradition, boosted in the early 1900s when a number of South American dramatists settled here, and drama was introduced to the high school curriculum. The Teatro Mélico Salazar (see p58) stages drama, musicals, classical concerts, and occasional performances of traditional Costa Rican singing and dancing. The theater is also the principal venue of Costa Rica's Compañía Nacional de Danza (National Dance Company), a world-class organization founded in 1979, which has an extensive repertoire of contemporary and classical works.

It is advisable to book in advance, which you should do directly with the venue or event organizers.

JAZZ

Jazz clubs have grown in number in recent years, and jazz trios play in several hotel lobbies and bars. The main venue is San José's Jazz Café, a red-brick structure with a classic bohemian ambience. Leading international performers such as Chucho Valdés and Irakere have played here. In 2008, a second Jazz Café opened in Escazú. San José's jazz buffs also frequent the Shakespeare Gallery in the Sala Garbo, which hosts live jazz on Monday evenings.

TRADITIONAL MUSIC

Rather limited in form and style, the country's popular music is a more restricted version of the marimba cultures of Nicaragua and Guatemala. The marimba (xylophone), quijongo (single-string bow with gourd resonator), and guitar provide the backing for such traditional folk dances as the punto guanacasteco, the national dance (see p247). Live marimba music is performed at ferias, a few tourist venues, and city plazas on weekends. A good place to experience traditional music and dance is Pueblo Antiguo (see p75). Indigenous communities perform ritual dances accompanied by drums, rattles, and ceramic flutes.

The Teatro Mélico Salazar, one of San José's popular cultural venues

Dancing the night away at a beach resort nightclub

NIGHTCLUBS AND DISCOS

San José and key tourist resorts have swanky dance clubs. Many of the best nightclubs are associated with leading hotels, and several larger beach resorts feature discos. Less sophisticated venues are everywhere, catering to the dance-crazy Ticos. The predominant music is Latin: cumbia, salsa and, especially, merengue, often interspersed with reggae and world-beat tunes.

In San José, the well-to-do can be found at the various bars and clubs along San Pedro's Avenida Central, and in San Rafael de Escazú. Planet Mall, popular with teenagers, claims to be the largest disco in Central America. A more down-to-earth and always crowded option is El Cuartel de la Boca del Monte, with an earthy atmosphere, eclectic patrons, and live music by many of Costa Rica's leading bands. Several discos and bars can be found in the warren of alleyways comprising El Pueblo, while the Los Yoses and San Pedro districts have many bars and clubs catering to students and well-off young Ticos. Calle de la Amargura (Street of Bitterness), leading to the university, is lined with student bars, and draws few foreigners. Bars in "Gringo Gulch," a red-light area of central San José, mostly cater to an older foreign clientele, including the city's large number of expatriate residents. Take care with whom you interact in this locality, and always use taxis at night.

Most of the clubs don't begin to liven up until midnight, and many don't close until dawn. Attire is usually quite casual, with jeans permitted; shorts are generally not allowed, except at beach resorts.

CASINOS

Costa Rica has dozens of casinos, concentrated in the capital city. They are mostly associated with large, expensive hotels. Several casinos are clustered in the infamous Gringo Gulch. Some casinos are open 24 hours. The most popular games are craps, tute (a version of poker), canasta, which resembles roulette, and veinte un (21), a variant of blackjack. Visitors should be aware that the odds are far more favorable to the house than they are in the US.

DANCE SCHOOLS

Many visitors come to Costa Rica to learn to dance. Several reputable academias de baile (dance schools) offer residential courses where you can pick up some fancy foot skills in hip-swiveling cumbia, merengue, salsa, and whatever the latest Latin dance craze may be. Most classes are typically in Spanish. The well-known Merecumbé has several schools in San José and major highland cities.

FESTIVALS

Costa Rica's annual calendar is full of festivals, large and small (see pp34-7). Many of them celebrate the country's diverse cultures, such as the Fiesta de los Diablitos (see p184) of the Borucas and Puerto Limón's extravagant Caribbean-style Carnaval (see p165). Costa Rica's best-known music festivals include the nationwide International Festival of Music, which is held at half a dozen venues throughout the country. Many of the towns in Catholic Costa Rica honor their patron saints on specific days of the year.

A Caribbean-style performance in a resort in Guanacaste

THE PUNTO GUANACASTECO

The national dance is the punto guanacasteco, a toe-and-heel dance performed in traditional regional costumes. The women wear white bodices and colorful frilly satin skirts. The men wear white shirts and pants, satin sashes, and cowboy hats. The slow, twirling baile típico (typical dance) features the tossing of hats and scarves, as males interrupt the proceedings in turn to shout rhyming verses aimed at winning over a love interest.

Dancers performing the punto guanacasteco

Nationally, the most important religious festival is the Día del Virgen de los Ángeles, which is celebrated in Cartago's Basílica de Nuestra de los Ángeles (see pp94-5) in August. Nicoya's Fiesta de la Yegüita (see p142), held in December, is one of the nation's most colorful regional festivals.

CINEMA

Most cities have cinemas, although those in smaller towns are often ramshackle. San José and other large cities have modern multiplex cinemas up to the standards of North America and Western Europe. Cinepolis and others show first-run Hollywood and international movies, which are usually subtitled in Spanish. Dubbed films are advertised with the phrase hablado en español. International art-house movies are shown at Sala Garbo. Costa Rica has no major cinema industry of its own.

PEÑAS

San José's intellectuals enjoy peñas (circles of friends), bohemian get-togethers that evolved from Latin America's Leftist revolutionary movement of the 1970s. Poetry is recited and plaintiff nueva trova music is performed at peñas, also called tertulias. They are leading outlets for experimental music and literature by such avant-garde performers as Esteban Monge and Canto America. Typical venues are private homes and cafés. An active venue is Teorética, a hip art gallery that hosts literary readings, round-table discussions, and other cultural events.

DIRECTORY

THEATER AND CULTURAL CENTERS

Centro Cultural Costarricense- Norteamericano

San Pedro, San José.
Tel 2225-9433.
www.cccncr.com

Little Theatre Group

Tel 8355-1623.
www.littletheatregroup.org

Teatro Chaplin

Calles 11/13 and Ave 12,
San José.
Tel 2221-0812.
www.teatrochaplin.com

Teatro Laurence Olivier

Calle 28 and Ave 2,
San José. Tel 2223-1960.

CLASSICAL MUSIC, BALLET, DANCE, AND OPERA

Compañía de Lírica Nacional

Tel 2222-8571.
www.mcjdcrcr.com/cr/
musica/compania_lirica.
html

Compañía Nacional de Danza

Tel 2222-2974.
www.mcjdcrcr.com/
artes_escenicas

Orquesta Sinfónica Nacional

Tel 2221-9417.
www.osn.go.cr

JAZZ

Jazz Café

Calle 7 and Ave Central,
San Pedro, San José.
Tel 2253-8933.

Plaza Itzkatzú,
Autopista Prospero
Fernández, Escazú.
Tel 2288-4740.
www.jazzcafecostarica.com

NIGHTCLUBS AND DISCOS

El Cuartel de la Boca del Monte

Calles 21/23 and Ave 1,
San José. Tel 2221-0327.

El Pueblo

Ave Central, Barrio
Tournón, San José.
Tel 2221-9434.

@ info@ccelpueblocr.com

Planet Mall

Mall San Pedro, San José.
Tel 2280-4693.

DANCE SCHOOLS

Merecumbé
Tel 2224-3531.
www.merecumbenet

FESTIVALS

International Festival of Music
Tel 2282-7724.
www.costaricamusic.com

CINEMA

Cinepolis
Autopista a Cartago,
San José.
Tel 2278-9356.

Sala Garbo
Calle 28 and Ave 2,
San José.
Tel 2222-1034.

PEÑAS

Teorética
Calle 7 and Aves 9/11,
San José.
Tel 2233-4881.
www.teoretica.org

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES AND SPECIALTY VACATIONS

The varied terrain, salubrious climate, and diversity of wilderness reserves in Costa Rica combine to afford a wealth of outdoor activities. Some of these, which have been spawned by the tourist boom of the past two decades, are unusual – canopy tours, for example, are a staple of the rain- and cloud forest reserves. Others are more conventional. Ample opportunities for hiking are provided by the trails that lace the superb national parks and reserves. Costa Rica is also well-g geared for biking and horseback riding. Both coasts offer fabulous surfing, and windsurfing is world class, with dedicated facilities at Lake Arenal and Bahía Salinas. Whitewater rafting is highly developed, while scuba divers and anglers are in for a treat. Wherever you are in the nation, the great outdoors is close at hand. A handy resource is Costa Rica Outdoors, a bimonthly publication available nationwide.

The range of activities offered at Selva Verde Lodge

ORGANIZED TOURS

A plethora of tour operators in Costa Rica cater to visitors interested in particular activities. Companies offering a range of specialized tours include Costa Rica Expeditions, Costa Rica's Temptations, and Costa Rica Sun Tours. Operators dedicated to a specific activity are listed in the relevant subsection.

NATIONAL PARKS AND WILDLIFE RESERVES

Costa Rica has about 190 national parks, wildlife reserves, and related protected areas, with a combined area of almost 6,000 sq miles (15,500 sq km). Dozens of other privately owned reserves protect additional natural habitats. Protected areas continue to be created to link individual parks and reserves with the purpose of creating uninterrupted migratory corridors for wildlife. The national parks and reserves are organized into "conservation areas" administered by the SINAC (Sistema de Areas de Conservación/System of Conservation Areas), which is a division of MINAE (Ministerio de Ambiente y Energía/Ministry of Atmosphere and Energy).

La Amistad, covering an area of 749 sq miles (1,940 sq km), is the largest national park (see p179). This is also the most remote and inaccessible one, and hiking can be challenging. The most visited park is Parque Nacional Volcán Poás, which lies within a 2-hour drive of San José and has the most developed facilities (see p90). Also popular is Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio, which offers the advantage of easy access and an assortment of attractions, including beautiful beaches (see pp118–19). Parque Nacional Cahuita, on the Caribbean coast, features similar attractions (see p170). Parque Nacional Chirripó (see pp180–81) and Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja (see p132) offer fabulous mountain hiking – Rincón has the added enticement of fumaroles and boiling mud pools. Guided boat tours make the rainforests and swamps of Parque Nacional Tortuguero accessible (see p167). A more challenging but no less rewarding destination is Parque Nacional Corcovado, perhaps the nation's premier rainforest environment (see p191). Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde is the top cloud forest reserve (see p127). A useful source of information on various reserves is Fundación de Parques Nacionales.

Boat tour in Parque Nacional Tortuguero

Bird-watchers in Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio

WILDLIFE-VIEWING

Viewing animals and birds in the wild is the prime attraction for the majority of visitors to Costa Rica. It's easily done, even without visiting protected reserves, as wildlife is literally everywhere outside city limits. Morpho butterflies, toucans, monkeys, and coatis can be seen from your hotel porch, depending on location. However, most species are well disguised or reclusive, and spotting them often requires a combination of patience and planning. Hiring a naturalist guide is recommended – their trained eyes and knowledge of where and when to look for certain species will greatly increase your success rate. Guides can be hired through Costa Rica Expeditions, which also offers nature trips of its own. A particularly good way to view wildlife is to take a natural history cruise aboard a small ship, with daily excursions ashore. Leading companies include Cruise West and Lindblad Expeditions.

On a nature trip, dress in greens and browns to blend in with the surroundings. Silence is imperative. Bring a pair of binoculars. Laminated spotters' charts are available at book- and souvenir stores. Companies specializing in birding include Horizontes.

HIKING

For those who like to experience nature on foot, Costa Rica is a dream come true. Thousands of miles of trails traverse the countryside, offering opportunities to explore the most remote terrain. Many trails are well marked and easy to hike, while others provide a rugged challenge to even the most experienced hikers. Librería Universal and the Instituto Geográfica Nacional sell detailed topographic maps.

The majority of trails are associated with the national parks and wildlife reserves, where facilities are usually restricted to the ranger stations and/or private lodges near the entrances. Many of the larger parks have only basic huts, sometimes a full day's hike from each other – hikers will need to be self-sufficient in terms of camping equipment and food. Always inquire about the distance to the next hut, and the difficulty of the hike. You will need to get permission to camp anywhere other than at designated campsites. For overnight hikes, always report to a ranger station at the beginning and end of your trip. Permits and local guides are essential for certain hikes, such as those across the remote Talamancas.

Look out for venomous snakes – never leave your tent or cabin door open (see p259). Hikers in Parque Nacional Corcovado and other lowland rainforest reserves may come across bands of aggressive wild pigs called peccaries. If threatened, climb a tree and wait until the animals depart. Otherwise, the best bet is usually to stand still: most charges are bluffs.

Lightweight yet sturdy waterproof hiking shoes are essential, as is a water bottle and a backpack with room for a waterproof jacket with hood. Apart from sunscreen and insect repellent, other recommended items are a first aid kit, as well as a flashlight and spare batteries. Pack your gear in a plastic bag before placing it in your backpack to ensure that it remains dry. Clean up the campsite before leaving – only footprints should be left behind.

CANOPY TOURS

With its soaring trees and deep valleys, it is no surprise that Costa Rica has dozens of canopy tours to whisk you between treetops and across gorges (see pp24–5). Zipline tours provide an adrenalin-packed ride, but don't expect to see much wildlife. The Original Canopy Tour has four locations around the country.

Zipline canopy tour, Arenal Rainforest Reserve

Horseback riding on one of Costa Rica's many beaches

HORSEBACK RIDING

With its farming tradition and widespread use of horses, Costa Rica affords numerous opportunities for equestrian pursuits. Tour operators and hotels can make all the necessary arrangements for rides, which are usually on the small, mild-tempered local criollo horse.

Guanacaste province has several ranches specializing in horse riding. Hacienda Guachipelin is an excellent location, as is the Buena Vista Lodge (see p211). Other good places are Bella Vista Lodge in Escaleras (see p217), and Club Hípico La Caraña, which is situated near to Escazú.

CYCLING

Touring the country by bicycle is an excellent way to meet local people and to enjoy the spectacular scenery. However, many roads are potholed and cycling in highland areas requires caution due to fog, blind bends, and speeding traffic. Several companies specialize in bicycle tours: Backroads, in North America, and Costa Rica

Biking Adventure, in Costa Rica, are two reputable outfits. Most international airlines will let you bring your own bicycle as checked luggage, if properly packed.

Costa Rica's rugged terrain is particularly suited to mountain biking, and Ticos (Costa Ricans) are enthusiasts of the sport. Several hotels and local tour agencies rent mountain bikes and offer short mountain-biking excursions.

GOLF AND TENNIS

The country has six 18-hole courses, as well as four 9-hole ones. Additional courses are in the offing.

The serene Parque Valle del Sol golfing greens

In the Nicoya Peninsula, the leading greens are at the Four Seasons Resort (see p208) and Paradisus Playa Conchal Beach & Golf Resort (see p210). The best of the Central Highlands courses are at the Cariari Country Club and Parque Valle del Sol.

Many hotels and beach resorts have tennis courts available free of charge to guests. Non-guests are usually allowed to play on these courts for a fee.

WHITEWATER RAFTING AND KAYAKING

Costa Rica's high rainfall and mountain terrain combine to provide ideal conditions for whitewater rafting (see p102). The Reventazón and Pacuare Rivers of the Central Highlands are renowned, but every region has world-class whitewater. Tumbling from the country's highest mountain, Río Chirripó (Class III–IV) creates dozens of explosive rapids. It merges with Río General (Class III–IV), known for its challenging rapids. Río Corobicí (Class I–II) is fed by dam-released waters and flows between tree-lined banks in the heart of Guanacaste. It offers a float perfect for families, as wildlife is plentiful and easily seen. Río Savegre (Class III–V) flows out of the mountains of the Central Pacific. The steep upper section is a demanding thriller; the river slows lower down as it passes through African oil palm plantations.

The rafting industry is well developed and regulated, and operators conform to international standards. Life jackets and helmets are mandatory. Trips cost between $70 and $100 per day, including transport, meals, and equipment. Overnight trips involve camping or stays at remote riverside lodges. Numerous companies offer rafting trips, including Ríos Tropicales. Take sunscreen and suitable attire. A warm jacket for mountain runs is a good idea. Expect to get wet – pack a set of dry clothes and shoes.

Kayaking in Lake Angostura, near Turrialba

Sea kayaks are an ideal means of exploring the mangrove systems of the coasts. One of the major rafting operators, Ríos Tropicales, also features trips on kayaks. Various other nature tour operators offer kayaking trips, and many resort hotels rent kayaks for exploring sheltered bays. With luck, dolphins may appear alongside. If you plan on kayaking alone, The Rivers of Costa Rica: A Canoeing, Kayaking and Rafting Guide, by Michael W. Mayfield and Rafael E. Gallo, is indispensable; it is available from San José's 7th Street Books.

SURFING AND WINDSURFING

Thousands of visitors flock to Costa Rica each year to ride the waves that wash ashore along both the Pacific and Caribbean coastlines. Some of the best surfing beaches are in Northern Nicoya (see p137). Most airlines permit you to check a surf board as luggage free of charge. However, there is no shortage of surf shops at key surf spots such as Tamarindo, Jacó, and Puerto Viejo de Talamanca. Playa Pavones (see p192) is another excellent location, but you will need to bring your own equipment. Dedicated surf camps give their own meaning to the term “bed and board.”

Bahía Salinas (see p130) and Laguna de Arenal (see pp150–52) are marvelous for windsurfing, thanks to consistently high winds. Both have windsurf centers.

SPORTFISHING

The challenge of landing a world-record catch draws hundreds of anglers to Costa Rica's waters every year. Most sportfishing is on a catch-and-release basis. The Pacific coast (see p117) is fabulous for deep-sea fish, such as sailfish, tuna, dorado, and swordfish. Marlin are the big prize: the fish run off Nicoya in November–March; the central and southern Pacific are best in August–December.

On the Caribbean side, anglers use light tackle in rivers, lakes, and lagoons to hook tarpon, snook, and garfish. Caño Negro, as well as the rivermouths of the San Juan and Colorado Rivers, feature some of the world's best tarpon fishing; the best time is December–March. Trout fishing is popular in mountain

Fishing yacht anchored at Bahía Drake streams, particularly on the northern slopes of the Talamanca. Laguna de Arenal is renowned for massive rainbow bass; Rain Goddess offers fishing trips here

(see p152). Permits required for freshwater fishing are organized by the operators. Several sportfishing lodges cater exclusively to anglers. Boat charters offered from sportfishing centers, such as Flamingo, Quepos, Tamarindo, Golfito, and Zancudo, typically cost $250–400 for a half day and $350–

650 for a full day. Fishing tackle is sold and rented at La Casa del Pescador. Excellent sources of angling information are Club Amateur de Pesca and local fishing expert Jerry Ruhlow's weekly column in the Tico Times.

Sportfishing charter sign

Surfing on the high waves off Playa Jaco

Scuba Diving in Costa Rica

The warm waters off Costa Rica provide splendid opportunities for divers. The country's prime site is Isla del Coco, which offers some of the world's finest scuba diving for seeing marine animals. Other dive spots include the Murciélagos Islands in Northern Nicoya; the coral reefs of Playa Manuel Antonio, Parque Nacional Ballena Marina, and Isla del Caño on the

Scuba diver

Pacific side; and Gandoca-Manzanillo and Cahuita on the Caribbean. Marine turtles and moray eels can be spotted everywhere. Other commonly seen large marine creatures include manta rays, grouper, tuna, jewfish, and several types of sharks and whales. However, visibility is less than high at most dive sites, especially during the rainy season when river runoff clouds the oceans.

Getting ready for a dive involves careful checking of all equipment, especially the breathing apparatus.

While underwater, it is wise to swim in a group so as to assist each other in times of need.

Starfish can be seen creeping slowly atop the reefs.

Tropical fish of varied hues and shapes inhabit the waters.

Corals, generally poorly developed in Costa Rica, are at their most colorful here.

ISLA DEL CAÑO

This island boasts the largest coral formations in Costa Rica, attracting a rainbow of tropical fish. Also seen here are octopus, sea horses, and starfish. Dolphins cavort in near-shore waters. Diving trips are offered from Bahía Drake (see p190).

Several angelfish species, such as king, queen, and French angelfish, are found around Isla del Caño (see p184).

At Punta Gorda, off Playa Ocotol, scuba divers are sure to see a vast number of eagle rays flap past. Also seen are golden rays, as well as stone fish and sea horses.

Isla del Coco (see p193) is said to be a site of hidden gold, but its real treasure lies underwater, and includes huge schools of hammerhead sharks. Accessed by live-aboard boats, this is only for experienced divers.

Islas Murciélagos, the most favored dive site in the northwest, is renowned for white tip sharks, marlin, and other giant pelagics. Several outfitters in Playas del Coco (see p136) offer trips.

SWIMMING

Most large hotels, and many smaller ones, have swimming pools. Ocean water temperatures typically range between 25 and 30°C (77–87°F). However, extreme caution is required when swimming in the oceans: Costa Rica averages about 200 drownings a year due to riptides. These fast-moving water currents are typically associated with beaches with high volumes of incoming surf and where retreating water funnels into a narrow channel that can drag you out to sea. Many of the most popular beaches have riptides. If you get caught in one, do not struggle against the current or try to swim to shore: this will quickly exhaust you. Swim parallel to the shore to exit the current. Avoid swimming near river estuaries, where crocodiles may lurk, and in ocean waters off beaches where marine turtles nest, as sharks are often present.

