

DK

The Hungry Giant

Lee Davis

Illustrated by Colin Paine

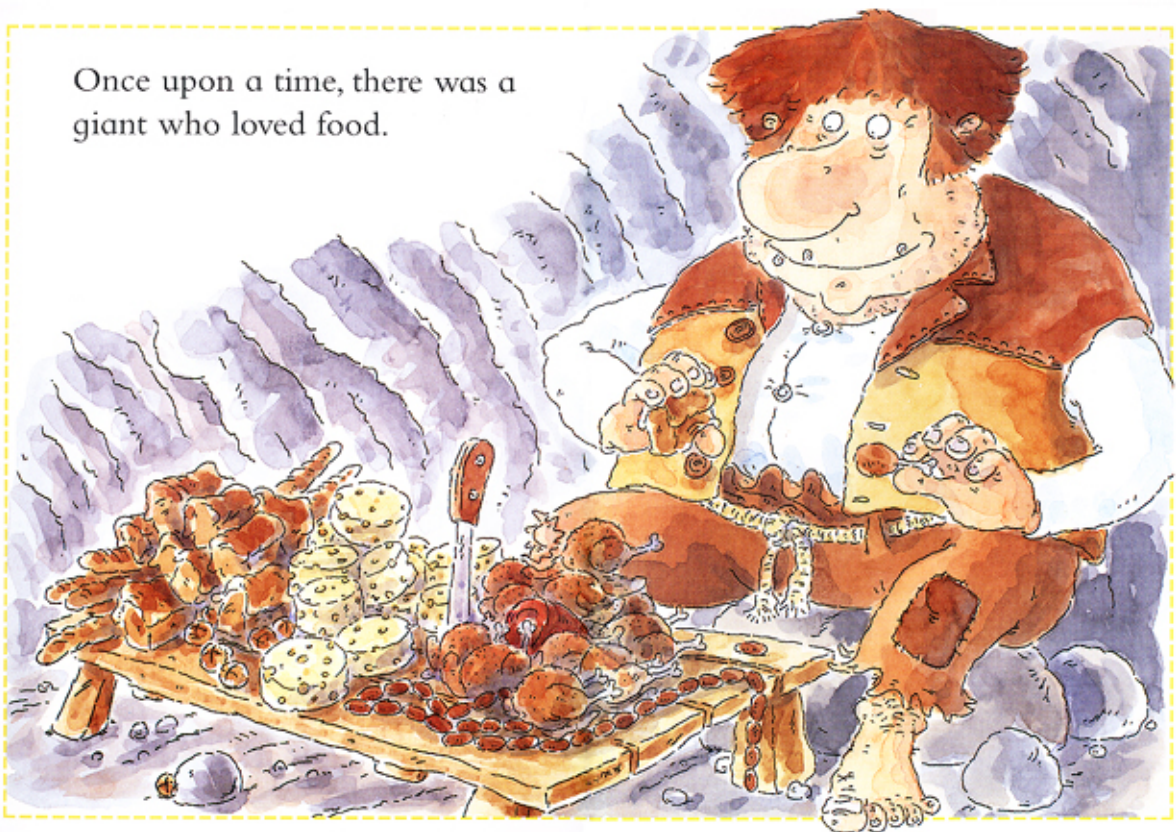

★ STEP 13 ★

The Hungry Giant

宇辰出版社

Once upon a time, there was a giant who loved food.

The giant stole all his food from
the farms.

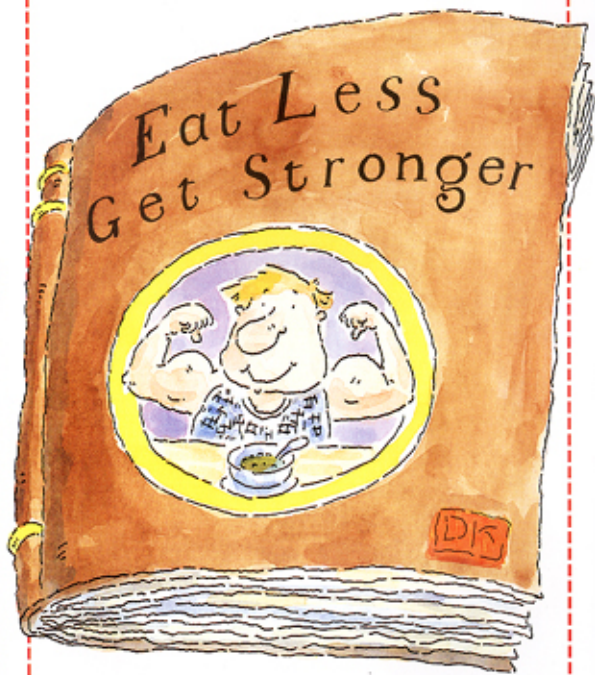

The farmers were angry with him.

“What shall we do?”
the farmers asked.

“I will give him this book,”
said one farmer. “It may help.”

The giant looked at the book.

Breakfast = fruit

Lunch = a bowl
of soup

Supper = fish and a
green salad

Drink = only water

"I will try this," he said.

So the giant had fruit for breakfast

and a bowl of soup for his lunch.

He had fish and

a green salad for his supper.

He drank only water.
Soon there was nothing left.

The farmers were even more angry with him.

“What shall we do?”
the farmers asked.

“I will give him this book,” said one farmer. “It’s about running.”

“I will try this,” the giant said.

So the giant ran and ran and ran.

And the farmers never saw him again.

Picture Words

giant

food

soup

farmer

book

fish

farm

green salad

fruit

water