SCUBA DIVING

Almost all the beach resorts near the prime dive sites have scuba operators. You can rent or buy gear here, and at Mundo Acuático, in San José. El Ocotal Diving Safaris and Rich Coast Diving are two respected dive

Divers about to go underwater off Costa Rica's Pacific coast operators based at Playa Ocotal and Playas del Coco, respectively (see p136). Trips to Isla del Coco, for experienced divers, are offered aboard the Okeanos Aggressor, which sails from Puntarenas on 8-, 9-, and 10-day voyages.

DIRECTORY

TOUR OPERATORS

Costa Rica Expeditions

Calle Central/2 and Ave 3, San José. Tel 2257-0766.
www.costaricaexpeditions.com

Costa Rica Sun Tours

Edificio Cerro Chato, La Uruca, San José.
Tel 2296-7757.
www.crsuntours.com

Costa Rica's Temptations

PO Box 1199-1200, San José.
Tel 2508-5000.
www.crtinfo.com

NATIONAL PARKS AND WILDLIFE RESERVES

Fundación de Parques Nacionales

Barrio Escalante, San José.
Tel 2257-2239.
www.fpncostarica.org

SINAC

Calle 25 and Ave 8/10, San José. Tel 2248-2451.
www.sinac.go.cr

WILDLIFE-VIEWING

Cruise West

2301 Fifth Ave, Suite 401, Seattle, WA 98121, USA.
Tel (888) 851-8133.
www.cruisewest.com

Horizontes

Tel 2222-7022.
www.horizontes.com

Lindblad Expeditions

96 Morton Street, New York, NY 10014, USA.
Tel 212-765-7740.
www.expeditions.com

HIKING

Instituto Geográfica Nacional

Calles 9/11 and Ave 20, San José.
Tel 2523-2630.

CANOPY TOURS

Original Canopy Tour

Tel 2291-4465.
www.canopytour.com

HORSEBACK RIDING

Club Hípico La Caraña

Tel 2282-6754.
www.lacarana.com

CYCLING

Backroads

801 Cedar St, Berkeley, CA 94710, USA.
Tel (510) 527-1555.
www.backroads.com

Costa Rica Biking Adventure

Miraflores (Guadalupe), San José.
Tel 2225-6591.
www.bikingincostarica.com

GOLF

Cariari Country Club

Tel 2293-3211.
www.clubcariari.com

Parque Valle del Sol

Tel 2282-9222.
www.vallesol.com

WHITEWATER RAFTING AND KAYAKING

Ríos Tropicales

Tel 2233-6455.
www.riostropicales.com

BOOKSHOPS

Librería Universal

Calles Central/1 & Ave Central, San José.
Tel 2222-2222.

7th Street Books

Calle 7 and Ave Central/1, San José.
Tel 2256-8251.
@ marroca@racsa.co.cr

SPORTFISHING

Club Amateur de Pesca

Tel 2232-3430.
www.clubamateurpescacr.com

La Casa del Pescador

Calle 2 and Ave 16/18, San José.
Tel 2222-1470.

SCUBA DIVING

El Ocotal Diving Safaris

Tel 2670-0321 (ext. 120).
www.ocotaldiving.com

Mundo Acuático

109 yd (100 m) N of Mas X Menos, San Pedro, San José.
Tel 2224-9729.
@ mundoac@racsa.co.cr

Okeanos Aggressor

Tel 800-348-2628.
www.aggressor.com

Rich Coast Diving

Tel 2670-0176.
www.richcoastdiving.com

SURVIVAL GUIDE

PRACTICAL INFORMATION 256-263

TRAVEL INFORMATION 264-271

PRACTICAL INFORMATION

Costa Rica has a superb tourist infrastructure, especially in the realm of ecotourism and adventure travel. It is possible to visit all but the most remote parts of the country with relative ease by a rented vehicle or public transport. Rarely will visitors be far from tourist facilities. National tourist offices are found only in the capital city; in many of the smaller

A poster advertising the nation's attractions towns and beach resorts, travel agencies and tour operators double as tourist information bureaus. Most Costa Rican tour operators are extremely professional. However, many aspects of day-to-day life in the country are slow and often bureaucratic. A degree of patience and flexibility is required to help cope with some of the frustrations.

WHEN TO GO

Weatherwise, Costa Rica is best visited in the dry season between December and April (confusingly called "summer" by Ticos), before the rainy (or "green") season begins. However, regional variations (see p38) need to be considered as well – the Caribbean and southwest Pacific can receive torrential rains year-round.

The wet season is also the hottest time of the year, and can be torrid, especially in Guanacaste. Many dirt roads become impassable. However, prices are lower than during the dry high season, when many hotels are also booked solid.

VISAS AND PASSPORTS

Citizens of Australia, Canada, the USA, and western European countries do not need visas to enter Costa Rica. All visitors need a passport valid for six months from the date of travel, a return or onward ticket, and adequate finances for the duration of their stay. You will be issued a tourist card on arrival. Valid for 90 days, it can be extended at a migración (immigration office) in any major city.

CUSTOMS INFORMATION

Besides their personal belongings, visitors to Costa Rica are allowed to bring in 500 cigarettes and 6 pints (3 liters) of wine or spirits. You may also bring in a personal computer, two video cameras and/or still cameras, and six rolls of film. (The film restriction is rarely enforced.)

It is illegal to buy or export any archeological artifacts, and harsh penalties are imposed on violators. Buy only certified reproductions. Items covered under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES) are also prohibited; these include certain bird feathers, objects made of tortoiseshell, furs, and non-farmed crocodile and reptile skins, as well as live animals and birds.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Brochures and maps are distributed free of charge by the ICT (Instituto Costarricense de Turismo) bureaus at the two international airports (see p264) and in San José. They can also provide personalized assistance. Outside the capital, visit local tour agencies for information. Backpacker hostels, hotel tour desks, and some websites are other good sources.

Tour sign in Monteverde

OPENING HOURS

National parks are typically open daily from 8am to 4pm. Museum opening hours vary, with many museums being closed for lunch and on Monday. For opening hours of banks and shops, see pages 260 and 238.

LANGUAGE

The official language of Costa Rica is Spanish, spoken relatively slowly, without a Castilian lisp. Virtually all Costa Ricans working in the tourist industry speak English, as do most people in banking

A local tour agency in the surfing hotspot, Jacó

◀ Stationary motorboats along one of Costa Rica's many forest-backed beaches

Casually dressed locals at a restaurant in Dominical and other services. However, for anyone traveling off the beaten track, a basic knowledge of Spanish is a distinct advantage.

The Maleku, Bribri, Cabécar, and Guaymí retain their traditional languages, but most of Costa Rica's indigenous peoples also speak Spanish.

SOCIAL CUSTOMS

Courtesy is greatly valued in Costa Rica. On greeting someone, it is normal to shake hands or kiss on one cheek. Use proper titles such as señor, señora, and señorita. The honorifics "Don" and "Doña" are used for people of social and political importance. Young Ticos generally use first names upon initial introduction. Older people are more formal and may continue to use titles until a friendship develops.

Quedar bien (to appear well) is a Costa Rican form of behavior intended to leave a good impression, but which can involve making false promises and declarations simply to please the listener. It's a good idea to ask more than one person for directions.

Ticos are tolerant of homosexuality, although overt public displays of affection between members of the same sex may provoke strong reactions, especially in rural areas.

WHAT TO WEAR

Light and casual cotton and synthetic clothes are ideal for Costa Rica's tropical climate. A windproof jacket or sweater is useful for evenings in the highlands, and elsewhere in air-conditioned buildings. Carry an umbrella and waterproof wear year-round.

Evening wear is seldom required except at upscale nightclubs and restaurants. However, business people dress smartly. For formal meetings and church visits, men should not wear shorts or T-shirts and women should avoid revealing clothing.

Costa Rica is a tolerant nation but some conservative attitudes still prevail. Nudism is not allowed, and topless sunbathing is frowned upon.

WOMEN TRAVELERS

It is generally safe for women to travel alone. Some males are apt to offer piropos (unsolicited compliments and sexual advances) to women they pass on the street. Saying that you are married will usually put an end to unwanted flirtation.

Women travelers at a stall by the entrance to PN Manuel Antonio

DIRECTORY

CONSULATES

Canada

Oficentro Ejecutivo La Sabana, Edificio 5, Sabana Sur, San José.
Tel 2242-4400.

UK

Centro Colón, Paseo Colón, Calles 38/40, San José.
Tel 2258-2025.
www.britishembassycr.com

USA

Boulevard a Pavas, San José.
Tel 2519-2000.
http://sanjose.usembassy.gov

TOURIST INFORMATION

ICT

E of Juan Pablo II Bridge, Autopista General Cañas, San José.
Tel 2299-5800.

Websites

www.visitcostarica.com
www.costaricaexpert.net

DISABLED TRAVELERS

Some airports and newer hotels (see p199) and restaurants have wheelchair ramps and adapted toilets. Few wildlife parks have wheelchair-accessible trails or toilets, although the situation is improving.

TIME

Costa Rica is 6 hours behind Greenwich Mean Time (GMT) and 1 hour behind New York's Eastern Standard Time (EST), and does not have daylight saving time.

ELECTRICITY

Electrical current is 100 volts (60 cycle) – the same as in the US and Canada. However, many hotels in remote areas generate their own power, with a nonstandard voltage. Three-prong, polarized, and European two-pin plugs will need adapters. Power surges are common, and a surge protector for laptops is a wise investment. Power outages occur in some parts: carry a flashlight.

Personal Security and Health

Police Department badge, San José

Generally a safe destination, Costa Rica has a reputation for neutrality and stable democracy, which can lull visitors into a sense of security that may occasionally prove to be false. Tourists can be targets for theft, scams, and violent crime, and it is wise to take basic safety precautions. The nation has a relatively advanced health system, and you will rarely be far from medical assistance in times of need. Venomous snakes and other potentially harmful creatures inhabit the wilds, while dangerous riptides and the sun's powerful tropical rays are among the natural hazards that require some precautions.

Police station in Costa Rica's major sportfishing center, Quepos

POLICE

The police force has become more professional in recent years, and officers are usually polite and willing to help tourists. The standard police uniform is dark blue. Tránsitos (traffic police) patrol the highways and use radar guns to catch speeders. Bicycle police, wearing white shirts and blue shorts, patrol major cities and tourist centers.

Attempts by individual police officers to extract mordidas (bribes) are now relatively rare. To make a complaint against any officer, note his or her name and badge number and report to the Organización de Investigación Judicial (OIJ).

GENERAL PRECAUTIONS

Visitors should be aware of their surroundings at all times, especially on city streets. Avoid wearing jewelry in public and leaving your belongings unattended. It's best to store valuables in your hotel safe. Make copies of your passport and important documents and keep them in a safe place. Be especially cautious of scams involving your rental car (see p269), and of anyone offering unsolicited assistance of any kind. Women should avoid dark and isolated areas. Never hitchhike. If you are a victim of serious crime, contact the OIJ, or the OIJ's Victim Assistance Office.

LOST AND STOLEN PROPERTY

In the event of loss or theft of belongings, inform the police within 24 hours – you will need an official report for your insurance. If your passport is lost or stolen, contact your embassy or consulate (see p257) immediately. Loss or theft of credit cards should be reported to the relevant company (see p260).

STREET HAZARDS

Pedestrians do not have the right of way in Costa Rica and extreme care is required when crossing roads. Always look both ways, even on one-way streets, as buses are allowed to travel in both directions on many roads, and the direction of traffic sometimes changes during certain hours. Be careful at junctions too, as many drivers disobey stop signs and red lights. When walking, keep your eyes open for deep holes and uneven sidewalks.

NATURAL DISASTERS

Costa Rica has its share of natural calamities, but they are not a regular occurrence. If there's an earthquake, move away from tall structures and electricity poles. Do not use elevators. If you are in a

Tránsito (traffic police) car parked by a street in San José building, the safest place to be is usually in a doorway and not under stairways. It's a good idea to keep a flashlight and shoes near your bed at night.

Obey all instructions at volcanic parks, such as Poás and Arenal. Never hike in restricted zones. Arenal is especially volatile and visits to the immediate area – notably Tabacón (see p148) – are always risky.

Beware of riptides, which are strong currents that drag swimmers out to sea (see p253). Flash floods are common during heavy rainfall, when waterfalls and rivers are to be avoided.

VACCINATIONS AND INSURANCE

No specific vaccinations are required to enter Costa Rica. Malaria is prevalent along the southern Caribbean coast, and antimalarial medication is recommended for this area. It is wise to be immunized against diseases such as typhoid as well as hepatitis A and B, and to make sure your polio and tetanus vaccinations are up to date.

Travel insurance is a good idea, as public health care is not always adequate and treatment in private hospitals and clinics can be expensive.

MEDICAL TREATMENT

Residents are served by the state-run Instituto de Seguridad (INS) hospitals, which also provide an emergency service to visitors for a nominal fee. Most public hospitals are well run, albeit overcrowded, but rural clinics are often poorly equipped. Private hospitals such as Hospital Clínica Bíblica in San José conform to North American and European standards. Hotels usually have a list of reliable doctors, as will your embassy.

Farmacias or boticas (pharmacies), numerous in cities nationwide, sell medicines over the counter, including many drugs that require a prescription in the US, Canada, and European countries. However, visitors with pre-diagnosed conditions should bring medications. The Rojo Cruz (Red Cross) has an ambulance service in major cities and tourist centers. In remote areas, you may find it quicker to take a taxi to the nearest clinic or hospital.

HEALTH HAZARDS

It is easy to underestimate the power of the tropical sun. Sunscreen and hats are recommended for the outdoors. Drink plenty of fluids to guard against dehydration. High humidity and heat may cause heatstroke, with symptoms of thirst, nausea, fever, and dizziness; if this occurs, consult a doctor. Wash and dry clothes often to prevent prickly heat and athlete's foot.

Cover up well and use plenty of insect repellent to avoid diseases such as dengue fever – a viral illness spread by mosquitoes that has no vaccination or medication. Symptoms include fever, headaches, and joint pains, usually lasting about 10 days, after which a month-long recovery is normal. Insect repellents and espirales (mosquito coils) can be bought locally. Treat minor insect bites with antihistamines. If the bites become infected, seek the advice of a local doctor. Bites by poisonous snakes and

Red Cross logo

Mosquito coil and insect repellent

Exterior of a farmacia (pharmacy) in Cartago

DIRECTORY

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

All Emergencies

Tel 911.

OIJ

Tel 2222-1365.

OIJ's Victim Assistance Office

Tel 2295-3643.

Police

Tel 127 or 2222-1365.

Rojo Cruz

Tel 128 or 119.

HOSPITALS

Hospital Clínica Bíblica

Tel 2522-1000.

other wild animals require immediate medical attention. Do not panic, and avoid too much movement.

Shun tap water if possible, and follow basic precautions with food (see p221) to avoid diarrhea and parasitic infections such as giardiasis. For diarrhea, drink lots of bottled water, and see a doctor if the condition becomes chronic.

PUBLIC AMENITIES

Public toilets are virtually nonexistent, and the few that are available are generally unclean. However, most ranger stations in national parks have toilets, as do restaurants and hotels elsewhere. Carry toilet paper.

Banking and Currency

The unit of currency in Costa Rica is the colón, but US dollars are widely accepted throughout the country, and most large hotels, restaurants, and shops take major credit cards. Traveler's checks can also be used at some businesses in major cities and tourist resorts. Foreign currencies, other than the dollar, are generally not accepted, but larger banks will exchange them for colones. Most tourist hotels will also change money, although the exchange rate is usually more favorable at banks. It is wise to have small denomination dollar bills, as many store keepers may not have sufficient change for $50 and $100 bills; others may not accept them, as counterfeit dollar bills are in circulation. There is no limit to the amount of money you may bring in or take out of the country.

Offices of the Banco de Costa Rica

BANKS AND CHANGING MONEY

The largest banks are the state-run Banco de Costa Rica, Banco Nacional, Banco de San José, Banco del Comercio, and Banco Popular, all of which have branches throughout the country. Several major foreign banks have branches in San José. Banks are usually open only on weekdays: state-run banks are typically open from 9am to 3pm and private banks from 8am to 4pm. Avoid bank visits on Friday, which is payday for many Costa Ricans. In rural areas, you may have to wait in line for a considerable time to transact any business.

Many of the bigger banks have cajeros automáticos (ATMs), which accept major bank and credit cards to withdraw colones, usually for a fairly large fee. When drawing cash from ATMs, be aware of your surroundings, and avoid counting your money in public.

Most banks in cities and some tourist centers also have foreign exchange counters, offering more or less the same rates of exchange, which may change daily. The country's two international airports and the major border crossings (see p265)

A Western Union agency in Santa Elena

DIRECTORY

BANKS

Banco de Costa Rica

Calles 4/6 and Ave 2,
San José.
Tel 2284-6600.

Banco Nacional

Calles 2/4 and Ave 1, San José.
Tel 2212-2000.

LOST CARDS AND TRAVELER'S CHECKS

Barclays Bank

www.barclays.com

MasterCard

Tel 0800-011-0184.
www.mastercard.com

Thomas Cook

www.thomascook.co.uk

VISA

Tel 0800-011-0030.
www.visa.com

have casas de cambio (foreign exchange bureaus). All other casas de cambio were outlawed several years ago. Avoid money-changers on the street – many tourists are swindled by these touts.

TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS

Electronic money transfers can be arranged via Moneygram or Western Union to their agents throughout Costa Rica. Money can be made available within minutes of the transaction, but a large commission is charged.

Your home bank can also transfer money to its banking partner in Costa Rica, but this type of transaction usually takes a few days.

CREDIT CARDS AND TRAVELER'S CHECKS

The most widely accepted cards are VISA and MasterCard, and to a lesser extent, American Express and Diners Card. It is possible to use your VISA card to obtain cash advances at banks, but few accept MasterCard for this purpose. Many hotels will also offer cash advances on your credit card.

Traveler's checks can be purchased from your local bank at home, or via the websites of Thomas Cook and Barclays Bank. These checks are generally more secure than credit cards: in the event of loss or theft, you can claim a refund on showing the check receipts, which should therefore be kept separate from the checks themselves.

Traveler's checks can be exchanged for cash at banks for a small commission. You will need to show your passport and sometimes a second photo. They can also be used for purchases in some shops. However, there are now fewer places in Costa Rica that are willing to accept traveler's checks because banks here often put a hold of up to a month on these checks while dispersing funds to creditors.

Logo of a credit card company

CURRENCY

The Costa Rican currency is the colón, symbolized by ¢, and often called a peso. Money is sometimes colloquially referred to as plata or pista by Costa Ricans. Always carry some small denomination coins and bills for tips and minor purchases.

1,000 colones

Bank Notes

Bank notes are in denominations of 1,000, 2,000, 5,000, and 10,000 colones, which are nicknamed cinco teja (five limes), rojo (red), dos rojos (two reds), tucán (toucan), and jaguar respectively.

2,000 colones

5,000 colones

10,000 colones

Coins

Costa Rican coins come in denominations of 5, 10, 20, 25, 50, 100, and 500 colones. Coins minted earlier are in silver; newer ones are golden in color. Loose change is sometimes called menudo.

5 colones

10 colones

25 colones

50 colones

100 colones

500 colones

Communications

Costa Rican post office logo

Telecommunications in Costa Rica are highly developed, and the telephone and email are the most widely used means of communication, not least because the postal service is slow and untrustworthy.

The state-owned Instituto Costarricense de Electricidad (ICE), which controls all telecommunications, provides a free email account to every citizen. Ticos are large-scale users of mobile telephones, although reception is erratic in many areas. As well as receiving international channels, Costa Rica has 12 local television channels and several radio stations. There are three major Spanish newspapers and a few English-language publications.

TELEPHONE CALLS

Public telephone kiosks are usually located on main city streets and in plazas in smaller communities nationwide. In remote villages, which rely on public telephones, they are often found at the local pulpería (grocery store); sometimes it is necessary for the owners to place your call and charge you by the minute. A few public phones still accept

5, 10, and 20 colon coins, but most require CHIP tarjeta telefónica (phone-cards), named for the metallic chip each card carries. Available in denominations of 1,000 and 2,000 colones, they can be purchased at supermarkets, stores, and banks. Tarjeta Colibrí 197 cards and Tarjeta Viajero 199 cards can be used with any phones, including cellular, and require you to key in the number 197 or 199, followed by an individual PIN number found on the back of each card. The 197 cards, sold in denominations of 500 and 1,000 colones, are used for domestic calls, while international calls are made using the 199 cards, which are available in denominations of $10, $20 and 3,000 colones.

Logo of Costa Rica's ICE

The ICE's regional offices in towns offer phone services. Most cities and tourist centers have international telephone bureaus, which charge higher rates than public phones but are cheaper than using a hotel phone. If calling from a hotel, it is cheaper to call the operator at international telephone companies such as AT&T, Sprint, and Worldcom, and get the call charged to your credit card. Many Internet cafés offer free Skype.

Generally, visitors from North America can use their mobile phones in Costa Rica. However, phones from Europe cannot usually be used. Mobile phones are useful to have when traveling in wilderness areas, but the coverage is not total due to the rugged terrain.

USING A PUBLIC CHIP TELEPHONE

1 Lift the receiver and wait for the dial tone. The display will indicate that you should insert your phonecard.

2 Once the phonecard is inserted, the current value of the card will be indicated on the digital display.

3 Key in the number 1 for instructions in Spanish, or 2 for instructions in English.

4 Key in the number you want to dial. While you are dialing, the number you are calling will appear on the display. Once you are connected, the decreasing value of your card will be displayed.

5 When you finish your call, replace the receiver. Your phonecard will be ejected.

Phonecard used in public telephones

DIALING CODES

- Costa Rican telephone numbers have eight digits; there are no area codes.
- Costa Rica's country code is 506.
- For international calls, dial 00 followed by the country code, then the area code and number. Country codes are: Australia 61; Ireland 353; New Zealand 64; South Africa 27; UK 44; USA and Canada 1.
- To make a collect call, dial 110 (domestic) or 116 (international) for the operator. Dial 113 for information. International operators speak English.

An Internet café in La Fortuna

FAX, TELEGRAM, AND EMAIL

Hotels in Costa Rica usually permit you to send faxes for a small fee. International telephone bureaus also offer fax service, as do many post offices. You can send telegrams from major ICE offices, and from Radio-gráfica Costarricense (RACSA), in San José.

Internet cafés are found in every town and even in many small villages. Large hotels usually have business centers, and most modern ones also have Wi-Fi and/or rooms with broadband connections, enabling you to plug in your laptop computer. RACSA operates a monopoly on local Internet servers, and the service can be slow and erratic.

MAIL SERVICE

Most towns and villages have oficinas de correos (post offices), which are usually open from 8am to 4pm, Monday to Friday. However, the mail service is slow and inefficient, and subject to theft. Important documents or valuable items should be sent via an international courier service such as DHL. You can receive mail poste restante at the main post office in San José (see p59). Postboxes tend to be found at post offices only. Postcards and letters can be left with the front desk of major hotels.

COSTA RICAN ADDRESSES

Although most towns are organized into numbered avenidas and calles (streets), few buildings have numbers, scarcely any household or business lists its address, and seldom do people know their own specific street address. Mail deliveries are, therefore, usually made to apartados (post office boxes). The government has attempted to introduce a numbered street system, but progress has been slow.

RADIO AND TELEVISION

The majority of the tourist hotels offer in-room TV service, although this is not true for wilderness lodges and budget cabinas. Upscale hotels usually have cable or satellite service, with leading US stations such as CNN and MTV and some key European stations, as well as Costa Rica's 12 TV stations, which broadcast in Spanish. Large business hotels also offer pay-per-view films, as well as their own channels, which provide travel and hotel information for guests.

The country has more than 100 radio stations, which mainly broadcast solely in Spanish. Radio Paladin (107.5 FM) features music and news in Spanish and English.

Costa Rican stamp advertising the nation's scenic beauty

DIRECTORY

TELEPHONE COMPANIES

AT&T

Tel 0800-011-4114.

Sprint

Tel 163; 0800-013-0123.

Worldcom

Tel 0800-014-4444.

TELEGRAMS

Radiográfica Costarricense

Calle 1 and Ave 5, San José.

Tel 2287-0515.

www.racsa.co.cr

COURIER SERVICES

DHL

Calles 30/32 and Paseo Colón, San José.

Tel 2209-6000.

NEWSPAPERS

Casa de las Revistas

Calle 5 and Ave 3/5, San José.

Tel 2256-5092.

A man reading a newspaper on a park bench in Turrialba

NEWSPAPERS

Costa Rica's three big Spanish-language daily newspapers – La Nación, La Prensa, and La República – are sold at streetside stalls, hotel gift stores, and a few newsagents, which are found only in major cities. The Tico Times is an English-language weekly covering news, environment, arts and culture, and other facets of Costa Rican life. Casa de las Revistas outlets, found in bigger cities, sell international magazines.

TRAVEL INFORMATION

The majority of visitors to Costa Rica arrive at San José's Juan Santamaría International Airport, near Alajuela. The number of international flights landing at Liberia's Daniel Oduber International Airport is increasing, and most major US carriers land here. Costa Rica is also served by bus companies, and many visitors journey overland from the Americas by car. Cruise ships berth on both the Pacific and Caribbean coasts, bringing passengers on day excursions. Costa Rica has a well-developed transportation system. Small planes serve regional airstrips, and buses of varying quality operate in virtually every part of the country. Rental vehicles are a practical alternative to public transport and grant maximum freedom. Nearly all places in the country are within a day's drive of San José. Road conditions, however, vary from well-paved to muddy dirt tracks. The extensive highway system is dilapidated in parts, and driving can be a challenge in certain areas of the country, especially in the wet season. Costa Rica's train service is limited to commuter trains in San José and Heredia.

Tourist bus laden with luggage

Aircraft at San José's Juan Santamaría International Airport

ARRIVING BY AIR

Scheduled direct flights to Costa Rica are offered by leading US airlines, including Delta, American Airlines, United, JetBlue, Spirit Airlines, and US Airways. Grupo Taca, the regional airline of Central America, has scheduled flights from six cities in the US. Services are either direct, or routed via gateways such as Dallas or Miami, while others make one or more stops en route in El Salvador, Mexico City, or Managua. Both Air Canada and Grupo Taca offer service from Canada.

From Europe, Air France and Iberia operate direct scheduled flights, while British Airways connects via Miami. Martinair and Condor have charters from the Netherlands and Germany. Other carriers connect to Miami flights. There are no direct flights from Australia or New Zealand, but passengers can transfer in Los Angeles to a connecting flight.

Timetables are subject to constant change: it is advisable to contact the airline or a travel agent for up-to-date information.

FLIGHT PRICES

Ticket prices to and from Costa Rica vary greatly and change frequently. In general, the earlier you buy your ticket, the easier it is to obtain a reduced rate fare. If you make your booking just prior to departure, you may have to pay full price and, in addition, you run the risk that flights may be sold out, especially during the dry season.

Airlines compete very aggressively with one another, and it pays to compare all the companies' fares; also check their websites for special deals and weigh them against fares available at travel websites such as Expedia, Orbitz, and Travelocity.

APEX fares, which have to be bought at least 21 days in advance, are usually much lower than regular fares, but penalties apply for changes, and refunds are rarely given. Round-trip tickets offer substantial savings over one-way fares. Mid-week travel usually costs less than weekend travel, as does a fixed-date return. Charter flights are often cheaper than scheduled flights, although more restrictions apply. Also note that international air tickets are expensive to buy in Costa Rica.

If you are interested in a particular type of vacation, such as a beach holiday, consider air-and-hotel packages offered by charter airlines and many tour operators. These inclusive vacations usually work out cheaper than independent travel.

A "welcome" sign at an airlines office

ARRIVING BY LAND

There are three border crossings for vehicles, located at Peñas Blancas (between Costa Rica and Nicaragua), and Paso Canoas and Sixaola (both between Costa Rica and Panama). In addition, pedestrians can cross to/from Nicaragua at the town of Los Chiles. If you're driving between the US and Costa Rica, allow at least two weeks for the 2,300-mile (3,700-km) journey. Transit permits and insurance can be arranged through Sanborn's. Rental cars may not be taken across borders.

Many visitors enter and leave Costa Rica by bus. Companies such as Transnica and Ticabus provide international bus services between various Central American countries. Another option is to cross the border on foot and catch onward buses on the other side. Be sure to take care of your personal belongings on cross-border bus trips.

Visas are not required to enter either Nicaragua or Panama, which issue temporary tourist visas at the border.

Driving along a deserted road in Costa Rica

ARRIVING BY SEA

Several cruise ships include Puerto Caldera (on the Pacific) and Puerto Limón (Caribbean) on their itineraries, and allow passengers to disembark for day-long excursions. You can also leave the cruise and remain in Costa Rica for a longer stay.

ORGANIZED TOURS

Several companies in Europe and North America offer organized tours to Costa Rica, often focusing on a particular activity. Nature-oriented trips geared toward bird-watching and other wildlife-viewing are especially popular. Other special-interest vacations include bicycling, whitewater rafting, kayaking, sportfishing, surfing, scuba diving (see pp248-53).

Costa Rica Experts and Costa Rica Connection in North America and Journey Latin America in the UK feature a range of special-interest vacations, as well as tour arrangements that are customized for individual visitors or groups.

DIRECTORY

AIRLINES

Air Canada

Tel 1-888-247-2262.
www.aircanada.com

Air France

Tel (33) 0820-320-820.
www.airfrance.com

American Airlines

Tel 1-800-433-7300.
www.aa.com

British Airways

Tel 0844-493-0787.
www.british-airways.co.uk

Condor

Tel (49) 0180-5-707202.
www.condor.com

Delta

Tel 800-321-1212.
www.delta.com

Grupo Taca

Tel 1-800-400-8222.
www.taca.com

Iberia

Tel (34) 902-400-500.
www.iberia.com

JetBlue

Tel 800-539-2583.
www.jetblue.com

Martinair

Tel (31) 206-011-767.
www.martinair.com

Spirit Airlines

Tel 800-772-1717.
www.spiritair.com

United

Tel 1-800-864-8331.
www.united.com

US Airways

Tel 800-428-4322.
www.usairways.com

FLIGHT PRICES

Expedia

www.expedia.com

Orbitz

www.orbitz.com

Travelocity

www.travelocity.com

ARRIVING BY LAND

Sanborn's

Tel 800-222-0158. www.sanborninsurance.com

Ticabus

Tel 2248-9636.
www.ticabus.com

Transnica

Tel 2223-4242.
www.transnica.com

ORGANIZED TOURS

Costa Rica Connection

1124 Nipomo St,
Suite C, San Luis Obispo,
CA 93401.
Tel 800-345-7422.
www.crconnect.com

Costa Rica Experts

3166 N Lincoln Ave, Suite
424, Chicago, IL 60657.
Tel 773-935-1009.
www.costaricaexperts.com

Journey Latin America

12 Heathfield Terrace,
London W4 4JE.
Tel 020-8747-8315.
www.journeylatinamerica.co.uk

Getting Around Costa Rica

Local bus terminal

Despite the country's compact size, land travel can take considerably longer than visitors might imagine. Air travel offers a relatively economical and easy way of reaching remote regions.

Internal flights are especially convenient for visitors on a tight schedule and for those who wish to concentrate their sightseeing on two or three attractions spaced far apart. Traveling around by bus is a practical and less costly alternative. Buses can be combined with local jeep-taxi services to visit the more isolated spots. Reaching some sights involves the use of a ferry or boat service. For information on driving, see pages 268–9.

A small airplane ready for takeoff in Tortuguero

DOMESTIC FLIGHTS

Scheduled domestic flights from San José's international airport are offered by Sansa, a subsidiary of Grupo Taca. The company links the capital with 16 domestic airstrips, using 22- and 35-passenger Cessnas. Its published itineraries change frequently and are not 100 percent reliable. A slightly superior service is offered by Nature Air, which flies to the same destinations from Tobias Bolaños domestic airport, about 1.2 miles (2 km) west of Parque Sabana in San José.

Airplane tickets can be purchased through travel agents and tour operators, or directly from the airlines. Nature Air offers children's discounts. Note that the timetables vary between wet and dry seasons (see pp34–9). Reservations should be made as far in advance as possible, especially for travel during the peak Christmas and Easter seasons, and during the December–April dry season.

Private companies offer on-demand charter service to airstrips nationwide using 4- to 8-seater aircraft. You need to charter the entire aircraft, including for the return journey, if no additional passengers sign up.

The baggage allowance is 22 lb (10 kg) for Sansa, and 25 lb (11 kg) for Nature Air. This is considerably less than for international flights, and you should plan your baggage accordingly.

LOCAL BUSES AND TERMINALS

More than a dozen private companies offer local bus service, linking San José to towns and villages nationwide. Bus service between large cities is almost always aboard comfortable air-conditioned buses with reclining seats. Shorter trips between smaller towns and villages are typically on older, more basic second-class buses.

There are two types of intercity travel: directo buses offer fast, often nonstop service, while corriente, or normal service, is slower, with more stops en route. The government-regulated fares are rarely more than $10. Advance reservations are recommended for intercity travel. Arrive well ahead of your departure to secure a good seat. Travel with as little baggage as possible, and avoid bus travel on Fridays and Saturdays, when demand peaks. The ICT (see p256) publishes a bus schedule. Rural buses can be waved down at paradas (bus stops) along their routes.

In most towns, the bus terminal – usually a busy and confusing place – is close to the main plaza. Some towns have several bus terminals. There are two main bus terminals in San José, with additional bus stations dispersed downtown. Buses to the Caribbean leave from Gran Terminal Caribe, and to most other parts of the country from bus stops concentrated in an area called “Coca Cola,” which is located west of downtown. The Coca Cola terminal has a reputation for pickpockets and muggings: be on your guard in this area.

A public bus in the tourist hub of La Fortuna

A colectivo (pickup truck) heading for Puerto Jiménez

BUSES FOR TOURISTS AND ORGANIZED TOURS

Some bus companies cater to the tourist market. Direct bus service linking the most popular tourist destinations is offered by Interbus and Grayline, which also has shuttles between San José and Juan Santamaría International Airport. Interbus offers door-to-door pick-up and drop-off. Grayline has discounts for children and seniors. Juan Santamaría International Airport is also served by Tuasa buses, which operate between Alajuela and San José.

Sightseeing tours on offer give excellent overviews of the nation or specific regions; others specialize in nature-viewing and other activities. Leading operators include Costa Rica Expeditions and Costa Rica's Temptations (see p253).

TAXIS AND CAMIONES

Taxis gather around the central plazas in most towns, and can also be summoned by phone. Licensed taxis are red (or orange for airport taxis) and have a white triangle showing the license number on the front door. Fares are regulated for journeys under 9 miles

(15 km); the rates for longer journeys are negotiable. Never take a private, unlicensed taxi – many tourists have been robbed by the drivers or their accomplices. Jeep-taxis serve many communities where local roads are mountainous or unpaved. The most remote communities and tourist destinations are also served by camiones or colectivos – usually open-bed pickup trucks with seats and awnings. They follow fixed routes, and can be flagged down anywhere along the route. Colectivos normally charge a flat fee, regardless of distance.

Local taxi

DIRECTORY

AIRLINES

Nature Air

Tel 2299-6000.

www.natureair.com

Sansa

Tel 2229-4100.

www.flysansa.com

BUS COMPANIES AND TERMINALS

Grayline

Tel 2220-2126.

www.graylinecostarica.com

Interbus

Tel 2283-5573.

www.interbusonline.com

Tuasa

Ave 2 and Calles 12/14,
San José.

Tel 2222-5325.

TAXIS

Coopetaxi (San José)

Tel 2235-9966.

BOATS AND FERRIES

Car and passenger ferries link Puntarenas with Naranjo and Paquera, in Nicoya. Small boats also offer water-taxi service between Puntarenas and Paquera, Jacó and Montezuma, and Sierpe and Bahía Drake, along the Tortuguero Canal, and throughout Golfo Dulce. Visitors can also go on trips on tour- or hired boats along Costa Rica's many rivers, canals, and swamps.

Passengers waiting to board a boat at Isla Tortuga

Traveling by Car

License plate

Getting around by car is the most flexible way of exploring Costa Rica, as it grants easy access to some of the country's most remarkable scenery. Roads between towns are usually paved, although even newly laid roads rarely survive a single wet season without developing huge potholes. Many minor roads are dirt and gravel, especially beyond the Central Highlands, and often turn into muddy quagmires during the wet season. A 4WD vehicle is thus essential for exploring beyond the major cities. Drivers need to take precautions, as conditions are frequently hazardous. Do not drive at night. Locally available maps are not reliable; carry a road atlas published by a reputed company.

Street with No Parking sign

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Costa Ricans drive on the right, and the speed limits are 50 mph (80 km/h) on major highways, and 37 mph (60 km/h) on secondary roads. Tránsitos (traffic police) patrol the highways in blue cars and use radar guns to catch speeders, but are not permitted to collect money. Occasionally a corrupt police official may try to extract a bribe (see p258). Fines should be paid in a bank, or to the rental car agency.

The use of seat belts is compulsory, but few Costa Ricans use seat belts and laws are rarely enforced. If you're traveling with young children, bring a car seat, as rental car agencies do not supply them.

ROAD NETWORK AND CLASSIFICATION

The country is covered by 18,650 miles (30,000 km) of highway. However, only 20 percent is paved, with the Central Highlands appropriating a large chunk of the total. The percentage of unpaved roads increases with distance from the capital; however, more and more dirt roads are now being paved.

Accurate maps are difficult to come by. The National Geographic Adventure Map and the detailed Costa Rica Nature Atlas are recommended.

ROAD HAZARDS

Since many roads are severely potholed, drive slowly to avoid bending a wheel. Keep your speed down especially on corrugated and loose gravel roads, where it is easy to lose traction. Watch for pedestrians and animals in the road, especially outside towns, where few roads have sidewalks. Particularly during the wet season, mountain roads are often foggy and subject to landslides, while lowland roads are prone to flooding.

Many river crossings require fording. Use caution in the wet season, when rivers can be too deep or fast-flowing to ford. Ask locals about current conditions. Edge slowly into the river; rushing forward can flood and stall the engine.

Beware drivers running stop signs, overtaking when there is barely enough room to do so, or driving too close behind the vehicle in front (tailgating). Costa Rican drivers often use their left-turn signal to indicate to drivers behind that they are free to overtake. Be careful in such situations: the vehicle may actually be turning left. A pile of sticks and leaves at the roadside often indicates a broken down vehicle or some other hazard ahead.

Avoid parking on a street overnight. Most towns have inexpensive parking lots with security guards. Never leave any items in a parked vehicle.

FUEL STATIONS

Costing about 600 colones per liter, gasolina is unleaded, and is called "Super." Gasolineras (gas stations) are plentiful in towns, but much scarcer in rural areas, especially in Nicoya. Refill whenever the tank drops to half-full. In remote areas, gasoline is usually available at pulperías (grocery stores), where it may cost twice as much as at regular gas stations.

Gas stations are typically open 6am to midnight and are not self-service. Some are open 24 hours, and most will accept credit card payments.

DIRECTIONS AND ROAD SIGNS

Few roads in Costa Rica have directions or mile posts. In towns, street names are rarely signposted and those signs that do exist are frequently incorrect. So, when asking anyone for directions it is best to check where the Range Rover on a dirt road near Ojochal village, southern Costa Rica

One of the infrequent road signs in Costa Rica road goes rather than to name your desired destination.

Road signs use international symbols. Alto means "stop," ceda means "yield," and mantenga du derecha means "keep right." Tímulo indicates a road bump ahead, while derrumbe denotes a landslide or falling rocks.

ACCIDENTS AND INSURANCE

If an accident occurs, call Tránsitos. Do not abandon your vehicle, and do not let the other party move his or her vehicle. If possible, obtain the cédulas (identification) and license number of the other driver. If anyone is injured, call the Red Cross (see p259). Rental cars have a red triangle for emergencies; place this in the road a safe distance from your accident site to warn other vehicles. Otherwise, make a small pile of stones and branches, in the Costa Rican manner. If you own the vehicle, you will need to report the accident to the Instituto Nacional de Seguridad (INS), which handles all insurance claims.

CAR AND MOTORCYCLE RENTAL

To rent a car in Costa Rica you must be over 21, and have a valid driver's license. Some agencies require a minimum age of 25 years. Visits of over three months need a domestic drivers' license.

International car rental companies such as Alamo,

Budget, and Hertz have local franchises at the international airports, and in San José and a few leading tourist centers; some local agencies also exist. Discover Costa Rica offers all-inclusive fly/drive packages. A 4WD vehicle is needed for rural areas, where high ground clearance and extra traction are called for. Companies such as U-Save have a wide variety of 4WD vehicles, while Costa Rica's Temptations (see p253) offers adventure tours by Land Rover.

Stop sign

Prices are generally lower in the wet season, and unlimited mileage options generally work out the cheapest. When pre-booking, get a written confirmation. Insurance is compulsory and costs extra; check to see if the quotation includes insurance and, if so, get it confirmed in writing.

Many companies, including the chain brands, are not entirely trustworthy. Before signing the contract, ensure that the vehicle is in good condition and keep a note of any scratches or other faults. Companies often require

A line of rental 4WD vehicles awaiting customers

DIRECTORY

ACCIDENTS

Tránsitos

Tel 117; 911; 222-9330.

INSURANCE

Instituto Nacional de Seguridad (INS)

Tel 800-800-80000.

CAR RENTAL COMPANIES

Alamo

Tel 2233-7733.

www.alamocostarica.com

Budget

Tel 2436-2000.

www.budget.co.cr

Discover Costa Rica

Tel 2293-8109.

www.allcostarica.com
destinations.com

Hertz

Tel 2221-1818.

www.costaricarentacar.com

U-Save

Tel 2430-4647.

www.usavecostarica.com

MOTORCYCLE HIRE

María Alexander Tours

Tel 2289-5552.

www.costaricamotorcycles.com customers to sign a blank credit card slip, which is torn up when the car is returned intact. When returning the car, bring a trusted friend if possible: unscrupulous employees of the agency may tamper with the vehicle if you leave it unattended while clearing your bill. Check the final bill for any questionable charges, which you may dispute.

Bicycles, mopeds, and motorcycles can be rented in San José and major tourist resorts. María Alexander Tours rents Harley Davidson motorcycles and has tours for people 25 years or older. Helmets are mandatory.

Getting Around San José

Public bus

Most places of interest are centrally located, and within walking distance of one another and downtown hotels and restaurants. The best way to explore central San José is on foot, although you will need to rely on some other form of transport to reach the suburbs and outlying areas. The city's public transportation system is crowded, although an efficient taxi system eases the burden of traveling around by bus. It is not advisable to drive around San José, especially during morning and afternoon rush hour when the roads become extremely congested.

Pedestrians on Avenida Central, San José's busiest pedestrian road

WALKING

The most practical way to explore the heart of San José is by walking, which permits you to enjoy the city at close quarters. Laid out in an easy-to-understand grid pattern, the city center makes for convenient strolling.

However, the sidewalks are narrow and crowded, and pedestrians are often forced to step into the street. Downtown streets are thronged with traffic, and pedestrians should take great care. Do not assume that vehicles will automatically stop at pedestrian crossings, or give way to pedestrians on the road when traffic lights turn to green. Be especially careful of buses, which often drive onto the sidewalks when turning corners.

Beware of pickpockets, especially in crowded places. Avoid wearing jewelry. Carry valuables in a money belt, and hold your camera in front, with the strap over your neck rather than on your shoulder. Keep to busy, well-lit streets at night, when you should avoid the streets northwest of the Mercado Central (see p58) and southwest of Parque Central (see pp56), as well as Parque Nacional (see pp68-9) and Parque Morazán (see p66).

There is usually a cooling breeze blowing at all times. Remember, however, that the sun's rays are fierce at this altitude and latitude, and you should wear a shade hat and sunscreen. There are usually cafés close at hand, permitting you to escape the heat and noise. Always come prepared for late afternoon showers, especially during wet season, when you will need an umbrella. These can be bought at roadside street stalls.

BUSES

Buses are cheap but overcrowded, and run from 5am to 10pm. There is no central bus terminal for city buses. Routes are identified by destination, shown above the front window, rather than by number. Free route maps are available from the ICT office (see p257). An important bus route is the Sabana-Cementerio one, which links the city center and Parque Sabana, running eastbound along Avenida 10 and westbound along Avenida 3. Public buses to the airport depart from Avenida 2, Calles 12/14. Buses to San José's suburbs fill up fast, and you should board at the original departure point. Watch out for pickpockets while traveling by bus: it's a good idea to wear your money belt inside your clothes.

TAXIS

Taxis are numerous and can be hailed on the street or via your hotel concierge. However, they are in short supply during rush hour and heavy rains. The main taxi rank in San José is around Parque Central. Licensed taxis are red; a lighted sign on the roof indicates that the taxi is available. Most taxis take four passengers, and the older cabs rarely have seatbelts.

You can pay in dollars or colones. Taxis are good value by US or European standards, and rarely does a fare within the city center cost more than $15. Taxis are required by law to use their marías (meters) for journeys of less than 9.5 miles (15 km). Many drivers decline to do so in anticipation of being able to charge you extra.

Taxi drivers do not expect tips, although a 10 percent tip is appreciated. Many private drivers offer unlicensed taxi service. They usually charge more than licensed taxis, and have a reputation for being unsafe. Never take an unlicensed taxi, however trustworthy you believe the driver to be.

Sign on local taxis

Bustling street outside the Mercado Central

DRIVING

Even if you are used to driving in cities, exploring San José by car can be a nerve-racking experience and is best avoided unless you know the city well. Josefinos are aggressive drivers, and often display a marked lack of consideration for other drivers. Many drivers will proceed through red lights if no traffic is coming the other way, especially at night, when extreme care is needed. A green light does not necessarily mean the road is clear. When approaching an amber light, be aware that the driver behind you may not expect you to stop, and may speed up to run the red light.

The speed limit is 18 mph (30 km/h) on urban streets. The city center has one multilevel car park and numerous other parking lots. At most of them, you need to pay an attendant and may be required to leave your ignition keys. Never leave valuables inside the car, even in guarded parking lots. Route 39, the Circunvalación, is a ring road that runs around the west, south, and east of the city. Avenida Central leads east to the University of Costa Rica and the busy suburb of San Pedro (see p71). To the west, Paseo Colón links the city center to Parque Sabana and the Autopista General Cañas, which leads to the airport and Alajuela. Another freeway, the Autopista Prospero Fernández, runs west from Parque Sabana (see p74) to Escazú (see p75).

Traffic normally flows in both directions along Paseo Colón, except from 7am to 9am, Monday to Friday, when it is one-way eastbound, and 8am to 5pm on Sunday, when it is closed to traffic.

The one-way system and grid pattern in the city center help lubricate traffic flow, but traffic jams can persist throughout the day on some streets. During rush hour, Avenidas 8 and 9 are usually the best routes to follow when crossing the city from east to west; Avenida 10 is recommended when heading west to east.

DIRECTIONS AND SIGNS

Within the city center, even-numbered avenidas lie north of Avenida Central and odd-numbered avenidas are to the south; even-numbered calles are west of Calle

Central, and odd-numbered calles are to the east as far as the Circunvalación.

Avenida Central is pedestrianized between Calle 6 and Calle 7, as are Calle 2 between Avenidas 2 and 3, and Calle 17 (Bulevar Ricardo Jiménez) between Avenidas 1 and 8. However, streets are poorly signed. Traffic lights, which are normally suspended over the center of junctions, are often difficult to see.

Cautionary sign for seat belts

Traffic along Calle Central, the capital city's main north-south thoroughfare

General Index

Page numbers in bold type refer to main entries.

7th Street Books (San José) 251, 253

A

Accidents 269
 Accommodations
 see Hotels
 Aerial trams 24
 Arenal Rainforest Reserve and Aerial Tram 10, 146, 149, 151
 Pacific Rainforest Aerial Tram (Jacó) 114
 Rainforest Aerial Tram 146, 159
 African oil palms 107, 116
 Aguas Termales (San Gerardo) 178, 179
 Agujitas 190
 Air Canada 264, 265
 Air fares see Flight prices
 Air France 264, 265
 Air travel 264, 266
 Airlines 264, 265, 266, 267
 Airports 264
 Alajuela 9, 43, 44, 81, 82, 84
 festivals 35
 hotels 203–204
 restaurants 227
 Alajuela (province) 16, 48–9
 Alamo 269
 Albergue Finca Educativa Indígena (Shiroles) 173
 Alcañía (Puerto Limón) 165
 Alcohol 221
Alegoría a la Patria y la Justicia (Roberto Fontana) 61
 Alfaro, Don Anastasio 104
 Alvarado, Teodorico Quiros 19, 67, 74, 75
 Alvarez, Guadalupe 165
 American Airlines 264, 265
 Amighetti, Francisco 74
 Andrómeda Gallery (San José) 238, 241
 Angie Theologos (San José) 240, 241
 Angling see Sportfishing
 Anteaters 21
 Antigua Estación Ferrocarril al Atlántico (San José) 71
Apartotels 197
 Aquamor (Manzanillo) 173
 Aquitaba 103
 Arenal Bungee (La Fortuna) 148
 Arenal Hanging Bridges 144, 146, 149, 151
 Arenal Mundo Aventura (La Fortuna) 148
 Arenal Observatory Lodge (Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal) 149, 213
 Arenal Rainforest Reserve and Aerial Tram 10, 146, 149, 151
 Arenal Volcano see Volcán Arenal
 Arenal Volcano National Park see Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal
 Arenal Waterfall Gardens (La Fortuna) 148
 Arias, Oscar 17
 Ark Herb Farm (Heredia) 92
Arribadas 141
 Playa Nancite 134
 Playa Ostional 140

Artes Tulio (Monteverde) 238, 241
 Arts 19
 Indigenous art 32–3, 239
 Art galleries 238, 241
 Galería de Arte Contemporáneo Mary Ann Zürcher (Islita) 140
 Galería Nacional (Centro Costarricense de Ciencias Cultura, San José) 72
 Gallery at Home (Guápiles) 164, 238
 Asamblea Legislativa (San José) 54, 69, 70
 Aserri 97
 Asociación ANAI 172, 173
 Atenas
 festivals 37
 hotels 204
 restaurants 227
 Atlantic Railroad 45, 101, 156, 161, 165
 ATMs 260
 Aviarios del Caribe Wildlife Refuge (Cahuita) 170

B

Backroads (outfitter) 250, 253
 Bahía Ballena (Southern Nicoya) 111
 Bahía Ballena (Southern Zone) 29
 Bahía Chatham 193
 Bahía Culebra 136
 hotels 208
 Bahía Drake (Península de Osa) 11, 176, 177, 188, 190
 hotels 216
 restaurants 236
 sportfishing 117
 Bahía Salinas 122, 132
 hotels 208
 windsurfing 251
 Bahía Wafer 193
 Bajo del Tigre Trail (Monteverde and Santa Elena) 124
 Bajos del Toro
 hotels 204
 Baldi Termae Spa (La Fortuna) 148
 Ballet 244, 247
 Balnearios Termales Orosi (Orosi) 100
 Bananas 159, 164, 175
 Bananero La Colonia (Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí) 156
 Banco de Costa Rica 260
 Banco Nacional 260
 Bank notes 261
 Banks 260–61
 Barca, Calderón de la 60
 Barra de Parismina 166
 Barra del Colorado
 hotels 214
 Barra del Colorado National Wildlife Refuge see Refugio Nacional de Fauna Silvestre Barra del Colorado Barrió Amon (San José) 8, 54, 67
 shopping 238
 wall mural 6–7
 Barry Biesanz Woodworks (Escazú) 75, 240
 Barva 82, 92–3
 Basílica de Nuestra Señora de los Ángeles (Cartago) 93, 94–5, 247
 Basulta, Rafael Elizondo 178

Bats 21
 Beaches 21, 28–9
 Cabo Matapalo 189, 190, 216, 236
 Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya 10
 surfing (Northern Nicoya) 137 see also Playa
 Beaches of Nosara 140
 Beethoven, Ludwig van 60
 Bella Vista Lodge (Escaleras) 182, 217, 250
 Benito, José Sancho 68
 Best Western (hotel chain) 196, 199
 Biblioteca Nacional (San José) 68
 Bien, Amos 159
 Biesanz, Barry 19, 75, 240
 Bijagua
 hotels 212
 Birds 26–7
 frigate birds 26, 185
 harpy eagle 23
 hummingbirds 27, 91, 127, 128, 158, 164
 macaws 26, 114, 158, 191
 resplendent quetzals 84, 87, 90, 96, 101, 127, 128, 132, 179
 three-wattled bellbirds 20 toucans 23, 26, 84
 trogons 26
 waterbirds 21, 26–7
 Bird-watching 10, 26, 158, 249
 see also National Parks and wildlife reserves
Birds of Costa Rica (Dr. Alexander Skutch) 178
 Bishop's Castle (Barrio Amón, San José) 67
 Blanco, Don Evangelisto 87
 Blanco, Otilio Ulate 46
 Boats 267
 Boca Damas 108, 115
 Boca San Carlos 156
 Bocas de Nosara 140
 Bolívar, Simón 66, 70
 Boruca 32, 33, 34, 35, 175, 184
 Boruca (village) 184
 festivals 34, 35
 Bosque de Paz Rain/Cloud Forest Biological Reserve 82, 87
 hotels 204
 Botanical gardens
 Arenal Botanical Gardens 144, 150, 152
 Casa de Orquídeas (Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas) 192
 Chester's Field Botanical Gardens (Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí) 155
 Costa Flores (near Guápiles) 164
 Finca la Isla Botanical Garden (Puerto Viejo de Talamanca) 172
 Jardín Botánico Lankester 82, 93, 240
 Jardín Pura Vida (Parque Nacional Carara) 114
 Las Cusingas 162, 164
 Sarapiquí Heliconia Island 146, 158
 Vivero Poporí (near Tilarán) 130
 Vivero Solera (near Tambor) 111
 Wilson Botanical Gardens (Las Cruces Biological Station) 179
 Botos Lake 90

- Boutique Annemarie (San José) 239, 241
 Boutique hotels 196
 Braulio Carrillo National Park see Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo
 Brenes, José María Zeledón 66
 Brenes, Manco Tulio 238
 Brenes, Miguela 92
 Bribrí 32, 173, 184
 British Airways 264, 265
 Bromeliads 22, 172, 183
 Bry, Theodor de 42
 Budget hotels 197
 Buena Vista Mountain Lodge & Adventure Center (Rincón de la Vieja) 132, 211, 250
 Buenos Aires 173, 179, 184
 festivals 35
 Bulevar Ricardo Jiménez (San José) 69, 71
 Bullfights see Recorridos de tores
 Burle-Marx, Roberto 179
 Buses
 local 266–7
 international 265
 San José 270
 tourist 267
 Butterflies 20, 85, 126
 Butterfly farms and gardens 85
 Butterfly Farm (La Guácima) 9, 84
 Butterfly Garden (La Paz Waterfall Gardens) 91
 Ecocentro Danaus Butterfly Farm and Tropical Garden (La Fortuna) 148
 Fincas Naturales Wildlife Refuge & Butterfly Garden (Quepos) 116
 Jardín de Mariposas (El Castillo) 149
 La Seva Biological Station 146, 158
 Lighthouse Point (Jacó) 114
 Mariposario (Puerto Viejo de Talamanca) 172
 Monteverde Nature Center and Butterfly Gardens 124, 126
 Selvatura Park (Santa Elena) 128
C
 Cabinas 197
 Cabécar 32, 100, 173
 Cabo Blanco Absolute Wildlife Reserve see Reserva Natural Absoluta Cabo Blanco Cabo Matapalo 189, 190
 hotels 216
 restaurants 236
 Cabrera, Miguel 142
 Cacao Biological Station (Parque Nacional Guanacaste) 132
 Café Brit 9, 82, 92, 240
 Cahuita 11, 161, 162, 163, 170
 beaches 29
 festivals 35, 246
 hotels 214–15
 restaurants 235
 scuba diving 252
 Caimans 21, 119
 Calderon, Rafael Angel 45, 46
 Calderon, Rafael Angel (Jr.) 47
 Calvo, Fernando 59, 86
 Calypso Cruises (Isla Tortuga) 111
 Camiones 267
 Camping 197
 Canal de Tortuguero 167, 168–9
 tour 166
 Cañas 122, 130
 festivals 36
 hotels 208
 restaurants 231
 Caño Blanco 166
 Caño de Penitencia 166
 Caño Negro (village) 154
 festivals 36
 hotels 212
 sportfishing 251
 Caño Negro Wildlife Refuge see Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro
 Canopy tours 24–5, 249
 Corcovado Canopy Tour (Los Planos) 190
 Crazy Monkey Canopy Ride (Puerto Viejo de Talamanca) 172
 locations 25
 Los Angeles Cloud Forest Private Biological Reserve 87
 Original Canopy Tour 249, 253
 Sky Walk/SkyTrek (Santa Elena) 128
 Witch's Rock Canopy Tour (Bahía Culebra) 136
 see also Aerial trams, Zipline tours
 Car rental 269
 Car travel see Driving
 Carara National Park
 see Parque Nacional Carara
 Carate 189, 191
 hotels 216–17
 Cariari Country Club (Central Highlands) 250, 253
 Caribbean 250, 173
 Afro-Caribbean culture 11, 161, 162, 170
 area map 162–3
 Canal de Tortuguero Tour 196
 cuisine 222
 getting around 163
 hotels 214–16
 restaurants 235–6
 Carmen 112
 Carnaval (Puerto Limón) 37, 165, 246
 Carnegie, Andrew 66
 Carretas 18, 75, 86, 87, 239
 Día del Boyero 35, 75
 Fiesta de las Carretas 37
 Carrillo, Braulio 44
 Cartago 42, 44, 82, 93
 Basílica de Nuestra Señora de los Angeles (Cartago) 93, 94–5, 247
 festivals 36, 247
 Cartago (province) 16
 Casa Amarilla (Parque España) 66
 Casa de Habano (San José) 240, 241
 Casa de la Cultura (Heredia) 92
 Casa de Orquídeas (Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas) 192
 Casa el Soñador (Orosi Valley) 99, 100
 Casa Rosada (Asamblea Legislativa, San José) 69
 Casa Verde (Barrio Amón, San José) 67
 Cascada de la Muerte (Cavernas de Venado) 154
 Cascada de la Llorona (Parque Nacional Corcovado) 191
 Castillo Azul (Asamblea Legislativa, San José) 69, 70
 Casinos 246
 Castro, Fidel Tristán 67
 Catarata La Fortuna 148
 Catarata Manantial de Agua Viva (Parque Nacional Carara) 114
 Cathedrals and churches
 Basílica de Nuestra Señora de los Angeles (Cartago) 93, 94–5, 247
 Catedral de Alajuela (Alajuela) 84
 Catedral Metropolitana (San José) 54, 56, 58
 Iglesia de Grecia (Grecia) 86
 Iglesia de la Agonía (Liberia) 131
 Iglesia de la Parroquia (Cartago) 93
 Iglesia de Nuestra Señora de la Limpia Concepción (Ujarrás) 99, 100
 Iglesia de San Bartolomé de Barva (Barva) 92–3
 Iglesia de San José de Orosi (Orosi) 82, 100
 Iglesia de Sarchí (Sarchí) 81, 86
 Iglesia Imaculada Concepción de María (Liberia) 131
 Iglesia Parroquia San Blas (Nicoya) 142
 Iglesia Santo Cristo de la Agonía (Alajuela) 84
 La Mariana (Los Angeles Cloud Forest Private Biological Reserve) 87
 La Parroquia de la Imaculada Concepción (Heredia) 92
 Cavallón, Juan de 42
 Cavernas de Venado 10, 146, 154
 Central America Free Trade Area (CAFTA) 47
 Central Highlands 8, 9, 80–105
 area map 82–3
 getting around 83
 hotels 203–206
 Orosi Valley 98–100
 restaurants 227–9
 volcanoes 9
 whitewater rafting 9, 102
 Central Pacific and Southern Nicoya 8, 9, 106–19
 area map 108–109
 crocodile safari 9, 108, 114, 115
 getting around 109
 hotels 206–208
 Monteverde and Santa Elena 124–8
 Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio 118–19
 restaurants 229–31
 sportfishing 117, 251
 surfing 9
 Centro Agronómico Tropical de Investigación y Enseñanza (CATIE) 101
 Centro Ambientalista El Páramo (Parque Nacional Chirripo) 181
 Centro Comercial El Pueblo (San José) 8, 238, 241
 Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura (San José) 8, 54, 72–3

- Centro Cultural Costarricense Norteamericano (San José) 244, 247
- Centro de Rescate Las Pumas (Cañas) 130
- Centro Nacional de la Cultura (San José) 54, 67, 68
- Centro Neotropico Sarapiquí 10, 146, 155
- Cerro Chirripó 11, 175, 176, 180, 181
- Cerro de la Muerte 176, 178
- Cerro Frio 96
- Chachagua hotels 212 restaurants 234 shopping 239
- Chacón, Don Efraín 96
- Chain hotels 196, 199
- Chain restaurants 220
- Charming & Nature Hotels of Costa Rica 198, 199
- Chartered flights 266
- Chester's Field Botanical Gardens (Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí) 155
- Chibchas 41, 63, 175
- Children's Museum see Museo de los Niños
- Chirripó Cloudbridge Reserve 179
- Chirripó National Park see Parque Nacional Chirripó
- Choice Hotels (hotel chain) 196, 199
- Chorotega 33, 121, 143
- Chorotega pottery 33, 121, 143, 239
- Cigars 240, 241
- Gigar Shoppe (San José) 240, 241
- Cinema 247
- Cinepolis (San José) 247
- Cira 103
- Ciudad Cariari restaurants 227
- Ciudad Neily 177 hotels 217 restaurants 236
- Ciudad Quesada (San Carlos) 145, 146, 154-5 festivals 35 shopping 240
- Classical music 244, 247
- Climate 34, 36, 38-9
- Clothes see Garments, What to wear
- Cloud forests 10, 20, 129 Bosque de Paz Rain/Cloud Forest Biological Reserve 87 flora and fauna 129 Genesis II 96 Los Angeles Cloud Forest Private Biological Reserve 82, 86-7 Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde 16, 125, 127, 248 Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena 124, 128
- Club Amateur de Pesca (San José) 251, 253
- Club Hípico la Caraña (near Escazú) 250, 253
- Coastline of Costa Rica 21
- Coca Cola terminal (San José) 266-7
- Coco Loco Art Gallery and Café (Chachagua) 234, 239
- Coffee 30-31, 44-5 shopping 240, 241, 243
- Coffee estates
- Café Britt 9, 82, 92, 240 Doka Estate 9, 82, 90
- Coffee mural (Aleardo Villa) 61
- Coffee tours see Coffee estates
- Coins 62, 261
- Colectivos see Camiones*
- Columbus, Christopher 41, 42, 165
- Columbus, Fernando 165
- Compañía de Lírica Nacional 245, 247
- Compañía Nacional de Danza 67, 245, 247
- Communications 262-3
- Condor (airlines) 264, 265
- Conquistadors see Spanish conquistadors
- Consulates 257
- Continental (airlines) 264, 265
- Controlaría de la República (Parque Sabana, San José) 74
- Coopesilencio (Savegre) 116, 208
- Coopetaxi (San José) 267
- Cooprena (hotel agent) 197, 199
- Corcovado Canopy Tour (Los Planos) 190
- Córdoba, Francisco Fernández de 42
- Corobicí 41, 145
- Coronado, Juan Vásquez de 42, 66, 93
- Costa Flores (near Guápiles) 164
- Costa Rica orientation map 12-13 Road Map inside back cover
- Costa Rica Biking Adventure 250, 253
- Costa Rica Connection 265
- Costa Rica Expeditions 248, 253
- Costa Rica Experts 265
- Costa Rica Nature Atlas* 268
- Costa Rica Outdoors* 248
- Costa Rica Sun Tours 248, 253
- Costa Rica's Temptations 248, 253
- Costa Rican Art Museum see Museo de Arte Costarricense
- Costa Rican Institute of Electricity see Instituto Costarricense de Electricidad (ICE)
- Costa Rican Science and Cultural Center see Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura
- Costa Rican Tourism Institute see Instituto Costarricense de Turismo (ICT)
- Courier services 263
- Cowboy culture 121, 131, 142
- Craft stores 239, 241
- Crafts see Handicrafts
- Crazy Monkey Canopy Ride (Puerto Viejo de Talamanca) 172
- Creaciones Santos (Escazú) 240, 241
- Credit cards 221, 238
- Crocodile safari 9, 108, 114, 115
- Crocodiles 21, 115, 134
- Cruise West (USA) 249, 253
- Cueva Terciópelo (Parque Nacional Barra Honda) 143
- Culture 15
- Currency 260-61
- Curú National Wildlife Refuge see Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Curú
- Cusinga Lodge 182
- Customs information 256
- Cycling 250, 253
- Czepulos, Chester 155
- D
- Da Vinci, Leonardo 100
- Danaide* (Max Jiménez Huete) 74
- Dance 244, 247
- Dance schools 246, 247
- Daniel Oduber International Airport (Liberia) 264
- Davila, Gil González 42, 142
- Deep sea fish 117
- Deredia, Jorge Jiménez 19, 56, 58, 73
- Desamparados 97
- Día de Nuestra Señora de la Virgen de los Ángeles (Cartago) 36, 94
- Día del Boyero (Escazú) 35, 75
- Diquis 41, 62, 63, 175, 184, 188
- Diría 142
- Disabled travelers 257 hotels 199
- Discos 246, 247
- Dodwell, Sarah 238
- Dolphins 189 Tuxací dolphin 172, 173
- Domestic flights 266
- Dominical 176, 182 hotels 217 restaurants 236
- Don Quixote* 67
- Dos Brazos (Península de Osa) 189
- Drake, Sir Francis 190
- Driving 265, 268-9
- Dry forests 10, 21, 133
- Parque Nacional Santa Rosa 122, 132, 133, 134-5
- Reserva Biológica Lomas Barbudal 132, 130-31
- Duplantier, Amón Fasileau 67
- E
- EARTH 162, 164
- Ecocentro Danaus Butterfly Farm and Tropical Garden (La Fortuna) 148
- Economy 17
- Ecotourism 47
- Edificio Correos (San José) 8, 54, 59, 64-5
- Edificio del Plenario (Asamblea Legislativa) 70
- Edificio Metálico (San José) 54, 66
- El Avión (Quepos) 116
- El Castillo 151
- El Cuartel de la Boca del Monte (San José) 246, 247
- El Fausto de Gournaud* 60, 245
- El Fortín (Heredia) 92
- El Guerrero (Museo del Oro Precolombino, San José) 62
- El Ocotol Diving Safaris (Playa Ocotol) 253
- El Porton Rojo* (Teodorico Quirós Alvarado) 74
- El Pueblo (San José) 246, 247
- El Rosario de Naranjo hotels 204
- El Silencio de los Angeles Reserve 87
- Electricity 257 Instituto Costarricense de Electricidad (ICE) 100, 150, 262

- Email 263
 Emergency numbers 259
Encomienda system 42, 43
 Entertainment 244-7
Építome del Vuelo (José Sancho Benito) 68
 Erickson, Patricia 164, 238
 Escaleras (Dominical) 182
 hotels 217
 Escazú 54, 75
 festivals 35
 hotels 202
 restaurants 225-6
 shopping 240?
 Esmeraldas y Diseños (San José) 240, 241
 Esquinas Rainforest Lodge (Piedras Blancas) 192, 218 Esterillos
 hotels 206
Evelia con baton
 (Francisco Zúñiga) 67
 Expedia 264, 265
- F
 Fábrica de Carretas Joaquín Chaverri (Sarchí) 86, 239
 Fallas, Carlos Luis 19
 Fax 263
 Feria de Orquideas (San José) 35
 Fernández, Juan Mora 44
 Fernández, Máximo 70
 Ferries 267
 Ferrón, Luis 74
 Festivals and fairs 34-7, 246-7
 Carnaval (Puerto Limón) 37, 165
 Día de Nuestra Señora de la Virgen de los Ángeles (Cartago) 36, 94
 Día de San Isidro Labrador (San Isidro de El General) 36
 Día del Boyero (Escazú) 35, 75
 Feria de Orquideas (San José) 35
 Fiesta de los Diablitos (Buenos Aries and Boruca) 33, 35, 184
 Fiesta de la Yegüita (Nicoya) 34, 142
 International Festival of Music 36, 246, 247
 Figueres, José "Don Pepe" 46, 47, 70
 Finca Ecológico (Monteverde and Santa Elena) 124
 Finca Eddie Serrano (Salispuedes, near Genesis II) 96, 205
 Finca La Suerte (near Guápiles) 164
 Finca Lomas (Manzanillo) 173
 Finca la Isla Botanical Garden (Puerto Viejo de Talamanca) 172
 Finca Los Caballos (near Montezuma) 112
 Fincas Naturales Wildlife Refuge and Butterfly Garden (Quepos) 116
 Fish see Deep sea fish
 Fishing see Sportfishing
 Flight prices 264, 265
 Fontana, Roberto 61
 Flor de Mayo (Alajuela) 84
 Flor, Juan Lopez de la 100
 Flora
 bromeliads 22, 172, 183
 heliconias 158, 164, 183
 orchids 93, 124, 126, 130, 170, 183, 192
 Flora (cont.)
 tropical flowers 183
 see also Cloud forest, Dry forest, Mangroves, Rainforests
 Florblanca Resort (Malpaís) 112, 206
 Flying Crocodile Lodge and Flying Center (Sámara) 140
 Food and drink
 alcohol 221
 children 221 hygiene 221
 local eating habits 220
 what to eat 222-3
 where to eat see Restaurants
 Fortaleza de la Inmaculada Concepción (near Boca San Carlos) 156
 Four Seasons (chain hotel) 196, 199
 Four Seasons Resort at Papagayo Peninsula (Bahía Culebra) 136, 208, 250
 Freshwater sharks 156
 Friends' Meeting House (Monteverde) 125
 Frogs and toads 126
 golden toad 127
 harlequin toad 115
 poison-dart frog 158, 170, 191
 Froli, Adriático 60
 Frontier Corridor National Wildlife Refuge see Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Corredor Fronterizo
 Fruit 222-3
 Fundación de Parques Nacionales 248, 253
- G
 Galería 11-12 (San José) 238, 241
 Galería Namu (San José) 239, 241
 Galleries see Art galleries
 Gallery at Home (near Guápiles) 164, 238
Gallo pinto 220, 222
 Game fishing see Sportfishing
 Gandhi, Mahatma 86
 Gandoca-Manzanillo Wildlife Refuge see Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gandoca-Manzanillo
 García, Julio 66
 Garments
 shopping 240, 241
 Garnier, José Fabio 58
Genesis (Jorge Jiménez Deredia) 73
 Gold 42
 mining 191
 lost wax technique 41, 63
 Gold Museum
 see Museo del Oro Precolombino
 Golf 250, 253
 Paradise Playa Conchal Beach and Golf Resort 136, 210, 250
 Tambor 111
 Goltito 11, 175, 176, 177, 192
 climate 39
 hotels 217
 restaurants 237
 sportfishing 117
 Golfo de Papagayo 117
 Golfo Dulce 175, 189
 Government 16-17
 Gran Hotel (San José) 57, 200
- Granados, Federico Tinoco 45
 Grayline 267
 Great green macaws see Macaws
 Grecia 9, 82, 86
 climate 39
 Green turtles 29, 140, 167, 171
 Gringo Gulch (San José) 246
 Group of New Sensibility 19
 Grupo Taca Airlines 264, 265
 Guácimo
 restaurants 235
 Guaitil 10, 33, 122, 143
 shopping 239
 Gual, José Raventós 58
 Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya 8, 10, 45, 121-43
 area map 122-3
 beaches 10, 137
 dry forests 10, 133
 getting around 123
 hotels 208-12
 Parque Nacional Santa Rosa 134-5
 restaurants 231-4
 Guanacaste (province) 16
 Guanacaste tree 16, 133
 Guanacastecan cuisine 223
 Guápiles 164
 hotels 215
 Guápiles Highway 91, 101
 Guardia, Tomás 44, 45, 71
 Guatuso/Maleku 32, 33
 Guayabo National Monument see Monumento Nacional Guayabo
 Guaymí 32, 33, 175, 192
 Guías MANT (Manzanillo) 173
 Gulf of Nicoya 107, 121
 Gutiérrez, Manuel María 66
- H
 Hacienda Barú see Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Barú
 Hacienda Lodge Guachipelín (Rincón de la Vieja) 132, 211, 250
 Hacienda Pozo Azul (La Virgen de Sarapiquí) 155
 Hacienda Santa María (Rincón de la Vieja) 132
 Hacienda Santa Rosa (Parque Nacional Santa Rosa) 135
 Hagnauer, Lilly Bodmer de 130
 Hammerhead sharks 21, 193
 Handicrafts 242
 Harlequin toads 115
 Health 258-9
 food hygiene 221
 Heliconias 158, 164, 183
 Heredia 9, 43, 44, 81, 82, 92
 hotels 204
 restaurants 227
 Heredia (province) 16
 Herrera, Fabio 72
 Hidalgo, Miguel 71
 Hiking 11, 176, 180, 249, 253
 see also National parks and wildlife reserves, Sendero History 41-7
 Hitoy-Cerere Biological Reserve see Reserva Biológica Hitoy-Cerere
 Hoffman, Monseñor Bernardo Augusto Thiel 58
 Holdridge, Dr. Leslie 158
 Horizontes 249, 253
 Horse parades see Topes

Horseback riding 250, 253
see also National parks and wildlife reserves

Hospitals 259

Hostelling International Costa Rica 197, 199

Hotel Borinquen Mountain Resort
 Thermae & Spa (near Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja) 132

Hotel Bosque de Chachagua (La Fortuna) 148, 212

Hotel groups 198, 199

Hotel Hacienda Punta Islita 140, 208

Hotel Tilawa Skateboard Park (Laguna de Arenal) 150, 151

Hotels and lodges 196–219
 booking 198
 Caribbean 214–16
 Central Highlands 203–206
 Central Pacific and Southern Nicoya 206–208
 disabled travelers 199
 Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya 208–12
 Northern Zone 212–14
 prices 199
 San José 200–203
 Southern Zone 216–19
 tipping 199
 types 196–8, 199

Huetar 32, 33

Huete, Max Jiménez 74

Humedal Lacustrino Laguna Pejeperrito (near Parque Nacional Corcovado) 191

Hummingbirds 27, 91, 127, 128, 158, 164

Hummingbird gardens
 La Paz Waterfall Gardens 82, 91
 Selvatura Park (Santa Elena) 128

Humpback whales 118, 182, 189

I

Iberia (airlines) 264, 265

Iglesia de Grecia (Grecia) 86

Iglesia de la Agonía (Liberia) 131

Iglesia de la Parroquia (Cartago) 93

Iglesia de Nuestra Señora de la Limpia Concepción (Ujarrás) 99, 100

Iglesia de San Bartolomé de Barva (Barva) 92–3

Iglesia de San José de Orosi (Orosi) 82, 100

Iglesia de Sarchí (Sarchí) 81, 86

Iglesia Imaculada Concepción de María (Liberia) 131

Iglesia Parroquia San Blas (Nicoya) 142

Iglesia Santo Cristo de la Agonía (Alajuela) 84

Iguana farm (Reserva Indígena KeköLdi) 173

Imagen Cósmica (Jorge Jiménez Deredia) 73

INBParque (Heredia) 9, 92

Indigenous crafts 19, 32, 67, 239, 241, 242

Indigenous groups (general) 17, 32–3, 41, 81
 Monumento Nacional Guayabo 81, 104–105
 Museo de Cultura Indígenas (Centro Neotrópico SarapiquíS) 32, 155

Indigenous groups (cont.)
 Shamanism 41, 173

Indigenous groups (individual)
 Boruca 32, 33, 34, 35, 175, 184
 Bribri 32, 173, 184
 Cabécar 32, 100, 173
 Chibchas 41, 63, 175
 Chorotega 10, 32, 33, 41, 121
 Coribici 41, 145
 Diquis 41, 62, 63, 175, 184, 188
 Guatuso/Maleku 32, 33
 Guaymí 32, 33, 175, 192
 Huetar 32, 33
 Votos 41

Indigenous reserves
 (The Caribbean) 161, 173
 Reserva Indígena KeköLdi 173
 Reserva Indígena Talamanca-Bribri 173
 Reserva Indígena Talamanca-Cabécar 33, 173, 179
 Reserva Indígena Yorkin 173

Indigenous reserves (Central Highlands)
 Reserva Indígena Chirripó (Turrialba) 101

Indigenous reserves (Southern Zone) 11
 Reserva Indígena Boruca 184, 239
 Reserva Indígena Cabagra 184
 Reserva Indígena Curré 184
 Reserva Indígena Guaymí 192
 Reserva Indígena Térraba 184

Indio desnudo (hardwood) 111, 133, 135

Insect repellent 249, 259

Instituto Clodomiro Picado 93

Instituto Costarricense de Electricidad (ICE) 100, 150, 262

Instituto Costarricense de Turismo (ICT) 17, 244, 256, 266

Instituto Geográfica Nacional 249, 253

Instituto Nacional de Seguro (INS) 66, 269

Insurance 259, 269

Interbus 267

International Festival of Music 36, 246, 247

International Friendship Park see Parque Internacional la Amistad

Internet cafés 263

Irazú Volcano National Park see Parque Nacional Volcán Irazú

Isla Alcatraz 111

Isla Ballena 182

Isla Catalina 136

Isla de Pajaros 130

Isla del Caño
see Reserva Biológica Isla del Caño

Isla del Coco see Parque Nacional Isla del Coco

Isla Mogote 119

Isla Tolinga 111

Isla Tortuga 9, 108, 111

Isla Uvita 165

Islas Murciélagos 134, 135, 136
 scuba diving 252

Islita 122, 140
 hotels 209
 restaurants 231

J

Jacó 9, 107, 108, 109, 114
 hotels 206
 restaurants 229

Jade carving 67

Jade Museum see Museo de Jade Fidel Tristán Castro

Jaguars 23, 113, 191

Janzen, Dr. Daniel 133

Jardín Botánico Lankester 82, 93
 shopping 240

Jardín de Esculturas (Museo de Arte Costarricense, San José) 74

Jardín de Mariposas/Castillo de Insectos (El Castillo) 149

Jardín Pura Vida (Parque Nacional Carara) 114

Jazz 245, 247
 Jazz Café (San José) 245, 247
 Jet Blue 264, 265

Jewelry
 shopping 240, 241, 242

Jewels of the Rainforest Bio-Art Exhibition (Santa Elena) 128

Jinetes de Osa (Bahía Drake) 190, 216

John H. Phipps Biological Station and Natural History Visitor's Center (Tortuguero village) 167

Journey Latin America 265

Juan Santamaría International Airport (San José) 55, 83, 109, 264

K

Kandinsky (San José) 238, 241

Kayaking 251, 253
 Golfo Dulce 190
 Isla Tortuga 111
 Río Chirripó 178
 Río Savegre 116

Keith, Minor Cooper 45

Kennedy, John F. 46, 103

Kinkajous 20

L

La Amistad Biosphere Reserve see Reserva de la Biosfera la Amistad

La Amistad Lodge (Parque Internacional la Amistad) 179, 218

La Caja (San José) 57

La Casa del Pescador (San José) 251, 253

La Casona (Parque Nacional Santa Rosa) 135

La Casona (San José) 239, 241

La Curia (Catedral Metropolitana, San José) 56, 58

La Damita
 hotels 204

La Danza de Vignami 60

La Familia (Francisco Zúñiga) 66

La Fortuna 10, 145, 146, 147, 148
 climate 38
 hotels 213
 restaurants 234

La Fuentes Termales (Tabacón) 148

La Garita
 hotels 204
 restaurants 228

La Guácima 82, 84

La Lechería (Santa Elena) 125, 126

- La Mariana (Los Angeles Cloud Forest Private Biological Reserve) 87
- La Marina Zoológica 155
- La Negrita 18, 93, 94
- La Negrita pilgrimage 94
- La Parroquia de la Imaculada Concepción (Heredia) 92
- La Paz Waterfall Gardens 82, 91
- La Pozo Hediondo (Parque Nacional Barra Honda) 143
- La Ruta de los Santos (tour) 9, 82, 97
- La Salsa Brava (Puerto Viejo de Talamanca) 172
- La Selva Biological Station 146, 158
- La Virgen de Sarapiquí 155
hotels 213
- Lago Caño Negro 154
- Lago de Cachi 98, 99, 100
- Lago de Cotter 150, 152
- Lago Los Jilgueros 132
- Laguna Chocuaco 190
- Laguna Corcovado 191
- Laguna Negra 119
- Laguna Pejeperrito 189
- Laguna de Arenal 10, 145, 146, 150–52
area map 150–51
hotels 213
restaurants 234–5
shopping 239
sportfishing 251
visitors' checklist 151
windsurfing 251
- Laguna de Lagarto 156
- Laguna del Tortuguero 166
- Lake Angostura 101
- Lake Cotter Eco-Lodge (Laguna de Arenal) 152
- Landscape 20–21
- Language 256–7
- Las Cascadas Nauyaca (Dominical) 182
- Las Cruces Biological Station 11, 176, 179, 217
- Las Cusungas 162, 164
- Las Hornillas (Zona Protectora Volcán Miravalles) 131
- Las Hornillas Volcanic Activity Center (Zona Protectora Volcán Miravalles) 131
- Las Horquetas
hotels 213
- Las Tres Hermanas (Parque Nacional Marino Ballena) 182
- The Last Supper* (Leonardo Da Vinci) 100
- Leafcutter ants 20, 158
- Leather goods 240, 242
- Leatherback turtles 28, 136, 137, 140, 171
- Legación de México (San José) 66
- Legislative Assembly see Asamblea Legislativa
- Liberia 121, 122, 123, 131
climate 38
festivals 36, 37
hotels 209
restaurants 231–2
- Librería Universal (San José) 249, 253
- Limón (province) 16
- Lindblad Expeditions 249, 253
- Little Theatre Group (San José) 244, 247
- Llach, Luis 59
- Llano De Los Indios (Parque Nacional Guanacaste) 132
- Local buses 266–7
- Logging 189
- Lomas Barbudal Biological Reserve see Reserva Biológica Lomas Barbudal
- Los Angeles Cloud Forest Private Biological Reserve 82, 86–7
hotels 204
- Los Chiles 147, 154
- Los Crestones (Parque Nacional Chirripó) 181
- Los Cusungos Neotropical Bird Sanctuary (near San Isidro) 178
- Los Delfines Golf and Country Club (Tambor) 111
- Los Presentes* (Fernando Calvo) 59
- Los Reyes Country Club (La Guácima) 84
- Los Sueños Marriott Ocean and Golf Resort (Jacó) 114, 207
- Los Tucanes waterfall (Quepos) 116
- Lucky Bug Gallery (Laguna de Arenal) 150, 235
- ## M
- Macaws 26, 84, 114, 158, 191
- Mail service 263
- Maleku see Guatuso/Maleku
- Mall San Pedro (San José) 241
- Malpaís 9, 108, 112
hotels 206
restaurants 229
- Mamita Yunai* (Carlos Luis Fallas) 19
- Manatees 167, 173
- Manchineel tree 119
- Mangroves 21, 107, 185
Boca Damas 115
Laguna Negra 119
Parque Nacional Palo Verde 130
Reserva Forestal del Humedal Nacional Terraba-Sierpe 184
- Manuel Antonio (town) 116
festivals 35
hotels 207
restaurants 230
- Manuel Antonio National Park see Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio
- Manzanillo
restaurants 235
- ### Maps
- Beaches of Costa Rica 28–9
- Canal de Tortuguero tour 166
- Caribbean 162–3
- Central Highlands 82–3
- Central Pacific and Southern Nicoya 108–109
climate zones 38–9
- Costa Rica (area-by-area) 50–51
- Costa Rica (orientation) 12–13
- Costa Rica (road map) inside back cover
- Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya 122–3
- Indigenous groups (site map) 32
- Isla del Coco (area) 193
- ### Maps (cont.)
- Isla del Coco (location) 12
- La Ruta de los Santos 97
- Laguna de Arenal 150–51
- Monteverde and Santa Elena 124–5
- Monumento Nacional Guayabo 104–105
- Northern Zone 146–7
- Orosi Valley 98–9
- Parque Nacional Chirripó 180–81
- Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio 118–19
- Parque Nacional, San José (street-by-street) 68–9
- Parque Nacional Santa Rosa 134–5
- Península de Osa 188–9
- San José 54–5
- San José City Center (street-by-street) 56–7
- San José Street Finder 76–9
- Southern Zone 176–7
- Surfing beaches of Northern Nicoya 137
- Marine turtles 21, 29, 170, 171, 172 green 29, 140, 167, 171
hawksbill 171, 182
leatherback 28, 136, 140, 171
loggerhead 171
olive ridley turtles 28, 36, 110, 134, 140, 141, 170, 182
- Marine turtle nesting sites
Parque Nacional Tortuguero 167
- Playa Grande 10, 136
- Playa Nacite 134
- Playa Ostional 10, 140, 141
- Playa Plataranes 190, 191
- Playa Playitas 119
- Punta Banco (Pavones) 192
- Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Barú 182
- ### Markets 241
- see also* Mercado
- Marriott (chain hotel) 196, 199
- Mariposario (Puerto Viejo) 172
- Maritza Biological Station (Parque Nacional Guanacaste) 132
- Martí, José 69, 71
- Martinair (airlines) 264, 265
- Masks 239, 243
- Matamoros, Fernando 6–7, 67
- Mayfield, Michael W. 251
- Medical see Health
- Mercado Borbón (San José) 59
- Mercado Central (Puerto Limón) 165
- Mercado Central (San José) 8, 53, 54, 58–9, 240, 241
- Mercado de Artesanías las Garzas (San José) 239, 241
- Mercado de Artesanías Nacionales (San José) 239, 241
- Merecumbé 246, 247
- Mirador de Orosi (Orosi Valley) 98
- Miravalles Forest Reserve 131
- Miravalles Miravales
see Volcán Miravales
- Mobile phones 261
- Moín 165, 166
- Molas y Café (Atenas) 239, 241
- Monge, Luis Alberto 46
- Monkeys 84, 119, 164, 167
capuchin 119
howler 129
spider 20, 110
squirrel 23, 119, 191

Monolitho Jaguar y Lagarto 104
 Monte de la Cruz (Heredia) 92
 hotels 204
 restaurants 228
 Monte Sin Fe (Parque Nacional Chirripó) 181
 Monte Sky Mountain Retreat (Orosi Valley) 99 Monterrey
 hotels 213
 Monteverde and Santa Elena 10, 50, 122, 123, 124-8
 area map 124-5
 climate 38
 hotels 209
 restaurants 232
 shopping 238
 visitors' checklist 125
 Monteverde Cloud Forest Biological Reserve see Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde
 Monteverde Nature Center and Butterfly Gardens 124, 126
 Montezuma 9, 108, 109, 112
 hotels 207
 restaurants 230
 Montezuma Canopy Tour 112
Monumento Nacional (Parque Nacional, San José) 69, 70-71
Monumento Nacional a la Madre (Miguela Brenes) 92
 Monumento Nacional Guayabo 9, 41, 82, 103, 104-105
 Mora, Juan Rafael 44, 45
 Moravia 240, 242
 Morazán, General Francisco 44, 66
 Morgan, Henry 43, 100
 Morgenson, Karen 112
 Motels 197
 Motorcycle rental 269
 Muebles de Bamboo (near Guápiles) 164
 Muelle
 hotels 213
 Munda Aquático (San José) 253
 Museums
 Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura (San José) 8, 54, 72-3
 Ecomuseo de la Cerámica Chorotega (Guaítíl) 143
 El Mundo de la Tortuga (Tamarindo) 136
 Museo Comunitario Boruca (Boruca) 184
 Museo Cultural y Histórico Juan Santamaría (Alajuela) 84
 Museo de Arte Contemporáneo al Aire Libre (Islita) 140
 Museo de Arte Costarricense (San José) 8, 45, 54, 74
 Museo de Arte Religioso (Orosi) 100
 Museo de Arte y Diseño Contemporáneo (San José) 67
 Museo de Ciencias Naturales "La Salle" (San José) 54, 74-5
 Museo de Cultura Indígena (Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí) 32, 155
 Museo de Cultura Popular (Barva) 93
 Museo de Insectos (Universidad de Costa Rica, San José) 71
 Museo de Jade Fidel Tristán Castro (San José) 8, 54, 67

Museums (cont.)

Museo de los Niños (Centro Costarricense de Ciencias Cultura, San José) 73
 Museo de Numismática (Museo del Oro Precolombino, San José) 62
 Museo de Sabanero (Liberia) 131
 Museo del Oro Precolombino (San José) 8, 54, 57, 62-3, 240
 Museo el Pelicano (Valle del Río Chirripó) 178
 Museo Filatélico de Costa Rica (San José) 59
 Museo Histórico Marítimo (Puntarenas) 110
 Museo Histórico Penitenciario (Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura, San José) 72
 Museo Marino (Golfito) 192
 Museo Nacional (San José) 8, 54, 69, 70, 104
 Planetario (San José) 71
 Music
 classical music 244, 247
 jazz 245, 247
 traditional music 245

N

National Center of Culture see Centro Nacional de Cultura
 National Dance Company see Compañía Nacional de Danza
 National Institute of Insurance see Instituto Nacional de Seguro (INS)
 National Museum
 see Museo Nacional
 National parks and wildlife reserves 15-16, 248, 253
 Avianos del Caribe Wildlife Refuge 162, 170
 Bat Jungle (Santa Elena) 124, 126
 Bosque de Paz Rain/Cloud Forest Biological Reserve 82, 87, 204
 Chirripó Cloudbridge Reserve 199
 Fincas Naturales Wildlife Refuge & Butterfly Garden (Quepos) 116
 Genesis II 82, 96
 Humedal Lacustrino Laguna Pejeperrito 191
 Los Angeles Cloud Forest Private Biological Reserve 82, 86-7, 205
 Miravalles Forest Reserve 131
 Parque Internacional La Amistad 11, 176, 179, 218, 248
 Parque Nacional Barra Honda 122, 143
 Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo 9, 82, 91, 163
 Parque Nacional Cahuita 11, 162, 170, 248
 Parque Nacional Carara 9, 108, 114
 Parque Nacional Chirripó 170, 175, 180-81, 248
 Parque Nacional Corcovado 11, 16, 39, 184, 186-7, 188, 191, 248, 249
 Parque Nacional Guanacaste 122, 132
 Parque Nacional Isla del Coco 11, 50, 176, 193, 252, 253
 Parque Nacional Los Quetzales 82, 96

National parks and wildlife reserves (cont.)
 Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio 9, 16, 51, 108, 118-19, 248
 Parque Nacional Marino las Baulas 136
 Parque Nacional Marino Ballena 11, 176, 182, 252
 Parque Nacional Palo Verde 10, 122, 130
 Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas 176, 192, 218
 Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja 10, 122, 132, 248
 Parque Nacional Santa Rosa 10, 122, 132, 133, 134-5
 Parque Nacional Tapantí-Macizo la Muerte 9, 82, 101
 Parque Nacional Tortuguero 11, 51, 161, 162, 163, 167, 248
 Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal 10, 50, 146, 149, 213-14, 235, 259
 Parque Nacional Volcán Poás 9, 51, 82, 90, 103, 248, 259
 Parque Nacional Volcán Tenorio 146, 154
 Parque Nacional Volcán Turrialba 9, 82, 103
 Rainmaker Conservation Project 9, 108, 115
 Rara Avis 10, 146, 159
 Refugio Nacional de Fauna Silvestre Barra del Colorado 161, 162, 163, 167, 214
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Barú 176, 182, 217
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro 10, 16, 146, 147, 154
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Corredor Fronterizo 146, 156
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Curú 9, 108, 110
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gandoca-Manzanillo 11, 162, 172
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Golfito 192
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Isla Bolaños (Bahía Salinas) 132
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Ostional 122, 140
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Pejeperrito 191
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Preciosa Platanares 190
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Punta Río Claro 188, 190
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Rancho Merced 182
 Reserva Absoluta Nicolas Weissenburg 112
 Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde 16, 125, 127, 248
 Reserva Biológica Durika 179
 Reserva Biológica Hitoy-Cerere 162, 170
 Reserva Biológica Isla del Caño 175, 176, 184, 252
 Reserva Biológica Isla Guayabo y Isla Negritos 111
 Reserva Biológica Lomas Barbudal 122, 130

- National parks and wildlife reserves (cont.)
 Reserva Biológica Nosara 140
 Reserva Biológica Oro Verde 182
 Reserva Bosque Nuboso Iyök Amí 178
 Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena 124, 128
 Reserva de la Biosfera La Amistad 179, 248
 Reserva Forestal del Humedad Nacional Terraba-Sierpe 176, 184, 185
 Reserva Forestal el Rodeo (Universidad de Paz) 86
 Reserva Natural Absoluta Cabo Blanco 9, 16, 108, 112
 Reserva Selva Bananito 170
 Selva Verde 10, 146, 156
 Tempisque Safari Ecological Adventure (Puerto Humo) 142
 Tirimbina Rainforest Reserve 10, 155
- National Symphony Orchestra see Orquesta Sinfónica Nacional
 National Theater Company 67
 National Theater see Teatro Nacional
National Geographic Adventure Map 268
 Natural disasters 258–9
 Nature Air 266
 Newspapers 263
 Nicaragua 12, 46
 Nicaraguan Contras 46, 47, 116, 135
 Nicoya 43, 122, 142
 festivals 34, 36
 Nicuesa, Diego de 42
 Nightclubs 246, 247
 North, Colonel Oliver 135
 Northern Zone 8, 10, 145–59
 area map 146–7
 getting around 147
 hotels 212–14
 Laguna de Arenal 150–52
 restaurants 234–5
 Nosara 122, 123, 140
 hotels 209
 restaurants 232
 Nuevo Arenal 150, 152
- O
 Occidental (chain hotel) 196, 199
 Ocelots 96, 110, 127, 171
 Ojochal
 hotels 218
 restaurants 237
 Okeanos Aggressor 253
 Olive ridley turtles 28, 36, 110, 134, 140, 141, 170
 Opening hours 256
 shops 238
 Opera 244, 247
 Orbitz 264, 265
 Orchard farms and gardens
 Casa de Orquídeas (Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas) 192
 Jardín Botánico Lankester 82, 93, 240
 Orquídeas de Monteverde 124, 126
 Orquídeas Mundo (Penshurst) 170
 Vivero Poporí (near Tiláran) 130
- Orchids 183
 shopping 240, 241
 Organization of Tropical Studies (OTS) 158, 179
 Organized tours 248, 253, 265, 267
 Original Canopy Tour 249, 253
 Orinoco (Escazú) 239, 241
 Orosi (village) 98, 100
 hotels 205
 restaurants 228
 Orosi Valley 9, 82, 98–100
 area map 98–9
 visitors' checklist 99
 Orquesta Sinfónica Nacional 19, 61, 245, 247
 Osa Peninsula see Peninsula de Osa
 Ostional National Wildlife Refuge see Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Ostional
 Outdoor activities and specialty vacations 248–53
 see also National Parks and reserves
 Ox carts see Carretas
- P
 Pacific Rainforest Aerial Tram (Jacó) 114
 Pacific ridley turtles see Olive ridley turtles
 Palmar 176, 177, 184
 Panama 12
 Pan-American Highway 46, 123
 Paradero Lacustre Charrarra (Lago de Cachí) 100
 Paradise Playa Conchal Beach and Golf Resort (Playa Conchal) 136, 210
 Paris Opera 60, 245
 Parks (city) and gardens
 INBioparque (Heredia) 92
 Parque Arqueológica Alma Alta (Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí) 155
 Parque Central (San José) 56
 Parque Central (Nicoya) 142
 Parque de Purisil (Orosi Valley) 99
 Parque Diversiones (Pueblo Antiguo, San José) 54, 75, 245
 Parque España (San José) 54, 66
 Parque Francisco Alvarado (Zarcero) 87
 Parque Juan Santamaría (Alajuela) 84
 Parque Mora Fernández (San José) 57
 Parque Morázan (San José) 54, 66
 Parque Nacional (San José) 8, 54, 68, 69, 70
 Parque Nicolas Ulloa (Heredia) 92
 Parque Sabana (San José) 54, 55, 74
 Parque Vargas (Puerto Limón) 165
 see also Botanical gardens, Butterfly gardens, Hummingbird gardens, Orchard gardens Parque Internacional La Amistad 11, 176, 179, 248
 hotels 218
 Parque Nacional Barra Honda 122, 143
 Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo 9, 82, 91, 163
- Parque Nacional Cahuita 11, 162, 170, 248
 Parque Nacional Carara 9, 108, 114
 Parque Nacional Chirripó 170, 175 180–81, 248
 Parque Nacional Corcovado 2–3, 11, 16, 184, 188, 186–7, 191, 248, 249
 climate 39
 Parque Nacional Guanacaste 122, 132
 Parque Nacional Isla del Coco 11, 50, 176, 193
 scuba diving 252, 253
 Parque Nacional Los Quetzales 86, 96
 Parque Nacional Marino las Baulas 136
 Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio 9, 16, 51, 108, 118–19, 248
 Parque Nacional Marino Ballena 11, 176, 182
 scuba diving 252
 Parque Nacional Palo Verde 10, 122, 130
 Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas 176, 192
 hotels 218
 Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja 10, 120, 122, 132, 248
 hotels 211
 Parque Nacional Santa Rosa 10, 122, 132, 133, 134–5
 festivals 37
 Parque Nacional Tapanti-Macizo la Muerte 9, 82, 101
 Parque Nacional Tortuguero 11, 51, 161, 162, 163, 167, 248
 Parque Nacional Volcán Arenal 10, 50, 146, 149, 213–14, 259
 hotels 213–14
 restaurants 235
 Parque Nacional Volcán Poás 9, 51, 82, 90, 103, 248, 259
 Parque Nacional Volcán Turrialba 9, 82, 103
 Parque Reptilandia (Platanillo) 182
 Parque Valle del Sol (Central Highlands) 250, 251
 Parque Viborana (near Turrialba) 101
 Passports 256
 Patti, Adelina 60
 Pavones 192
 hotels 218
 Paying
 hotels 199
 restaurants 221
 shops 238
 Peace Lodge (La Paz Waterfall Gardens) 91
Peace Pilgrim (Fernando Calvo) 86
 Peccaries 129, 191, 249
 Peñas 247
 Peninsula de Osa 175, 176, 188–91
 area map 188–9
 visitors' checklist 189
 People 17–18
 Pereira, Juana 94
 Perry, Dr. Donald 25, 159
 Personal security 258–9
 Petroglyphs 104, 178
 Phone cards 262
 Picado, Teodoro 46
 Piedra de los Indios (Valle del Río Chirripó) 178

- Piedras Blancas National Park
see Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas
- Pirates 43, 161, 165
- Pitilla Biological Station (Parque Nacional Guanacaste) 132
- Planet Mall (San José) 246, 247
- Playa Arío 137
- Playa Avellanas
hotels 209
- Playa Bejuco 137
- Playa Blanca 29, 170
- Playa Bongo 137
- Playa Bonita 165
- Playa Cabo Blanco 112
- Playa Caletas 115
- Playa Carrillo 28, 140
hotels 210
- Playa Cativo 192
- Playa Chiquita 160, 172
- Playa Cocal 116
- Playa Cocles 29, 172
restaurants 235
- Playa Colorada 110
- Playa Conchal 28, 136
hotels 210
restaurants 232
- Playa Curú 110
- Playa Espadilla 116
- Playa Espadilla Sur 118
- Playa Flamingo 10, 28, 29, 106, 136
hotels 210
restaurants 232–3
sportfishing 251
- Playa Gandoca-Manzanillo 29, 172
- Playa Grande (Montezuma) 112
- Playa Grande (Tamarindo) 10, 28, 136, 137
hotels 210
restaurants 233
- Playa Guiones 28, 140
- Playa Hermosa (Jacó) 115
hotels 210
restaurants 230
- Playa Hermosa (Malpais) 103
- Playa Hermosa (near Parque Nacional Palo Verde)
hotels 210
restaurants 233
- Playa Hermosa (Parque Nacional Volcán Irazú) 103
- Playa Herradura 114
hotels 207–8
restaurants 230
- Playa Jacó 28, 114
- Playa Langosta 136
- Playa Los Suecos 112
- Playa Manuel Antonio 118
- Playa Manzanillo 137
- Playa Montezuma 28, 112
- Playa Nancite 134
- Playa Naranja 28, 134, 137
- Playa Negra (Cahuita) 29, 170
- Playa Negra (near Tamarindo)
hotels 210
restaurants 233
- Playa Negra (Puerto Viejo) 172
- Playa Nosara 137
restaurants 235
- Playa Ocotol 136
hotels 210
restaurants 233
- Playa Ostional 10, 28, 140
hotels 211
- Playa Panamá 136
- Playa Pelada 140
- Playa Penca 136
- Playa Platanares 189, 190
hotels 218
- Playa Playitas 119
- Playa Quesera 110
- Playa San Isidro 110
- Playa San Josecito (Bahía Drake)
188, 190
hotels 219
- Playa San Josecito (near Parque Nacional Piedras Blancas) 192
- Playa San Miguel 137
- Playa Santa Teresa 112
- Playa Sombrero 190
- Playa Tambor Beach Resort and Casino 111
- Playa Tortuga 182
- Playa Uva 172
- Playa Varga 170
- Playa Zancudo 29, 192
- Playas del Coco 10, 28, 122, 136
hotels 211
restaurants 233
- Plaza Bernabela Ramos (Santa Cruz) 142
- Plaza de la Artesanía (Sarchí) 239
- Plaza de la Cultura (San José) 57
- Plaza de la Democracia (San José) 70
- Plaza de la Libertad Electoral (San José) 68
- Plaza de los Mangos (Santa Cruz) 142
- Plaza del General Tomás Guardia (Alajuela) 84
- Plaza Los Presentes (San José) 59
- Plenitude* (José Sancho) 67
- Poás
hotels 205
- Poasito 90
- Poison-dart frog 158, 170, 191
- Police 258, 259
- Postal service 263
- Pre-Columbian artifacts 54, 62, 70
- Pre-Columbian culture see Centro Neotrópico Sarapiquí
- Pre-Columbian peoples 41, 81
see also Indigenous groups
- Presa Sangregado (Laguna de Arenal) 151
- Príncipe de la Paz 178
- Proyecto Geotérmico Miravalles (Volcán Miravalles) 131
- Proyecto Papagayo (Bahía Culebra) 136
- Public amenities 259
- Public holidays 37
- Public telephones 262
- Pueblo Antiguo (San José) 75, 245
- Puerto de Amistad con Taiwan 143
- Puerto Humo 142
- Puerto Jiménez 11, 189, 190
hotels 219
restaurants 237
- Puerto Limón 161, 162, 163, 165
climate 39
festivals 37
hotels 215
restaurants 235
- Puerto Viejo de Sarapiquí
10, 145, 146, 156
hotels 214
restaurants 236
- Puerto Viejo de Talamanca
161, 162, 163, 172
festivals 35
hotels 215
restaurants 236
- Puesto Jalova (Parque Nacional Tortuguero) 166
- Puma Rescue Shelter (Cañas) 130
- Punta Banco (Pavones) 192
- Punta Catedral (Manuel Antonio) 118
- Punta Mona Center (near Manzanillo) 173
- Puntarenas 9, 107, 108, 109, 110
festivals 35, 36
hotels 208
restaurants 231
- Puntarenas (province) 16
- Punto guanacasteco* (national dance) 19, 245, 247
- Q
- Quakers 124, 126
- Quality Inn 196, 199
- Quebrada Gonzalez Ranger Station (Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo) 91
- Queen Isabel II (Spain) 66
- Quepos 9, 107, 108, 116
climate 39
hotels 208
restaurants 231
sportfishing 117, 251
- Quetzal Education Research Complex (San Gerardo de Dota) 96
- Quetzalcoat 179
- Quetzals see Resplendent quetzals
- Quiros, Daniel 66
- R
- Radio 263
- Radiográfica Costarricense (RASCA) 262, 263
- Rafiki Safari Lodge (Savegre) 116, 208
- Rafting see Whitewater rafting
- Rain Goddess (cruise vessel) 152, 251
- Rainforest Aerial Tram 146, 159
- Rainforests 20, 22–3
fauna 20, 23
- Parque Nacional Braulio Carrillo 9, 82, 91, 163
- Parque Nacional Carara 9, 108, 114
- Parque Nacional Corcovado 11, 16, 39, 184, 186–7, 188, 191, 248, 249
- Parque Nacional Tapantí-Macizo la Muerte 9, 82, 101
- Parque Nacional Tortuguero 11, 51, 161, 162, 163, 167, 248
- Rara Avis 10, 25, 146, 159
- Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro 10, 16, 146, 147, 154
- Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gandoca-Manzanillo 11, 162, 172
- Selva Verde 10, 156
- Trimbina Rainforest Reserve 10, 155
- Veragua Rainforest Research and Adventure Park 25, 170
- Rainmaker Conservation Project 9, 108, 115

- Ranario de Monteverde 126
 Rancho La Botija (Valle del Río Chirripó) 178, 219
 Rancho Los Tucanes (Quepos) 116
 Rancho Margot (Laguna de Arenal) 151, 152
 Rancho San Miguel (La Guácima) 84
 Rara Avis 10, 146, 159
 hotels 213
Recorridos de tores 36, 131, 142
 Refugio Nacional de Fauna Silvestre Barra del Colorado 161, 162, 163, 167
 hotels 214
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Barú 176, 182
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Caño Negro 10, 16, 146, 147, 154
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Corredor Fronterizo 146, 156
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Curú 9, 108, 110
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gandoca-Manzanillo 11, 162, 172
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Gofito 192
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Isla Bolaños (Bahía Salinas) 132
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Ostional 122, 140
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Pejeperro 191
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Preciosa Platanares 190
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Punta Río Claro 188, 190
 Refugio Nacional de Vida Silvestre Rancho Merced 182
 Religión 18
 Reserva Absoluta Nicolas Weissenburg 112
 Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde 16, 125, 127, 248
 Reserva Biológica Durika 179
 Reserva Biológica Hitoy-Cerere 162, 170
 Reserva Biológica Isla del Caño 175, 176, 184, 252
 Reserva Biológica Isla Guayabo y Isla Negritos 111
 Reserva Biológica La Danta (Escaleras) 182
 Reserva Biológica Lomas Barbudal 122, 130
 Reserva Biológica Nosara 140
 Reserva Biológica Oro Verde 182
 Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena 124, 128
 Reserva de la Biosfera La Amistad 179, 248
 Reserva Forestal del Humedal Nacional Terraba-Sierpe 176, 184, 185
 Reserva Forestal el Rodeo (Universidad de Paz) 86
 Reserva Indígena Boruca 176, 184
 shopping 239
 Reserva Indígena Cabagra 184
 Reserva Indígena Chirripó (Turrialba) 101
 Reserva Indígena Curré 184
 Reserva Indígena Guaymí 192
 Reserva Indígena KeköLdi 173
 Reserva Indígena Talamanca-Bribri 173
 Reserva Indígena Talamanca-Cabécar 33, 173, 179
 Reserva Indígena Térraba 184
 Reserva Indígena Yorkín 173
 Reserva Natural Absoluta Cabo Blanco 9, 16, 108, 112
 Reserva Selva Bananito 170
 Resplendent quetzals 84, 87, 90, 96, 101, 128, 132, 179
 Finca Eddie Serrano (near Genesis II) 96
 Reserva Biológica Bosque Nuboso Monteverde 127
 Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena 128
 San Gerardo de Dota 96
 Restaurants and cafés 220-37
 Caribbean 235-6
 Central Highlands 227-9
 Central Pacific and Southern Nicoya 229-31
 Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya 231-4
 Northern Zone 234-5
 prices 221
 San José 224-6
 Southern Zone 236-7
 tipping 221
 types 220
see also Food and drink
Retornos 19, 34, 244
 Rich Coast Diving (Playas del Coco) 253
 Ridley turtles see Olive ridley turtles Rincón
 hotels 219
 Rincón de la Vieja
 hotels 211
 Rincón de la Vieja National Park
see Parque Nacional Rincón de la Vieja
 Río Agujitas 190
 Río Chirripó 178, 250
 Río Corobici 130, 250
 Río Naranjo Valley 116
 Río Pacuare 9, 80, 101, 102
 Río Platanares 190
 Río Reventazón 9, 82, 98, 100, 101, 102
 Río San Juan 145, 156, 251
 Río Sarapiquí 146, 156
 Río Savegre 96, 116, 250
 Río Tabacón 148
 Río Tarcoles 9, 108
 Río Tempisque 142
 Río Terraba 184
 Río Turrialba 101
 Ríos Tropicales 251, 253
 Riptides 253, 259
 Rivera, Diego 40, 74
 Rivers see Río
The Rivers of Costa Rica: A Canoeing, Kayaking and Rafting Guide (Michael W. Mayfield and Rafael E. Gallo)
 Road hazards 268
 Road network and classification 268
 Road signs 268-9
 San José 271
 Rodeos see Retornos
 Rodríguez, Eusebio 58
 Route of the Saints see La Ruta de los Santos
 Roy, Dennis 115
 Ruhlow, Jerry 251
 Ryan, Tim 158
 Ryder, Mildred N. 86
S
 Sabana de los Leones (Parque Nacional Chirripó) 181
 Sabana Redonda
 restaurants 228
Sabaneros (cowboys) 130, 131
see also Cowboy culture
 Safaris Corobici (near Cañas) 130
 Safety see Personal security
 Sala Garbo (San José) 245, 247
 Salispuedes
 hotels 205
 Sámará 122, 123, 140
 hotels 211
 restaurants 233
 San Antonio de Belén
 hotels 205
 restaurants 228
 San Antonio de Escazú 75
 San Cristóbal Sur 97
 San Gabriel 97
 San Gerardo de Dota 82, 96
 hotels 205
 restaurants 228
 San Gerardo de Rivas 11, 178
 hotels 219
 San Isidro de Coronado 82, 93
 San Isidro de El General 176, 178
 festivals 35
 hotels 219
 restaurants 237
 San José 8, 12, 17, 43, 44, 46, 53-79
 area map 54-5
 climate 39
 entertainment 244, 245, 246, 247
 festivals 34, 35, 36
 getting around 55, 270-71
 hotels 200-203
 Parque Nacional: street-by-street map 68-9
 restaurants 8, 224-6
 San José Center: street-by-street map 56-7
 shopping 8, 238, 239, 240, 241
 Street Finder maps 76-9
 San José de la Montana
 restaurants 228
 San Marcos de Tarrazú 97
 San Miguel de Escazú 75
 San Pablo de León Cortés 97
 restaurants 228
 San Rafael de Escazú 75
 San Vito
 restaurants 237
 Sanborn's 265
 Sanchez, Oscar Arias 47
 Sancho, José 67
 Sandinistas 46, 135
 Sansa (airlines) 266, 267
 Santa Ana cave (Parque Nacional Barra Honda) 143
 Santa Ana
 restaurants 228
 Santa Cruz 5, 122, 142
 festivals 35, 36
 hotels 211

- Santa Elena see Monteverde and Santa Elena
- Santa Elena Cloud Forest Reserve see Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena
- Santa María de Dota 97
restaurants 229
- Santa Rosa National Park see Parque Nacional Santa Rosa
- Santamaría, Juan 70, 84
- Sarapiquí Heliconia Island 146, 158
- Sarchí 9, 82, 86
restaurants 229
shopping 239
- Savegre Mountain Hotel Biological Reserve (San Gerardo de Dota) 96
- Savegre
hotels 208
- Scarlet macaws see Macaws
- Scuba diving 252-3
Bahía Drake 11, 190, 252
Isla del Caño 184, 252
Isla del Coco 193, 252
Islas Murciélagos 134, 252
Southern Zone 11
- Sea travel 265
- Selva Bananito Reserve
hotels 215
- Selva Verde 10, 146, 156
- Selvatura Park 128
- Sendero de los Montículos (Nacional Monumento Guayabo) 104, 105
- Sendero Indio Desnudo (Parque Nacional Santa Rosa) 135
- Sendero La Catarata (Parque Nacional Tapantí-Macizo la Muerte) 161
- Sendero Los Patos (Parque Nacional Santa Rosa) 135
- Sendero Mirador (Parque Nacional Manuel Antonio) 119
- Sendero Sueco (Cabo Blanco) 112
- Sendero Termometro (Parque Nacional Chirripó) 180
- Serpentariums see Snake farms and gardens
- Shamanism 41, 173
- Sharks
Freshwater sharks 156
Hammerhead sharks 21, 193
- Shopping 238-43
- Sierpe
hotels 219
- Sirca 265
- Sistema Nacional de Areas de Conservación (SINAC) 16, 248, 253
- Skutch, Dr. Alexander 178
- Sky Walk/SkyTrek (Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena) 128
- Sloths 20
Aviarios Del Caribe Wildlife Refuge (sloth research) 162, 170
- Small Distinctive Hotels of Costa Rica 198, 199
- Small Unique Hotels 198, 199
- Smoking 221
- Snake farms and gardens
Instituto Clodomiro Picado 82, 93
Parque Viburana (near Turrialba) 101
Serpentario (Santa Elena) 124, 126
Snake Garden (La Virgen de Sarapiquí) 155
- Snake farms and gardens (cont.)
World of Snakes 9, 86
- Snakes 157
- Snorkeling
Bahía Drake 190
Isla Tortuga 111
Playa Conchal 136
Tamarindo 136
see also Scuba diving
- Social customs 257
- Sodas 220, 221
- Somoza, Anastasio 46, 135
- Soto, Bernardo 45
- Southern Zone 8, 11, 174-93
area map 176-7
getting around 177
hiking 11
hotels 216-19
indigenous reserves 11, 184, 192
Parque Nacional Chirripó 180-81
Península de Osa 188-91
restaurants 236-7
scuba diving 11
- Spanish conquistadors 42, 107, 175, 188
- Specialized lodging 198
- Specialty stores 240, 241
- Specialty vacations see Outdoor activities and specialty vacations
- Spirit Airlines 264, 265
- Sportfishing 117, 251, 253
Bahía Drake 188
Golfito 176, 192
Playa Carrillo 140
Playa Flamingo 136
Playa Ocotal 136
Quepos 108, 116
Refugio Nacional de Fauna Silvestre Barra del Colorado 167
Tamarindo 136
- Sports 19
- Stanley, Rodolfo 19
- Street hazards 258
- Sunscreen 249, 251, 259
- Surfing 9, 251
Bahía Salinas 132, 251
beaches 11, 137, 172
Cabo Matapalo 190
Dominican 11, 176, 182
Jacó 108, 251
Laguna de Arenal 146, 251
Pavones 176, 192
Playa Guiones 140
Playa Naranja 134
Playa Santa Teresa 112
Playa Sombrero 190
Playa Zancudo 251
Puerto Viejo de Talamanca 172
Tamarindo 137
Tilawa Viento Surf Center (Laguna de Arenal) 152
Zancudo 11
- Swimming 253
- T
- Tabacón (town) 10, 259
restaurants 235
- Tabacón Hot Springs Resort and Spa 10, 146, 147, 148
- Talamanca Treescape (Genesis II) 96
- Talamanca Association for Ecotourism and Conservation (ATEC) 173
- Talamanca Mountains 11, 173, 175, 249
- Taller Eloy Alfaro (Sarchí) 86
- Tamarindo 10, 122, 123, 136, 137
hotels 212
restaurants 234
sportfishing 251
- Tambor 108, 109, 111
hotels 208
restaurants 231
- Tango Mar Resort (Tambor) 108, 111, 208
- Tapantí-Macizo National Park see Parque Nacional Tapantí-Macizo la Muerte
- Tapiris 181, 191
- Tárcoles 114
- Taxis 267
- Teatro Chaplin (San José) 244, 247
- Teatro Eugene O'Neill (San José) 244
- Teatro Laurence Oliver (San José) 244, 247
- Teatro Melico Salazar (San José) 54, 56, 58, 245
- Teatro Nacional (San José) 8, 19, 51, 52, 53, 57, 60-61, 244-5,
- Teatro Variedades (San José) 57
- Telegrams 263
- Telephones 262-3
- Television 263
- Temperature 38-9
- Templo de Música (Parque Morazán, San José) 66
- Tennis 250
- Teorética (San José) 238, 241, 247
- tepezcuintles* 192
- Termales del Bosque (Ciudad Quesada) 155
- Terraba-Sierpe National Humid Forest Reserve see Reserva Forestal del Humedad Nacional Terraba-Sierpe
- Theater 244, 247
see also Teatro
- Thermal pools
Balnearios Termales Orosi (Orosi) 100
San Gerardo de Rivas 178
Tabacón Hot Springs Resort and Spa 10, 146, 148
Termales del Bosque (Ciudad Quesada) 154, 155
Volcán Miravalles 131
- Thirio, Charles 66
- Ticabos 265
- Tico Times* 244, 251, 263
- Tico Windsurf Center (Nuevo Arenal) 152
- Tienda de la Naturaleza (Curridabat) 240, 241
- Tilarán 122, 130
hotels 212
- Tilawa Viento Surf Centre (Laguna de Arenal) 152
- Time 257
- Tipping
hotels 199
restaurants 221
- Trimbana Rainforest Reserve 10, 155
- Tiskita Foundation Sea Turtle Restoration Project (Pavones) 192
- Tiskita Lodge (Pavones) 192, 218
- Toad Hall (Laguna de Arenal) 154, 234, 239
- Toads see Frogs and toads
- Tobacco Shop (San José) 240, 241

- Tobias Bolaños domestic airport (San José) 55, 109
- Tolstoy, Alexey 86
- Topes* 19, 34, 131, 142, 244
- Tortuguero (village) 167
hotels 215–16
restaurants 236
- Tortuguero Canal
see Canal de Tortuguero
- Tortuguero National Park see Parque Nacional Tortuguero
- Tourism 17
- Tourist buses 267
- Tourist information 256, 257
- Tour operators 248, 253, 267
- Tours
Canal de Tortuguero 167
La Ruta de los Santos 9, 82, 97
see also Organized tours
- Traditional music 245
- Transnica 265
- Travel information 264–71
air travel 264, 266
boats 267
buses 265, 266–7, 270
Caribbean 163
Central Highlands 83
Central Pacific and Southern Nicoya 109
driving 265, 268–9
Guanacaste and Northern Nicoya 123
Northern Zone 147
organized tours 248, 253, 265, 267
San Jose 55, 55, 270–71
sea travel 265
Southern Zone 177
- taxis 267
- Travel websites 264, 265
- Traveler's checks 261
- Travelocity 264, 265
- Tres Mujeres Caminando* (Francisco Zúñiga) 74
- Tribunal Supremo de Elecciones 68
- Tropical flowers 183
- Tropical heliconia see Heliconia
- Tuasa 267
- Tucuxí* dolphin 172, 173
- Turrialba 9, 82, 101
festivals 37
hotels 205
restaurants 229
- Turrialba Volcano National Park see Parque Nacional Volcán
- Turtles see Marine turtles
- Twight, Dr. Clodomiro Picado 93
- U
- Ujarrás (Orosi Valley) 71, 98, 99, 100
festivals 37
- United Fruit Company 45, 175, 192
- Universidad de Costa Rica (San José) 54, 71, 92, 93
- Universidad de Paz 82, 86
- Upala 147
festivals 37
- Uvita
hotels 219
restaurants 237
- United Airlines 264, 265
- US Airways 264, 265
- U-Save 269
- V
- Vaccination 259
- Valerín, Macedonio Quesada 100
- Valle de El General 175
- Valle de los Conejos (Parque Nacional Chirripó) 181
- Valle del Río Chirripó 178
- Valle del Río Savegre 116
- Vara Blanca
hotels 205
restaurants 229
- Vargas, Don Balvanero 165
- Vargas, Don Clorindo 90
- Vaya con Silla de Ruedas 199
- Veragua Rainforest Research and Adventure Park 25, 162, 170
- Villa, Aleardo 60
- Villablanca Cloud Forest Hotel (Los Angeles Cloud Forest Private Biological Reserve) 87–8, 205
- Villegas, Olger 66
- Virgin of Guadalupe* (Miguel Cabrera) 142
- Visas 256
- Vivero Poporí (near Tilarán) 130
- Vivero Solera (near Tambor) 111
- Volcán Arenal 20, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 153
- Volcán Barva 91, 92
- Volcán Cacao 132
- Volcán Chato 149
- Volcán Irazú 83, 93, 103
- Volcán Orosi 10, 132
- Volcán Poás 82, 84, 88–9, 90, 153
- Volcán Rincón de la Vieja 132
- Volcán Turrialba 41, 103, 101
hotels 206
- Volcán Turrialba Lodge (Parque Nacional Volcán Turrialba) 103, 206
- Volcanoes 9, 81, 121, 153
see also Volcán
- Votos 41
- W
- Walker, William 35, 44, 45, 84, 135
- War of 1856 35, 44, 45
- Waterfalls see Cascada, Catarata
- Waterfalls Canopy Tour (Jacó) 114
- Water sports
see Kayaking, Scuba diving, Snorkeling, Surfing, Whitewater rafting
- West, Charles Lankester 93
- Wetlands 21 see also Mangroves
- Whale Marine National Park see Parque Nacional Marino Ballena
- Whales 11, 111, 182, 190
Humpback whales 118, 182, 189
- What to wear 257
- Whitewater rafting 102, 250–51, 253
Río Coribicí 130, 250
Río Pacuare 9, 82, 101, 102, 250
Río Reventazón 9, 82, 101, 102, 250
Río Savegre 116, 250
- Whitten, Dr. Richard 128
- Wiffield, Henry 66
- Wilderness lodges 196–7, 199
- Wild cats 96, 110, 113, 130, 170, 179, 180
jaguars 23, 127, 171, 191
jaguarundis 110, 127, 171
margays 110, 127, 171
ocelot 96, 110, 127, 171
pumas 110, 171
pumas 127, 171
- Wildlife 20–21
- Wildlife-viewing 249, 253
see also National parks and wildlife reserves
- Wilson Botanical Gardens (Las Cruces Biological Station) 179
- Wind turbines 150, 152
- Windsurfing see Surfing
- Witch's Rock (Playa Naranjo) 134, 137
- Witch's Rock Canopy Tour (Bahía Culebra) 136
- Women travelers 257
- Woodwork 240, 242
- World of Snakes (Grecia) 9, 86
- Y
- Youth hostels 199
- Z
- Zancudo 11, 176, 192
hotels 219
restaurants 237
sportfishing 251
- Zarcero 9, 82, 87
- Zipline tours 24, 25, 249
Arenal Rainforest Reserve and Aerial Tram 149
Selvatura Park (Reserva Bosque Nuboso Santa Elena) 128
Talamanca Treescape (Genesis II) 96
Termales del Bosque (near Ciudad Quesada) 155
- Zona Protectora Volcán Miravalles 122, 131, 153
- Zoo Ave Wildlife Conservation Park 9, 82, 84
- Zúñiga, Francisco 19, 66, 67, 74
- Zúñiga, Manuel "Mélico" Salazar 58

Acknowledgments

Dorling Kindersley would like to thank the following people whose contributions and assistance have made the preparation of this book possible:

Main Contributor

Christopher P. Baker was born and raised in Yorkshire, England, and received his B.A. with Honours (1976) in Geography from the University of London. While there, his travels included two Sahara research expeditions. Baker holds two Masters' degrees – in Latin American Studies and in Education. He has made his living as a full-time professional travel writer/photographer since 1983.

Baker's numerous books include guides to Cuba, Costa Rica, and Jamaica, and Mi Moto Fidel: Motorcycling Through Castro's Cuba. He has also had chapters and articles published in several books and more than 150 newspapers, journals, and magazines worldwide. He has won many prestigious awards for travel writing, addressed prominent entities such as the National Press Club, the National Geographic Society, and the World Affairs Council, and escorted group tours to New Zealand, Hong Kong, Korea, Cuba, and England. Baker's other travel-related activities include teaching travel-writing classes, appearing on radio and TV shows, and lecturing aboard cruise ships.

Fact Checker

Ana Voiculescu.

Proofreader

Sonia Malik.

Indexer

Jyoti Dhar.

Dorling Kindersley, London

Publisher

Douglas Amrine.

Publishing Manager

Jane Ewart.

Senior Editor

Christine Stroyan.

Senior Cartographic Editor

Casper Morris.

Senior Dtp Designer

Jason Little.

Revisions Editor

Anna Freiburger.

Revisions Designer

Maite Lantaron.

Editorial and Design Assistance

Brigitte Arora, Uma Bhattacharya, Tessa Bindloss, Hannah Dolan, Vinod Harish, Mohammad Hassan, Jasneet Kaur, Juliet Kenny, Vincent Kurien, Alison McGill, Sonal Modha, Harry Pariser, Ellen Root, Simon Ryder, Sands Publishing Solutions, Azeem Siddiqui, Dora Whitaker.

DK Picture Library

Hayley Smith, Romaine Werblow.

Production Controller

Wendy Penn.

Additional Special Photography

Christopher P. Baker, Alan Briere, Jonathan Buckley, Martin Camm, Geoff Dann, Phillip Dowell, Neil Fletcher, Frank Greenaway, Colin Keates, Dave King, Mike Linley, Ray Moller, David Murray, Stephen Oliver, Clive Streeter, Harry Taylor, Mathew Ward, Laura Wickenden, Peter Wilson, Jerry Young.

Special Assistance

Many thanks for the invaluable help of the following individuals and establishments: Adolfo Rodríguez Herrera; Mrs. Dora Sequeira, Alejandra Jimenez Solis, and Andrea Bolaños Waters, Museo del Oro Precolombino; Dr. Luis Diego Gómez, Organización para Estudios Tropicales at La Selva; Mauricio P. Aymerich, Small Distinctive Hotels; Michael Snarskis.

Photography Permissions

Dorling Kindersley would like to thank the following for their assistance and kind permission to photograph at their establishments: Café Britt; Centro Costarricense de Ciencias y Cultura, San José; Costa Rica Expeditions; Fábrica de Carretas Joaquín Chaverrí, Sarchí; Museo del Oro Precolombino, San José; Museo Nacional, San José; Teatro Nacional, San José; Zoo Ave Wildlife Conservation Park; and all other cathedrals, churches, museums, hotels, restaurants, shops, galleries, national and state parks, and other sights too numerous to thank individually.

Picture Credits

Every effort has been made to trace the copyright holders and we apologize in advance for any unintentional omissions. We would be pleased to insert the appropriate acknowledgments in any subsequent editions of this publication.

Placement Key – t=top; tl=top left; tlc=top left center; tc=top center; trc=top right center; tr=top right; cla=center left above; ca=center above; cra=center right above; cl=center left; c=center; cr=center right; clb=center left below; cb=center below; crb=center right below; b=bottom; bl=bottom left; bc=bottom center; bcl=bottom center left; br=bottom right; d=detail.

The publishers would like to thank the following individuals, companies, and picture libraries for their kind permission to reproduce their photographs:

AKG IMAGES: 42crb; ALAMY IMAGES: 16b; Sylvia Cordaiy Photo Library Ltd/Richard Wareham 132bc; AM COSTA RICA LINK: 34cl, 243tr; JOHN ANDERSON: 18t, 69crb, 70tr, 117cb, 130tr; AXIOM, LONDON: Ian Cumming 37bc, 165br.

BANCO CENTRAL DE COSTA RICA: 260cl; 261cl, 261clb, 261cr, 261crb(a), 261crb(c), 261bl, 261br; BRUCE

COLEMAN PICTURE LIBRARY: Michael Fogden 20crb.

CAFÉ BRITT: 30br; CHRIS BAKER COMPOSITIONS:

Christopher P. Baker 26-27c, 26br, 31bc, 31bcr, 34tc, 46bcr, 57tl, 63cb, 69tl, 70bl, 70crb, 71tl, 75cl, 85cla, 92cr, 92bc, 93tc, 97cra, 97clb, 97bc, 104cla, 105tl, 114tl, 131cl, 137crb, 137clb, 153bc, 161b, 166clb, 177cr, 185br, 243c(a), 243c(b), 243c(c), 245t, 264cl, 266cl, 268br; CORBIS: 43tr, 44br, 137cra, 171clb, 171crb; Tony Arruza 36b, 117cl; Bettman 7c, 43cb, 44crb, 45clb, 46tr, 46cb, 47clb, 135bc; Gary Braasch 22cl, 22clb, 25br, 28cl, 107b, 186-7; Tom Brakefield 113tc, 113cla; Christie's Images 142bl; Ralph A. Clevenger 193cra; DiMaggio/Kalish 171br; Michael and Patricia Fogden 1c, 20br, 21bca, 26cl, 27tr, 27cb, 27br, 113clb, 125br, 127tc, 129c, 129bc, 157cl, 157crb, 157bl, 164tl; Stephen Frink 134tr, 156bc; Bill Gentile 47bl; Derek Hall/Frank Lane Picture 189tc; Gray Hardel 252c; Jan Butchofsky-Houser 15b, 133ca; Dave G. Houser 31cla, 145b; Hulton-Deutsch Collection 255 (inset); Wolfgang Kaehler 193br; Kit Kittle 247tc; Blue Lantern Studio 195 (inset); Michael Maslan Historic Photograph 45bl; Buddy Mays 26clb; Stephanie Maze 17br; Amos Nachoum 21cra, 174, 193crb, 252bl, 252bc; Jose Fuste Raga 271b; Carmen Redondo 29cra, 141bl; Martin Rogers 18bl, 19cr, 30cra, 51bl, 121b, 163cr, 244tc; Jeffrey L. Rotman 50crb, 252br; Albrecht G. Schaefer 171cl; Kevin Schafer 8br, 12cl, 20clb, 23br, 28tr, 29tl, 88-9, 113cra, 123t, 138-9, 141br, 158tl, 171cra, 177cra, 180cla, 181cr, 193cla; Paul A. Souders 154tl; Roger Tidman 27cr; Brian A. Vikander 21cr, 91tr; Stuart Westmorland 194-5; CORBIS SYGMA: C. Rouvieres 141cla, 141bl; CORCOVADO ADVENTURES TENT CAMP: 197cr; COSTA RICA PHOTO ALBUM: © Rodrigo Fernandez and Millard Farmer 4crb, 9tr, 15ca, 16tl, 17tr, 17c, 19tc, 19br, 35tl, 37tl, 51tl, 96bc, 102cla, 147tl, 149tl, 150tl, 150br, 151cr, 153tc, 153clb, 153bl, 153br, 181ca, 239br, 249br, 250tl, 250br, 251br.

DANTICA LODGE AND GALLERY: 96t

EL SANO BANANO HOTEL: 199tl, 221tl, 246tl.

RODRIGO FERNANDEZ: 36tc, 94br, 222cla, 223tl, 242tl, 242c, 242cb, 242crb(a), 242crb(b), 243cb, 243crb, 243bl, 243bc, 243br, 246br, 261crb(b), 261bcl, 261bcr, 262bc; FOREST LIGHT: Alan Watson 96t; FOUR SEASONS: 196cla.

PHILIP GREENSPUN: 35br.

LONELY PLANET IMAGES: Chris Barton 30clb, 265tr; Tom Boyden 134cla, Charlotte Hindle 269tl; Ralph Lee Hopkins 2-3; Luke Hunter 27tl, 134bl, 175b, 188bl; Eric L. Wheeler 14.

MASTERFILE: Alberto Biscaro 48-9, 64-5, 120, 238cla, 240br, 254-5; Peter Christopher 106; MARY EVANS PICTURE LIBRARY: 44tc, 49 (inset); Explore/Courau 40; JEAN MERCIER: 23cb, 90cr, 90br, 158bl; MUSEO DE CULTURA INDÍGENAS: 5c, 32tr, 32-33c, 33tc, 33cb, 33clb, 33bl, 33br, 34br, 155clb, 173bc, 173br, 184bc, 242bc, 243tc, 243cra; MUSEO DEL ORO PRECOLOMBINO: 62ca, 63bl, 63tl, 240cla, 242br; Alejandro Astorga 33cra.

Courtesy THE NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM LONDON:

167br. Courtesy THE NATIONAL BIRDS OF PREY CENTRE, GLOUCESTERSHIRE: 180tl.

PHOTOLIBRARY: Jon Arnold Travel/John Coletti front endpaper tc, 144.

REUTERS: Juan Carlos Ulate 31cra;

SKY PHOTOS: 23crb, 24cl, 25tl, 25cr, 50clb, 124tr, 124cl, 124clb, 149br, 157cra; SMALL DISTINCTIVE HOTELS: 20cr, 150tl, 196bc, 251tl.

UNICORN MULTIMEDIA, INC.: Jan Csernoch 10t, 141cra, 143br, 180bl, 181tl, 181bc.

FRONT ENDPAPER: CORBIS: Amos Nachoum bc;

MASTERFILE: Alberto Biscaro tl; Peter Christopher cl.

JACKET: Front – CORBIS: Michael DeYoung main

image; DK IMAGES: Linda Whitwam clb;

PHOTOLIBRARY: Index Stock Imagery/Audia Paul.

Back – 4CORNERS IMAGES: SIME/Giovanni Simeone

bl; DK IMAGES: Linda Whitwam bl, cla, clb, tl.

Spine – DK IMAGES: Museo Oro Precolumbia b;

PHOTOLIBRARY: Index Stock Imagery/Audia Paul t.

All other images © Dorling Kindersley. For more information see www.dkimages.com

SPECIAL EDITIONS OF DK TRAVEL GUIDES

DK Travel Guides can be purchased in bulk quantities at discounted prices for use in promotions or as premiums.

We are also able to offer special editions and personalized jackets, corporate imprints, and excerpts from all of our books, tailored specifically to meet your own needs.

To find out more, please contact:

(in the United States) SpecialSales@dk.com

(in the UK) TravelSpecialSales@uk.dk.com

(in Canada) DK Special Sales at general@tourmaline.ca

(in Australia)

business.development@pearson.com.au

Phrase Book

Costa Rican Spanish is essentially the same as the Castilian spoken in Spain, although there are some differences in vocabulary and pronunciation. The most noticeable is the pronunciation of the soft "c" and the letter "z" as "s" rather than "th." Costa Ricans tend to be formal, and often use usted (rather than tú) for "you," even if they know the person well. Common courtesies of respect are expected. Always say buenos días or buenas tardes when boarding a taxi, and address taxi drivers and waiters as señor. Many colloquialisms exist, such as jupe!, which is used to announce your presence outside someone's home when the door is open. Buena suerte ("good luck") is often used to wish someone well on parting.

The most common term throughout the country is pura vida ("pure life"), used as a common reply to questions about your wellbeing and as an expression that everything is great. Tuanis, popular with youth, is another phrase meaning things are positive. If you hear a Costa Rican referring to chepe, he or she is speaking about San José. If you wish to decline goods from street vendors, a polite shake of the head and a muchas gracias will usually suffice. Adding muy amable ("very kind") will help to take the edge off the refusal.

In an Emergency

Help!	¡Socorro!	soh-koh-roh
Stop!	¡Pare!	pah-reh
Call a doctor!	¡Llame a un médico!	yah-meh ah oon meh-dee-koh
Fire!	¡Fuego!	foo-eh-goh
Could you help me?	¿Me podría ayudar?	meh poh-dree-yah ah-yoo-dahr policeman	policia	poh-lee-see-ah

Communication Essentials

Yes	Sí	see
No	No	noh
Please	Por favor	pohr fah-vohr
Thank you	Gracias	grah-see-ahs
Excuse me	Perdone	pehr-doh-neh
Hello	Hola	oh-lah
Good morning	Buenos días	bweh-nohs dee-ahs
Good afternoon	Buenas tardes	bweh-nahs tahr-dehs
Good night	Buenas noches	bweh-nahs noh-chehs
Bye (casual)	Chao	cha-oh
Goodbye	Adiós	ah-dee-ohs
See you later	Hasta luego	ah-stah loo-weh-goh
Morning	La mañana	lah mah-nyah-nah
Afternoon	La tarde	lah tahr-deh
Night	La noche	lah noh-cheh
Yesterday	Ayer	ah-yehr
Today	Hoy	oy
Tomorrow	Mañana	mah-nyah-nah
Here	Aquí	ah-kee
There	Allá	ah-yah
What?	¿Qué?	keh
When?	¿Cuándo?	kwahn-doh
Why?	¿Por qué?	pohr-keh
Where?	¿Dónde?	dohn-deh
How are you?	¿Cómo está usted?	koh-moh ehs-tah oos-tehd
Very well, thank you	Muy bien, gracias	mwee bee-ehn grah-see-ahs
Pleased to meet you	Mucho gusto	moo-choh goo-stoh
I'm sorry	Lo siento	loh see-ehn-toh

Useful Phrases

That's fine	Está bien	ehs-tah bee-ehn
Great/fantastic!	¡Qué bien!	keh bee-ehn
Where does this road go?	¿Adónde va esta calle?	ah-dohn-deh bah ehs-tah kah-yeh
Do you speak English?	¿Habla inglés?	ah-blah een-glehs
I don't understand	No comprendo	noh kohm-prehn-doh
I want	Quiero	kee-yehr-oh

Useful Words

big	grande	grahn-deh
small	pequeño/a	peh-keh-nyoh/nyah
hot	caliente	kah-lee-ehn-teh
cold	frio/a	free-oh/ah
good	bueno/a	bweh-noh/nah
bad	malo/a	mah-loh/lah
open	abierto/a	ah-bee-ehr-toh/tah closed	cerrado/a	sehr-rah-doh/dah left	izquierda	ees-key-ehr-dah right	derecha	deh-reh-chah
near	cerca	sehr-kah
far	lejos	leh-hohs
up	arriba	ah-ree-bah
down	abajo	ah-bah-hoh
early	temprano	tehm-prah-noh
late	tarde	tahr-deh
now/very soon	ahora/ahorita	ah-ohr-ah/ah-ohr-ee-tah
more	más	mahs
less	menos	meh-nohs
very	muy	mwee
a little	(un) poco	oon poh-koh opposite	frente a	frehn-teh ah
below/above	abajo/arriba	ah-bah-hoh/ehn-trah-dah
entrance	entrada	sah-lee-dah
exit	salida	ehs-kah-leh-rahs
stairs	escaleras	ehl ah-sehn-sohr
elevator	el ascensor	bah-nyohs/sehr-vee see-yohs sah-nee-tah-ree-ohs toilets	baños/servicios sanitarios	deh dah-mahs deh kah-bah-yeh-rohs
women's	de damas	toh-ah-yahs sah-nee-tah-ree-yahs
men's	de caballeros	tahm-poh-nehs kohm-doh-nehs pah-pehl hee-hyen-ee-koh sanitary napkins	toallas sanitarias	ah-ree-ah deh (noh) foo-mahr lah kah-mah-rah (oon roh-yoh deh) peh-lee-koo-lah
tampons	tampones	lahs pee-lahs
condoms	condones	pah-sah-pohr-teh
toilet paper	papel higiénico	vee-sahh
(non-)smoking area	área de (no) fumar camera	la cámara
(a roll of) film	(un rollo de) película
batteries	las pilas
passport	pasaporte
visa	visa
Post Offices and Banks	oficina de correos	oh-fee-see-nah deh kohr-reh-ohs
post office	estampillas	ehs-tahm-pee-yahs stamps	una postal	oo-nah pohs-tahl
postcard	apartado	ah-pahr-tah-doh postbox

cashier cajero
 ATM cajero automático

bank banco
 What is the dollar rate? ¿A cómo está el dolar?

Shopping

How much does... this cost? ¿Cuánto cuesta esto?

Do you have? Do you take credit cards/traveler's checks? ¿Tienen? ¿Aceptan tarjetas de crédito/cheques de viajeros?

discount un descuento expensive cheap clothes size, clothes size, shoes bakery bookstore grocer's market shoe store supermarket el supermercado travel agency la agencia de viajes caro barato la ropa talla número

panadería librería pulpería mercado la zapatería

kah-heh-roh
kah-heh-roh ahw-toh-mah-tee-koh bahn-koh
ah koh-moh ehs-tah ehl doh-lahr

kwahn tohkwehs-tah ehs-toh tee-yeh-nehn
ahk-sehp-tahn
tahr-heh-tahs
deh kreh-dee-toh/cheh-keh deh vee-ah-heh-roh
oon dehs-koo-ehn-toh
kahr-oh
bah-rah-toh
lah roh-pah tah-yah
noo-mehr-oh
pah-nah-deh ree-ah
lee-breh-ree-ah pool-peh-ree-ah
mehr-kah-doh
lah sah-pah-teh-ree-ah
ehl soo-pehr-mehr-kah-doh lah ah-hehn-see-ah
deh vee-ah-hehs

Sightseeing

bay bahía
 beach playa
 building edificio
 cathedral catedral
 church iglesia
 farm finca
 forest bosque/selva

garden jardin
 lake lago
 mangrove manglar
 mountain peak cerro
 mountain range cordillera museum museo
 neighborhood barrio
 port puerto
 ranger station puesto de guardia

river río trail sendero
 theater teatro
 tourist information office oficina de turismo viewpoint mirador
 ticket el boleto/la entrada guide (person) el/la guía guide (book) la guía

 guided tour una visita guiada

map el mapa

bah-ee-ah
plah-yah
eh-dee-fee-see-oh
kah-teh-drahl
ee-gleh-see-ah
feehn-kah
bohs-keh/seh-lah
hahr-deen
lah-goh
mahn-glahr
seh-roh
kohr-dee-yeh-rah
moo-seh-oh
bah-ree-oh
poo-her-toh
poo-ehs-toh deh goo-ahr-dee-ah ree-oh
sehnh-deh-roh
teh-ah-troh
oh-fee-see-nah deh too-rees-moh mee-rah-dohr
ehl boh-leh-toh
lah ehn-trah-dah
ehl/lah gee-ah
lah gee-ah
oo-nah vee-see-tah gee-ah-dah
ehl mah-pah

Health

I feel ill Me siento mal

We need a doctor Necesitamos un médico

drug store farmacia medicine medicina

meb seh-ehn-toh mahi neh-see-seh-tah-mohs oon meh-dee-koh fahr-mah-see-ah meh-dee-see-nah ambulance ambulancia

 mosquito coils espirales

Transportation

When does the... leave? ¿A qué hora sale el...?

Is there a bus to...? ¿Hay un bus a...?

bus station la estación de autobuses

ticket office la boletería

airport aeropuerto

customs la aduana
 taxi stand/rank la parada de taxis

car rental rent a car motorcycle la moto(cicleta)

bicycle la bicicleta
 4WD doble tracción

water-taxi una panga/un bote

aerial tram teleférico insurance los seguros
 gas station gasolinera
 garage taller de mecánica

I have a flat tire Se me pinchó la llanta

ahm-boo-lahn-see-ah
ehs-pee-rah-lehs

ah keh oh-rah
sah-leh ehl
eye oon boohs ah...
lah ehs-tah-seh-ohn deh aw-toh-booh-sehs lah boh-leh-teh-ree-ah
ah-eh-roh-poo-ehr-toh
lah ah-doo-ah-nah
lah pah-rah-dah deh tahk-sees rehn-tah cahr-lah moh-toh(see-kleh-tah) lah bee-see-kleh-tah doh-bleh trahk-siohn
oo-nah pahh-gah/oon boh-teh teh-leh-feh-ree-koh
lohsh seh-goo-rohs
gah-soh-leen ehr-ah tah-yehr-deh meh-kahn-ee-kah seh meh pohn-shoh lah yahn-tah

Staying in a Hotel

I have a reservation Tengo una reservación

Do you have a vacant room? ¿Tienen una habitación libre?

double room habitación doble

single room habitación sencilla

room with a bath habitación con baño shower la ducha
 The ... is not working No funciona el/la...
 Where is the dining room/bar? ¿Dónde está el restaurante/el bar?

hot/cold water agua caliente/fría

soap el jabón
 towel la toalla
 key la llave

tehn-goh oon-nah reh-sehr-vah-see-ohn tee-eh-nehn oon-nah ah-bee-tah-see-ohnlee-breh ah-bee-tah-see-ohn doh-bleh ah-bee-tah-see-ohn sehn-see-yah ah-bee-tah-see-ohn kohn bah-nyoh lah doo-chah
noh foon-see-ohn ehl/lah
dohn-deh ehs-tah ehl rehsh-toh-rahnteh/ehl bahr ah-goo-ah kah-lee-ehn-teh/free-ah ehl hah-bohn lah toh-ah-yah
lah yah-veh

Eating Out

Have you got a table for ...? ¿Tienen mesa para...?

I want to reserve a table Quiero reservar una mesa

The bill, please La cuenta, por favor

I am a vegetarian Soy vegetariano/a waiter/waitress mesero/a menu la carta

fixed-price menu menú del día wine list la carta de vinos

meh-sah pah-rah kee-eh-roh reh-sehr-vahr
oo-nah meh-sah
lah kwehn-tah pohr fah-vohr soy veh-heh-tah-ree-ah-no/na meh-seh-roh/rah
lah kahr-tah
meh-noo dehl dee-ah
lah kahr-tah deh vee-nohs glass bottle	un vaso una botella	oon vah-soh oo-nah boh-teh-yah

knife	un cuchillo	oon koo-chee-yoh fork	un tenedor	oon teh-neh-dohr
spoon	una cuchara	oo-nah koo-chah-rah
breakfast	el desayuno	ehl deh-sah-yoo-noh lunch	almuerzo	ahl-moo-ehr-soh
dinner	la cena	lah seh-nah
main course	el plato fuerte	ehl plah-toh
starters	las entradas	lahs ehn-trah- das
dish of the day	el plato del día	ehl plat- toh dehl dee-ah
rare	término rojo	tehr-mee-noh roh-hoh
medium	término medio	tehr-mee-noh meh-dee-oh well done	bien cocido	bee-ehn koh-see-doh
chair	la silla	lah see-yah
napkin	la servilleta	lah shehr-vee-yeh-tah
Is service included?	¿El servicio está incluido?	ehl shehr-vee-see-oh ehs-tah een-kloo-ee-doh
ashtray	cenicero	seh-nee-seh-roh
cigarettes	los cigarros	lohhs see-gah-rohs
food stall	una soda	oo-nah soh-dah
neighborhood bar	una cantina/ un bar	oo-nah kahn-tee-nah/oon bahr

Menu Decoder (see also pp222-3)

el aceite	ah-see-eh-teh	oil
las aceitunas	ah-seh-toon-ahs	olives
el agua mineral	ah-gwa mee-neh-rah	mineral water
el arroz	ahr-rohs	rice
el azúcar	ah-soo-kahr	sugar
una bebida	beh-bee-dah	drink
boca	boh-kah	a type of snack
el café	kah-feh	coffee
la carne	kahr-neh	meat
el cerdo	sehr-doh	pork
la cerveza	sehr-veh-sah	beer
el chocolate	choh-koh-lah-teh	chocolate
la ensalada	ehn-sah-lah-dah	salad
la fruta	froo-tah	fruit
el helado	eh-lah-doh	ice cream
el huevo	oo-eh-voh	egg
el jugo	ehl hoo-goh	juice
la leche	leh-cheh	milk
la mantequilla	mahn-teh-kee-yah	butter
la manzana	mahn-sah-nah	apple
los mariscos	mah-rees-kohs	seafood
el pan	pahn	bread
las papas	pah-pahs	potatoes
las papas a la francesa	pah-pahs ah lah frahn-seh-sah	French fries
las papas fritas	pah-pahs free-tahs	potato chips
el pastel	pahs-tehl	cake
el pescado	pehs-kah-doh	fish
picante	pee-kahn-teh	spicy
la pimienta	pee-mee-yehn-tah	pepper
el pollo	poh-yoh	chicken
el postre	pohs-treh	dessert
el queso	keh-soh	cheese
el refresco	reh-frehs-koh	soft drink/soda
la sal	sahl	salt
la sopa	soh-pah	soup
el sánduche	sahn-goo-she	sandwich
el té negro	teh neh-groh	tea
la torta	tohr-tah	burger
las tostadas	tohs-tah-dahs	toast
el vino blanco	vee-noh blahn-koh	white wine
el vino tinto	vee-noh teen-toh	red wine

Culture and Society

campesino	cahm-peh-see-noh	peasant
canton	cahn-tohn	county
carreta	cah-reh-tah	oxcart
Cumbia	coom-bee-ah	Columbian music
Josefino	hoh-seh-fee-noh	resident of San José
marimba	mah-reem-bah	kind of xylophone
merengue	meh-rehn-geh	fast-paced Dominican music
sabanero	sah-bah-neh-roh	cowboy
salsa	sahl-sah	Cuban dance music
Tico/costarricense	tee-coh/cohs-tah-ree-sehn-seh	Costa Rican

Numbers

0	cero	seh-roh
1	uno	oo-noh
2	dos	dohs
3	tres	trehs
4	cuatro	kwa-troh
5	cinco	seen-koh
6	seis	says
7	siete	see-eh-teh
8	ocho	oh-choh
9	nueve	nweh-veh
10	diez	dee-ehs
11	once	ohn-seh
12	doce	doh-seh
13	trece	treh-seh
14	catorce	kah-tohr-seh
15	quince	keen-seh
16	dieciséis	dee-eh-see-seh-ees
17	diecisiete	dee-eh-see-see-eh-teh
18	dieciocho	dee-eh-see-oh-choh
19	diecinueve	dee-eh-see-nweh-veh
20	veinte	veh-een-teh
30	treinta	treh-een-tah
40	cuarenta	kwah-rehn-tah
50	cincuenta	seen-kwehn-tah
60	sesenta	seh-sehn-tah
70	setenta	seh-tehn-tah
80	ochenta	oh-chehn-tah
90	noventa	noh-vehn-tah
100	cient	see-ehn
500	quinientos	khee-nee-ehn-tohs
1,000	mil	meel
1,001	mil uno	meel oo-noh
5,000	cinco mil	seen-koh meel

Time

one minute	un minuto	oon mee-noo-toh
one hour	una hora	oo-nah oh-rah
Monday	lunes	loo-nehs
Tuesday	martes	mahr-tehs
Wednesday	miércoles	mee-ehr-koh-lehs
Thursday	jueves	moo-weh-vehs
Friday	viernes	vee-ehr-nehs
Saturday	sábado	sah-bah-doh
Sunday	domingo	doh-meen-goh
January	enero	eh-neh-roh
February	febrero	feh-breh-roh
March	marzo	mahr-soh
April	abril	ah-breel
May	mayo	mah-yoh
June	junio	hoo-nee-oh
July	julio	hoo-lee-oh
August	agosto	ah-gohs-toh
September	setiembre	seh-tee-ehm-breh
October	octubre	ohk-too-breh
November	noviembre	noh-vee-ehm-breh
December	diciembre	dee-see-ehm-breh